CZAR NICK PUTS RESTRICTIONS ON MEDICAL MOVIES

PICTURES BETTER THAN LONG PAPERS

Arrangements Necessary for Conventions in St. Louis Lead to Protests—Dentists' Experience.

Restrictions laid down by John P. Nick's Moving Picture Operators' Union have led the American Medical Association to notify members planning scientific exhibits, at its annual meeting here next May, that motion pictures will not be shown in the booths, except on automatic projectors.

Some exhibitors have protested, and have been referred to the union, which—as one St. Louis physician was informed—"seems to have full control."

"This," a member of the association staff added, in his letter to that physician, "is the first time in the history of our annual sessions that we have run into such a condition."

Arrangements may be made, the association notified exhibitors, for scientific motion pictures to be shown in another part of the Municipal Auditorium, which will be convention headquarters, but not in the booths. Or an exhibitor could show a moving picture in his booth by paying union operators $1.50 an hour in four-hour shifts.

"We've Got Civic Pride."

"I don't know what happens in other cities," Clyde A. Weston, business agent of the union, told a reporter. "But I do know that we have no motion picture operators on relief. They're all working. And that makes us a little bit more proud of our city—for we've got as much civic pride as anybody else, whether we get credit for it or not."

In St. Louis, Weston said, the arrangement to pool the scientific films of various non-commercial exhibitors and have them run off together by a union operator, is general. The films of commercial exhibitors are a different matter he said, but the union is always ready to stretch a point on educational films to aid the Convention Bureau and the Chamber of Commerce in facilitating such meetings in St. Louis.

Inquiry among local participants of recent medical and dental meetings disclosed, however, that the arrangement had led to considerable, if not general protest. They pointed out that such meetings are exchanges of the latest information, ultimately for public benefit, and that more and more scientists are relying on moving pictures to impart complex advances more clearly and accurately—and interestingly—than in long technical papers.

Union Operator Used.

The Southern Medical Association, meeting here in 1935, with 2500 registered, improvised a theater in the Auditorium, with a union operator, for its scientific films. So did the American Dental Association convention of more than 6000 members last fall. In addition it was able to arrange that a number of professional exhibits, with films, could be placed close together with one union operator's wage paid for "supervising" the various machines.

One complication was encountered at the dental meeting which members expected might be more acute at the big medical meeting. Ordinarily the person who uses a film for demonstration has taken it himself, and shows it himself. At least he is familiar with the subject matter. The union operator's unfamiliarity created some handicaps at the dentists' convention, a committee member related—particularly when he "passed out" in the showing of a surgical picture.

May Go Somewhere Else.

"Scientific men in all fields are using more and more movies to show their latest advances," said one professional man. "If they can't talk to each other in St. Louis without hiring a union man—to operate a machine that is virtually a toy—they'll begin going somewhere else.

"Those pictures don't mean a dime to anyone. The men who make them sacrifice their time to do it for the benefit of their fellows and eventually the public."

"If a specialist has paid $300 or $400 for a booth," said Business Agent Weston, when that point was referred to him, "and, if he's drawing his patients from men at these conventions from all over the country, what would you think?"

SPANISH LOYALISTS FIGHT REDS, FRANCO AT SAME TIME

Miaja's Men Capture Three Communist Strongholds in Madrid, Wage Artillery Duel With Nationalists.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, March 11.—Gen. Jose Miaja's Republicans drove Communist rebels from burning headquarters in the heart of Madrid today and fought a sharp artillery battle with Nationalist gunners at the edge of the city in the sixth day of the war within a war.

The peace-seeking National Defense Council, formed before dawn Monday and forced to fight for power over the Communists all week, felt the fury of Nationalist guns just as it seemed to be getting the upper hand over the rebels.

Enemy artillery on the southeastern edge of the city opened up in the morning while Miaja's motorized troops, with 18 field guns, were driving the Communists from the first of two headquarters and clearing virtually the whole length of broad Calle de Alcala which cuts diagonally through the capital.

The boom of guns on the Republican-Nationalist front mingled with the din of artillery and machine-gun fire within the city.

Then, the fighting at the front died down.

Field Guns Fired at Reds.

Inside the city, the National Defense troops used their field guns and fired the Communist party's provincial headquarters.

Its occupants were captured, some of them as they tried to dash through the lines with small suitcases.

An hour later the loyal troops routed both men and women from the cellars of the Communist central headquarters.

Other Communists were dislodged earlier from a stronghold in Plaza de la Independencia, in the middle of the city, and fled to a nearby maternity hospital where they defied arrest. The hospital was filled with about 1000 patients, expectant mothers and those with newborn infants.

Barricades erected by the rebels on Plaza de la Independencia were demolished by Miaja's men after the Communists had been driven overnight from their fortress on the square.

This afternoon it was possible to walk along Calle de Alcala all the way from Puerta del Sol through Plaza de la Independencia and thence to the Ventas quarter, a distance of two and one-half miles.

Other Red Strongholds.

Two or three Communist strongholds remained in the Ventas quarter and there were short-lived fights there early in the morning when scattered groups of rebels attacked outlying encampments of Miaja's motorized detachments.

The rebels, however, were finding it hard to maintain contact with each other and food was getting low.

Captured Communists were quoted as telling Miaja's officers:

"We were told (ousted Premier Juan) Negrin would see that we won the war against Generalissimo Franco because Russia supported us but that Negrin was lying in a dungeon in Madrid by order of Casado (Gen. Segismundo Casado, head of the National Defense Council until Miaja took over).

"So we said we were willing to come to free Negrin."

Most of those captured were young peasan soldiers.

RED ATTACK GAINS IN WEST OF MADRID

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, France, (at the Spanish Frontier), March 11.—Communist rebels gained ground today in the west of Madrid, where they attacked the Royal Palace, despite capture of one of their headquarters by Republican troops.

In the afternoon the Republican radio station announced that "the revolution is finished," but later in the evening it was said over the same station that the Communists had made such progress in the western parts of the city that Gen. Miaja was considering calling further reinforcements from outside Madrid.

One of the main centers of fighting was about the Chilean embassy in the eastern section of the city, near the Calle de Alcala.

Communist soldiers who left fortifications around Madrid to join the internal struggle against Gen. Miaja set up four batteries of artillery in the Ventas quarter.

The Miaja forces held the Postoffice and the ministries of Navy and War and the Bank of Spain Building, but fighting continued for other strategic buildings.

The Calle de Alcala, which is one of Madrid's main streets, was fortified by Communists from the limits of the Salamancan quarter on the Paseo Ade Ronda to the Plaza de la Independencia. The Paseo de Prado, running from the War Ministry to the southern railroad station, was deserted and turned into a no man's land by Communist attacks through the nearby botanical gardens.

TAX BOARD LETS ACTOR DEDUCT TIPS TO STUDIO HELP

Lee Tracy's Gratuities Held to Be "Ordinary and Necessary Expenses."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Lee Tracy's tips to motion picture studio employes, the Tax Appeals Board ruled today, are "ordinary and necessary expenses of his business as a professional actor" and may be deducted from his taxable income.

The board ruled also that because Tracy provided the chief support for his mother and niece and maintained the family home in Trucksville, Pa., he was entitled to a $2500 deduction as the head of a family.

Tracy had protested against a $1187 income tax deficiency for 1934 assessed by the Internal Revenue Bureau, and argued he should be permitted to deduct $161 given to electricians, property men and other studio employes, $2500 as the head of a family, and $2600 living expenses in Hollywood. The board ruled against him on the living expenses.

Tracy reported total income for 1934 of $91,870.

U. S. SENDS FUNDS, MISSOURI MAILING OUT PENSION CHECKS

Big Force of Clerks on Job Over Week End; Payments to 150,000 for Two Months.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 11.—Nearly $2,000,000 in Government funds arrived here from Washington this afternoon and payment of Missouri's long overdue old-age pensions was started.

Soon after the Government check arrived a special force of 60 workers began preparing about 150,000 pension checks for mailing, and officials said all the payments probably would be in the mail by Sunday evening. Members of the staff worked through tonight and 50 of them were to work all day tomorrow preparing the checks.

The checks—representing State old-age pension payments for February and March—are destined to 75,000 pensioners who have been without funds since the latter part of January when the past pension payment was made.

Federal officials renewed financial participation in Missouri's pension program Thursday after the Legislature made changes in the State law to make it conform. The funds received today represented the Government's share of pensions for the last three months. The January pension payroll was met with State funds.

PITTSBURGH, March 11.—Thirteen-year-old Edward Strang has lost a four-year fight for life despite 24 operations.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Strang of Allenton, Pa., died of osteomylitis, an infection of the bones. He had been ill since 1934. Lobar pneumonia developed from a cold. The infection followed, repeated operations and two recent blood transfusions bringing only temporary relief.

BRITAIN CAN'T USE RUSSIA TO BLOCK NAZIS, SAYS STALIN

'STANDS FOR PEACE WITH ALL COUNTRIES'

Communist Chief Declares in Speech for 'Strengthening of Business-Like Relations.'

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, March 11.—Joseph Stalin charged today that Britain and France in the Munich pact had sacrificed Czecho-Slovakia to turn Reichsfuehrer Hitler toward the Soviet Ukraine, and declared the Soviet Union would not be drawn into war as a cat's paw to pull other nations' chestnuts out of the fire. Stalin addressed the opening session of the eighteenth All-Union Congress of the Communist party.

There was a widespread agreement in interpreting Stalin's speech as a blunt refusal to be fooled by what he described as false fronts or to be drawn into any conflict which plainly would not be in defense of the Soviet Union's own existence. Some observers interpreted his statement that the war he accused the democracies of fomenting was "without any visible basis" as a bid for friendlier relations with Germany. Most experienced observers said, however, there was little likelihood Stalin was seriously holding out an olive branch.

His speech, reviewing international and domestic affairs in the last five years, also was described as remarkable for its lack of invective against either Germany or Japan.

Anti-Comintern Pact.

Germany, Italy and Japan, however, were charged with pulling wool over the eyes of the Western democracies. Their anti-comintern pact, he observed, was a good screen behind which to attack vital interests of Britain, France and the United States. But, it was pointed out, he said this not in anger against the totalitarian Powers but rather to illustrate the alleged stupidity of the bourgeoise countries which, he said, were hoping Hitler and his friends really would attack Russia.

One conclusion drawn from the speech was that Moscow wants peace if it can have it. Only once did Stalin mention the possibility of world revolution—and then as a fear in the bourgeoise mind rather than as an aim of Moscow.

On the Domestic Front.

There were 17,000 words in his address, partly devoted to the problem of how to achieve and surpass the economic level of capitalist countries. He ridiculed those who, he said, imagined that the Soviet structure had been weakened by the drastic purge of traitors.

"Listening to such foreign talkers," he said, "one might conclude that, if we would allow all spies, murderers and wreckers to remain at liberty and would not disturb them in their wrecking activity . . . then the Soviet organization would be stronger."

In his analysis of the economic achievements of the Soviet regime he said 10 to 15 years still were necessary to overtake the leading capitalist countries in the economic sphere.

Stalin criticised non-aggressor states for "drawing back and retreating, making concession after concession to aggressors." He named such states as "primarily England, France and the United States."

Stalin's Foreign Policy.

In the world situation, Stalin said "the foreign policy of the Soviet Union is clear and understandable:

"Firstly. We stand for peace and for the strengthening of business-like relations with all countries. This is our position and we will adhere to it as long as these countries maintain identical relations with the Soviet Union, as long as they make no attempt to violate our country's interests.

"Secondly. We stand for peaceable, close and neighborly relations with all neighboring countries which have a common frontier with the U. S. S. R. This is our position and we shall adhere to it as long as these countries maintain identical relations with the Soviet Union, as long as they make no attempt to trespass directly or indirectly on the integrity and security of the frontiers of the Soviet State.

"Thirdly. We stand for the rendering of support to nations which have fallen prey to aggression and are fighting for the independence of their countries.

"Fourthly. We are not afraid of threats from aggressors and we are ready to retaliate with two

KANSAS CITY JURY FINDS CRIME DUE TO LAX OFFICIALS

Reports General Breakdown in Law Enforcement and Denounces Apathy of Public Officers.

29 MORE TRUE BILLS VOTED; INQUIRY ENDS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 11.—Apathy of public officials in Kansas City and Jackson County toward a general breakdown of law enforcement was denounced by the county grand jury this afternoon in its final report, which accompanied 29 more indictments. This makes the total of indictments by this grand jury 166. Another indictment was returned, but was dismissed by Judge Allen C. Southern.

The names of those accused in today's indictments were not made public immediately.

Judge Southern, whose term as Jackson County criminal judge ended tonight, left the courtroom after the indictments were returned and said he would be available at home if needed in case arrests were made under the indictments.

Laws Recommended.

Four recommendations for the bolstering of law enforcement were made as follows:

Do away with the use of the nolle prosse by prosecutors to dismiss cases "without giving any reason therefor."

Repeal or modify the statute making it mandatory for judges to continue during legislative sessions cases in which attorneys are legislators. The system had proved an 'abuse of justice" in many instances, the jury said.

Provide grand juries with official reporters because "it is highly important to preserve the testimony of unwilling or hostile witnesses to the end that perjury will be prevented or detected and punished."

The fourth recommendation was for regular impaneling of grand juries at the outset of each court term. In the past Jackson County grand juries usually have met with only a week in which to accomplish their work. The latest grand jury was in session on 35 days.

Thanks McKittrick.

In its closing paragraph the grand jury commended for "the courteous performance of their duties" Attorney-General Roy McKittrick, Sheriff James L. Williams, their staffs, and "those members of the staff of the prosecuting attorney who appeared before us and who capably presented a large number of cases."

After he had received the report and expressed his appreciation to the jurors, Judge Southern said: "While the public generally has recognized and been aware of organized crime, you gentlemen have raised a corner of the curtain and shown the mass of corruption behind it."

Before the jury reported, Judge Southern issued an order to the Attorney-General and his assistants designating them as proper officers to prosecute any of the cases growing out of indictments signed by any one of them. The order also requested that the Attorney-General's staff give any assistance required by the Jackson County Prosecutor's office in the prosecution of indictments signed by members of the Prosecutor's staff.

Judge Southern explained the order was a legal formality to prevent later any question as to the authority of the Attorney-General as cases rising out of the indictments go to trial.

"City Hall."

In a section headed "City Hall," the grand jury report said: "It was a surprise to this jury to learn it is difficult, if not impossible, to correct violatons of the provisions of the City Charter other than at election time. Unneeded employes may be hired or retained at the will of the incumbents, and funds may be applied to one purpose or another at the discretion of appointed officials."

The jury said it attempted to examine city finance records "and gave up its intention only when after three days of effort the Sheriff's office was unable to find anyone in authority on whom they could serve subpenas."

Speaking of the apathy of public officials here toward crime, the report said: "As this jury considered the evidence it came to the inescapable conclusion that there has been a widespread breakdown in law enforcement.

"That is due in part to the apathetic public attitude toward law

OUT-OF-DOORS CEREMONY FIRST TIME SINCE 1870

Special Guards on Duty as Crowds Are Drawn to Scene of Spectacle Long Before Dawn — Statesmen Present.

PONTIFICAL MASS CARRIED BY RADIO

Five U. S. Bishops Assigned Places in Procession — Missions From 40 Countries — Colorful Decorations.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, March 12.—(Sunday)—The coronation of Pope Pius XII today brought princes of the church, statesmen and thousands of faithful to crowded Rome in eager anticipation.

Special guards went on duty at midnight, preparing for the throng expected to gather before dawn for the spectacle. Swiss guards were stationed at Vatican City gates.

Late arrivals sought frantically for admission tickets to St. Peter's Basilica, and police were ordered to begin barring automobiles from St. Peter's plaza long before the doors of the basilica were to open. Only cars bearing persons with proper credentials were passed through the lines in the early morning hours.

By Radio for First Time.

In parts of the world where the sun will not yet have risen, millions were expected to sit all night beside radios to hear the pontifcal mass at 8:15 a. m. (1:15 a. m., St. Louis time), and to hear also for the first time a description of the scene by radio.

Chill, damp weather caused some apprehension for the comfort of thousands who intended to stand outside the basilica. The weather forecast was "variable with manifestations of instability."

For the first time since 1870, the papal tiara with three golden crowns will be placed on the head of the new Pope out of doors. The 1929 Lateran accord ended the Pope's voluntary seclusion in the Vatican.

Hundreds of thousands will throng the great plaza below St. Peter's to see the coronation on the balcony of the basilica at about 1 p. m. (6 a. m. St. Louis time).

40 Lands Send Missions.

Missions from 40 countries came to represent their governments at the coronation of a sovereign who reigns over the world's smallest state—the 109 acres of Vatican City—but over one of its greatest spiritual domains, 330,000,000 Catholics.

Among them is Joseph P. Kennedy, United States Ambassador to London, the first official representative of the United States at a papal coronation in 93 years.

Great Britain was represented by the Duke of Norfolk, and Ireland by Prime Minister Eamon de Valera.

Fifty princes and princesses of royal blood had seats within the Basilica for the four-hour ceremony, one of the longest rituals of the church. They include two former Kings, Alfonso of Spain and Ferdinand of Bulgaria.

Crown Prince Umberto of Italy was designated as representative of his father, King Vittorio Emmanuele and Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, represented his father-in-law, Premier Mussolini.

Secretary of State Named.

Pope Pius yesterday appointed Luigi Cardinal Maglione, former nuncio to Paris, as papal Secretary of State. This is the position the Pope filled until the College of Cardinals elected him successor, March 2, to the late Pius XI.

Cardinal Maglione, 62 years old, is just one year younger than the Pope, whose fellow-student he was when they were preparing for the priesthood. Both are of Italian birth, diplomats and both long experienced in European affairs.

Five of the 61 members of the College of Cardinals were prevented by illness from attending the coronation of the Pope. The five, all suffering from influenza, are: Massimo Cardinal Massimi, Vin-

HINES KEEPS TAMMANY TITLE; LOSES ACTUAL LEADERSHIP

Associate Likely to Succeed Him If He Goes to Prison, Takes Over Active Control.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—After 26 years of undisputed sovereignty over the eleventh Assembly District Democratic machine, James J. Hines relinquished active leadership today, although he still retained his Tammany title.

His followers clamorously refused last night to accept his resignation, despite his conviction of policy racketeering, but they designated Bernard F. Plunkett, long an associate of Hines, to assume actual leadership.

Plunkett, chairman of the District Democratic Committee, will act as leader and sit on the Tammany Executive Committee. He is regarded as the likely successor to Hines, at least as titular leader, if Hines goes to prison.

5 REPORTED KILLED IN CRASH OF GERMAN PLANE IN ITALY

Army Craft Was On Way From Tripoli, in Italian Libya, to Stettin.

By the Associated Press.

MILAN, March 11.—A usually reliable source said tonight that five men were killed when a German military plane bound from Tripoli, in Italian Libya, to Stettin, Germany, crashed near Ferrara, in Northern Italy.

The plane was said to have been carrying six German officers and one civilian. Two officers were said to have landed safely by jumping with parachutes before the crash, which was laid to ice forming on the plane's wings.

MIDNIGHT FIRE BREAKS OUT ON 4TH FLOOR OF CITY HALL

Attendant in Fire Alarm Office Discovers It; Cause Not Immediately Determined.

Fire broke out shortly before midnight last night on the fourth floor of City Hall. The cause and extent of the fire were not immediately determined.

An attendant in the Fire Alarm office, at the northeast corner of the fourth floor, reported that smoke was pouring into his quarters.

FEWER 'PROBABLE' FORECASTS

Weather Bureau Hopes to Be Able to Drop the Word.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Weather Bureau promised today to use the word "probably" less frequently in daily weather forecasts. F. W. Reichelderfer, chief of the bureau, said development and extensive use of a new instrument for upper observations would eliminate much of the present guesswork.

The instrument is carried aloft by a balloon. The instrument, known as the "radio-sonde," transmits radio signals which indicate air pressure, temperature and humidity of upper air levels, so that the ground observer may know these important items in making forecasts. Such readings are being taken at 10 stations in different parts of the country.

CANADA BARS FOSTER, THEN ADMITS HIM

Communist on Way to Speak at Toronto, Taken Off Train, Sent Back to U. S.

By Canadian Press.

TORONTO, March 11.—William Z. Foster, chairman of the Communist party in the United States, arrived in Toronto tonight after previously being sent back to Buffalo, N. Y., by Canadian immigration officials.

Foster came here for an address tomorrow night. Earlier today he had been removed from a train and returned to Buffalo. Immigration officers at Fort Erie subsequently were advised from Ottawa that his entry was legal.

Foster was turned back "because the laws of Canada are being enforced," an official of the Canadian Immigration Department at Fort Erie, said earlier.

The official, who declined to disclose his name, said the train was stopped at Sunnyside, Ont., about five miles from Fort Erie.

Foster was asked by an immigration patrolman to leave Canada and was placed aboard another train bound for Buffalo shortly afterward, the official said.

TWO EXTRA ROOMS OPENED FOR INCOME TAX RETURNS

Additional Deputies Also Ordered; Internal Revenue Offices Crowded as Deadline Nears.

The office of Internal Revenue Collector Thomas J. Sheehan in the Federal Building was so crowded yesterday in advance of the Wednesday midnight deadline for filing income tax returns that two extra rooms and additional deputies were used. The office will close at 4 p. m. tomorrow and Tuesday, but will be open until midnight Wednesday.

For State returns, the Assessor's office in City Hall will remain open until midnight Wednesday, or at least as long as taxpayers appear. The County Assessor's office at Clayton will be open until 9 p. m. tomorrow and Tuesday and until midnight Wednesday.

EMERALDS FOUND IN NEVADA

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., March 11. — The University of Nevada School of Mines reported today genuine emeralds have been found in a mine near Rye Patch, Nev.

The university museum displayed a slab of pegmatite showing parts of three emerald inclusions. Dr. William Foshag, geology and mineralogy curator at the Smithsonian Institution, says the specimens contained emeralds, the only ones known to have been found in the United States.

ALL-NEW SLOVAK CABINET FORMED WITH CZECH AID

DENIAL MADE OF TROOP MOVEMENTS

Karl Sidor Becomes Premier as Independence Demands Appear to Grow in Bratislava.

By the Associated Press.

PRAGUE, March 11.—A new Slovak cabinet was formed late tonight by Czech and Slovak negotiators acting hurriedly in apprehension of possible foreign intervention in their domestic crisis. Moderates took the upper hand.

The cabinet was formed under the premiership of Karl Sidor, Slovak representative in Prague, and until tonight Vice-Premier of the Central Government, to eliminate the influence of Slovak separatists.

Not a single member of the deposed Government of Dr. Joseph Tiso was included in the new Cabinet. Premier Tiso's dismissal yesterday by President Emil Hacha of the central Government precipitated the crisis.

Simultaneously with announcement of the new Cabinet, the Federal Government showed concern over German radio broadcast reports of Czech troops movements along Germany's border. The Government sent an official communication to Berlin denying there had been any troop movements whatsoever.

New Cabinet Members.

Others in the new Slovak Cabinet are:

Interior—Dr. Martin Sokol, chairman of the Slovak Parliament.

Education and Public Enlightenment—Josef Sivak, who was interim Premier for two days although in Rome for the coronation of Pope Pius XII.

Industry and Agriculture—Peter Zacko, Hlinka party Deputy and president of the Slovak Industrial Organization.

Finance—Dr. Alexander Hrnciar, Slovak delegate in the Central Finance Government Ministry.

Justice—Senator Gesa Fritz.

Victory for President.

Formation of the new Cabinet was regarded as a victory for President Hacha, who dismissed Premier Tiso and two of his ministers and took military measures to prevent an alleged independence putsch.

The Cabinet was announced after four hours of negotiations in Hradcany Castle, President Hacha's home. The new Government will face its first test in the Slovak Parliament Tuesday, when extremists will have an opportunity to demonstrate whether they can rally sufficient votes to reject it.

The Slovaks had presented at tonight's conference a recommendation of the Slovak Parliament that Dr. Tiso be reappointed.

All that the Prague Government asked, a Government spokesman said, was that the new Slovak Cabinet be formed without former members who "look with indulgence on actions of questionable elements."

"Such a Government," said the spokesman, "would be the best guarantee for the autonomy of Slovakia and the unity of the Czecho-Slovak State."

The cabinet crisis conferees included President Hacha, Sokol, Stano, and the Premier of the Central Government, Rudolph Beran.

Insinuations that the Prague Government was using the crisis to break its autonomy agreement with Slovakia were received by the Czechs, their spokesman said, with "bitter resentment."

Eyes Across the Border.

While army-enforced Prague measures repressed a separatist campaign in autonomous Slovakia, both the central Government and Slovak officials were mindful of neighboring Germany, Poland and Hungary.

As an aftermath of Sudeten German clamor last year from freedom from Czecho-Slovak rule, all three neighbors shared in dismemberment of the republic last fall.

The aggressive tone of the German press and the fact that a Nazi station at Vienna was permitted to broadcast propaganda in the Slovak language acted as a caution signal to both sides.

Foreign observers interpreted the Nazi attitude as a threat to use force but expressed belief it would not be fulfilled. They doubted that the Slovak extremists would be backed to the point of a final rupture between Bratislava and Prague.

Nazis repeatedly have asserted that Prague has not complied whole-heartedly with "the natural consequence of the Munich settlement." This consequence, as the Nazis see it, is that Germany has a right to use a big stick in this region of Central Europe.

ARMS GIVEN OUT; NAZIS CELEBRATE

By the Associated Press.

BRATISLAVA, March 11. — Demands for an independent Slovakia appeared to increase in volume among Slovaks tonight and a German party demonstration heard its main speaker attack the Prague central government of Czecho-Slovakia.

About 8000 persons attended the demonstration, called originally to celebrate the first anniversary of German annexation of Austria. Before it started, several hundred men gathered about party headquarters and received rifles as police watched idly.

As it got under way several bombs were exploded in a vacant lot several blocks away. Police could not verify immediately a report that one demonstrator had been shot.

State Secretary Karmasin, spokesman of the German community in the Slovak Government, told German party demonstrators that "Czech overlords" were seeking "to meddle in our affairs again."

He said that, under former Premier Joseph Tiso, who was deposed yesterday by the Prague Government and whose reinstatement was asked by the Slovak Parliament today, "we (Germans) and Slovaks had attained a measure of freedom."

Troops Leave Streets.

Czech troops and gendarmerie who had been sent here under the martial law decreed by Prague began to drift back toward Bohemia. During the afternoon they disappeared from the streets as Bratislava quieted after clashes which the Slovak Hlinka party declared had resulted in 18 deaths.

Some Czech troops remained in barracks but numerous trucks filled with infantrymen and machine-gunners set out in the direction of Prague.

Feeling for independence obviously was increasing in Bratislava.

"After what happened yesterday it appears that unconditional freedom is the only proper solution of Czech-Slovak relations," said Jan Davchik, Hlinka guard (Slovak storm troop) leader.

Davchik sat in the office where a 27-year-old Hlinka guardsman was shot and fatally wounded yesterday. The guardsman, Anton Kopal, was shot as he charged at a machine-gun which soldiers had set up in the headquarters.

"We will make Kopal a Horst Wessel of Slovakia," one of his comrades said. Horst Wessel was the martyr killed in the early Nazi attempts to gain power in Germany.

Attitude of Populace.

The Slovak population openly manifested its preference for the Hlinka guardsmen, applauding as they marched about apparently as a demonstration.

Bratislava, meanwhile, presented a curious picture of divided allegiances. Germans hung out swastika flags for the party celebration. On other buildings were flags bearing the double red cross of the Hlinka guards. A few bold Magyars displayed the Hungarian flag. Some uniformed officials wore swastika armbands and others the insignia of the Hlinka guard.

Tiso, meanwhile, was free after having spent last night in a monastery. The gendarmerie had guarded the monastery but Tiso had made no attempt to leave.

CALIFORNIA LANDSLIDE NEARS MAIN HIGHWAY

Mass of Earth Quarter-Mile Long Moving More Than a Foot an Hour.

By the Associated Press.

GILROY, Cal., March 11.—A gigantic earth slide from the "Dead Hills" of the famous San Andreas earthquake fault was moving slowly but uninterruptedly toward the Pacific coast's main Canada-to-Mexico highway tonight.

On a front about a quarter of a mile long, the 125-foot high earth mass was advancing down a slope toward United States Highway 101 five miles from here. Engineers reported its advance was better than a foot an hour. The slide is a half a mile from the highway.

The spectacle attracted hundreds of sightseers. "No smoking" signs were erected to forestall possibility of an explosion in the event a pocket of natural gas in the earth is uncovered.

The slide started Monday after heavy rains. It broke loose from the 1130-foot level about two and one-fourth miles from the highway and has traveled one and three-fourths miles down a slope toward the road, which is at the 150-foot elevation. Everything in its path was enveloped or dropped into huge fissures it opened.

Dr. Albert J. Newlin, Santa Clara University seismologist, said recent tremors in the San Andreas fault undoubtedly stimulated the movement.

GIRL MARRIED TO YOUTH FATHER THOUGHT HE KILLED

Man Who Shot Another Caller by Mistake Doesn't Attend Lacon (Ill.) Wedding.

By the Associated Press.

LACON, Ill., March 11. — Mary Davis, 22 years old, daughter of William Davis, who was acquitted of the killing of Doyle Burwell by mistake, was married today to Elmer Wier, 20, the man Davis had thought he was shooting.

Davis testified at his trial last month that he stepped to the door of his home at Coluca last Nov. 22 and shot Burwell, 19, with a shotgun when the youth called, "I'm Elmer Wier." Davis, 65, a WPA worker, said he had warned Wier to stay away from his daughter.

The pair was married by Justice of the Peace J. W. Bennett. The bride's father was not present.

NO LUCK IN 24 RABBIT FEET

They Are Attached to "Baby Seal Skins" That Cost Woman $110.

CHICAGO, March 11.—Mrs. Anna Sirbu has 24 rabbits' feet, but still she is out of luck. The rabbits' feet are attached to what she thought were baby seal skins—sold to her yesterday by a stranger for $110. A companion of the stranger who urged her to buy was to return and pay her $170 for them. He didn't and the police are pretty certain he won't.

The rabbits' feet and skins are worth $4.50.

U. S. MOVES TO GET SOUTH AMERICAN WARSHIP BUSINESS

Welles Says State Department Indorses Objectives of Pittman Plan to Use Navy Yards.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11. — A proposal that the United States build warships in navy yards for Brazil and other Latin American nations—if necessary underbidding Europe—received the indorsement of the State Department today, giving rise to the assumption that it was part of administration efforts to tighten hemisphere defenses.

Acting Secretary Sumner Welles said the State Department was heartily in favor of the general objectives of the proposal, put forward by Chairman Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, of the Senate Foregin Relations Committee.

Pittman announced he would offer next week a measure to authorize all Latin American nations to build warships in United States navy yards "at the lowest competitive prices."

Brazil, Argentina and some other South American governments have had warcraft built in Italy, Germany and England where labor and material costs in commercial shipyards are lower than in this country.

Co-Ordinating Orders.

Welles told his press conference that specific legislation would be required to permit navy yards, busy now with the billion-dollar fleet expansion program, to undertake work for foreign governments.

Welles said the United States rearmament program should take precedence over other considerations and foreign orders would be co-ordinated so as not to impede progress.

Pittman said he would propose that all construction be paid for in cash, that no charge be made for use of naval facilities, and that labor and material be provided on "a competitive basis" with European builders.

In other quarters, it was pointed out that any South American shipbuilding lost by the totalitarian nations would be a blow to their efforts to expand trade with Latin-America since they would be deprived of the exchange involved.

Difficulties Recalled.

Pittman's suggestion recalled a proposal advanced by the State Department in 1937 that this country lease obsolescent destroyers to Brazil. When Argentina strongly opposed this, it was not pressed, even though it was made clear Brazil's neighbors likewise could lease such craft.

It also aroused speculation as to what attitude might be taken toward Soviet Russia's reported intention to revive negotiations to build one or more battleships in the United States. The Soviet proposal, which failed last year, was understood to contemplate the use of commercial shipyards but also some American naval technical assistance which the navy was unwilling to give.

In addition to the ship-building proposal, it was reported that the administration might conclude with other South American countries economic understandings similar to that reached this week with Brazil. It was said that Uruguay Chile and Paraguay were studying plans for closer economic co-operation with this country.

Labor Amendment Questioned.

Meanwhile the National Manufacturers' Association said in a statement that the labor contracts amendment to the air expansion bill gave "hollow note to talk of business appeasement." The association also said it thought the amendment constituted a major hazard in the prosecution of the national defense program.

The amendment, backed by both the CIO and the A. F. of L., was sponsored in the Senate by Majority Leader Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky. It would probihit the award of any contract under the national defense program to a person found to be interfering with collective bargaining or other rights of his employes.

A committee of Senators and Representatives is trying to adjust differences in the versions of the $358,000,000 air expansion measure passed by the two branches of Congress and Senator Logan (Dem.), Kentucky, disclosed after a meeting of this committee yesterday that the principal issue was this amendment.

He also said Secretary Woodring had advised the committee that the War Department opposed the amendment, believing it might block needed airplane purchases.

Barkley to Be Consulted.

The committee deferred further consideration of the question until Monday when Barkley will return from a vacation in Florida. Logan said he would seek the majority leader's agreement to some modification of the amendment.

The Manufacturers' Association asserted that to keep the amendment in the bill would "enhance lack of business confidence." It added: "Ostensibly, the amendment would prohibit any Government agency to award a contract for national defense materials or supplies to any employer found by the head of the contracting agency to be interfering with the rights of his employes. As a practical matter, however, it would prevent the award of any contract to any person charged by the National Labor Relations Board or by a labor union with violating the National Labor Relations Act. The practical result would be denial of contract, not upon proof, but upon suspicion."

COURT TO DECIDE WHICH CASEYVILLE BALLOT IS 'OFFICIAL'

Ruling on Who Is Legally Clerk of Illinois Township Sought Before Election.

An attempt to unravel the political snarl in Caseyville Township, before voters in the April 4 election face the problem of two "official" ballots, will be made in Circuit Court at Belleville next Friday.

State's Attorney Louis P. Zerweck filed quo warranto proceedings yesterday to determine which of two men is the township clerk. Otto Hiller, "ousted" by the Township Board for alleged neglect of duty, but still claiming the office, has prepared one ballot, and Assessor Tony Seipp, who claims to be Hiller's successor, has prepared another.

Hiller's ballot lists candidates for Supervisor to succeed Hugh Bevirt, who, though defeated in the last election, held on to the office when the successful candidate was declared ineligible because he was an alien. Seipp, supporting Bevirt's claim to the office, lists no candidates for Supervisor, on the contention that the regular election is not due for two years.

NAVY NEEDS ATLANTIC BASES, SECRETARY SWANSON THINKS

Cabinet Member Says He Is Convinced of This By Reports on Recent Maneuvers.

CHALESTON, S. C., March 11.—Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson said here today that the recent naval maneuvers in the Caribbean "confirmed the opinion of our naval experts that bases for submarines, destroyers and airplanes are needed in the Atlantic."

Swanson sailed aboard the cruiser Houston for a trip to the West Indies. He is recuperating from a long illness.

"The reports which I have had of the recent fleet maneuvers are most gratifying," Swanson said. "Though no winner is announced at the conclusion of these war games, the real winner is always the American people. The lessons learned from such problems are definite contributions to the national defense."

violation and the interpretation of this apathy by public officials.

"We believe a majority of the good citizens of Kansas City and Jackson County have been unaware of the consequences suffered by our community being known as a wide-open town.

"From our investigation we find a situation which should impress the community conscience much deeper than does the mere question of whether somebody wants to gamble or whether someone wants to buy a drink of liquor at an unlawful hour. We believe that the term 'a wide-open town' implies a degree of corruption of public officials that is incompatible with their oaths of office.

The report stated the jurors had reindicted in four cases. Only two of those reindictments have been made public, those involving Charles Gargotta and Frank Mangiaracina. The two additional reindictments apparently were among those returned today.

Foreman Alex S. Rankin and his fellow jurors appeared extremely modest about the work of the body.

"Let our work speak for itself," Rankin said. "I believe I speak the sentiment of the other jurors."

Police made their first raid in several years today on a horse race handbook shop.

Lieut. Henry W. Johnson, who said he was ordered to make the raid by Police Director Otto P. Higgins, reported about 75 men and women were arrested.

cenzo Cardinal La Puna, Domenico Cardinal Jorio, Luigi Cardinal Lavitrano and Giovanni Battista Cardinal Nasalli-Rocca.

Ceremonial Mass.

A French prelate, Pierre Cardinal Gerlier, Archbishop of Lyon, was designated to officiate at the coronation mass. Usually a Cardinal deacon receives this assignment, but Cardinal Gerlier, the lowest ranking Cardinal priest, was appointed. He enters St. Peter's in the procession just ahead of the Pope, who is carried in a chair on the shoulders of red-costumed attendants. Cardinal Gerlier stands at the left of the Pontiff at the altar while the Pope recites the prayers of the mass.

After special coronation prayers are recited by Gennaro Cardinal Granito Pignatelli di Belmonte, dean of the College of Cardinals, two Cardinal Bishops, Donatus Cardinal Sbarretti and Thomas Pius Cardinal Boggiani, Cardinal Gerlier swings an incense burner before the Pope and kisses him on the cheek and chest.

Later in the mass Cardinal Gerlier descends to the tomb of St. Peter in the crypt under the high altar with a red velour-covered wand in his hand. Kneeling before the tomb he chants the coronation litanies.

At the end of the mass, Cardinal Gerlier, kneeling at the altar, recites "Munda Cor Meum" (purify my heart).

Nicholas Cardinal Canali has been assigned to take the Bishop's miter from the Pope's head, and Camillus Cardinal Caccia Dominioni, will crown the Pope.

In Latin, as the crowning takes place, the Cardinal intones: "Receive thou the tiara adorned with three crowns and know that thou art the father of princes and kings, the rector of the universe, the vicar of our Savior, Jesus Christ, to Whom is honor and glory from century to century. Amen."

The Pope then recites the formula of papal absolution, imparts the apostolic benediction, and, as silver trumpets sound the triumphal march, is borne on his throne from St. Peter's.

Five U. S. Bishops in Procession.

Five United States bishops were assigned places in the procession and were privileged to kiss the Pope's slippered foot and white-robed knee. They were Bishop Joseph McCarthy of Portland, Me.; Bishop Moses Kiley of Trenton, N. J.; Bishop Daniel Desmond of Alexandria, La.; Bishop James Cassidy of Fall River, Mass.; and Bishop Ralph Hayes of Pittsburgh, Pa., rector of the American College in Rome.

The coronation of a Pope is one of the longest of Vatican ceremonies, requiring the presence of the Papal Court almost half a day. It is replete with religious symbolism and superlative as a spectacle.

The procession into St. Peter's is headed by a master of ceremonies between two Swiss Guards. A chaplain bears the Pope's triple tiara, gem-studded and with gold leaves capped by a blue enamel ball and diamond cross. Longhi's triumphal march, sounded by six silver trumpets high in one of the great arches, gives the crowd its first knowledge of the presence of the Pope.

The march begins when the Pontiff, preceded immediately by the Cardinals, joins the procession on the sedia gestatoria, or portable throne.

As the procession moves toward the altar where the mass is celebrated, a Monsignor kneels before the Pope three times, compelling him to stop.

Each time he burns a wisp of tow as a reminder to the Pontiff of the fleetness of glory and proclaims: "Pater sanctus, sic transit gloria mundi." ("Holy Father, thus passes the glory of the world.")

Taking part in the mass will be the Julian and Sistine choirs assisted by Benedictine monks and student choirs attached to St. Peter's.

The vast basilica of St. Peter's was sumptuously decorated with hangings of red and gold for the ceremony. There, just one month ago, Pope Piux XI would have celebrated the seventeenth anniversary of his reign had he not died two days before, on Feb. 10.

The canopied throne was set on the balcony over the central doors of the basilica while in the 15-acre plaza of St. Peter's rows of wooden railings were set up to separate the crowds into sections.

Ambassador Kennedy and other foreign envoys will be guests at an innovation of the new Pope—a reception Monday afternoon at Castel Gandolfo, papal summer residence, at which Cardinal Maglione will be host.

Pope Pius is expected to go to Castel Gandolfo for the summer as soon as the weather in Rome becomes too warm for comfort.

Wyoming Judge Defers Ruling on Property Rights in Suit That Charges Non-Support.

CASPER, Wyo., March 11.—Mrs. Mayme Cook Ryan was granted a divorce here today from Thomas Fortune Ryan II, heir to a mining fortune.

The decree, on grounds of non-support, was granted by Judge C. D. Murane, who deferred for future action a ruling on property rights. Ryan was not represented at the hearing.

In her petition filed in 1937, Mrs. Ryan sought $1000 a month alimony, half an inheritance of more than $1,000,000 Ryan expects from his father's estate, and attorney fees of $25,000.

Ryan met Mayme Cook on a trip to Wyoming. After their marriage they lived for a time at Monarch, Wyo.

MOVE IN CONGRESS AGAINST HURRYING ADDITIONAL RELIEF

Some House Members Want Action Delayed Until Permanent Substitute for WPA Is Devised.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Influential members indicated today that the House might defer action on President Roosevelt's forthcoming request for additional relief funds until a permanent substitute for WPA is devised.

Representative Woodrum of Virginia, a leader of the economy drive in which $150,000,000 was cut from the $875,000,000 that Roosevelt asked for early in the session to finance relief activities until June 30, said the House Appropriations Committee would make a comprehensive study of the entire relief problem before granting any increase in WPA funds.

Supplemental Estimate Awaited.

The President is expected to send a supplemental estimate on relief to Congress early next week.

Support for Woodrum's stand came immediately from Representative Taber (Rep.), New York, ranking minority member of the committee.

"We ought to have a permanent program studied," Taber asserted. "I don't see any possibility of WPA working out intelligently the way it is going. I have reports from at least 25 different localities proving the present setup is totally askew.

"The situation is demoralizing and must be corrected before we can restore any measure of business confidence."

Woodrum Would Abolish WPA.

Woodrum already has introduced legislation to abolish the WPA and give the states a greater control over administration of relief funds. The measure would create an unemployment relief administration in place of the WPA and limit its funds to $1,120,000,000 for the year starting July 1. More than $2,100,000,000 has been allocated to WPA for the current year.

Federal administrative personnel would be reduced from a force of about 37,000 to 6500 and the plan would prohibit the use of relief funds for heavy construction.

Woodrum said that when the Appropriations Committee takes up the request for more relief money, it would make an exhaustive study of WPA procedure—"how they put people on the rolls and what they have done toward purging the rolls."

BOARD INDORSES BILL TO HAVE ONE MAN RUN SCHOOLS

6-to-4 Vote Overrides Plea for Time to Consider Plan to Put Superintendent in Charge.

LEGISLATURE TO GET MEASURE BY TUESDAY

Gerling Approves Proposal That Would Put Him Over Supply, Finance and Building Departments

A proposed legislative bill to reorganize school administration by concentrating authority in a Superintendent of Schools appointed by the Board of Education, was approved by the board in a six-to-four vote at a special meeting yesterday afternoon.

The minority's principal objection was that action was being taken too hastily on such an important matter, and that the revision should not be proposed until a survey of the school system, now under way, is completed next month. Other members pointed out that immediate approval was essential if the bill was to be presented in the Legislature by Tuesday, the last day of the current session for introducing new legislation.

Board members voting for the bill were Max G. Baron, Arthur A. Blumeyer, James J. Fitzgerald, Richard Murphy, Dr. Francis C. Sullivan and Dr. David C. Todd. Those opposing it were Edward A. Ferrenbach, John A. Fleischli, Dr. Rudolph Hofmeister and John J. Sheahan, board president. Two members were absent — Mark D. Eagleton, who is in Florida, and Thomas F. Quinn, who was ill.

Plea for More Time.

Fleischli, Dr. Hofmeister and Sheahan, before announcing their votes, asserted they were not opposed to the bill's provisions, but wanted more time to consider it. Dr. Sullivan said his favorable vote was based on the emphatic recommendation of Dr. Henry J. Gerling, Superintendent of Instruction, that the bill be approved.

The vote was taken after a two-hour discussion in which the proposed new sections were read, and minor changes agreed on. A brief executive session was held after the open meeting, and another meeting was set for 4:30 p. m. tomorrow for approval of the final draft.

It was apparent that most of the board members were influenced by Dr. Gerling's recommendation in voting to approve the bill without further consideration. Its general terms had been approved by the board Feb. 16, when a committee comprising Dr. Gerling, Emmet T. Carter, board attorney, and Dr. George D. Strayer of New York, in charge of the school survey, was directed to draft the legislation.

Six-Year Appointment.

The bill would create a Superintendent of Schools, appointed for six years. This place would go automatically to Dr. Gerling. The Building, Finance and Supply departments would no longer be separate but instead under jurisdiction of the superintendent. This administrative setup has been advocated by Dr. Strayer as one which would result in marked economy, efficiency and improvement in instruction.

There was no mention at the meeting of a clause in the bill which would repeal Section 9586 of the present law, giving the Circuit Court authority to remove board members for gross misconduct or disqualification and to require them to account for official funds and conduct.

Carter, who had charge of actual drafting of the bill, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter after the meeting that he had followed the instructions of Dr. Gerling and Dr. Strayer in calling for repeal of the section. Dr. Strayer said he had made no recommendation on this point, and Dr. Gerling said he had no recollection of the matter being discussed by the committee. He added that inclusion of Section 9586 as one of several to be repealed might have been an oversight, and that he would discuss the question with Carter before the meeting tomorrow.

In urging approval of the bill, Dr. Gerling said it would improve the educational system by bringing about effective co-ordination, by making possible many economies and by readjusting responsibility. "I think this bill will operate in line with our desires as effectively as any legal instrument can do," he said.

"I think this bill will operate in line with our desires as effectively as any legal instrument can do," he said.

"Horse-and-Buggy" System.

While co-operation of department heads, with each other and with the board, has been satisfactory, he said, the present setup, designed more than 40 years ago, is after all a "horse-and-buggy kind of administration."

He said that drastic economies would be effected within a year if the bill became law at the present session of the Lgeislature.

Ferrenbach, speaking against approval at this time, said he thought the same economies could be effected without new legislation and that approval would be premature, since the school survey is incomplete.

Dr. Strayer, seconding Dr. Gerling's remarks, replied that the final report of the survey would only corroborate the arguments for the new law, and that there would be no recommendations for additional legislation.

He added that the survey would show how $200,000 could be saved in one department and $236,000 in another by adoption of recommended changes.

Under the bill as approved, Building Commissioner George W. Sanger would become architect, Secretary-Treasurer Philip J. Hickey assistant superintendent in charge of business affairs and Supply Commissioner James J. Lee head of the supply division. A comptroller would be appointed, virtually taking over the work of the present auditor, who is William M. Susanka. The board would choose the superintendent, comptroller, attorney and architect, but it could retain outside architectural services in place of the latter office.

The Superintendent would have a new assistant, a deputy superintendent, who would act for the superintendent in the latter's absence adn carry out other duties assigned him. His nomination would be subject to board approval.

Campaign Will Be Extended in Effort to Raise $50,000 More and Wipe Out Deficit.

Subscriptions for the maintenance fund of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, were announced last night as more than $100,000, still $15,000 short of the amount needed to maintain the orchestra during the coming season. The accumulated deficit is $35,000.

The campaign has been extended to April 1 in an effort to raise the additional $50,000. An appeal has been made to business firms for special contributions from employes.

Nearly 1000 new subscribers have been enrolled on the maintenance fund list and about an equal number of cards is unreported in the campaign.

WEDDING GUESTS PASS PICKET LINE AT CHURCH

Awning Workers Protest in Rain Against Canopy Put Up by Non-Members.

St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church South, Kingshighway and Washington avenue, was picketed by the Awning & Tent Workers' Union last night as a fashionable wedding with several hundred guests took place there.

The pickets, two men with umbrellas who walked in front of the church as the guests arrived and departed in a driving rain, were placed at the church in protest against the installation of a canopy and canvas floor covering by non-union workmen. The wedding was that of Miss Marcia Grocock, 725 South Skinker boulevard, and J. T. Vaughan, 7054 Washington avenue, University City.

Local No. 39 of the Awning & Tent Workers' Union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, is in dispute with the 17 firms of the Associated Tent & Awning Manufacturers of St. Louis over wages. Although stating they are not on strike, the 130 members of the union did not work last week.

The canopy at St. John's Church was installed by the Siegel Tent & Awning Co., the president of which is Phil R. Becker, spokesman for the manufacturers. Becker, who supervised the job personally, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that his firm and 13 others, out of the 17 in the city, had resumed operations with non-union labor Friday.

Another observer of the picketing last night was Anthony Remshardt, business agent of the union, who told the reporter that, so far as he knew, the Siegel firm was the only one which had resumed operations. He has charged a lockout, and asserted that the association refused to accept an offer of the union to continue work, pending settlement of the dispute.

Wage increases demanded by the union were 15 cents an hour in the two higher brackets, to $1.10 and $1.25 an hour, and 10 cents in the two lower classifications, to 65 cents and 72½ cents an hour.

MILK PRICE-CUTTER TELLS OF HARASSMENT

Detroit Cash and Carry Dealer Ends Testimony Before Monopoly Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Monopoly Investigating Committee assembled data for a study of other food industries today after hearing George A. Johnson, Detroit milk distributor, describe business methods that have enabled him to sell milk on a cash-and-carry basis at from 6 to 8 cents a quart.

Johnson, who operates a chain of 40 milk depots in Detroit, expressed the opinion yesterday that he could deliver for 8 cents milk which is now sold in his stores for 7 cents, but asserted door-to-door delivery was "passe" in the milk business.

Elaborating on earlier testimony about a "conspiracy" to drive him out of business because of his sales methods and prices, Johnson told the committee that just before leaving for Washington he had "30 complaints" investigated by plumbing or building inspectors. He attributed these visits to "the same scheme of harassment" to which he had testified earlier.

"These buildings were rented and I had nothing whatever to do with the plumbing or the construction," he said.

"Are you in favor of co-operatives?" asked Willis J. Ballinger of the Federal Trade Commisison staff.

"I am not in favor of them as they are in Detroit, where they control 95 per cent of the milk at one time," Johnson replied. "I am if they are competitive. A co-operative in Detroit wouldn't sell me milk at any price."

Johnson said his employes were not organized but that he paid from $1 to $2 more than the wage scale in Detroit.

"They attempted to organize my employes and they refused to go in. I have a base pay of $7 a day for all my help in the plant or on the truck," he said, adding that he had never had a strike.

Johnson said he paid farmers 10 cents a hundredweight more for their milk than the local "blended price" or average price for fluid milk and surplus milk.

"If the milk market in Detroit was competitive, the farmer today would probably be getting $2.40 for his milk rather than $1.50," he asserted.

Johnson said his stores sold from 4 to 6 per cent of the fluid milk retailed in Detroit.

OWNER SUES TO BAR PICKETING OF LIBERTY MACHINE WORKS

John Maier Says His Employes Are Satisfied With Wages and Working Conditions.

Suit to enjoin officers and agents of the International Association of Machinists, District No. 9, from picketing the Liberty Machine Works, 2410 North Ninth street, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday. John Maier, owner of the business, is plaintiff, alleging that he employs 11 workers who are satisfied with their wages and working conditions but that, since last November, union officers have confederated to force him either to discharge the empioyes or compel them to join the union.

Maier alleges his place of business has been picketed daily by persons carrying signs stating he is unfair to organized labor. He denies he is unfriendly to unions or that he has violated any union rule.

Those named as defendants are Jerry L. Hanks, Lloyd Weber, Larry Connors, Jack Manning, Arvel W. Kinney, Russell L. Davis and August F. Droege, who are identified as officers or agents of the international association, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

'LITTLE FLOWER' RENAMED 'BUTCH' BY WAY OF BOOST

LaGuardia Thinks "Fiorello" Holds Him Back, So Paper Suggests Substitute.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—As almost everybody knows, the given name of New York's Mayor LaGuardia is Fiorello, which means "Little Flower."

The New York Daily News has decided to nickname him "Butch." "It sounds fine," the News said, citing that "that name Fiorello might convey an impression that there was something flowerlike about the Mayor of New York."

The Mayor started it himself by saying he didn't believe he had a Chinaman's chance of ever being elected President; that other things being equal, his first name would cook his political goose.

"There are no fleas on Butch LaGuardia," the News responded, "and if by chance he should make the White House grade, our bet is that he would hold down that job as worthily as he had held down every other."

The Mayor hasn't said what he thinks about his new monicker.

BILL TO DOUBLE ANNUAL FEE FOR PARK TENNIS PERMITS

Proposal for $2 Charge to Be Introduced This Week in Board of Aldermen.

A bill to increase the cost of annual city tennis permits, which will go on sale April 1, will be introduced in the Board of Aldermen next Saturday, it was announced yesterday by Secretary William Murphy of the Park Department.

Last year, he said, about 11,000 permits were sold at $1 each and revenue from this source lacked $12,000 of providing maintenance and operation cost of courts. Rates under the proposed ordinance will be $2 for residents of St. Louis and $5 for non-residents.

Murphy said more than 1000 permits last year were obtained by residents of St. Louis County and nearby Illinois communities. The ordinance provides for $1 permits for persons less than 16 years old, but they will not entitle holders to play after 5 p. m. nor on Saturdays, Sundays or holidays. Daily permits costing 25 cents may be obtained at the courts.

The Water Department, which controls tennis courts at the Compton Hill Reservoir and the Baden pumping station, will continue to sell annual permits for these courts at $1.

C I O SOFT COAL MINERS TO DEMAND MORE PAY

U. M. W. A. Also to Ask Operators for Shorter Hours at Wage Conference.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Members of the United Mine Workers' General Policy Committee said today they would demand higher wages and shorter hours in the wage conference with soft coal mine operators of the Appalachian region Tuesday.

The present two-year contract, which expires March 31, provides a 35-hour week with wages of $6 a day in northern areas and $5.60 in the South.

Thomas Kennedy, secretary of the CIO union, said the report drafted today was a "comprehensive program" to guide the negotiating committee in the conference. Asked if it called for higher wages and shorter hours, he replied that would be a "good guess."

Committee members declined to give further details, but some expressed hope that a 10 per cent wage increase and 30-hour week would be written into the new contract.

Sixteen representatives of the mine owners formulated a policy yesterday, but did not disclose their plans.

The union committee represents the United States, Nova Scotia and British Columbia, but negotiations will be conducted Tuesday only for the 350,000 miners in the eight-state Appalachian area. Contracts in other regions customarily are governed by the Appalachian terms.

The Joint Commission on Mechanized Mining met today but reported no conclusions.

The Hill-Shaw Co. of Chicago, manufacturers of the appliance, was named defendant.

The bill charged Miss Brooks was gravely burned by scalding coffee when the pot exploded, and the injuries forced her to close the restaurant.

The 1937 city directory listed a Miss Eva Brooks as operator of a tavern at 5100 North Broadway.

GIRL SHOT BY BOY FRIEND IN QUARREL; YOUTH HELD

Pair Ride Around in Auto Hour and Half After She Is Wounded Three Times.

By the Associated Press.

PAULS VALLEY, Ok., March 11.—Carol Morrison, 18-year-old high school girl who, County Attorney Sam Goodwin said, rode with her boy friend for an hour and a half after she was shot three times in a quarrel over a date with another youth, was believed tonight to have an even chance to recover.

Murray Williams, 22, was held in the county jail without charge, pending outcome of her injuries.

Goodwin said Williams told him he obtained a rifle yesterday and asked Miss Morrison to take a ride with him in his automobile, and that she left the car during an argument. Then, Goodwin said Williams related, he fired, after telling her "not to take another step."

The girl then re-entered the automobile and two more shots were fired during a conversation in which the girl said she was "sorry" and expressed willingness to patch things up.

The two rode around until Miss Morrison asked for a drink of water. Then they drove to the home of Williams' parents near here. A doctor was summoned and the girl taken to a hospital.

WOMAN ILL, SON KILLS HER, SISTER AND SELF

Kansan Leaves Note: "Just Cannot Go on Since Mother Is Stricken."

By tne Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., March 11.—Investigating because the shades were drawn, neighbors and a doctor forced their way into a home here today and found a 74-year-old woman and her son and daughter shot to death.

Police said apparently Albert Lindberg, 41, had agreed with his sister he should shoot their invalid mother, Mrs. Mary Lindberg, then kill the sister and himself.

The mother was found dead in bed with a pistol bullet through her temple. On the kitchen floor were the bodies of Lindberg and his sister, Hilda, 43. Lindberg had been shot through the right temple and his sister through the left temple.

A pistol with three discharged cartridges was found near Lindberg's body.

On a dresser was an unsigned note: "Just cannot go on since mother is stricken. God forgive me."

Beside the note was a deed to a family cemetery lot.

"Their lives were centered about each other," said a neighbor, Mrs. C. W. Redick. "I never saw a more devoted family."

Albert Lindberg was a railroad yard clerk. He had taken leave from work Monday, the day his mother suffered a stroke, and had not returned.

Stalin Cays Britain Can't Use Russia to Block Nazis

blows for one against instigators of war who attempt to infringe upon the integrity of Soviet borders. Such is the foreign policy of the Soviet Union."

No Attempt to Resist.

Even though "open redivision of the world and of spheres of influence is taking place before our eyes at the expense of the interests of non-aggressor states," Stalin declared that the democracies were looking on "without the least attempt at resistance and even with a certain amount of connivance."

He argued, in declaring that the peace of Munich was a part of a scheme for fomenting war "with Germany without a visible basis," that the Germans got Czecho-Slovak Sudetenland as a "reward," but now "refuse to pay this obligation."

Russia would not be a cat's paw now, he then continued, to aid Britain and France under the turn of events by which "instead of movign farther east against the Soviet Union" the Germans "turn westward and demand colonies for themselves."

Economic reverses of the last five years led to the "sharpening of relations between the Powers," Stalin said, but the struggle had passed beyond "competition for markets" to the present "question of new redivision of the world, of spheres of influence and colonies by military action"—which led Italy into Ethiopia, Japan into China and the German campaign for colonies.

In the face of this, Stalin continued, "nonaggressor countries, primarily England and France, have abandoned a policy of collective security" for one of "non-intervention" or "neutrality."

Though formally this policy might be described as one of "let each country defend itself against aggressors as it likes and well as it can," Stalin said that in actual fact it was "tantamount to connivance at aggression, to unleashing war—consequently to its transformation into world war."

On Non-Intervention.

Stalin continued:

"Through a policy of non-intervention there runs eagerness of a desire not to prevent aggressors from perpetrating their black deeds, not to prevent, say, Japan from becoming involved in a war with China, or still better with the Soviet Union; not to prevent, say, Germany from becoming enmeshed in European affairs, from becoming involved in war with the Soviet Union;

"To allow all the belligerents to sink deep into the mire of war, to stealthily encourage them to follow this line, to allow them to weaken and exhaust one another and then, when they become sufficiently weakened, to appear on the scene with fresh forces, to come out, of course in the 'interests of peace' and to dictate their terms to the belligerent nations."

With sarcasm he then referred to the German-Italian-Japanese anti-comintern pact which the Fascist countries have declared was not a military alliance.

"The military bloc of Germany and Italy against the interests of England and France in Europe? Really, that's no bloc at all," Stalin chided.

"'We' have no military bloc of any sort," he paraphrased. "All 'we' have is a harmless 'Berlin-Rome axis,' just a certain geometrical formula dealing with axis.

"A military bloc of Germany, Italy and Japan against the interests of the United States, England and France in the Far East? Nothing of the kind! 'We' have no military bloc of any sort. All 'we' have is a harmless 'Berlin-Rome-Tokyo triangle,' that is, a slight penchant for geometry."

Stalin ridiculed foreign forecasts of the annexation of the Soviet Ukraine through what he called the "insect" state Carpatho-Ukraine.

(There have been suggestions of forming an autonomous Ukraine nation to comprise the Soviet Ukraine, Czecho-Slovakia's Carpatho-Ukraine and Ukraine sections of Poland).

"Of course it is quite possible that in Germany there are lunatics who dream of annexing an elephant—that is the Soviet Ukraine—to a small insect—that is the so-called Carpatho-Ukraine," Stalin said.

"If there really are such lunatics we need not count that. In our country we will find sufficient straitjackets to take care of them."

German Demand for Colonies.

Continuing his remarks about Germany, Stalin declared that "as a matter of fact the Germans have annoyed some of those who hoped for a Russo-German war to such an extent that they are beginning to unmask the real purpose of their policy.

"They flatly say and write in black and white that the Germans have bitterly disappointed them.

"Instead of moving farther east against the Soviet Union, they turn westward and demand colonies for themselves."

As for Germany he continued:

"First they gave her Austria, then Sudetenland, then Czecho-Slovakia violating all obligations, and they began to lie in the press about 'weakness of the Russian army, weakness of Russian aviation, rebellion in the Soviet Union,' pushing Germans farther to the east and telling them 'go ahead and start war against the Bolsheviki and everything else will be all right.'"

Stalin was the object of a great ovation from the delegates when he took the rostrum.

Vyacheslav Molotov, chairman of the council, spoke briefly at the outset and then introduced Stalin.

Outside, the snow-covered streets of Moscow were decorated with red flags.

Newspapers carrying portraits of Lenin and Stalin declared that not only the Soviet people but "all the oppressed and enslaved of the capitalist world" were looking toward Moscow for a message of guidance and encouragement from Stalin and other Soviet leaders.

LIGHTNING FIRES OIL TANK; $25,000 LOSS

Explosion After Bolt Blows Top Off 80,000-Barrel Container at Wood River.

A spectacular fire, caused when lightning struck an 80,000-barrel crude oil tank on Standard Oil Co. property near its Wood River refinery at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, did damage estimated at $25,000 by S. A. Montgomery, plant manager.

An explosion, which followed the bolt, blew the top from the tank, which has a diameter of 100 feet and is 45 feet high. The mounting flames and a column of black smoke, visible as far away as Alton, attracted a crowd of several hundred, who lined the Wood River-Roxana road.

Oil from loosened pipes to the tank was ignited and part of the contents of the huge tank overflowed. Most of the oil was confined by an earthen embankment, which encircled the tank.

All fire-fighting equipment at the plant and that of the Wood River fire department was called out. Chemicals were used to blanket the burning oil and hoses were played on nearby tanks to cool them. The fire was brought under control after three hours.

Supreme Tribunal Has Held Department Expenses Must Be Passed on by Legislature.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 11.—Three Kansas City attorneys whose fee allowances of $412,500 in the fire insurance rate restitution case in Circuit Court here were thrown out by the Missouri Supreme Court last September, filed a motion today asking the Supreme Court to modify its decision to an extent that the lawyers could still seek payment of a fee, through an assessment by the State Insurance Department against insurance companies involved in the case.

The three attorneys are former Attorney-General John T. Barker and Floyd E. Jacobs of Kansas City, jointly allowed $275,000, and Glenn C. Weatherby of Kansas City, allowed $137,500, by Judge Nike Sevier of Cole County Circuit Court, as special counsel for the Insurance Department in the restitution suit.

If the Supreme Court grants the motion and modifies the opinion in the manner requested, it would enable the three lawyers to avoid subzmitting a request for fee appropriation to the Legislature, which has shown a disposition in the past not to make large appropriations for alwyer fees in the fire insurance rate cases. The Supreme Court, in holding Judge Sevier had no legal authority to allow these fees against the impounded fund, which was due the policyholders, ruled the insurance department had legal power to employ special counsel i insurance matetrs, but that such counsel could be compensated only as other department expenses are paid, through an appropriation by the Legislature.

Barker, Jacobs and Weatherby, in their motion today, asked the Court to eliminate from the opinion all of the holding that they must look to the Legislature for pay, and substitute a ruling that it appeared that the insurance code made provision for the payment of expenses or legal fees in the case.

PAINTINGS OF 3 FRENCH MASTERS AT MUSEUM

Display of Works of Gros, Gericault, Delacroix to Continue Until April 8.

An exhibition of paintings and drawings by Gros, Gericault and Delacroix, the three founders of the French romantic school of the last century, will be opened today in Galleries 14 and 15 of City Art Museum in Forest Park, and will continue until April 8.

The exhibit, originally assembled in New York by M. Knoedler & Co., is important particularly because it permits Americans to see some of the canvases of Gros, Napoleon's official painter, only one of whose works is owned by an American museum. The paintings are to be taken eventually to the Golden Gate exposition at San Francisco.

There are only half a dozen small oils by Delacroix, whose work Elie Faure describes as all "passionate movement, moving color and ardent matter." His larger works could not be sent beyond New York. The oils are supplemented by a pencil sketch and two water colors, one of them a study for the famed "Massacre of Scio."

Gros, who stood between the theoretical painting of David and the new manner, is more generously represented. Among the examples of his works, beside a number of portraits, is the popular picture of Napoleon visiting the pest-ridden at Jaffa.

Gericault, who broke more completely with the old masters than Gros and who paved the way for Delacroix—although the three men really were contemporaries—has the most pictures here. Outstanding among his works at the Museum are the almost impressionistic "Retreat from Russia," an interesting "Study of a Nude Man Holding a Horse," and the altogether charming portrait of young Alfred de Dreux.

GAMBLING RESORTS CLOSING IN FLORIDA

Attorney-General Clamps Lid on Tight on Orders From Governor.

By the Associated Press.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 11.—Attorney-General George Couper Gibbs, acting at the direction of Gov. Fred P. Cone, clamped the lid down tight on Florida gambling today.

Reports from all sections of the State—the swanky winter resorts and the backwoods places—told of gambling establishments closing as law enforcement officers carried out the orders from Gibbs and Cone.

There was no open gambling in the Miami resort area. In nearby Broward County a large gambling establishment closed when five ministers brought suit against 10 persons, including Sheriff Walter Clark.

The Miami Daily News said residents and winter visitors in that area had to go to Palm Beach to do their gambling. The Attorney-General's office here said it was awaiting a report on the Palm Beach situation.

One of Gibbs' assistants conferred with Duval County officials in Jacksonville today following reports to the Governor by the Rev. J. E. Barbee, Christian Church pastor at Jacksonville, that "10 gambling establishments were operating openly in Jacksonville and Duval County." The Rev. Mr, Barbee, who led a successful campaign to have slot machines outlawed in Florida a few years ago, said he had sent Gov. Cone "sworn affidavits of locations, addresses, floor plans and gambling equipment" of Jacksonville gambling places, as he promised to do in a telegram he sent to the Governor last night after spending yesterday afternoon making the rounds of Jacksonville gambling places.

The minister tilted his hat over one eye, put an imitation cigar in his mouth because he doesn't use tobacco, and carried a racing newspaper during his tour of the establishments.

Gibbs' office here said reports indicated that gambling, especially various forms of the numbers racket popular with the large Latin population, had virtually disappeared at Tampa and other places along the Florida West Coast.

Franco to Open Border for Return of Refugees.

PARIS, March 11.—The French Government was notified tonight by Generalissimo Franco's Nationalist Government that the Spanish border would be opened immediately for the return of from 6000 to 7000 Republican refugees.

Nearly 25,000 Spaniards who fled to France from Catalonia and expressed a desire to go back to Nationalist Spain have been waiting at Hendaye for the frontier to be opened. Recently, however, the Burgos Government has admitted only 250 a day.

France, with a total of 440,000 Spanish refugees within her borders, has been negotiating with Franco to speed up repatriation.

The body will be taken to Gadsden for burial.

HOMER MARTIN TRIED BY HIS UNION RIVALS

He Attempted to Negotiate Private Deal With Ford, Board Is Told.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, March 11.—The 20-man executive board of the United Automobile Workers' faction headed by Roland J. Thomas heard testimony today that Homer Martin, president of a rival group, had worked to negotiate an agreement with the Ford Motor Co., terms of which fellow union members described as "lousy."

Sitting in closed session to try Martin on impeachment charges, the board members summoned Paul Ste. Marie of Dearborn, Mich., secretary of a Ford workers' local, to tell of conferences of Martin, members of the union and Ford representatives.

"Martin wanted to negotiate the agreement verbally and privately with Harry Bennett," Ford personnel chief, in the latter's office, Ste. Marie told the executive commiteemen. He also quoted Martin as approving a proposed agreement under which the union would drop National Labor Relations Board litigation against the Ford Co., along with personal injury suits of St. Louis, Kansas City and Detroit members allegedly beaten while engaged in union activity near Ford plants.

Percy Lewellyn, president of Local No. 600 at Ford's Dearborn (Mich.) plant, testified that "Martin said Ford and Harry Bennett (Ford personnel director) are the most outstanding people in the country today," in a speech last January.

Additional testimony will be taken tomorrow from "eight or nine" witnesses, it was announced.

The Thomas faction, indorsed by the Congress for Industrial Organizations, reported the proceedings through a press representative, Edward Levinson, former New York newspaper man and author of several labor books.

Levinson said Thomas would tell tomorrow about "back-door" negotiations between Martin and the Chrysler Motor Co.

Lewellyn, a Ford tool and die maker for five years, testified Martin had discouraged him from pushing UAW organization among Ford employes and quoted an associate of Martin as warning him: "The Ford service organization has the greatest espionage organization in the world. They know your every move."

Lewellyn, who accused Martin of plotting to break with the CIO as early as last August, quoted him as saying:

"Ford will give us a closed shop contract if we take the union out of the CIO."

The board voted today to reinstate Loren Houser, former secretary-treasurer of the opposing faction and an executive board member before the split. Suspended by Thomas in January he left Martin a few weeks later.

NEW YORK G. O. P. LEADERS BUILD UP DEWEY FOR 1940

'GET-TOGETHER' DINNER FOR WRITERS

On Democratic Side Gossip Continues That Hopkins Is in Line for Presidential Nomination.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The boom for Thomas E. Dewey, Michigan-born New Yorker, for the Republican presidential nomination in 1940 got fresh impetus this week in an invasion of the capital by Republican State leaders from New York.

There was no open fanfare for Dewey, such as marked the launching here a year ago of Indiana's boom for Paul V. McNutt for the Democratic nomination. The Dewey boomers from New York nominally just came down to talk politics with important party members in Congress and out.

Yet Dewey, absent in person, was the theme dominating all the off-stage discussion of persons available for the Republican presidential ticket.

A "get-acquainted" dinner was given under auspices of two new upstate New York Republican members of the House. It was arranged by Representatives Pierce and Hall to bring the visitors into personal contact with certain Washington political writers. A recanvass by such writers of Dewey's availability for the Republican presidential nomination in 1940 was indicated.

By coincidence, presumably, Dewey was host in New York that same night to former President Hoover and Mrs. Hoover.

Party leaders from both up and down state New York participated in the Washington pilgrimage. Kenneth Simpson, national committeeman from New York, and Ed Jaeckle of Buffalo, were reported agreed that Dewey was a coming man politically.

Whatever the motives and inspiration of the New York expedition to Washington, it recalls the circumstances which helped build up popular party sentiment in 1936 for the nomination of Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas. President Roosevelt's western trip in the summer of 1935 carried a large corps of Washington political writers across the country with him. He took a ship for a Pacific cruise. This left the political reporters free to return to Washington on their own, and most of them called at Kansas City to check on the strength of the Landon boom.

The Landon movement got a popular strength that summer, which made easy his nomination at Cleveland a year later.

Another transplanted Midwesterner it mentioned also as a possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940. He is Iowa-born Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, who did most of his public service in New York before coming to Washington with the New Deal in 1933.

Rated President Roosevelt's most trusted lieutenant, Hopkins is the key man in the Administration's drive for recovery and co-operation with business. Whether he has political ambitions or is marked for Roosevelt favor in 1940 nobody knows, but the circumstances of his first speech as a Cabinet officer, delivered in Des Moines, Ia., suggest that he will be put forward as a favorite son of his native State, not as an adopted son of New York, if he figures in Democratic presidential maneuvering next year.

BAR COMMITTEE TO REPORT ON CIRCUIT COURT IS NAMED

Group Will Look Into Truth or Falsity of Post-Dispatch Analysis.

The committee authorized by the St. Louis Bar Association to investigate the truth or falsity of an analysis in the Post-Dispatch last Monday of a report by the Circuit Clerk on the handling of Circuit Court cases in the last 10 years was appointed yesterday by Roscoe Anderson, president of the association.

Former Circuit Judge William T. Jones was named chairman. Other members are former Circuit Judge Rhodes E. Cave, H. Chouteau Dyer, Thomas F. McDonald, Ethan A. H. Shepley and David L. Millar. The first three named are Democrats, the others Republicans.

The Circuit Judges meeting in general term Thursday, decided to co-operate with the bar committee in its investigation. The Post-Dispatch analysis showed a large decline in the volume of cases disposed of and in the number of days on which the Judges sat in jury trials.

LABOR PEACE HOPE APPEARS TO REST WITH ROOSEVELT

He Can Keep Public Opinion Focussed on Talks Between CIO and A. F. of L. Representatives.

ANIMOSITIES KEEP UNION HEADS APART

Observers Believe President Can Exert Pressure of Rank and File Desire for Settlement.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Hope of peace in labor's three-year civil war appeared tonight to depend on the personal influence of President Roosevelt.

As conferences between representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations progressed from formal to informal stages, neutral observers 2generally were agreed on one point:

The two groups may be brought together if the President can manage to keep the pressure of public opinion centered on the peace efforts.

Public opinion is important because both sides admit that the rank and file of the unions, as well as most of business and industry, want peace.

Against that desire stands the fact that no plan yet advanced to restore harmony has offered a solution for the most difficult problem involved in the whole situation—the problem of personalities.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and John L. Lewis, head of the CIO, once were friends. Three years of bitter fighting, however, have made them vituperative antagonists. Neither would be willing to accept the other as chief of a united labor movement, and no satisfactory third party has been suggested for the job.

Jobs for Green and Lewis.

Even if a compromise leader could be agreed on, there would still be the question of jobs for Green and Lewis under the new setup. Lewis could remain as boss of the United Mine Workers, a powerful post he now holds in conjunction with his CIO leadership, but Green was ousted by his original union—the Mine Workers, from whence he advanced to the A. F. of L. presidency—in retaliation for the A. F. of L. suspension of CIO members. He was given a card in the Musicians' Union but no official position.

Lewis has proposed that Green be retired on a pension equal to his present salary. That would be a symbolic defeat for the craft unionism Green represents, for Lewis with his industrial union ideas [illegible] remain firmly entrenched [illegible] would be virtually out [illegible]ture. And observers say [illegible] would hardly be approved by the executive council of the A. F. of L., the real A. F. of L. power for which Green is merely the mouthpiece.

That President Roosevelt has some reason for believing the impasse can be resolved is in the minds of those best acquainted with the situation. Otherwise, they think, he would not have risked the political danger involved in calling a meeting and having it fail.

Two Things He Can Do.

His influence can take two forms. Indirectly, he can keep attention on the labor conferees through his press conferences and other public utterance. Directly, he will be represented in the talks by Daniel Tobin, head of the A. F. of L. Teamsters' Union and chairman of the labor division of the 1932 and 1936 Democratic campaign committees.

Tobin refused to serve on the A. F. of L. negotiating committee when it was first named. He changed his mind, however, after a call at the White House.

In New York, where the labor meetings are being held, Tobin declined to comment on the outlook, which other observers described as "90 per cent unfavorable." He said it had been agreed by the joint committee (Matthew Woll, Harry C. Bates, T. A. Rickert and Tobin representing the A. F. of L. and John L. Lewis, Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray the CIO), that no statements would be made except by the group as a whole.

Latest Statement.

Such a statement came at the end of a five-hour session, the second of a series, at 1 a. m. today. It said:

"The joint committee discussed at length the proposal submitted by the committee for the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

(That proposal, advanced at the opening conference with President Roosevelt in Washington, would unite the A. F. of L. and the CIO in one labor body along with the four independent railroad brotherhoods.)

"In the course of the discussion, the representatives of the American Federation of Labor proposed that negotiations for an adjustment of the pending differences proceed from the point where negotiations of December, 1937, were left off.

(The A. F. of L. plan of 1937 called for return of the suspended CIO unions to the A. F. of L., then settlement of jurisdictional disputes involved.)

"It was agreed that the proposal submitted by the A. F. of L. and any other proposals that may be submitted will be discussed at the meeting which is to convene on Monday at 10 a. m. here."

Union Urges Rank and File Movement for Labor Unity.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., March 11.—Local 388 of the Molder's Union, affiliated with the A. F. of L., urged today "a rank and file movement" to bring unity to the A. F. of L. and the CIO.

The local, with 800 members, sent letters to all State bodies of the two labor groups, stating that no "serious split" exists in the rank and file, and urging support of the unity movement. "in a sense of patriotism." Letters also were sent to President Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins urging their influence "to see that peace is achieved regardless of some slight concessions that may have to be made."

Green Says A. F. of L. Will Never Liquidate.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—William Green told associates tonight "we will never liquidate the American Federation of Labor for anybody."

Green, A. F. of L. president, apparently directed his remarks at a proposal made Tuesday by John L. Lewis, CIO chief, after a labor peace committee conference. Lewis proposed an American Congress of Labor, uniting the CIO, A. F. of L. and four railroad brotherhoods, with a provision that neither he nor Green hold office in it.

Green, who said the A. F. of L. was a part of "the fabric of our civilization," reaffirmed the federation's non-partisan policy and asserted:

"We are not making war upon industry. We believe industry is entitled to earn a fair return on its investment. We believe in the right of those who own industry to management. We insist, however, that industry pay to the worker a wage to maintain himself and his famiyl in comfort and decency."

He spoke at a dinner given for Lewis G. Hines, who resigned as A. F. of L. organization director recently to become Secretary of Labor and Industry in Pennsylvania. The dinner was at the Washington, one of the few large Washington hotels free of picket lines.

His defense program is sliding through with scarcely a hitch, although accompanied by vigorous criticism of his foreign policy. A bill giving him power to reorganize the executive branch of the government has been passed by the House. His major nominations, some of them disputed, have received confirmation by heavy Senate majorities.

On the other side of the scale he was rebuffed by the Senate for not consulting Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia on the appointment of a Federal Judge in that State. Economy advocates won the first round of a still unfinished bout over the amount to be appropriated for relief. The nomination of Thomas R. Amlie to the Interstate Commerce Commission is facing opposition of such proportions that there is talk it may be withdrawn.

Relief Expenditures.

At the moment Roosevelt is simultaneously endeavoring to encourage the expansion of business by statements that he has no further plans for business legislation at this session and preparing to renew his fight with the economy bloc over the size of the relief appropriation.

Early in the session he asked Congress for $875,000,000 to keep WPA running from February to July. It responded with an appropriation of $725,000,000 and an invitation to Roosevelt to ask for more should that sum prove inadequate. The reduction was approved in the Senate by a single vote. Promptly the President asked Congress for the $150,000,000 that was lopped off. He plans to send another communication to the Capitol Monday on the same subject.

Speaking frankly but not for quotation, Congressional opponents of the Government spending program see only a dim possibility of Congress refusing to make the additional appropriation. In fact, they predict that the President's entire budget of $8,995,000,000 for the next fiscal year will be approved and possibly more, too.

Guam Controversial Issue.

Such major parts of the defense and rearmament program as have reached either or both of the houses of Congress have been passed by huge majorities after sharp parliamentary battling over details. However, the proposal for establishing a naval air base at the Pacific island of Guam, which was recommended by the Navy, was thrown out by the House, largely on the ground that such action would be interpreted as an affront to Japan. It is pending in the Senate Naval Committee and the Senate itself will have to deal with the question eventually.

Linked with the controversy over the Roosevelt foreign policy is the Neutrality Act and an impending fight over amendments to it. Roosevelt said only this week that in his opinion the law had made no contribution to peace, and might, in fact, have encouraged threats of war.

This put the Senate's neutrality bloc on guard. Immediately they began talking of resisting a repeal effort with, if necessary, a filibuster.

The reorganization bill passed by the House is but a pale reminder of the measure which caused such a congressional dispute last session, and eventually was rejected by the House. The bill permits the President to consolidate or abolish Government agencies, with some specific exemptions. His reorganization orders are to become effective unless disapproved by both branches of Congress within 60 days. On this subject, too, a fight is coming up in the Senate. Senator Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, is backing an alternative idea, placing the greatest emphasis on Government economy and providing that presidential reorganization orders must have the specific approval of both branches of Congress within 20 days if they are to take effect.

Hopkins, Murphy Confirmed.

Roosevelt's nomination of Harry Hopkins as Secretary of Commerce was criticised on the ground that politics in relief had disqualified the former WPA Administrator. That of Frank Murphy as Attorney-General aroused a controversy growing out of charges that as Governor of Michigan he had dealt too leniently with the automobile sit-down strikers of 1937. Both were approved with votes to spare. The nomination of Felix Frankfurter, Harvard professor of law, to the Supreme Court was confirmed by a unanimous vote.

The Senate, however, soundly defeated the President when he sent up the name of Floyd H. Roberts to be Federal Judge for the Western District of Virginia. Glass and Byrd, often in conflict with the President and on the opposite side of a Virginia party split from Roberts, raised the plea that the nomination was personally obnoxious to them. Roberts was rejected, 72 to 9.

An outstanding development of the session has been the reinvigoration of the Republican minority in the House. Its numbers were increased by the November elections, and it chose an active and aggressive floor leader in Representative Martin of Massachusetts. Under his generalship, the minority has developed into an alert and solid unit, which has repeatedly proved a harassing factor for the Democratic leaders.

BILL TO PRESERVE BALLOTS APPROVED BY CIVIC GROUP

Chamber of Commerce Directors Favor 30 Pending in Legislature, Disapprove 35.

A bill, now pending in the lower house of the Legislature, providing that ballots should not be destroyed in the event of an election contest or a grand jury investigation relating to them until such action is finished, has been approved by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

The directors reported they favored the measure because it "would cure the present evil" in the law which provides that ballots must be destroyed in one year. Thirty other pending bills were approved and 35 were disapproved in the same report.

A favorable decision was made on a measure allowing the Governor to appoint a State business survey commission to obtain facts relating to better government economy and efficiency. Among the bills disapproved were one requiring street cars and busses to be manned by two persons, and another requiring hunters and fishermen to obtain the written consent of property owners whose lands they enter.

COUNTY COURT STUDIES NEW COURTHOUSE PLAN

Latest of Six Architects' Reports Submitted Suggests Two Alternatives.

With the last of six conflicting architectural reports in hand on the subject of remodeling or replacing the old St. Louis County Courthouse at Clayton, the County Court, or administrative body, is studying the problem of what to do about the dilapidated and hazardous seat of county government.

Five times in the last 14 years, including the elections last November and August, the voters have refused to authorize bonds for a new courthouse and jail.

The last of the reports, requested a month ago, was submitted yesterday by Marcel Boulicault, giving two alternative plans for remodeling. He had advised a preceding County Court late in 1936 to erect a new $1,000,000 structure, after he had been retained to plan remodeling and found the place in "very bad condition, dangerous in many respects and inadequate."

Wooden Portions Are Fire Hazard.

His new report, evidently taking into consideration the practical difficulty of financing a new building, declared that the 27-year-old south wing was in good condition and that the brick walls of the 61-year-old main section were structurally sound and would last for years. However, he said the wooden floors and wooden roof frame of the old portion constituted a definite fire hazard.

In both alternatives he recommended removal of the cupola—a landmark—and erection of a new jail on the present site adjoining the old part of the courthouse.

His first plan, estimated to cost $363,600, called for complete remodeling of the interior of the old section, including fireproof floors, and addition of a third full story. This, he said, would meet the needs adequately, and a north wing could be added in the future to balance the south one. His other plan, costing about $750,000, was for the same remodeling, without an extra story, but with a north wing which would include a 1000-seat auditorium.

To pay for either plan, Boulicault proposed a PWA grant, expenditure of $100,000 of county funds annually for two years, and, for the more expensive scheme, a $250,000 bond issue. He did not recommend an entirely new building.

Other Architects' Reports.

Summarized, the reports of other architects follow:

Study & Farrar—The old building is a firetrap, not worth renovating, but will not collapse. The cupola, in danger of falling, should be removed. The jail is a firetrap. The south wing is worth saving, and three plans offered by this firm would incorporate it into a new building. A fourth plan called for an entirely new 10-story courthouse.

Maritz, Young & Dusard—Wood construction and the well from the first floor to the cupola in the old portion constitute a fire hazard. Replacement with new wings was suggested, on the ground remodeling was impractical.

William B. Ittner, Inc.—The old section should be removed and three new wings erected at a cost of $1,130,000.

Norman B. Howard—The north portion should be retained, having no structural defects, with walls and framing lumber in excellent state of preservation. Space requirements could be met by building additions.

Klipstein & Rathmann—The old section should be torn down and additions to the newer unit put up at a cost of about $328,000.

Recently the Clayton City Building Commissioner posted the old section of the courthouse as unsafe, and postal authorities since then have prohibited delivery of mail in that section.

STREET CAR HITS AMBULANCE HURRYING MAN TO HOSPITAL

Motorman Arrested; Driver of City Vehicle Says Traffic Light Was in His Favor.

A city ambulance transporting a dying man to City Hospital was struck by a University street car at Fourteenth and Olive streets at noon yesterday.

The patient, who apparently escaped injury in the accident, died an hour and a half later of a cerebral hemorrhage, which had caused a paralytic stroke. He was Edward Bailey, 43 years old, a cook, 4049 Washington boulevard.

Frank R. Davis, the ambulance driver, said he was driving south in Fourteenth street with the siren sounding and the traffic signal in his favor. The ambulance was struck at the rear by a westbound street car operated by Motorman Mickle Gerard of 1273A Delaware avenue, Wellston. The ambulance finished its run. Gerard was booked for careless driving and destruction of city property and furnished bond.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 11.—The Illinois Civil Service Commission has received 33,438 applications for the examination to be held March 22-25 inclusive in seven Illinois cities. Examinations will be held in Chicago, Peoria, Springfield, Champaign, Urbana, Quincy and East St. Louis. The examinations are bing held chiefly to provide an eligible list for vacancies in the Division of Unemployment Compensation and Employment Service.

4 PICKETING NON-UNION MAN'S HOME ARRESTED

Four Others Looking on at Electrical Worker's Residence Also Held.

Four members of Local 1108 of the United Electrical and Radio Workers of America, an affiliate of the CIO, were arrested yesterday as they picketed the home of Fred Meyer, 3623 Virginia avenue, a non-union employe of the Century Electric Co., a firm with which the labor organization has a contract. Four other men were arrested for investigation.

The four pickets are Earl Johnson, 2343A Dodier street; Thomas Maupin, 1913 Laflin street; Frank Mier, 4050 Russell boulevard, and Ray Stanley, 1741 St. Louis avenue. All are employes of the Century Co., and all were booked at Central District station on "suspicion of illegal picketing." Warrants are to be sought Monday, police said.

Johnson and Maupin were carrying signs, reading: "Fred Meyer is tearing down wages, hours and working conditions of his fellow workers by refusing to join the union.——UERW of A."

The four men held by the police for investigation are members of the union, and were standing near the pickets at the time of their arrest. They are Henry Fiering, 4372 West Pine boulevard, secretary of the union; William Davis, 722 north Thirteenth street, East St. Louis; Charles Schmidt, 2808 Lamp avenue, and Thomas Glover, 6438 Wellsmar avenue.

The union's contract with the Century company expires next month, Fiering said, and an effort is being made to persuade all employes to join, so a closed shop may be requested in negotiations for a new agreement.

SENTENCE OF TWO MEN IN SPY TRIAL DEFERRED

Delayed to Permit Action to Test Ruling on What Endangers U. S. Defense.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Sentencing of two Russian-born men convicted yesterday of espionage was delayed today until March 20 to permit preparation of a legal fight to determine just what constitutes danger to the national defense under the Espionage Act of 1917.

Those convicted are Hafis Salich, 33 years old, naturalized American and former United States Naval Intelligence Service operative, and Mikhail Gorin, 34, Pacific Coast manager of Intourist, Soviet travel agency.

Salich was accused of selling to Gorin for $1700, presumably for transmission to Moscow, a series of 60 Navy reports on Japanese activities on the Pacific Coast. The defense contends the transaction did not endanger American defense and that Japan is a "common enemy" of Russia and the United States.

In setting the hearing, United States District Judge Ralph Jenney said, "There is a question of law involved in which the defendants are entitled to the opinion of the highest court in the land."

Judge Jenney admitted Gorin to $50,000 bail. Before being found guilty, Gorin was at liberty on $75,000 bond posted by the Russian Embassy. Salich has been imprisoned since his arrest for lack of a bond.

Gorin's wife, Natasha, 32, was acquitted.

U. S. Advised 15 Months Ago of Nazis' Rise in Air Power

American Program Delayed for Year After Army Observer at Berlin Gave Figures On German Plane Plants.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11. — A charge in Congress that American military observers were caught napping by Germany's sensational development of air power brought disclosure today that Lieutenant-Colonel Truman Smith, attache at Berlin, reported it 15 months ago.

Authoritative sources said Smith advised President Roosevelt and military observers in December, 1937, Germany already had outstripped France and Great Britain and warned against American "smugness."

During House debate on the $499,857,000 War Department appropriation bill, Representative Collins (Dem.), Mississippi, asserted the air expansion program was planned hurriedly because American military attaches in Europe had been "asleep on the job."

In rebuttal, parts of Smith's report, described as one of several from abroad which kept the administration well advised, were made public.

Why U. S. Program Was Delayed.

The administration's arms program was delayed for more than a year after receipt of Smith's report, it was said, because some officials took the view that immediate measures to keep the air forces more nearly abreast with developments abroad were not feasible since War Department estimates for the current fiscal year already had been prepared.

Giving his estimate as of Nov. 1, 1937, Smith termed the "astounding growth of German air power" in four years "one of the most important world events of our time." He reported Germany had 23 known aircraft concerns with 46 identified plants with a potential annual capacity of at least 6000 war planes. These were said to be supplemented by 13 motor concerns with at least 18 factories.

"The fact that the United States still leads in its air science and manufacturing skill must not be allowed to overshadow the German achievements between 1933 and 1937, and above all not to lead to an underestimate of what Germany will achieve in the future," Smith advised.

Reason for Nazi Advances.

Smith listed these among reasons for Germany's aviation advances:

1. The military aptitude of the Germany people.

2. Their technical and scientific skill.

3. The vision of Gen. (Hermann) Goering, who from the start planned a fantastically large air force and air industry and who at the same time possessed the energy to convert his plans into reality.

4. The unified direction and execution made possible by the dictatorial nature of the German Government.

FARLEY DENOUNCES CRITICS OF NEW DEAL POLICIES

At Postoffice Dedication in Los Angeles Upholds Use of Federal Credit in Relief.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, March 11. — There is not a shred of tangible evidence to support critics of national administration policy who "insist that industry would have jumped ahead to full capacity if President Roosevelt had only sat back, done nothing and let nature take its course," Postmaster-General James Farley said in a speech here today. "On the contrary it is plain to fair-minded people that industry, by its own efforts, never could have escaped from the wreckage of debts and bankruptcy left by the depression. For the President to refuse the use of the Federal credit to relieve the sufferings of the people would have been short-sighted and inhuman."

Farley spoke at the dedication of the new $6,000,000 Federal building and postoffice.

NEW JERSEY DOG BEST DACHSHUND AT SHOW

Champion Herman Rinkton Wins Early Event at Mississippi Valley Competition.

A trim, friendly dachshund, which was the runner-up in the American Kennel Club's competition for the best dog in the country last year, walked off with the early honors yesterday afternon as the twenty-seventh annual Mississippi Valley Kennel Club show get under way in Convention Hall, Municipal Auditorium.

Champion Herman Rinkton, owned by Mrs. Annis A. Jones of South Orange, N. J., had no trouble at all outranking the other dachshunds. After a brief period of waddling around, it got the nod of Judge Robert Alexander Ross, and took the ribbons for being both best of breed and the best dachshund in the show.

The nomenclature of Herman's lineage is impressive: by Achat von Werderhavelstrand out of Anny Rinkton. Herman will unquestionably be a serious contender for the title of best dog in the show, which will be decided at the closing session tonight.

"Lady and Her Dog" Event.

First place in a novelty event, "The Lady and Her Dog," was won last night by Miss Elizabeth Simpson, 1600 Big Bend boulevard. Dressed in a white Russian outfit, Miss Simpson led a big white Russian wolfhound through the exhibition space. Other nationalities represented in the event were Scotch, German, Chinese and English.

Four girls from Kirkwood High School took first place in a showmanship class. The team members were Betty Kinsella, Marian Shanely, Betty Virginia Cobb and Joan Thompson. Cocker Spaniels were displayed by the team.

In the competition for English Setters, Mossmore Mogul, owned by C. E. Van Slyke of Terre Haute, Ind., placed as the best male and best of breed. The best female was Mossmore Sally, owned by Arthur E. Behrens, Chicago.

Included among last night's winners were: Best chow, Ch Lu Tang Wing Sang, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Whipperman, Tinley-Park, Ill.; best Boston terrier, Pageant of Progress, owned by Mrs. M. E. English, St. Louis; best Doberman Pinscher, Black Knight of Kasselhaus, owned by Henry W. Kassel, Kansas City, and best Great Dane, Suzanne of Dane Tana, owned by Mrs. Lillian Lemon, Bedford, Ind.

561 Entries in Show.

There were almost more dogs than people in the large hall when the show opened yesterday morning, but as the day progressed the crowd increased. Entries in the show total 561. A brief spot of color was added to the afternoon program when the hound pack from Bridlespur Hunt Club, supervised by attendants in pink coats, gave an exhibition.

Among the golden retrievers, in which there was a fine field of entries, the title of best in the show was taken by Whitebridge Sally, owned by John K. Wallace, president of the Mississippi Valley Club. Whitebridge Sally was a recent winner in the large annual show in New York.

Another standout, although it had little competition, was Rex Beaver, adjudged best Chesapeake Bay retriever in the show. Rex Beaver is owned by Dr. John W. Hotz of St. Louis.

James O. Garman of Evansville, Ind., took all the honohs in the pointer class, his Herewithem Sunbeam being judged best female and best in show, and his Herewithem Pal getting the ribbon for best male.

A boxer with a very fancy name, Lisl von dom Blutnau of Tulgey Wood, owned by the Tulgey Wood Kennels of Chicago, won the title of best of its breed, beating out, among others, the dog with the longest name in the show, Hermes von Uracher Wasserfall Se Sumbula.

EXPRESS HIGHWAY REOPENED, MUD FROM STORM REMOVED

Inch of Rain in Hour Floods Railroad Tunnel From Eads Bridge and Many Basements.

The Express Highway, closed because of large deposits of mud washed onto the pavement in Forest Park by a heavy rain which began falling at 2 a. m. yesterday, was opened to traffic at noon, after Street Department crews removed the accumulations.

An inch of rain fell in the first hour of the storm. The railroad tunnel from Eads Bridge was flooded to a depth of 22 inches when sewer waters backed up at Ninth street and Clark avenue, with the result that trains from the Southeast, rerouted to Union Station over the riverfront tracks, were delayed 15 to 30 minutes. The tunnel was opened at 8 o'clock.

In several sections of the city and suburbs, yards and basements were flooded. Lightning struck a building at 11 North Jefferson avenue and a telephone pole in the 3300 block of Olive street. The total precipitation, up to 7 o'clock last night, was 1.31 inches.

"ANSCHLUSS" FLAGS PLANTED ON HILL AMID BRONX CHEERS

Borough President Wants Union With 5000 'Sudetens' Cut Off by Canal Route Change.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Braving a barrage of Bronx cheers, President James J. Lyons of the Borough of the Bronx staged today a one-man assault on Marble Hill to symbolize his demand for "anschluss" of what he contends are 5000 "Sudeten" Bronxites.

A recent change in the course of the Harlem ship canal, traditional boundary between the Bronx and Manhattan, cut off Marble Hill from Manhattan and made the 52-acre area geographically akin to the Bronx.

Lyons proposed annexation, but Marble Hill residents voted informally to remain Manhattanites.

Undaunted, Lyons gathered up the flags of the Bronx and the United States today, summoned his official chauffeur—one of Persing's World War drivers — and zoomed up Marble Hill to plant his banners on its crest, while scores leaned from apartment windows and booed.

HIGH SPEED BOMBER'S TEST

To Be Flown to Dayton, O., Today for Inspection.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, March 11.—A new high speed attack bomber will take off tomorrow from the Glenn L. Martin plant for Dayton, O., where it will be inspected by army engineers at Wright Field. The flight, originally set for today, was postponed because of bad weather.

The two-motored all-metal craft, one of three models to be submitted for Army Air Corps approval, has an 80-foot wingspread and a reported speed of 330 miles an hour. Martin executives indicated the plane was designed to fill a gap between heavy bombers and light pursuit ships, combining some of the features of both.

Man in Wheel Chair Urges Mail Ballots or Bedside Polls for 4,000,000.

From a wheelchair in his room at Missouri Baptist Hospital, Ben M. Loewenstein, a retired real estate dealer who suffered a crippling hip injury five years ago, is conducting a campaign to procure passage of uniform laws providing voting arrangements for shut-ins.

More than 4,000,000 persons in the country are virtually disfranchised on election days because they cannot get up from their beds and go to the polls, Loewenstein learned in a survey. He is pointing this out in letters to Senators, Representatives, Governors and other political leaders.

"Shut-ins pay taxes, are subject to the country's laws, and discharge all regular duties of citizens, but they are denied the right to participate in their government," he points out, adding with emphasis that "such an imposition is taxation without representation."

Only nine states provide for registration and voting by physically disabled persons; and of the remaining 39 states, 15 have laws permitting shut-ins to vote by mail if previously registered, while 24 make no provisions whatever, Loewenstein learned. This means, he declares, that between 3,500,000 and 6,000,000 potential voters are denied the ballot on any given election day. His figures on confined persons were supplied by the American Medical Association.

Loewenstein said the plight of the shut-ins was brought home to him during his long convalescence. "Most of these unfortunates," he said, "would be independent voters, and certainly they are well informed on candidates and issues, having an abundance of time for study of political questions. They deserve a champion who will put their predicament before the legislators, and that's what I intend to do."

They deserve a champion who will put their predicament before the legislators, and that's what I intend to do."

In his letters he proposes that measures be adopted providing arrangements for shut-ins to vote by mail or for special ballot boxes to be taken to their bedsides.

Under the former plan, ballots would be sent to them by registered mail. To prevent fraud, election officials would compare the signatures on the ballots with signatures on the receipts for the letters. Under the second plan, election officials would send clerks and judges to the shut-ins during idle periods of election day with a special ballot box. Upon return to the polling place, the ballots would be transferred to the regular box.

FRENCH TROOPS TO LATAKIA

Sent to Put Down Uprising of Syrian Separatists.

By the Associated Press.

DAMASCUS, Syria, March 11.—French troops were dispatched today to the autonomous Latakia zone to put down an uprising of Alauite Christian separatists which centered in the Akra Mountains near the coast between Antioch and the City of Latakia.

The Alauite zone, as well as the Jebel Druze and Dejr ez Zor regions, have been centers of protest against the Government of French mandated Syria.

ALTON GIANT TO ASK FOR NEW TRIAL OF SUIT

Says He Is Shocked at Jury's Verdict in $100,000 Damage Action.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 11.—Robert Wadlow, Alton (Ill.) giant, whose suit to collect $100,000 libel damages for an article written by Dr. Charles Humberd, Barnard, Mo., was rejected by a jury, left here today after instructing his attorneys to file a motion for a new trial.

Before leaving, Wadlow, 21 years old and eight feet, eight inches tall, said "I'm not quitting this fight now" and wrote the following statement in pencil:

"I am greatly shocked at the verdict of the jury, particularly the special findings of the jury. I have told my attorneys to file a motion for a new trial. I am not through fighting. Of course, I realize that the American Medical Association was the power behind the defense of Dr. Humberd. I am still fighting the influence of that powerful medical organization. I am going to carry on and take my fight to the people to whom I have always been indebted for their kindness and consideration. They have given me a lot of encouragement.

"I want to also thank the press for the fine co-operation they have always given me. I have never had any fight from the press. From past experience I am sure I never will have.

"ROBERT P. WADLOW."

Wadlow's mention of the jury's "special findings" apparently referred to six statements which, Judge Merrill F. Otis in his instructions said, if not true, were in and of themselves defamatory. The jury by its findings apparently found the statements to which Wadlow objected to be true in its members' opinion.

Wadlow's suit was based on an article by Dr. Humberd in the journal of the American Medical Association, and his counsel said they were preparing to try a similar case against the association.

BRIDGE WORKERS THREATEN STRIKE ON CHICAGO P W A JOBS

To Walk Out on Projects Unless They Get Subway Work; Jurisdictional Dispute.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 11. — The Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union served notice today that unless its men were allowed to lay the steel reinforcing rods on the Chicago subway project a strike would be called on all PWA projects in the county at 4:30 p. m. Monday.

The union made its demands known to the city, the Public Works Administration and the Herlihy Mid-Continent Co., contractors for the first section of the $40,000,000 subway system.

D. R. Kennicott, regional director of the PWA, assumed an attitude of watchful waiting. A spokesman for him said the PWA was bound by its contracts and would not enter the controversy, at least until after a strike was in effect.

There are 17 big PWA projects in Cook County, including seven school projects.

Frank J. Herlihy, construction firm head, said he had an agreement with the Tunnel Workers' Union and had no authority to deal with any other union until a jurisdictional dispute between that union and the bridge and iron workers is settled. Both unions are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

OIL MAN'S LODGE BEQUESTS GIVEN BY COURT TO GRANDSON

Surrogate Holds Masonic Bodies Are Incapable of Receiving General Legacies.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Bequests left by Charles H. Rathbone, Pennsylvania oil man, to four Masonic lodges, will go instead to Rathbone's grandson, Charles H. Rathbone III.

Surrogate James A. Delehanty ruled today that the grandson should receive four-tenths of the residuary estate, variously estimated at between $1,500,000 and $3,000,000, although he was not mentioned in the will.

The Surrogate held that the four organizations designated in the codicil were legal non-entities and legally incapable of receiving general legacies since their purposes were not primarily charitable, or that they were unincorporated organizations.

The organizations are the Northern Star Lodge, No. 555, Free and Accepted Masons, Duke Center, Pa,; Trinity Commandery No. 56, Knights Templar, Bradford, Pa.; New Mexico Consistory, No. 1, Santa Fe. N. M., and Syria Temple of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, Pittsburgh, Pa. Specific gifts of $5000 each to these lodges, however, were upheld.

STRANGERS TO PLAY TWINS IN FILM 'GONE WITH THE WIND'

Californian, 23, and New Orleans Resident, 20, Look Enough Alike for Parts.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 11.—After dozens of interviews and comparisons of photographs, two young actors resembling each other enough to play the roles of the twins, Brent and Stuart Tarleton, in "Gone With the Wind" have been signed, the studio announced today.

The two are George Bessolo, 23 years old, of Ashland, Ky., who has been in California for 10 years, and Fred Crane, 20, from New Orleans. Neither has appeared in pictures before.

CITY ELECTION DATE FALLS ON PASSOVER

Orthodox Jews Object but Board Points Out Day, April 4, Is Set by Law.

The Board of Election Commissioners has informed Orthodox Jews that no change can be made in the date of the city election April 4, even though that is the first day of the Jewish Passover, as dates of all elections are fixed by law.

Rabbi Haim F. Epstein, chief rabbi of the United Orthodox Jewish Community of St. Louis had requested a change. His letter said:

"It was called to my attention that the next city election is scheduled for April 4. That date happens to be the first day of the Jewish Passover and would prevent many orthodox Jews from participating in the election.

"I would, therefore, appreciate it very much if you could possibly change the election date for another day. Let me inform you also that Tuesday, April 11, also happens to be a Jewish holiday."

The letter was presented at a meeting of the board, which directed the folowing reply to the rabbi:

"Dates of all elections are fixed by law and the board has no alternative but to follow the law. The board deeply regrets the fact that the forthcoming election conflicts with that of your religious holiday, thus preventing members of your faith from participating in the election."

Move to Give Chicago Jews Absentee Ballot.

CHICAGO, March 11.—Emergency legislation was planned yesterday to enable thousands of Orthodox Jews to vote in the mayoral election on April 4, the first day of the Passover.

During that day they are prohibited from engaging in any secular activity by religious laws.

Senator A. L. Marovitz said an amendment to the absentee voters laws was contemplated to permit them to vote in advance of the election.

Notables at R. L. Hague Funeral.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Many Broadway celebrities attended the funeral today of Robert L. Hague, 59 years old, vice-president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and noted theatrical "angel," who died Wednesday. Among the mourners were former Mayor and Mrs. James J. Walker, Sophie Tucker, Victor Moore, William Gaxton, Mary Lewis, Metropolitan Opera soprano, estranged wife of Hague, and Harold G. Hoffman, former Governor of New Jersey. His mother, Mrs. Harriet D. Hague, who flew here from Tucson, Ariz., and Edith Bobe, one of his four former wives, also attended.

JAPANESE REPORT KILLING 3500 CHINESE

Assert 20,000 Were Wounded in Fighting in Hupeh Province.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, March 11.—A Japanese report today says 3500 Chinese were killed in the invaders' offensive through central Hupeh Province in the last two weeks. They said more than 20,000 Chinese were wounded.

Japanese columns pushed northward today toward Siangyang and Fancheng, 175 air miles northwest of Hankow, and attempted to cross the Han with their objectives the important Yangtze River cities of Ichang and Shasi.

Six Japanese divisions, comprising 125,000 troops, spread through mountainous Shansi Province in an effort to complete a year-long campaign against isolated bodies of Chinese troops.

800 Japanese Reported Killed.

The Chinese admitted the loss of Tsinglo, an important point 60 miles northwest of Taiyuan, but reported they had killed 300 invaders. Other engagements in the area were said by Chinese to have resulted in 500 Japanese deaths.

Chinese guerrilla forces remained active in North China, continuing daily raids on Japanese posts. Twenty Japanese soldiers were killed in a guerrilla raid on Taierhchwang, Shantung Province village.

Other guerrillas attacked Japanese at Pankuti, West Shantung, inflicted 100 casualties and seized rifles and machine guns.

The German Consul-General lodged a protest with the Japanese Consulate-General against the seizure by Japanese troops on March 2 of cotton mills across the river from Shanghai. A German firm had purchased the mills from Chinese owners shortly after the war began and had operated them.

New Demands at Shanghai.

Fu Siao-en, Mayor of the Japanese-sponsored Greater Shanghai government, presented demands to the International Settlement Council and foreign consuls for greater participation in the settlement's administration.

He demanded that the Chinese District Court and Land Office in the Settlement be handed over to his Government, that the Settlement prohibit the flying of Chinese flags and that steps be taken to eradicate terrorist activities against officials and sympathizers of the Japanese-sponsored Government.

Meanwhile, a detail of Japanese police and detectives was reported to have left the American defense sector of the Settlement when an American marine patrol informed them they could take no independent action in the settlement. Spectators said the patrol came upon the Japanese and several Settlement police inside the American defense sector. It was believed the Japanese had intended to investigate the home of an official of the Japanese-sponsored reformed Government's Tax Bureau.

SOUTHERN TENANT FARMERS' UNION QUITS C I O AFFILIATE

Executive Committee Acts After Referendum of Members Favors Withdrawal.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 11.—Southern Tenant Farmers' Union headquarters announced today the union's immediate withdrawal from the United Cannery, Agricultural Packing and Allied Workers of America, affiliate of the CIO.

The Tenant Farmers' Union stated its executive committee voted the withdrawal after a referendum vote of members showed an "overwhelming" majority favored it. J. R. Butler, president, in a written statement said:

"In September, 1937, we asked for affiliation with the CIO. It was arranged that we should affiliate with the United Cannery Union as an autonomous section with full power over our own actions and administrative self government. This arrangement has been constantly violated by Donald Henderson, president of the United Cannery Union, and his Communist-dominated executive board in their desire to rule the Tenant Farmers' Union."

Butler and other union officials met with Henderson in Washington earlier this week, the statement said, but could reach no agreement.

ARBITER RULES LONGSHOREMEN SHOULD PASS CHINESE PICKETS

Dock Workers Held to Violate Contract by Not Loading Iron on Ship for Japan.

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 11.—Samuel B. Weinstetin, Federal arbiter, ruled today that longshoremen refusing to pass a Chinese picket line to load 7500 tons of scrap iron for shipment to Japan had violated their contract with the Waterfront Employers' Association.

Weinstein's decision came after the Greek freighter Ann Stathance had been in port for eight days waiting for longshoremen to load it. The Chinese protested on the grounds scrap shipped to Japan was for war materials.

The effect of the ruling will not be known until longshore gangs are dispatch to the vessel tomorrow.

Meantime, Tsuako Kawabata, Japanese Consulate Attache, said a protest plawed with Astoria Port officials yesterday against closing of the port to scrap iron shipments was made under nistructions from the Japanese Government.

Preparations to launch this new low-priced car were begun four years ago, Stowers said. During the meeting a two-reel movie depicted processes in the manufacture of the new car and the severe tests it has been put through. Following the showing of this picture, A. R. Lindburg, president of A. R. Lindburg, Inc., the Studebaker distributer, spoke. Other factory executives present at the meeting were Courtney Johnson, who is widely known in the industry and is Studebaker supervisor of branches, and C. F. Watson of the truck division.

Stewart, Inc., who is treasurer and a director of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, was the principal speaker at a recent meeting of the Automobile Salesmen's Association at the Hamilton Hotel which was attended by 355 retail auto salesmen and their dealer guests. Taking as his topic "What Is Wrong With the Automobile Business," Stewart spoke from the experience of 25 years at retailing and wholesaling cars, emphasizing the need for close cooperation and understanding between factory, distributer, dealer and salesmen. He said he was optimistic as to the future of the industry and that he believed the retailing of autos would steadily attract men of greater sales experience and higher character. It was stated at the meeting that the Automobile Salesmen's Association now has about 500 members.

PREDICTING RECORD TOURist auto travel for the spring and summer, R. W. McDowell, Tulsa, Ok., vice-president in charge of sales for the Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation, announced a new solvent processed Diamond 760 motor oil at a meeting of more than 250 distributers, dealers, service men and salesmen held at the De Soto Hotel Friday night. L. V. Surtees, Terra Haute, Ind., Eastern division manager, was another speaker. J. S. Gifford, Terre Haute, tank car sales manager of the same division, was in charge of the meeting. Two movies, "Riding the Film" and "No Motor Too Hot" were shown. The latter was taken last month at the Mid-Continent refinery to show how the new motor oil is made and why it has what is described as "free-rolling ball bearing action." M. C. Shipley, advertising manager, and A. P. McGrath, sales promotion manager, both of Tulsa, explained the corporation's sales and promotion plans and a newspaper campaign announcing the new oil as a companion to the corporation's D-X lubricating gasoline.

A GAIN OF 150 PER CENT IN Nash car sales in this territory in the first 20 days of February as compared with the same 20 days in 1938 is reported by L. M. Sprinkle, president of Nash St. Louis Co., the distributor. Nationally, in the first 20 days of February, sales of new Nash cars followed the same sharp upward trend, he said, with sales for the period this year 33 per cent above those of the same period in 1938. "As a result of public interest in new cars and of Nash's nation-wide spring sales campaign, launched Feb. 10, a month earlier than usual, the company's dealer organization is well on its way toward its goal of 175,000 new car demonstrations for the two-month period of the drive," he said. "The demonstrations are built around Nash's new 'Weather Eye' system of conditioned air for winter driving, which makes it possible automatically to maintain any desired comfort level within the car regardless of how cold the weather is outside."

C. A. CLARK, ST. LOUIS zone manager for Chevrolet, is completing preparations for an all-day meeting here tomorrow at which Felix Doran Jr., assistant general sales manager in charge of the Western half of the United States, will outline the company's sales program for the coming months. The meeting will open at 10 a. m., with a luncheon for dealers set for 12:15 and an afternoon session. The meeting will be one of six this month in the Midwest region which Doran will attend. Clark said that the meetings had been arranged for laying before Chevrolet dealers the latest facts bearing on auto retailing operations and the basis for expecting prospects substantially better than at this time last year.

USING A NEW MACHINE DEsigned by General Motors Proving Grounds engineers for precision tests of auto brakes by replacing the driver's foot by a robot device, the Oldsmobile "Sixty" was declared the champion decelerator of 12 different makes of autos. The device is operated by compressed air to exert identical pressure on all brake pedals. In the test, at 50 miles per hour, a fifth wheel speedometer was used to make sure that brakes on all cars were applied at exactly the same car speed.

BUICK IS REPRESENTED AT the San Francisco World's Fair by special displays featuring its valve-in-head straight eight engines, coil spring rear suspension, hydraulic brakes, new transmission gear shift, safety direction signal and other design, structural and safety items incorporated in the 1939 cars.

A FORD MOTOR CO. EXHIBIT at the San Francisco World's Fair shows a model of the by-products division. In a cement plant, slag from the blast furnaces at the Rouge plant is converted into Portland cement. In coke and by-products ovens, coal is changed into coke, gas, coal tar and light oils. In the foreground of the exhibit, is a reproduction of part of the 100 miles of railroad in the Ford plant area, and in the background are models of the coal, ore and limestone bins alongside the slip where Ford lake ships tie up to discharge their cargoes.

By the Associated Press.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 11.—A man told a Judge today that he robbed church poor boxes to educate his son for the clergy.

The defendant, Emil Doglio, 52 years old, of New York, was accused of taking $40 from the poor box of the Sacred Heart Church at nearby Duryea.

"That's true," he told Judge Michael F. McDonald. "I sent the money home to educate my son. I want him to be a minister."

Doglio was sentenced to five to 10 years.

Gus A. Schuldt, Ex-Judge, Dies.

CONGRESS MUST ACT ON T V A UTILITY DEAL

Broadening of Law Found to Be Necessary to $78,000,000 Purchase.

By the Associated Press.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 11.—Consummation of the proposed $78,600,000 purchase of Commonwealth & Southern Corporation electric properties by TVA and Tennessee municipalities hinged largely today on congressional approval of amendments broadening TVA's powers.

This unexpected and apparent barrier to the deal ending five years' conflict between TVA and private utilities further complicated the problems of negotiators at Chattanooga who are drafting contracts for the purchase of the properties by TVA and participating municipalities.

Senator Norris (Ind.), Nebraska, said in Washington he would introduce the necessary "clarifying legislation" to permit consummation of the purchase agreement reached last month. He said certain "technical changes" were necessary in the TVA act.

TVA Director James P. Pope said in Knoxville there was a doubt that the TVA act was sufficiently broad to cover all the ramifications of the C. & S. purchase. He pointed out that existing statutes permit TVA to develop power, navigation and other facilities only on the Tennessee River and its tributaries, while the projected sale involves the purchase of a generating plant at Great Falls Dam on a tributary of the Cumberland River, as well as other generating plants.

The TVA act permits the issuance of bonds with the same privileges of Panama Canal bonds, the TVA spokesman said, adding the Treasury Department had objected to certain provisions in the canal securities.

"The question has been raised," he said, "as to whether it would not be best to have Congress remove possible objectionable features of the bonds, since they must be submitted to the Treasury Department."

The Authority, while no definite decision has been made, probably will finance its $44,000,000 part of the utility purchase by issuing its own bonds.

CLYDE BEATTY ANIMAL ACT BOOKED FOR POLICE CIRCUS

Clyde Beatty and his entire wild animal act will head the list of 75 attractions scheduled this year for the Police Circus, which will be held at the Arena April 14 to 23, inclusive. Beatty yesterday signed a contract to appear, it was announced today by Police Captain Arthur L. McGuire.

Among the other acts are the Zacchini Brothers, known as "The Human Cannonballs"; Herman Ostermaier and his horses, Walter Guice's aerial performers and Dorothy Herbert, equestrienne. Proceeds of the circus each year go to the Police Relief Association.

SOME ALIENS W P A DROPPED ARE SUBJECT TO DEPORTATION

Most of 30,000, However, Likely to Become Public Charges, Officials Think.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Immigration officials said today some of the 30,000 aliens dropped from WPA rolls under new relief legislation would be subject to deportation as public charges. They added, however, the number would be comparatively small under provisions of the law requiring the deportation of aliens unable to provide their own support within five years after entering this country.

Bureau officials said that the majority of those dropped from the WPA lists had been in this country for much more than the specified five-year period and instead of facing deportation would become a relief problem for states, cities and counties.

PLANES FOR BRITISH LEAD ARMS EXPORTS

$7,115,000 Worth Authorized in February — $5,000,000 Order for France.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The State Department said today permits were issued in February for the export to Great Britain of war planes costing $7,115,600. A $5,000,000 order went to France.

Reflecting recent new British and French orders for American military aircraft, the permits represented most of a total of $16,239,396 in arms exports authorized last month. Other big items included grenades, bombs and other explosives costing $1,265,000 for Rumania and miscellaneous aircraft and arms valued at $714,148 for the Netherlands East Indies.

Chinese orders, as indicated by the permits, fell off to $160,299. Japan purchased nothing.

The export permits must be obtained before foreign arms shipments are permitted. Actual exports during February aggregated $6,425,077, increasing the value of arms shipments abroad since Jan. 1 to $11,002,337.

Licenses issued since the first of the year have a total value of $22,513,917. British arms purchases in this country, virtually all military aircraft, have amounted to $11,711,030 since Jan. 1 and licenses have been issued for shipments valued at $5,594,428 to France.

Among Latin American nations, Brazil obtained licenses for the export of arms, including aircraft, valued at $239,768, increasing orders since Jan. 1 to $390,013.

Pleads Guilty of Killing.

By the Associated Press.

JUNCTION CITY, Kan., March 11.—Herman Benkula pleaded guilty of murder today in the killing of John Langvardt, Junction City motor car salesman, March 3, and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Benkula, who had posed as a prospective customer, struck the salesman on the head with a tire tool, took his bill fold, pushed the body from the car and drove away.

Missouri Legislature Has Passed One Constructive Act in 10 Weeks; Little Promise of Doing Much More Following Old Custom of Failing to Substitute Efficiency for Politics in Conduct of Public Business.

By CURTIS A. BETTS

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 11.

ALTHOUGH the Sixtieth Missouri Legislature has been in session 10 weeks, it has to its credit only one piece of actually constructive legislation—the Social Security bills, which it passed a week ago, but only under the strongest pressure of the Federal Social Security Board. The Federal board had told the Legislature it would not release $2,000,000 of Federal aid to the State for old age pensions and would make no further grants until the bills were passed.

Up to this time, the Legislature's record gives little promise of the enactment of any important laws looking to an improvement in the public service.

It now appears that, when it adjourns, about three months hence, the best that can be said for it will be that, while it accomplished little that was good, it did the State no great harm. While it has been defeating, or putting to death, through the slow processes of delay, the few constructive measures which have been introduced, it also has shown a disinclination to rush through bills designed to weaken existing laws.

An Old Missouri Custom.

In other words, it is following the Missouri legislative custom of doing nothing toward a substitution of efficiency for politics in the conduct of the State government, or toward keeping up with the progressive legislation of other states.

It is now virtually certain that, through this Legislature, there will be no survey looking to a reorganization of governmental departments to reduce the present admittedly wanton waste, no reform of the antiquated criminal code, no civil service system adopted, no removal of the courts from the control of the politicians, no constructive revision of the election laws, no solution of the problem faced by the State Highway Department in the construction and maintenance of highways, now that bond-issue funds have been exhausted, nor a solving of the truck transportation problem from the standpoint of the public interest.

On Plane of the Past.

It is on a plane with most Legislatures of the past, no better and probably no worse. In the Senate there is a small group which continues fighting for improved government, but it is usually overwhelmed by the reactionary Casey-Kinney-Brogan oligarchy, whose following is replenished each session by the weaker of the new Senators but sufficiently replenished to continue it in control.

Proceedings in the House frequently have all the characteristics of the action of a rioting mob.

There is this year a renewed disregard of the public interest, to which has been attributed the absence of public confidence resulting in the repeated refusal by the voters to approve proposals for adequate compensation for the members of the Legislature.

In a session inaugurated by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark with the admonition to pursue a policy of closest economy because of need of all available funds for old age pensions, relief and the actual governmental needs, there is a flood of bills for salary increases, ranging from a 33 1-3 per cent increase for Supreme Judges and Judges of the Courts of Appeals, through employes of several of the State departments, on down to constables in some counties.

Fast on Salary Boosting.

These salary boosting bills encounter few delays in their progress through the Legislature, but the bill to create a Civil Service Commission, under which employes would be chosen on merit instead of on politics, is resting in the House committee to which it was referred more than three weeks ago.

There are the customary number of "sandbaggers"—bills introduced by a small minority of members in an only slightly concealed attempt to force in some manner the hands of public utilities or other business interests which would be adversely affected by their passage. In some cases these bills have merit. But the records of members who introduce them usually are a clew to their purpose. The legislative custom of permitting a member to abandon a bill he has introduced, and that no other member shall supplant him in handling it, is a strong aid to this type of legislative legerdemain.

The Legislature took two months to pass the Social Security bills, although the Federal Social Security Board withheld allotments for old-age pensions from the State pending their passage, and although there probably was not a member of the Legislature who did not know from the beginning of the session that the bills would be passed eventually in the exact form demanded by the Federal Board.

Pensioners Kept Waiting.

While 76,000 old-age pensioners waited over two pension pay-days without their money, a few legislators, playing politics, delayed passage of the bills, courting the votes of the "chiselers" who would be removed from the rolls under the regulations which would follow the new law. Some of the opponents undoubtedly were sincere in their opposition, believing the regulations too strict, but in the main the opposition was a display of demagogic politics.

The only other measure of more than minor importance enacted so far is an amendment to the Small Loan law under which the usury laws of the State are waived to permit licensed small loan companies to make loans of $300 or less to persons who could not qualify for regular bank loans. The purpose of the amendment was to bring under the law the unlicensed salary buyers, who take assignments of salary for the loans they make, and who frequently charge interest rates as high as 240 per cent a year.

But, in enacting this amendment, the Legislature permitted the small loan companies to increase their authorized interest rate one-half per cent a month, from 2½ per cent to 3 per cent, on loans of less than $100, demanded by the companies on the representation that they could not operate profitably on the 2½ per cent rate and that, because of their hesitancy in accepting such loans, borrowers were driven to lenders operating illegally.

St. Louis Housing Bills.

The housing bills, proposed by Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann of St. Louis, under which slum clearance through mass housing enterprises with Federal funds was contemplated, are in a bad way. Rushed through the House a month ago, the bills encountered rough going in the Senate Committee on Municipal Corporations, the committee agreeing to amendments which would virtually kill the effectiveness of the measures if they should be finally passed.

Creation of a housing authority by the Board of Aldermen, which was directed in the original bill on a petition of 50 taxpayers, is made discretionary by the amendments, and the number of petitioners required is increased to a number of taxpayers equal to 5 per cent of the vote cast in the previous election. This would mean getting between 15,000 and 20,000 signatures of taxpayers. Even then the housing authority, if created, could not function until the proposal had been submitted to the voters of the city at a special election.

Truck regulation and licensing will be worked out in some form, but present indications are that a bill prepared by the truck companies in their own interest will be

How Massachusetts' Martin Directs Effective Minority

HE SCORES AGAINST MAJORITY IN THE HOUSE

An Active Organizer, He Has Kept His 169 Republicans on the Floor and Has Achieved Some Notable Successes.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON March 11.

THE 169 Republicans in the House are under the surveillance this session of an exacting boss. Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts has so strengthened morale and discipline in his ranks that while the Democratic majority is still nearly a hundred the Republicans have several times brought about the defeat of pet administration measures.

In Joe Martin's personality there is nothing of the drill sergeant, the regimenter. Outwardly easy-going, he rules the minority by a good-natured insistence that every man must do a job; and what is more he has been finding jobs for his Republicans to do this session, keeping them ahead of what is happening in the House.

There is no whip-cracking under the Martin regime but nevertheless approximately 169 Republicans attend every meeting of the House ready for a rollcall or they have a sound alibi for not answering when their names are called.

With Eye on 1940, G. O. P. Knows It Is on Good Behavior

Partly, of course, Martin owes his success with the minority, as he is quick to acknowledge, to the general resurgence that is sweeping through the Grand Old Party all over the country. The prospect of victory in 1940 has put the minority partly self-consciously on its good behavior. They are rather like small boys who have been told that if only they'll be quiet and remember their manners for a little while longer, it will soon be their turn on the roller coaster. Wordly wise Democrats are inclined to attribute Republican attendance in the House to the fact that 80 members of the minority are brand new and naturally think that if they miss a session, the nation will collapse with a loud bang.

"But the older Republicans answer to roll call, too," says Martin proudly.

Above all Martin is a realist in politics. He does not take too seriously the current alarms and excursions over issues and ideologies. Nor does he believe that the future of the world turns on the victory or defeat of any one party.

"You've got to look at these things realistically," he says. "It changes, opinion changes throughout the country, and one party goes out and the other party comes in. Now it looks as if we have a very good chance in 1940. We may come in and we'll stay in two or three terms. Or we may stay in only one term because we'll come in with an awful mess on our hands."

Dyed-in-Wool Republican Criticism of the New Deal

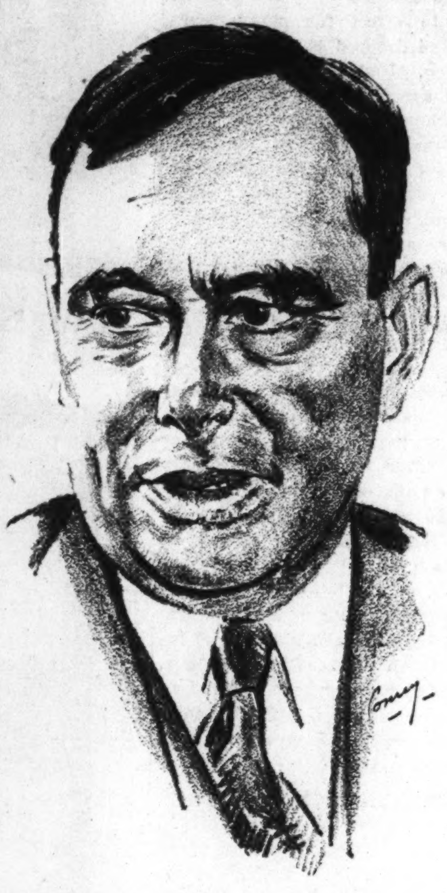
This comfortable, philosophic point of view it at the bottom of Martin's politics, but it does not deter him, as a party man, from working tirelessly to put his party into power. A New Englander, a dyed-in-the-wool Republican, he deeply mistrusts the New Deal experiments.

"What does it come down to?" says Martin. "They've been in office seven years now and you've still got the unemployed. People on relief don't want to be on relief. I know the average American and what he wants is a job so that he can keep his family decently and comfortably. They've had seven years of this and they're ready to try something else.

"I was up in Fall River the other day and it was a holiday. I met a man I'd known there, a former mill hand. He came down the street with his two children. They were neatly but poorly dressed; you could see they were poor. And I said to him, 'well, Bill, how're things with you now?'

"'They're not going so well,' he said to me. 'I'm out of a job and I'm on the WPA. But how can a man be satisfied with that? Here's a holiday and I've got these two kids of mine but what can I do for them except to take 'em up town and let 'em watch the parade?' There was a man on relief, on the WPA, but he voted the Republican ticket. It wasn't enough, he wasn't satisfied, and no man is."

When it comes down to what the Republicans have to offer in place of the New Deal, Martin is less specific, as are most Republicans. He thinks confidence, "real confidence," on the part of business would "take up a lot of the slack."



JOSEPH W. MARTIN JR.

"The administration is talking now about helping business," Martin says, "but they've talked that way before and it takes more than talk; it takes action, too."

When Martin talks with the mill hands in his district, he speaks their language and not by acquisition but by inheritance. His father was a blacksmith. Although he was born 54 years ago in North Attleboro, there is a burr of the old country in his speech, a relic of the tide of Scotch-Irish immigrants who poured into Massachusetts' textile area in the last century.

Old Families and Newest in Massachusetts Politics

The blacksmith's son, who has forged a political career without benefit of Harvard or the Back Bay, was given the top honor of his life the other day when the Republican Women's Club of Massachusetts tendered him a banquet. Nearly 1200 men and women, among them the leaders in politics and business in the state, the Saltonstalls, the Lodges, the Lowells and their numerous descendants, sat down to honor this son of present day New England. Unassuming, with a genuine modesty, Martin was nevertheless pleased by this tribute.

It is one of the curious features of New England politics, Martin explains, that the new voters, the Italians, Portuguese, and Poles who followed the Irish and the Scots, are to be found in the party of the Lodges and the Lowells. Representative George Holden Tinkham, who comes from aristocratic Beacon Hill in Boston, has been sent to Congress for 12 successive terms, thanks in no small part to the votes of Italians in his district. Representative Richard B. Wigglesworth, descendant of an old Puritan family, is elected from a district in which there are a large number of foreign born.

"In my district I've got a lot of old Yankee stock," Martin says. "My district goes right up to Plymouth Rock, you see: it includes most of the old Massachusetts Bay Colony. But we all get along together up there."

Newspaper Work, Business, Legislature, Then Congress

After he was graduated from high school, Martin got a job on the North Attleboro Evening Chronicle. The paper was in a declining state and after a few years Joe showed his ability as a promoter and organizer by persuading some local business men to put up the money to buy it. Under his control and operation it has long been profitable and he is today the principal owner.

Martin also owns an insurance firm. He laughs at the suggestion that perhaps his political influence might mean business for the company and thereby put it into competition with young James Roosevelt's firm in Boston.

"No, we don't do that kind of business," he says. It's just a local company."

When he is at home, he lives with his mother and sister in a house that is situated not far from where he was born.

Deeply Mistrustful of New Deal Experimentation, but Not in Opposition to Administration Just for Sake of Opposition.

Politically he began his rise by way of the Massachusetts Legislature. In 1912 he served a term in the State House of Representatives and in 1914 he was elected to the State Senate. Serving on political committees he proved himself a useful man to the party. In 1925 he was elected to Congress for the first time, defeating his Democratic opponent 33,360 to 23,764. He has been re-elected every two years, acquiring a position of prominence in his party in the House.

Last autumn, with the retirement of Bertrand H. Snell, who had taken the job of minority leader with the humorous indifference that it merited in the days when House Republicans numbered fewer than a hundred, it was time to choose a new leader, Martin had no real rival. His only announced competitor was Representative James W. Wadsworth of New York. Wadsworth has had in many respects a broader political experience than Martin, having served two terms in the Senate, but he lacks Martin's warm personality, his aggressiveness and political astuteness and it was almost a foregone conclusion that the post would go to the Bay Stater.

Works Like Football Coach in Teamplay and Strategy

Since taking over as minority leader, Martin has called frequent morning meetings of his Republicans. Like a football coach with his team he discusses strategy and general policy. To help the newcomers familiarize themselves with important measures, he has appointed special committees to study pending legislation. One of the most important of these committees, made up of 17 Representatives from various parts of the country, is considering the special emergency powers held by the President, many of which expire this year. The committee chairmen make their reports at the meetings of the whole Republican membership which Martin calls at least once a fortnight.

"We're not in opposition just for the sake of opposition," Martin says. "That isn't the idea. We're trying to be honestly constructive. We want to judge every measure on its own merits. For that reason we have to be informed."

As an illustration of his political tact, Martin named his rival for the leadership, Wadsworth, to the chairmanship of the committee considering the stand of the minority on preparedness and national defense. It was a good appointment in more ways that one since Wadsworth was a ranking member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee during the World War.

Martin's real achievement is to keep his membership on the floor while the House is in session. This means that they are on hand for teller and division votes when members of the House are not recorded by name but merely vote by show of hands or by marching past tellers. Majority Leader Sam Rayburn finds it far more difficult to keep his seasoned veterans on the floor and ready for such votes.

Gilbertsville Dam Vote One of His Big Successes

The most effective show of Republican strength came when the minority succeeded in knocking the Gilbertsville dam out of the Tennessee Valley Authority appropriation. This was done on a teller vote. Administration leaders were afraid to demand a roll call, doubting whether they could muster sufficient strength. It was not until the Senate had restored the Gilbertsville dam to the appropriation bill that the Democrats forced a roll call vote and agreed to put it back.

His Democratic foes have a high respect for Martin's ability; they have been careful not to force too many important roll calls. But they say that the real test of how tightly he can hold his minority is still to come. On such a vital issue as expanding old-age pensions it will perhaps be more difficult to hold them in line.

"Well, that may be true," Martin concedes. "But we've stuck together pretty well so far and on some important things. On the TVA bill only six of the minority voted for Gilbertsville. And two of the dams were to be built in Republican districts. You have to remember that. On the fortification of Guam only seven or eight of the minority went off the reservation as I recall it (the Congressional Record shows that 15 Republicans voted to fortify the Island of Guam in accord with President Roosevelt's request) and that was in spite of the fact that a Republican took an active part in fighting for the bill.

"We don't want to compel anyone to vote one way or the other. That's not it. If a

Brookings Institution Report Analyzes Pending Proposals For Government Reorganization

Without Committing Themselves, Authors Appear to Favor Curtailment of Activities Plus Continuing Readjustment.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 11.

FOR the guidance of officials and mere citizens the Brookings Institution published this week a study of the proposed reorganizations of the National Government. Lucid, authoritative and impartial, it sharply defines the issues and exposes the loose thinking hidden in the congressional debates on this controversial subject.

The title of the work is "Reorganization of the National Government: What Does It Involve?" It sells for $2 and could well be used as a college elementary textbook on the functions and activities of the ever-expanding Federal agencies which, with Washington as their headquarters, and the President and Congress as their directors, are spreading, often overlapping, over the length and breadth of the land.

The authors are Lewis Meriam, chairman of the Institution's Institute of Government Research, and Dr. L. F. Schmeckebier, author of many books and pamphlets on governmental agencies and the former chief of a Department of Commerce research division.

3 Types of Reorganization.

The 272-page book makes a clear distinction between the three types of reorganization Congress could authorize:

1. A purely "structural reorganization," sometimes called more "shuffling of bureaus," such as contemplated by the Warren-Cochran bill in the House. While increased efficiency might result from this "streamlining," the savings would be comparatively negligible when placed beside the past and current deficits and the huge national debt.

2. Reorganization for curtailment of governmental functions and activities. This, says the study, is a major policy question to be decided by the President or the Congress or both. It offers great possibilities in efficiency and economy, provided the administration in power is willing to cut its expenditures to the cloth of its income. This proposal fits in with the economy program of Senator Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, but it does not answer President Roosevelt's often repeated challenge: "What fuctions and what agencies would you abolish or curtail?" The Brookings authors merely recommend a thorough study of this problem and do not attempt to tell how the recommendations, if made, could be pushed through a Congress which yells "Economy" from one side of the mouth and votes "aye" on larger appropriations bills from the other side.

3. Continuous reorganization by the President and Congress by giving the Budget Bureau, the General Accounting Office, the Congressional Appropriations Committees and the Civil Service Commission enlarged and experienced staffs to make thorough investigations and complete recommendations on how the Government could be more efficiently and more economically administered.

Weight of the Evidence.

The authors are careful not to express any definite opinion for or against pending legislation, but the weight of the evidence presented demonstrates that they prefer curtailment of Government functions and activities over the mere structural reorganization. Above all, they are for continuing reorganization should either proposal be adopted.

Using the actual expenditures during the fiscal year which ended June 30, the study points out that while all items totaled $10,349,908,000, the cost of operation of the administrative agencies was only $1,827,318,000 or 17.65 per cent of the total. Under structural reorganization, the book declares, the only possible savings would have to be made within this fraction of the budget.

"Important though such savings might be," it observes, "it is obvious that they cannot be depended upon to play a primary role in balancing the budget or reducing the national taxation."

The authors use the same formula in finding that structural reorganization alone would not materially reduce the 870,031 persons on the civilian payroll as of last September. Of this number, 712,220 were employed in the 10 executive departments with the Postoffice at the top with 295,711. The five largest departments, Postoffice, War, Agriculture, Navy and Treasury, accounted for 629,645 or 72.37 per cent. The first 30 agencies, the book reports, employed 863,384 persons, or 99.23 per cent of the total.

The True Problem.

"These figures seem to warrant the conclusion," the authors say, "that statements regarding the mere number of agencies without reference to their size may be very misleading and may give a wrong impression of the true problem of reorganization. They seem to justify the statement that efforts to reduce administrative costs in any considerable amount must be directed in the main to big establishments which have a relatively large force and account for a high proportion of the administrative costs of the Government."

Coming to their main thesis, the authors continue:

"If savings large enough to play a major part in balancing the budget and reducing Federal taxation are to be made, they must be effected mainly through curtailment of the functions and activities of the Government."

Here they encounter the obstacles met time and again by the presidential and congressional advocates of reorganization, and as they describe the "ancient or inherent functions of government," the "promotional functions," the "regulation of private enterprise," the "care of special classes of the population," the "economic risk bearing," and "government in business," the reader finds himself in a quandary as to which "functions" and "activities" he personally would abolish were he President, Senator or Representative.

A Homely Analogy.

Using the homely analogy of the household budget, the authors say:

"Many persons who have been responsible for their own family finances have faced a situation where three possible lines of action are open to them: (1) to go into debt or deeper into debt; (2) to increase their earnings; or (3) to curtail the activities of themselves or their dependents. If one of their solutions is to curtail activities they find several things they can get along without and others the expenditures for which can be reduced by cutting either quality or quantity purchased; they reduce their standard of living. If family finances are concerned, the budget balancer has to consider the needs and interests of the different members of the family.

"Governments can, of course, do precisely the same thing and under certain circumstances have done it."

President Roosevelt, during the past year or so, has denied the aptness of the analogy between the household and the national budget, although he used the identical comparison in his 1932 pledges for economy. In his recommendations for reorganization in 1937, he specifically admitted that the type of reorganization he had in mind was not for economy but for budgetary simplification. His political enemies insisted, in turn, that his original proposals were designed to increase his personal power over the quasi-legislative and quasi-judicial agen-

Thinks Chamberlain Is Borne Out.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE September frenzy of Hitler and the wise diplomacy of Chamberlain and Bonnet, in the circumstances, are still bearing good fruit. This writer was pleased with the reaction of the British, French and American statesmen at the critical peak of events and he can see no serious untoward development, from the viewpoint of the democracies, since Munich. (To support my I-told-you-so, I cite my letters of Oct. 24, Dec. 12 and Feb. 3 in the Post-Dispatch.)

In your issue of March 9, Dorothy Thompson points out the several advantages that have accrued to the democracies, also the losses of Hitler. However, Miss Thompson still condemns "appeasement." She says: "The peace, therefore, that we at present enjoy is not due to appeasement but is due to resistance." Is not this a short-sighted remark? Trace the story back to the beginning and you will see that the things brought to light through appeasement and the postponing (probably prevention) of war enabled resistance to be started.

Some concession was due the German people (though not the Hitler regime) on account of the injustices of the Treaty of Versailles. That once given, the democracies could tackle the job of downing Hitler with much cleaner and healthier consciences, because of a deepened color of righteousness on their banners. There could have been no effective resistance—at least it would have been insanely risky to attempt it—without at least temporary appeasement.

As soon as Hitler was quieted, the democracies leaped to the job—and have kept on leaping—bringing many a twitch to that "pure Nordic" moustache. Every day since Munich finds the democracies better prepared and Hitler less inclined to fight.

Would Make "Ain't" Respectable.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHAT word in our language is more potent and practical than "ain't"? though grammatically an outcast and branded an untouchable, "ain't" is still very much with us, and is remarkable for its persistence and stamina. "Ain't" is short, pithy and pops into our minds a hundred times a day, humbly willing to serve us, yet astute society says "away with it!" And we employ two or three other words to convey the idea that "ain't," alone, would express simply.

Hence, in view of the efficiency of this little "outlaw," I for one am in favor of officially adopting "ain't" into our family of English words. It is a gem of speech, and it will even become an established usage, for "there is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so."

A Lesson for Modern Politicians.

EVEN the ancients had their handy guides to success. From that rare volume, "Cruising With the Crusader," I quote:

"'I observe,' said a friend to Ptolymarchus, 'that you loudly denounce the evils of this day and generation. I perceive also that you are seized with great earnestness, believing that your words of wisdom undoubtedly flow from a position logically unassailable. But,' continued the friend, 'your zeal has somewhat obscured your discretion. Employing the patter of the ribald populace, you leave yourself wide open.' 'How so?' asked Ptolymarchus. 'Primer stuff,' replied the friend. 'You should first and most energetically point the finger at those in your own party who encourage and support the evils of which you complain.'"

An Iowan's Opinion of Crop Control.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

RELATIVE to your editorial concerning the high technology of agriculture: The farmer is virtually kept in hot water through Secretary Wallace's meddling. Last spring implement manufacturers of this vicinity told me of a great demand for corn-cultivating machinery in the Old South. Much of idle cotton acreage there is now planted in corn.

Farmers in the Corn Belt, however, cannot raise cotton or utilize idle acreage due to restriction of corn acreage. However, Wallace's hybrid seed corn helps to increase acreage production of corn. Wallace finds reduced demand for export cotton, due to tampering with the cotton crop a few years ago. Wallace has been responsible for the chaotic conditions in agriculture.

MISSOURI'S ACE IN THE HOLE.

Next Tuesday the Missouri Legislature will have been in session 70 days, the period fixed by the Constitution. Its record is reviewed elsewhere in this section of the Post-Dispatch. It is almost a blank. The incapacity revealed raises the question whether our State Government has not broken down.

Missourians of middle age can remember when the Legislature regularly completed its work and adjourned within the time allotted by the Constitution. There was, of course, an urgent practical reason. As is well known, the $5 per diem of the legislators terminates at the expiration of 70 days, when it is reduced to a dollar. Notwithstanding the financial hardship thus imposed, involving, as it often does, the effectual disorganization of the body by reason of absentee members, the sessions have, in late years, been steadily lengthening. In 1937, it was June 8 before the gavel finally fell. The present session will, it is predicted, be as long, if not longer.

There is no reproach in that fact. The one-time slogan, "Pass the appropriations and go home," is gone forever. The enormous and multiplying activities of the State have changed government from "the very simple thing" which Warren Harding mistakenly described it, to a complex and difficult enterprise demanding time and the ability of specialized training.

In the absence of government by specialists, or by the outstandingly qualified, what is to be done? That something must be done is a challenging fact, to be stated without rancor or criticism. It is a reality we must face. It is a problem which we, the citizens of Missouri, must solve. We cannot leave it with the politicians. We have left it with them far too long. They have had their chance. They have muffed it, egregiously.

The unfortunate truth is that the term, "Legislature," has become a misnomer. The men who go to Jefferson City every two years as Senators and Representatives are by and large not sent there by the people of Missouri. They are not truly elected. They are, in point of fact, selected by machine politics. Consider our St. Louis delegation. It were a joke if it were not so tragic. The people don't know them. The bosses pick them. They serve the bosses, with their votes, and they thus enable the bosses of the Legislature to serve their special interests. And what's true of St. Louis and the other cities is measurably true of rural Missouri.

So we can't get things done in Jefferson City which the people of Missouri want done. The present session, for example, has passed the social security legislation so that Missouri can get her share of the Federal aid to meet the old-age pension account. Only the coercion of the Federal Government's purse explains this one constructive act of this sixtieth session of the Missouri Assembly. And even in this item there was a needless delay of two months, which compelled the deserving aged to get along as best they could without assistance, while the politicians stalled and spouted and angled for the future favor of the "chiselers." The only other bill passed is the small loans measure.

Several of our neighbor states, oppressed, as Missouri is, with the mounting costs of government, and recognizing the incapacity of the old order of things, have set up new devices to repair the system and make it efficient. The people of Missouri have tried to do the same thing. We have got nowhere. Except for a few instances of progressive legislation, Missouri, as regards its governmental machinery, is still operating the model of 1876. The three Praetorian Guardsmen of the Senate, Casey and Kinney and Brogan, are seemingly irremovable fixtures, and there they stand like executioners, chopping off the heads of numerous remedial or improving proposals. The personnel of the House control is less constant, but it maintains too faithfully the traditions of obstructionism.

A weapon is available, awkward, perhaps, and laborious, but the people of Missouri can wield it, and win, whenever we will. The long arm of the initiative can reach to Jefferson City, shake the whole hierarchy till its teeth rattles, and write upon the statute books the ways and means for conducting government today.

That is our ace in the hole. It is a smashing card.

TIP FROM EUROPE'S POKER TABLE.

Less than three weeks ago, Prime Minister Chamberlain was saying that a general arms reduction conference was "not a practicable proposition," since there was not sufficient evidence to show that it had a chance of success.

Now the London Daily Mail, influential Conservative organ, flatly announces: "Mr. Chamberlain is planning to call a conference of big Powers to consider calling a halt to the arms race in Europe, possibly before the end of the summer."

This sudden shift in attitude may well offer a clew as to the course of the cards at Europe's poker table. As in any poker game, the losers are not the ones who propose adjournment. Britain seems to be holding somewhat better hands now than a few weeks ago, to be relying less on the appeasement system, as rearmament proceeds and the democratic Powers draw their lines closer. The dictatorships, on the contrary, seem a bit dubious about the continuance of their run of luck, and are hazarding less on every draw.

If Mr. Chamberlain now thinks there's a chance to end the desperate game with its tremendous stakes, or even to bring the limit within the bounds of reason, more power to the umbrella-carrying gambler of Downing Street.

GIVE CAPITAL A CHANCE.

When the young man who is now president of the New York Stock Exchange talks, Main Street listens as attentively as Wall Street. That is the enviable position of William McChesney Martin Jr. He has just said in a magazine interview that "our system needs money that will take a chance." Others have said the same thing. And everybody knows the money is here. Almost everybody knows the chance is not here.

The case of the man with an income of $100,000 was presented the other day by John T. Flynn, one of the few economists whom we can all understand. This man invests $100,000 in a new enterprise which, being new, is risky. That is "take-a-chance capital" in Mr. Martin's words. Pierre du Pont calls it "venture capital." The investment turns out well. The man with nerve to take a chance makes $10,000, or 10 per cent. What happens? The Federal Government takes $6200, by way of taxes. The State Government, if the man lives in New York, takes $800. The investor has $3000 left, or 3 per cent. "No one goes into risky enterprise," says Mr. Flynn, "for 3 per cent."

They are talking tax relief in Washington—Secretary Morgenthau of the Treasury, Secretary Hopkins of Commerce, and the President's mood toward business is friendly, even cordial. It might be too much to say that recovery has been given the right of way, that further reform has been sidetracked until we can assimilate the sweeping reforms already launched. It is not too much to say that that is precisely the procedure the situation demands.

THE F T C ON STEEL PRICES.

The Federal Trade Commission is not satisfied with the reductions made in the price of steel last summer, or with the considerable modification which took place at that time in the basing-point system of fixing prices in the steel industry. In its new report, the commission terms the steel industry "the focal center of a monopolistic infection which may well cause the death of free capitalistic industry in the United States."

The basing-point system is the successor to the notorious Pittsburgh-plus scheme of price rigging which Big Steel kept in effect for many years prior to 1924, when it was dropped because of Federal anti-trust prosecution. Under the basing-point system, as modified last summer, most of the steel-producing centers throughout the country are "little Pittsburghs." Thus, Granite City, Birmingham, Baltimore and Chicago all have the same price on steel, and the purchaser pays that price plus freight from the nearest producing center or "basing point."

What the Federal Trade Commission objects to is not merely the uniformity of price, which might be due either to "price leadership" or secret agreement. It objects also to the fact that the various producers, although they may sell in each other's backyards, always quote the same delivered price.

So there is no real price competition in the steel industry. There is only sales competition—the rival charm, if you please, of the various sales forces and expense accounts. After prices had been held static for 18 months during a period of sharply declining demand, United States Steel last summer made substantial price reductions in all categories. The result was merely that all other companies adopted them, and prices were as static as before.

If the administration could bring about dynamic competition in the steel industry and other large industries, it would strengthen democratic capitalism. But it is a matter on which we cannot pretend to optimism, for even the New Dealers differ radically among themselves as to the proper approach.

LET DIVES KEEP HIS DUCATS.

The president of the University of California, Robert Gordon Sproul, has turned down the presidency of a bank, at $50,000 a year, preferring his present post, with its smaller salary of $13,500. And students and alumni, and the wide, wide world, each unit in its own idiom, will unite in a rousing "Attaboy!"

In certain respects, the two offices are obviously comparable. Command, responsibility, prestige, essential importance are vested in each. They are equally honorable, though that judgment may be challenged. There are professional idealists to whom a banker is a mercenarian, concerned solely with making a dollar burgeon into two, or even a five-spot, and whose vocabulary is limited to a barking No. The blood in his veins is an icy stream. He may not be "fit for treasons, strategems and spoils," his soul may not be "black as Erebus," but he is, they will tell you, a "tough cookie." His god is gold, his liturgy the multiplication table.

How different the paladin of the campus! Removed by infinite distances from the clash and clamor of the market place, a grave but gentle spirit, he lives in the always green and lovely world of the intellect, where every vista pleases and only the dumb cluck is vile. The Jove of his finely endowed, handsomely appointed Olympus, he is the deus ex machina from whose assembly lines roll out the leaders of that impatient tomorrow, the guides, philosophers and friends of an already pig-tailed, cowlicked posterity. Architect of so many fortunes, molder of destiny, curator of the cosmos.

"Let Dives keep his ducats," says Dr. Sproul. Dives will.

THE LEATHERNECKS AND THEIR BAND.

If anything can emphasize the Herculean gall of the local Musicians' Union in trying to stop the United States Marine Band from giving a public concert at the Elks' convention here next July, it is a look at the proud history and patriotic traditions of that military organization.

The Marine Band—"the President's Own"—is almost as old as the Republic. Congress created it in 1798, but its ancestry extends further: to the bands aboard American frigates in the Revolution. Two of its drummers and a fifer, some historians say, are portrayed in Willard's celebrated painting, "The Spirit of 1776." Historic assemblages gay and grave have heard its stirring music: Dolly Madison's White House fetes, Lafayette's visit, Jackson's cheese-cutting party, Lincoln at Gettysburg, the White House weddings of Nellie Grant, Grover Cleveland, Alice Roosevelt. And what American foot has never kept time to the lively airs created by its former leader, John Philip Sousa, the "March King"?

There is a historic link with St. Louis as well; the Marine Band played at the opening of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1904. Its last appearances here were in 1929 and 1930, when great throngs turned out to hear the nation's, and perhaps the world's, finest military band. Yet, because of a union's assumption of dictatorial power, demands will be made upon Congress to deny our citizens—taxpayers who help support the Marine Band—an opportunity to hear it again.

The situation poses a question for Bernard Dickmann, in his triple role as Mayor of the city, former Exalted Ruler of the Elks and former Gunnery Sergeant of marines. What does a Leatherneck do, Mr. Mayor, when he comes up against an attempted outrage like that?

JUST IN CASE—

An Amazing Prophecy of 1918

Before end of World War, German officer predicted present impenetrable defense lines, against which all attack save by planes would be futile; urged Reich, when peace came, to build vast air fleet, so that swift and crushing onslaught could be made against next enemy; suggested youth in great numbers be trained for flying.

From the National Geographic Magazine for January, 1918.

WHILE America and her allies have been organizing their industrial forces to place a fleet of flying machines above the battle lines of Europe this spring, the fact should not be overlooked that Germany and her vassal nations are equally alive to the importance of mastery in the air. Her highly centralized war industries are exerting every effort to match the gigantic program of the Entente Allies.

While no official figures have been allowed to leak from Germany as to just what is being done in preparation for the supreme battle of the sky, the trend of public opinion in the Teuton nations is reflected in such reports as the following news item (translated by a correspondent of London Flight) which appeared recently in Der Motorwagen, a Berlin journal:

"At a recent meeting of the Deutscher Fliegerbund (German Aerial League) the treasurer, Lieut. Bothe of Berlin, gave some interesting details regarding the objects and activities of the league.

"He first gave a very clear and comprehensive survey of the present position of aeronautics in Germany, claiming that the Germans had now really obtained the supremacy of the air on the Western front as on other fronts, though at the time of the great Somme offensive, the mastery in the air belonged to the British and French.

"This led to a reawakening in German military circles and to a redoubling of their efforts to regain that supremacy, and no stones were left unturned until that object had been successfully attained.

"The Germans had now left their adversaries far behind, both in number and quality of the aircraft being turned out, as the English were learning to their cost.

"Lieut. Bothe then dealt at some length with the position of military aeronautics after the present war. He foretold that on the cessation of the present hostilities, all the nations would at once proceed to build up an impenetrable series of modern defensive works, extending several miles behind their frontiers, which it would be beyond the power of human beings to break through except by the aerial arm.

"In future wars, it would be necessary to invade the enemy's territories by means of tens of thousands of airplanes, which, by dropping hundreds of tons of explosives, would destroy all industrial works, transport routes, etc., and thus delay the advance of the troops and impede preparations for offense or defense.

"The war would be won within the first few days of the declaration of hostilities by the Power, or Powers, which were thus able to throw in the largest weight of aerial 'frightfulness,' and thereby paralyze the fighting efficiency of their opponents, before even a battle had been fought or a campaign opened.

"Where, it may be asked, are to be found the pilots to man these tens of thousands of airplanes? This would be one of the chief duties of the German Aerial League, an institution which was daily growing in importance and influence. By suitable courses of training at airdromes and in the workshops, the youth of the country would be prepared for later service in the Flying Corps.

"The speaker urged everyone interested in this subject to give the League all the support possible by joining a local branch and by making its objects more widely known."

To Save Probation and Parole

From the Milwaukee Journal.

PAROLE and, to a lesser extent, probation are these days being attacked in many parts of the country. The reason is that many parolees and probationers have committed new crimes while "at large under supervision." Because of repeated failures of the parole machinery, parole itself has come to be suspected.

It is gratifying, therefore, to find a friend of probation and parole urging reform of existing machinery. Speaking at a meeting of the American Sociological Society, Reuben L. Hill, instructor in social education at the University of Wisconsin, urged more complete investigation before probation is granted and more careful supervision of those at large.

Criminologists will agree that, when probation or parole is being considered, it is far more important to know what kind of man has committed a crime than what kind of crime has been committed. It is impossible without adequate machinery to reach into the background of the person who has violated the law. It is also impossible to check the progress of persons "on honor" without continual and expert supervision.

So, if probation and parole are to be worthy of the name, there must be adequate investigation before and constant checking after liberty has been granted. The difficulty has been that persons most interested in probation and parole have been unwilling to admit for the most part that existing machinery may be faulty.

As a result, even when abuses have been evident, no improvement in machinery has come. The whole system of extramural handling of persons convicted of crime has been jeopardized by this unwillingness of persons in the field to join in the criticism of lax methods. That is a pity.

Probation and parole are important parts of every proper system for handling crime. It would be unfortunate indeed if we should lose these remedies through popular reaction to abuses in them. The obvious task for friends of the two procedures is to remove the abuses before the abuses end the remedies. Men who, like Mr. Hill, point to the way to more uniform success in employing the procedures are doing needed work, though their suggestions may involve tacit criticism of existing parole departments.

PERTINENT QUERY.

From the Montgomery Advertiser.

If the Germans are so short of labor that they find it necessary to order German citizens working in Denmark, Holland and France to come home, why do they need colonies to which to send their "surplus population"?

Live Alone and Like It

Books in the News

"SUPPOSE the United States were like Europe," Stuart Chase begins his latest book, "The New Western Front" (Harcourt, Brace & Co., New York), written in collaboration with Marian Tyler. Suppose its territory were divided into 20 separate nations, each with a big army (4,000,000 men in all), each behind a massive tariff wall, all using different currencies. Every nation on the coast has a navy, and fierce rivalry compels ever greater fleets. Tension exists on all sides over territorial claims and determination to avenge ancient wrongs.

That is the status of Europe today, and Mr. Chase has little patience with its eternal feuds. He congratulates America for being wholly different, for having unity and homogeneity and a chance to live in peace. And that chance can be best realized, he thinks, by a policy that amounts to "live alone and like it."

He calls the roll of America's assets, and it is an impressive record. Our industrial resources, his tables show, are greater than those of Britain, France, Germany, Italy and 23 other nations thrown in for good measure. The United States is more than a nation; it is virtually a continent, producing virtually every commodity needed for its people's life. For this reason, he feels, there is no reason to bother about foreign trade (except Latin American), and Mr. Hull is wrong if he thinks the old days of world commerce can be restored.

Can the aggressor nations possibly conquer the United States? The writer proves to his own satisfaction that it can't be done. Even if they defeated England, France and Russia, the combined Fascist navies and bombing fleets wouldn't have a chance against America, our natural and military defenses being what they are. As to Japan, "I apologize for wasting your time in this discussion." And later, "Neither Martians are coming, nor anyone else." Yet Mr. Chase seems a bit unconvinced, for in his program for avoiding war, he urges arming to withstand "those Powers who might conceivably attack, like Germany, Italy, Japan."

Mr. Chase strongly urges setting our own house in order, making democracy work, finding means to provide a living for all and thus heading off Fascism at home. This, probably the best-reasoned chapter of his book, was reprinted in part on this page Jan. 24.

Unified and free America, Mr. Chase concludes, has the task of defending the new Western front, and in a sense it has civilization in its keeping. Our obligation is to keep the peace and well-being of this hemisphere, paying no heed, apparently, to any efforts to preserve civilization elsewhere and keep down the militarist Powers. His thesis is a streamlined species of isolationism, and his book builds up the best possible case for this credo—yet it leaves some obvious questions unanswered.

AIR OF TRAGEDY ABOUT EMBASSY

For Second Time in Less Than Three Years, Tide of Civil War Has Overtaken Diplomat There.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Expecting that the State Department will soon accord recognition to the victorious insurgent government in Spain, the Ambassador of the Loyalist administration, Don Fernando de los Rios, is preparing to leave the Embassy and eventually will take a post in an American university, the Post-Dispatch has learned.

Ambassador de los Rios will not discuss his future plans. "The Ambassador of Spain has no future, only a present," he says, smiling with the same imperturbable good humor that has marked his two and a half years here.

But friends of the distinguished historian-philosopher, who left a post in the University of Madrid to become Ambassador in Washington, are confident that he will find a teaching position in an American university. If it is not in one of the old established universities, such as Harvard, Yale or Columbia, where he lectured frequently in the past before becoming a diplomat, it will be in a newer institution such as the University in Exile in New York City, staffed by distinguished refugees from European dictatorship. It is understood that at least one offer has come to de los Rios.

Air of Tragedy at Embassy.

While the Ambassador maintains before the world his outward calm, the air of tragedy that surrounds the spacious and handsome embassy on Washington's fashionable Sixteenth street cannot be disguised. It is the second time in less than three years that the tragic tide of Spain's civil war has overthrown the order of diplomatic life here in Washington.

De los Rios is now a man without a country, very well aware that if he returns to Spain he will be thrown into prison or shot if he is admitted at all. He will, of course, be permitted to remain in this country since he entered legally as an Ambassador. He could even, it is assumed in official quarters, apply for citizenship should he choose to.

De los Rios' immediate predecessor here was Don Luis Calderon. Along with all other Spanish diplomats all over the world Calderon received a cablegram from Gen. Franco shortly after the outbreak of the rebellion announcing that the rebels were soon to take Madrid and take over the Government and demanding a pledge of loyalty to his cause. To those who did not reply immediately Franco sent a second cable saying that if he did not have an answer within 24 hours he would assume that the man was a traitor.

Nothing to Do But Wait.

Virtually the entire diplomatic corps went over to Franco's side, Calderon and his entire staff in Washington among them. But Calderon as Ambassador remained to surrender the keys of the embassy to his successor as is required by protocol. He and his wife and their two children stayed in the embassy served by only two of the large staff of servants that had once functioned at brilliant ambassadorial parties.

Calderon denied himself to all vistors, even his close friends in the diplomatic corps, remaining in his study.

It was a haunted place as Senora Calderon packed the last of their personal effects and there was nothing to do but wait for an alien government to name a successor to take over. The big handsome rooms, the lovely glass-roofed patio with its fountain and its growing orange trees, were empty.

That is more or less the way the embassy is today, as de los Rios waits for his successor to come. But he is not idle. Plans for his future academic career absorb him in spite of the tragedy of recent months. He brought with him from Spain when he came a half dozen manuscripts of historical works that he will now begin to prepare for publication. There are several books in addition that he wants to write, one of them which might have the title "The United States Through Spanish Eyes." This last would be a study of colonial origins and their effect on present day America.

42 Books Published.

The Spanish Colonial period is de los Rios' special field. He has published 42 books, most of them in this field, and several translated into English. It was on Spanish Colonial history that he lectured at Harvard, Yale, Oxford, Cambridge, the University of Mexico and many other centers of learning.

Under the most trying circumstances during his two and a half years as Ambassador, de los Rios has won the esteem of official Washington. He hoped always to make friends for his government in a war that he regarded as a war of invasion. But, a scholar and a philosopher, he has recognized the restraints that the code of diplomacy put upon him. This has often been made difficult by American supporters of loyalist Spain, who have been over zealous and ill advised.

De los Rios has received many deliberate snubs from the ultra-conservative Diplomatic Corps here. He has done his official entertaining not so much for the smart set ordinarily to be found at diplomatic dinner tables as for members of the Government, and particularly New Dealers. Gracious and genial, de los Rios has been a pleasant host no matter how omnious and threatening the news he might just have heard from Barcelonia over the telephone. His wife, too, has entertained graciously. They have one daughter, Laura de los Rios, who took advanced studies at Columbia last year and this year is teaching Spanish at Wellesley College in Massachusetts.

Cardenas May Return.

De los Rios' successor will probably not be Calderon, who was here only for a brief time. Calderon succeeded Juan de Cardenas, who had had two terms as Ambassador in Washington and was very much attached to this post. Shortly before the outbreak of the rebellion Cardenas was named Spanish Ambassador to France. He delayed his departure for Europe, however, until the civil war broke out.

He went over to Franco almost immediately and shortly afterward left for Europe. Cardenas was named Franco's agent in this country and has maintained himself in a luxurious suite at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in New York. He has gone back and forth between New York and Paris, presumably with visits to insurgent Spain, several times. Now, according to report, he is looking forward to returning to Washington, where he entertained as Ambassador on a lavish scale.

Analysis of the Proposals To Reorganize Government

cies and, in the long run, to strengthen the authority of the executive branch of the Government.

The President has given no countenance to the curtailment of activities, despite the 1932 promise in the Democratic platform for a 25 per cent reduction in governmental expenditures, and even in his 1933 economy program, repealed for the most part by Congress in 1934, his cuts were made almost entirely in salaries and benefits.

Recommended Procedures.

The action of Congress in restoring the presidential cuts foreshadow the practical political obstacles that would be encountered if anyone sought to follow either of the two processes advocated by the Brookings authors to reduce functions and activities. The recommended procedures are:

1. To subject all present functions and activities to a rigorous, detailed pruning process, which involves examining the multitudinous activities of the executive agencies and abandoning those which are not regarded as essential and reducing others to the minimum necessary for the time being.

2. To re-examine broad governmental policies which are in conflict, with a view to developing a consistent governmental social and economic program.

Commenting on the first proposal, the authors indicate but do not specify what political opposition it would encounter.

"The pruning process," they declare, "would be much like that used by the prudent individual who finding his income falling below his expenses goes without luxuries and confines his expenditures to necessities. . . . Such a pruning program means that beneficiaries of national government who are now receiving from it pensions, donations, grants, subsidies, loans, special services, and even direct or indirect employment would find these aids curtailed or entirely abandoned. States, municipalities, private business enterprises as well as individuals would be affected. The making of such cuts involves large questions of public policy. Curtailments of this character are essential if large immediate reductions are to be made in governmental expenditures."

On the Second Proposal.

On the second proposal, the authors present problems for which no one in Washington seems to have the practicable answers. They say:

"The development of a more consistent social and economic program through the re-examination of broad policies that are now in conflict would be slower and more difficult than pruning and call for more statesmanship, but it would be more constructive and more far-reaching in its fiscal results. Such major problems are involved as the development of a healthy co-ordinated and self-supporting transportation system; the elimination of conflicting Government price policies; and the substitution of economic self-sustaining employment for relief of employable people and Government-made work. A marked improvement in such major matters would both reduce governmental expenditures and add materially to governmental revenues."

Since the authors offer no solutions of their own to these involved and related problems, the mere statement of the situation gives little guidance other than the thought that the suggested studies and re-examinations might eventually lead to tangible results, although, for some undisclosed reason, the authors make no mention of the current investigation by the so-called "Monopoly Committee," which is certainly concerned with conflicting price-policies, and the continuing studies made by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman and others of the transportation problem.

Action a Long Time Away.

If either procedure or both are eventually adopted, the action will be a long time away. Since it is probable that this session of Congress will approve some sort of structural reorganization, the recommendations for continuous betterment deserve closer attention, the more so, because no serious effort has been made to incorporate them in pending legislation.

These recommendations, called by the authors "important devices," are:

1. An honestly and efficiently administered competitive merit system, which would embrace all but a few strictly political positions. The three objectives of such an enlarged Civil Service Commission are: (a) to prevent so far as possible the creation of unnecessary jobs for political purposes; (b) to secure for every position a person qualified to do efficient work, and (c) to operate the staff on a merit, career basis, free from political and personal favoritism.

2. A Budget Bureau, under the President, adequately staffed with career employes, which would review all requests for funds with the objective (a) of preventing unnecessary overlapping and duplication, (b) of insuring that the business practices used are sound and efficient, and (c) of determining that the personnel is the right class for the work involved.

3. A competent research and investigating staff under the independent control of Congress, possibly under the congressional appropriations committees. These trained and independent investigators would secure information regarding the executive establishments so legislators would not have to accept somewhat helplessly the recommendations of the executive officers, who almost invariably seek to get as large appropriations as possible from Congress.

4. An enlargement of the investigational sections of the General Accounting Office, an agency of Congress, to give Congress independent information regarding the efficiency of management in the executive departments.

Eminently Practical.

The four recommendations are eminently practical and could be put into effect at once if Congress would say the word. They are nonpartisan in nature and the four enlarged agencies could supply a world of information at a later time should Congress ever approve the authors' more comprehensive proposal for a search examination looking to the curtailment and abandoning of functions and activities in an effort to attain real and sizable economies in the Federal Government.

ADULT EDUCATION MEETING MARCH 23-25

Facilities Offered Here to Be Discussed at Two-Day Session.

A conference on the facilities for recreation and instructin offered adults by the public schools and universities of this district will be held March 23-25 at Washington University and the Downtown Y. M. C. A., under the sponsorship of the Adult Education Council of Greater St. Louis.

The program chairman will be Dean Frank M. Debatin of the University College, or extension division, of Washington University. Among out-of-town visitors expected to take part in the conference are Lloyd King, State Superintendent of Schools, and Dr. Sherman Dickinson of the extension department of the University of Missouri.

An announcement of the meetingy by Dean Debatin states that among the subjects to be discussed in panel meetings are "improving the occupational efficiency of adults in trades and industries, and the benefits received from education in the distributive occupations." These topics, he said, would be dealt with by representatives of employers and employes, and by specialists in the educational field.

The Adult Education Council was organized recetly as the co-ordinating body of about 40 non-profit agencies in this area. It is afilliated with the American Association for Adult Education. Dean Debatin is a member of the Association's board.

Martin, G. O. P. Leader in House, Effective Fighter

Recent Test of His Power.

Perhaps the best test of Martin's powers thus far was the vote on the reorganization bill this week. Under the skillful management of administration strategists, led by Representative John J. Cochran of St. Louis, the Democrats mustered 246 votes to put over the measure, but the nays on this roll call vote were 153, and of this number only six were Democrats and Republicans plus conservative Democrats almost succeeded in adding an amendment that would have permitted either house of Congress by a simple resolution to disapprove an executive order. The vote on this amendment was 209 to 193. Through the long day of voting Republican lines held firm.

His Prediction for 1940.

Martin, who should know, says unqualifiedly the six New England states will be Republican in 1940. In a radio broadcast the other night he had this to say:

"Our studies show that in gaining 80 seats in the House of Representatives, the Republican congressional campaign converted a Democratic majority of approximately 5,000,000 votes in 1936 into a Republican majority of 500,000 in 1938. These figures are for the 38 'contest states' outside the South. They mean that in point of popular vote throughout the entire two-party area, the Republicans are the majority party of the United States today. Although our candidates carried more than 50 per cent of the vote in these 38 states, we have only 39 per cent of the roll call in the House today."

In Washington, Martin, who is a bachelor, lives in a quiet hotel and rarely is seen at the big showy parties where celebrities exhibit themselves. He walks to his office every day, about a mile and a half, and that is his only exercise. It is rarely that he makes a speech. He doesn't believe that speeches do very much good and what is more, he thinks the American people are tired of eloquence. As Martin sees it, they want a little calm and quiet, fewer three-alarm fires.

And the Republicans, in Martin's view, can give them just that.

State Legislature Has Done Little Work in Ten Weeks

passed in preference to one having the approval of the Public Service Commission and the State Highway Commission. The truck companies' bill, introduced by Representative John D. Taylor of Keytesville, provides for a reduction of about two-thirds in the license fees now collected from common carrier trucks, and the application of those fees to all trucks. The other bill, introduced by Senator Frank P. Briggs of Macon, provides for a retention of the present common carrier fees and their application to all trucks. Following a survey, engineers of the Highway Commission reported that even the fees in the Briggs bill would compensate the State for only about one-half the cost of the use and damage to the highways by the trucks.

The somewhat strange reference of the Briggs bill to Senator Casey's Judiciary Committee, instead of to the Committee on Highways, is believed to make virtually certain that it will die there at the end of the session. A substitute for the Taylor bill, very slightly increasing the license fees above the amounts in the original bill, and incorporating some minor features of the Briggs bill, is pending in the House Committee on Transportation. If it reaches the Senate it probably will also go to the Judiciary Committee, where it is expected to meet with a more favorable reception than the Briggs bill.

Fair Trade Bill Status.

Indications are that efforts to pass the price-fixing laws, repealing the State's anti-trust statutes in so far as they affect certain specific businesses, will fail. These include the so-called Fair Trade Act and the Milk Control Bill. The former would permit price fixing by the manufacturer or producer on all trademarked or standard brand products, and the Milk Control bill would set up a State Board to control the milk industry with authority to fix prices. The House Committee on Agriculture has already killed one Milk Control Bill, indicating that others which are pending will not be approved.

The fair trade bill is lodged in Senator Casey's committee and is expected to stay there. Even if it should be reported to the Senate now, it is doubtful it could be passed because of the constitutional provision prohibiting the Legislature from considering any matter after 70 days except appropriation bills, bills to revise the statutes and bills specifically recommended to its attention by the Governor. The 70-day period will expire next Tuesday and no bill excluded by the Constitution, in which classification the Fair Trade Act comes, and not yet out of the committee could be passed before that time, and thus such bills will be dead unless the Governor directs the Legislature to consider them.

Judicial Reform Unlikely.

Two proposed amendments to the Constitution for reform of the judiciary have been presented, but it is doubtful that the bar groups sponsoring them expected more than an education purpose to be accomplished by offering them at this session. Whatever the expectations, the proposals, introduced in the House, would land in Senator Casey's committee if they reached the Senate, and Casey has an almost unbroken record of 30 years of opposition to changing the existing order.

One, emanating from the Judicial Council, appointed by the Supreme Court, would abolish the three Courts of Appeals, and combine them with the Supreme Court, which would have 16 members instead of the present seven. The other, prepared by a committee of the Missouri Bar Association, would make appellate Judges appointive by the Governor, the Judges being required to submit themselves to approval by the voters after having served a limited time.

Labor Law Bills Pending.

Legislation for a State wage and hour law is making slow progress, and it does not now appear likely that one will be enacted this session. Bills for the creation of a State Labor Relations Commission, modeled on the Federal law, and for a minimum wage and hour law are pending, but no determined effort for them has been made by either State Labor Department or by representatives of organized labor. They are meeting with strong opposition from business interests and from rural legislators representing districts in which there are few industries and in which labor is not organized.

At the beginning of the session there appeared to be a strong group prepared to attempt to wreck the the new Conservation Commission, created by Constitutional amendment in 1936, and to return control of wild life to the wasteful and inefficient political Fish and Game Department which the Commission supplanted, but this opposition now seems to have dwindled.

It was led by Senator William M. Quinn of Lewis County, who introduced a bill to repeal the penalty section under which violations of the fish and game laws are prosecuted, and in the House by Representative Spearman of Miller County, who introduced a resolution proposing repeal of the Conservation amendment to the Constitution. Both the Quinn bill and the Spearman resolution have been reported from committees, but their authors have not called them up for a vote. Senator Briggs has a constructive bill to enact a new penalty section which would apply to all regulations made by the Commission. While members of the Commission do not believe it to be necessary, they are not opposed to its general provisions.

Legislative Council Bill.

As have many Legislatures in the past, the present one already has killed a bill for the creation of a legislative council, operating successfully in a number of states in gathering information for members for use in preparing bills and in gathering data on subjects pending before the Legislature. Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage, however, has a bill in the Senate for a commission of members of both houses, with provision for a permanent librarian and staff. Its provisions go even farther than those of the legislative council laws of most of the states. In McReynolds' hands the matter will be pressed more effectively, and, while no prediction can be made that his bill will be passed, it is in better shape than similar proposals have been in the past.

There have been few proposals for increases in taxation, possibly because of Gov. Stark's message at the beginning of the session, indicating that he probably would veto any tax increase measure which might be passed. While there has been no seriously considered suggestion for an increase in the sales tax rate, there was a bill to broaden the base for the tax, adding several services not now taxed. This, however, met defeat in the House, and the probability is that amendment to the sales tax law will be limited to its extension for two years.

Gasoline Tax Measures.

Senator L. N. Searcy of Eminence and his brother, Representative R. E. Searcy, have bills to increase the gasoline tax for State highway purposes, coupling them with a reduction in the automobile license fees. Their original idea was an increase from 2 cents to 4 cents per gallon in the State gasoline tax, but Representative Searcy's bill was rejected by the House committee. He is now trying to have the tax fixed at 3½ cents, while Senator Searcy's bill is pending in the Senate Committee on Highways. Neither is likely to pass.

About 300 bills to revise the statutes, eliminating conflicting provisions and laws which have been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, are pending in the two houses, none of them having been taken up for consideration. The passage of most of them, however, is a perfunctory proceeding, and they can be disposed of within a few days when the Legislature decides to take them up.

Governor Stark's Policy.

Gov. Stark has maintained a policy of almost complete aloofness from the Legislature, having offered no legislative program and having made no bill an administration measure, with the exception of Social Security. Seemingly realizing at the opening of the session that he could expect little in the way of constructive legislation from a Senate dominated by Senator Casey, he instructed heads of all departments under his control not to sponsor legislation but to hold themselves in readiness to supply any information called for by the Legislature.

By this means the Governor is holding a whip hand, asking no favors but being in a position to use his veto power. He has withheld from the Senate the long list of appointments he has made since the last Legislature adjourned, and apparently does not intend to send in the list until near the end of the session. By this he has avoided the chance that some of his appointees will be rejected and the Senate get into the position of being able to force him to submit new names. If he waits until the Legislature is about to adjourn, he can fill any vacancies caused by refusal to confirm without giving the Senate a chance at them.

Just when the Legislature will adjourn cannot be foretold. Two years ago it ran until June 8. Probably it will continue in session at least that long this year.

PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION AIDS 18 PCT. MORE FAMILIES

Secretary Reports Increased Help Was Given in 1938, Despite 7 Pct. Cut in Budget.

The St. Louis Provident Association provided full care for a total of 1049 families last year, an increase of 18 per cent over the preceding year, on a budget of $194,761, which represented a decrease of 7 per cent under 1937, it was reported yesterday by Hershel Alt, executive secretary.

Applications for various kinds of help provided by the agency totaled 3347, an increase of about 50 per cent. An even greater increase is shown in minor services extended to families. During last year 1257 were helped in some way, as compared with 746 for the preceding year.

"A substantial number of persons came to the agency seeking help with problems which grew out of general disturbed economic and social conditions," the report said. "A considerable number of young people have been coming in, asking for vocational guidance in their search for jobs."

The services of the association, which specializes in family welfare work, are maintained through subscriptions made to the annual United Charities campaign.

FLYING MISSIONARY PRIEST TO SPEAK NEXT SUNDAY NIGHT

The Rev. Paul Schulte Will Show Movie of His Work in Arctic Region.

The Rev. Paul Schulte, Catholic priest who uses an airplane to perform his missionary duties in the Arctic, will speak in Municipal Auditorium Opera House next Sunday night. He will show his motion picture, "The Flying Cross in the Arctic."

Father Schulte was the first missionary in the region to use an airplane as a means of travel. In addition to his regular missionary work, he carries mail and supplies to Eskimo and white settlements.

Proceeds from the lecture will go to the Catholic Rural Life Conference of the Archdiocese of St. Louis, to further its program of building non-sectarian schools and recreational centers in rural districts.

BEST AMERICAN NOVEL, AS MAUGHAM PICKS IT

It's "Huckleberry Finn," Says Author—Short Story Anthology Still Uncompleted.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Somerset Maugham, on the eve of sailing for his villa on Cap Ferrat, French Riviera, picked the great American novel. It's "Huckleberry Finn."

"Ever since I first came to America," said the author of "Of Human Bondage," "people have been looking for the great American novel. I am not sure they'd recognize it if they saw it."

One reason Maugham thinks "Huckleberry Finn" the great American novel to date is because it mirrors a way of life long gone. He can understand how we have underestimated it, however. The same thing happened in England with "David Copperfield" he contends.

Anthology Still Uncompleted.

Maugham was just a bit testy on literary subjects, because he had been trapped by his publisher into editing a short story anthology. "He said it would take three months, and it's taken three years," said Maugham plaintively. "Just look"——

Everything in the sitting room of his hotel suite was covered with galley proof; everything that wasn't covered with mystery novels. There were five mystery novels, all of which had been read. He believes mystery writers are underrated, by the way.

"You see," he explained, "most of them know how to tell a story, and that's valuable. I know it's the fashion to ignore plot in certain quarters, just as one is supposed never to acknowledge the entertainment value of a book.

"But a plot is only a skeleton upon which to put the flesh of words, and the better the skeleton, the better the product. I also dislike long novels. I think anybody ought to be able to say what he has to say in 80,000 words. A novel ought to be readable in one long sitting to make its best effect."

But the advantage to a writer, of long novels is tangible, he thinks. "I notice that the long novels get the most attention from reviewers, and of course they're easier to do."

A Bad American Habit.

Maugham thinks one of the worst things in America is our habit of saying something, and then prefacing a repetition with the phrase: "In other words—"

"I'm of average' intelligence," he said tartly, "and certainly can understand the average statement the first time it's made."

It's this habit of thought that leads to novels like those of Thomas Wolfe, said Maugham, who knew Wolfe slightly and disagreed with his indiscriminate pouring out of words. But he's not read much of Wolfe, and never has read either "Anthony Adverse" or "Gone With the Wind" because they would take too much time.

But Maugham has more time than formerly. Five years ago, after writing 25 plays, including a fair share of successes, he gave up the theater.

"Now I've got four more novels in my system," he declared, "and when I've written them I'll quit doing novels. I really mean it—when you're younger you work much too hard. People want this play, that short story, the other novel, and you have lots of ideas yourself. I don't intend to do that forever."

Stock Trade Volume Best Since Late in January and Many New Peaks for Year Are Recorded

Wall Street Steps Cautiously—Bonds on Average Rise to Highest of Year—Stock Average Up .60 of a Point.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Business and Wall Street markets stepped cautiously forward this week in a reawakening from a winter sleep.

The pace of revival seemed to quicken in some markets. Bonds on the average rose to the highest levels of the year in fairly heavy trading. Many prominent stocks went to top prices for 1939. Volume was best since end of January. Textile buying flourished, providing cotton cloth mills with needed orders. Automobiles and other industries felt the touch of early spring retail demand.

Late selling of steels and motors spread to other departments of today's stock market and put a slight crimp in the week's rally.

At that, there were isolated strong spots in the list, with American Telephone bounding up 2¾ points to another 1938-39 peak and a few new highs being posted in other sections.

The list was no more than mildly irregular until near the finish when a fair-sized volume of offerings came out in the leaders. Dealings, rather slow most of the time, picked up and transfers for the two hours totaled 533,085 shares against 584,560 a week ago. For the six days the turnover was 5,560,930 shares, about 1,000,000 above the preceding week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .2 of a point at 53.2, but on the week showed a net advance of .8 of a point. The Dow-Jones average of 65 stocks at 51.50 was .26 lower for the day, but .60 higher for the week.

While the trend was down at the last, losses generally ran to only a point or so for the most depressed stocks and the majority kept declines to minor fractions.

SEC Ruling Pleases.

Optimism was the rule in Wall Street following action of the SEC in liberalizing short selling rules. Other alterations for the benefit of the market were to be discussed at a meeting in Washington Monday between representatives of 16 stock exchanges and the securities and exchange authorities.

At the same time, traders inclined to cash profits and clear decks for the week end holiday. In addition the European outlook clouded a bit, with the Communists continuing the war in Spain, possible German intervention in the Slovak independence row, and a speech of censure against the democracies by Soviet Leader Stalin.

Steels ignored forecasts of an increase in mill operations next week while motors paid scant attention to reports of widening sales of new cars. Coppers steadied as less apprehension over the proposed Chilean export tax on the metal was evident.

Among the day's leaders were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, North American, du Pont, Philip Morris, Loft, Santa Fe and N. Y. Central.

Modest advances were retained by Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Union Carbide and Allied Chemical.

Sales, closing price and net change of the 15 most active stocks: Loft 31,300, 9, down ⅞; Kennecott 14,500, 38½, unchanged; Commercial Solvent 12,200, 12⅛, down ¾; Anaconda 11,600, 29¼, up ⅛; General Motors 8100, 50⅝ down ⅞; Cons. Edison 7900, 34⅝, down ¼; Chrysler 6700, 83¾, down 1⅜; Socony-Vac. 6400, 13⅜, unchanged; Montgomery Ward 6200, 53⅞, up ⅝; U. S. Steel 6000, 63½, down ⅞; N. Y. Central 5900, 19¾, down ⅝; North American Co. 5800, 25½, down ½; North Am. Avia. 5700, 17, down ⅝; Int. Tel. & Tel. 5100, 9⅛, down ¼; Penn. R. R. 4900, 23¼, down ¼; Purity Bak. 4900, 16⅛, unchanged.

Many Wall Streeters, heeding a drumfire of "help business" news from Washington and muffled war alarms from Europe, thought they detected more than the usual seasonal stirrings in thawing trade and financial fields.

Brazilian Credit a Factor.

Speculative markets, sounding out the recovery course, had bright lights to steer by. The Brazilian credit agreement was greeted in foreign trade circles as one of the most important steps in recent years to open international commercial channels and strengthen Uncle Sam's trade position in Latin America. Secretary Hopkins promised positive action to back up the administration's declared recovery policy.

Among the first concrete expressions of the shift to meet business complaints was a relaxation of SEC regulations against short-selling in the stock market. Brokers prepared a list of suggestions for modification of SEC acts in hope of further relief from alleged restraints on the urge to risk money in Wall Street.

Instead of the intense war fear which prevailed a few weeks ago, there was a return of talk of an arms parley in Europe to halt the frenzied world rearmament race. Spain seemed nearer to peace.

The net result, however, seemed to be a net gain in business sentiment. Stocks were up for the fourth week in a slow advance. Textile buying in Worth street was the largest of any week this year. An off note in the stock exchange was a crack in copper shares on news Chile's Chamber of Deputies had voted tax on copper exports, coming mainly from American-owned mines. Mining circles thought there was a chance the Chilean Senate would reject the measure.

COMMODITY PRICE INDEX OFF FOR WEEK

Wholesale Prices of Raw Materials and Foodstuffs Sag a Bit, Report Shows.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Wholesale prices of raw materials and foodstuffs sagged a bit this week, but commodities generally continued to exhibit striking stability in comparison with the volatile swings from 1929 through 1937.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 staples dipped to 66.34, compared with 66.55 the previous week and 70.71 a year ago. For three weeks it had been going up.

Grains and cotton had rough travel at times, but industrial materials again benefited by revival tendencies in business with the approach of spring. Copper demand improved and lead was marked up a little.

Silk Calms Down.

Government operations to sustain farm prices were still a dominant factor in some markets, deprived of Uncle Sam's supporting hand through the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, butter broke sharply. The cotton market was excited by a variety of rumors about Washington's intentions in regard to the huge supply of cotton pledged against Government loans to growers. The net change in cotton futures, however, was small.

Silk calmed down after its recent climb when the trade realized supplies in Japan were dwindling in the face of increased use here and abroad. Textile fibers nevertheless, were favored by the biggest run of cotton cloth orders this year.

On the downside were sugar, cocoa, hogs, wool, coffee and lumber, steel scrap was up in line with firming tendencies in metals. Export copper advanced, but the domestic quotation was unchanged.

CORPORATION REPORTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Net earnings of Pepsi-Cola Co. for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1938, were estimated at $2,700,000, or $10.32 a share of capital stock, in a tentative report of independent auditors made to the board of directors today. This figure was exclusive of the earnings of a California subsidiary. Control of the company is being sought in the courts of Delaware by Charles G. Guth, former president of Loft, Inc., and the present management of Loft. Guth has appealed a decision which would give Loft approximately 91 per cent of the stock.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Westinghouse Air Brake Co. reported today for 1938 net profit of $993,816, including $167,063 of non-recurring profit, equal to 32 cents a share on the capital stock excluding shares held in the Treasury. This compared with 1937 profit of $6,253,380, including $1,504,268 profit on sale of securities.

CHICAGO, March 11.—The Pullman Co. said today its report yesterday of a December deficit of $1,411,045 reflected an adjustment made in accounts for that month as filed at Washington. The adjustment, the company said, was to give effect to the Interstate Commerce Commission's permission to set up in a reserve, by deferment of current revenue, a provision for amortization in future years of the company's investment in air conditioning apparatus. The actual operating result in December, 1938, aside from this adjustment, was $807,008 as compared with $810,275 in December, 1937, the company reported. The operating income for the year, before this deferment of revenue but after provisions for Federal and other taxes, was $3,721,050 compared with $4,219,117 for 1937, the company said.

CLEVELAND, March 11.—Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. in its pamphlet report out today shows net loss for 1938 of $658,934. In 1937 the steel producer had a net profit of $12,190,649. Net sales volume for last year amounted to $84,664,566, as compared with $144,288,797. Balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1938, shows current assets of $93,579,879, including cash of $26,136,174. Current liabilities were $10,204,878. Current assets were $74,650,237, cash $4,653,875 and current liabilities $17,445,737 as of Dec. 31, 1937. Total assets were listed at $241,719,671, as compared with $220,641,266.

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY INDEX TURNS UPWARD

Change Comes After Declines in Eight Consecutive Weeks.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—The Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity turned up after eight weeks of decline. It rose to 87.4 from 87.2 the previous week after having fallen from an autumn recovery high of 94.9 last year. Cotton manufacturing and electric power use, both quick to reflect business changes, bolstered the index against a small decline in steel production and a drop in residential building.

Business observers watched the signs of a turn closely because this usually is a period of transition in the seasonal ebb and flow of economic activity. Rated especially significant was the continued, though slow, rise of security markets here and in London, for Washington has aimed its policy partly at resumption of private capital investment, centering in the security markets.

The Associated Press industrial activity index, based on latest figures, with average activity for the years 1929-30 calculated as 100, compared as follows:

	Latest Wk.	Prev. Wk.	Yr. Ago.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Commission house and local trade demand broadened in the domestic sugar futures market towards the close today. Active deliveries advanced as much as 2 points. Selling was scattered, with Cuban offerings limited to a scale upward.

World futures closed unchanged in quiet trade with sales 700 tons. The main influence continued to be the narrowness of the London market. May sold at 1.15 and the final bid was at that level.

Raws here were quiet and steady. An operator bought 1000 tons of Philippines at 2.76, with offering scaled up to 2.80 cents for duty frees. Cubas were nominally quoted 2.78 on a duty paid basis. Refined remained within a range of 4.25 to 4.40 cents.

Sugar futures, No. 3 closed 2 higher to 1 lower. Sales, 9450 tons.

Boston Wool Market.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 11 (U. S. D. A.).—Business was very slow today in the Boston wool market. Scattered purchases on a few grades for immediate requirements were made at irregular prices. Graded one-half, three-eighths and one-quarter blood territory wools were quite resistant to pressure for lower prices, but fine territory wools and fleeces were inclined to ease. Bright fleece wools were quoted in Boston at 28@30c in the grease, for fine delaine, 29@31c for half blood, and 31 for three-eighths and quarter blood.

These accounts totaled $304,505,000, a new high mark. The major portion of the week's increase was credited generally to acquisition of U. S. Government issues. Demand deposits in member banks increased $6,156,000 to a total of $327,196,000 in the same period. Time deposits increased $93,000 to $105,338,000, while bankers' deposits increased $1,435,000 to $179,744,000 and the total of all deposits rose $7,684,000 to $612,278,000. Loans and discounts increased $774,000 to $149,771,000. Total resources increased $7,580,000 to $670,183,000. Total lawful reserve decreased $5,873,000.

Clearings last week totalyed $85,100,000, compared with $86,900,00 the preceding week. Debits to individual accounts last week amounted to $106,700,000, compared with $130,600,000 the preceding week and $104,900,000 the corresponding week a year ago. NON-FERROUS METAL PRICES HOLD FIRMER

Export Copper Continues to Swing Higher — Lead in Good Demand.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Firmer prices held sway in non-ferrous metal markets last week.

Export copper continued to swing higher, closing the week at 10.35 cents a pound against 10.12½ cents at the end of the preceding week. A fair business was done by the foreign cartel although Friday's turnover tapered.

The price of secondary electrolytic copper in the domestic market got the closest to the current refined price of 11¼ cents in some time. It was quoted late in the week at 10.80 cents. At the same time the intake price for No. 1 scrap copper moved up to 9⅝ cents.

Lead was in good demand and the price advanced 10 points to 4.85 cents a pound in the wake of higher foreign prices.

Zinc buying was fair, the price holding at 4.50 cents.

Demand for steel was still confined mostly to small tonnages. Motor-car makers placed only fill-in orders but broader demand from this sources is expected to develop by early in April. Strength in steel scrap was encouraging to steel quarters.

PROFIT-TAKING REFLECTED IN WEEK-END COTTON LIST

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Profit-taking nipped at recent sizeable gains in cotton futures, leaving today's prices 1 to 5 points lower.

Southern offerings at the start were taken care of by trade and Liverpool sources but demand soon dried up. A leading spot interest sold March at the opening and bought October and there was a little outside buying in the nearby options.

Final estimates of Worth street textile business for the week varied considerably in view of conflicting reports on mill curtailment and size of dealers' stocks. Sales of print cloths, however, were estimated at well over 35,000,000 yards and turnover in other items approximated that figure.

Reports from the South indicated a little more lint was moving in Southern markets as current spot prices were found attractive to growers who had earmarked the staple for the Government loan.

Ring opinion was general that cotton legislation is not going to get through Congress before new crop preparations and seeding is under way on a wide scale.

Exports today 802 bales; season so far 2,731,732. Port receipts 4314, port stocks 2,465,898.

Argentine Cotton Crop.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Agriculture Department was informed today that the current Argentine cotton crop had been officially estimated at 387,000 bales, the largest of record.

Production last year was 237,000 bales.

The department said, however, that commercial agencies in Argentina believed the official estimate on this year's crop was excessive.

WHEAT AND CORN LITTLE CHANGED AT WEEK'S CLOSE

Advance of Almost 2 Cents in Soy Beans Features Trading on Chicago Board of Trade.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 11.—An advance of almost 2 cents in soybeans featured trading on the Board of Trade for the second consecutive session.

Commission house and export interests buying boosted prices to their highest level since last summer. May reached 88 cents, up 1¾ from the previous, before weight of offerings was felt. The close was 1¼ up, or slightly better than 5 cents above the price a week ago. July and October beans finished a cent higher. Short covering and good demand for products of the bean were factors in the advance. The meal has been in particular demand by feeders, inasmuch as it is underselling competing feedstuffs.

Wheat held steady, opening ¼ cent up in the face of Liverpool quotations that were as much as a cent higher than due. Wheat closed unchanged to ¼ up, May 68@⅛c, July 68¼@⅜c; corn unchanged to ¼ lower, May 48½@⅝c, July 50⅛@¼c; oats, ⅛ up; rye unchanged to ⅛ up and lard unchanged to 5 cents lower.

Rains and forecasts of additional moisture in the domestic winter wheat belt dispelled much of the strength here in the higher Liverpool quotations. Liverpool, due unchanged to ⅛ higher, closed ¾@1 cent up in a narrow trade, the market finishing at the day's highs on short covering and less favorable European political news. Rotterdam closed unchanged to ⅜ off.

Kansas City wheat finished unchanged, Minneapolis and Winnipeg unchanged to ⅛ higher.

Corn followed wheat in light trade early, but developed an easy tone near the close. No improvement was reported in export demand for the grain. Government loans through March 10 totaled $98,354,563 on 172,753,000 bushels, an increase of 6,696,000 for the week. Buenos Aires corn futures closed unchanged to ¼ higher.

Oats were firm on a fair shipping demand in the cash market. There was little trading in rye, prices holding steady.

Lard closed about steady after easing in sympathy with slightly lower cottonseed oil prices.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 11.—In the cash grain market saturday soft wheat was steady. Offerings were light and the demand was good. Mill and order buyers furnished the outlet. Corn was unchanged. Supply was small. There was a fair demand and a fairly good clearance was effected. Mills and industries were in the market. Premiums were unchanged, with No. 2 yellow selling 1c over the May figure and No. 3 at the May price. Oats were unchanged. Offerings were light but demand was only fair and a few cars were carried over. Feeder and outside order buyers showed interest.

BOND MARKET FORGES AHEAD ON BROAD FRONT

Many Individual Corporate Issues Reach New Highs for 18 Months or Longer.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Gaining new climbing power credited to domestic business outlook, the bond market forged ahead again this week, many individual corporate issues reaching new highs for 18 months or longer.

United States Government issues, in demand as investments for cash-laden banks and insurance companies, stepped upward again too, with some treasuries soaring to record peaks.

Biggest gainers in the corporate division were railroad issues, which had been lagging behind industrial and utility loans in the forward march of the past fortnight. New 1939 highs were liberally recorded throughout the carrier list.

Utility bonds, as measured by Associated Press averages, touched the best levels in the past year and a half, while many industrial issues were at the highest since October, 1937.

Among foreign dollar bonds, Brazilian issues staged a climbing act of their own on announcement of a trade agreement between Brazil and the United States. The pact, among other things, arranged for resumption of payments on Brazilian bonds held in this country. Many Brazilian loans in the week came close to doubling in market value. The keynote for a further advance in U. S. Governments was sounded last Monday in favorable market reception of March 15 Treasury financing plans.

Business news of week included: (1) Promise of a further seasonal rise in industrial output this month; (2) new efforts to effect a labor "truce" between the CIO and A. F. L.; (3) assurances by administration leaders that Washington was planning new aids to business recovery, including possible revision of taxes held burdensome to industry; and (4) forecast by Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins that the 1939 national income would be six billion dollars to eighth billion dollars above last year.

The market spun through this morning's short two-hour trading session with values essentially unchanged.

It could hardly be said that traders, after a fortnight of rising prices, sat down today to catch their breath, for dealings at $5,517,500, face value, were at the fastest rate for any Saturday since Dec. 31 last.

But the session was regarded generally as one of "evening-up" of accounts, with switching of investment positions here and there. Further climbing power was absent.

United States Governments ended on a steady note, with Treasury issues 6-32ds of a point higher to 5-32ds lower. Week-end slackening of purchases by banks and other financial institutions was regarded as a prime factor in slightly easier prices for some maturities.

Chilean issues tilted between 1 and 2 points higher, joining rising Brazilian bonds in foreign dollar bond trading interest. Chile 7s of 1942, 6s of 1961 (Feb.) and 6s of 1963 each closed at 18¼, up 1½. Brazil 8s of 1941 at 27¾, were up 1¼, and some other Brazilian issues recorded new gains of fractions to around 1.

Fractionally higher were Santa Fe 4s of 1995 at 109½, Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s of 1949 at 4⅝, Pennsylvania general 4½s of 1965 at 100, American & Foreign Power 5s at 60½ and American Telephone 3¼ of 1966 at 107⅞. Down part of a point were Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s at 14¼, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s of 1943 at 69½, American Water Works 6s at 105½, and Studebaker 6s at 85¼.

Government to Try Stamp Plan Of Dispensing Surpluses to Needy

Groceries Would Handle Commodities, to Be Doled Out in Proportion to Regular Relief Food Purchases.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Agriculture Department will ask private retail grocers next week to co-operate with the Government in an experimental venture in distribution of food to families on relief.

The plan, a departure from present distribution methods, would enable relief clients to obtain surplus farm products from the grocery rather than from governmental relief agencies.

The proposal will be submitted Monday and Tuesday to a committee of the Food and Grocery Conference, a national organization of wholesalers and retailers.

The Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, an Agriculture Department agency, now buys surplus products and distributes them free through relief organizations. Under the new method, officials said, the corporation would distribute purchasing power rather than the surplus food itself. This purchasing power would be in the form of stamps of two colors—probably orange and blue.

How It Would Work.

When a relief client called for his money, he would be permitted to take part of it in stamps. For example, if he received $40 a month and spent $16 of it for food, he could take $24 in cash and $16 worth of orange stamps. He then would be entitled to blue stamps worth half the value of the orange stamps, or in this case $8.

The client could use the stamps for purchase of food at any grocery. The orange stamps could be used to buy any food item, while the blue ones could be used only for purchase of commodities designated by the Agriculture Department as surplus. The latter commodities would include citrus fruits, poultry and dairy products, fresh vegetables, lard and possibly other pork and fish products.

Thus, the client would get $24 worth of food supplies for $16. The plan is designed to increase food consumption of relief families. The orange stamps would be used to make sure that a family continued to spend as much for food in the future as in the past. Otherwise, the family might substitute food bought with the free blue stamps for commodities it otherwise would buy with its cash allowance.

Redemption of Stamps.

The stamps would be redeemed by the Government—the orange ones by the agency making the relief grant and the blue ones by the FSCC.

Officials said the new policy probably will be tried out first in five or six "representative" cities ranging between 50,000 and 300,000 in population. If it works satisfactorily, it may be extended to other cities. Meanwhile the FSCC will continue the present system elsewhere.

Advocates of the new plan expect a sharp competitive battle among wholesale and retail merchants for the increased business. This competition should result, they said, in a larger turnover, thereby making it possible for the dealer to charge a smaller profit. Such a development would work to the advantage of non-relief consumers as well as the low income groups, they said.

Officials expect private merchants to pledge co-operation. The new plans would eliminate a Government distribution system — an object of bitter attack by private business.

EXCHANGES TO OFFER S E C REVISION PLAN

Conference to Be Held in Washington This Week to Outline Program.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Cheered by the easing of the Securities & Exchange Commission's rule against short-selling in the Stock Exchange, Wall street brokers prepared today to suggest additional changes in Federal market regulations.

William McChesney Martin Jr., president of the New York exchange, heads a Wall street group which has assembled the suggestions for presentation in a nation-wide conference of stock exchanges to be held in the capital Monday and Tuesday.

Martin, one of the leaders in the "revolt" against the exchange's old guard, became its "reform" president last year but he has been outspoken in belief that the speculative urge to venture money in the market place is essential to healthy capitalism and that exchanges, even under Government control, should have more latitude in self-rule.

Wall Street's Proposals.

Some brokers say Wall street wants specifically:

Clarification of the laws to define just what is "manipulation" of security values, which the 1934 act barred.

Simplification of the data required for registration of securities with the SEC.

Modification of the so-called "gold-fish bowl" provisions of the SEC acts aimed at disclosure of the market operations of corporate "insiders."

Revision of both individual and corporate taxes to increase the incentive to take speculative risks, rated by some authorities the main shackle on Wall street activity.

Numerous technical changes in SEC laws and rules in light of experience with them the last few years.

Action This Session Sought.

Advocates of the changes say they are not attacking the spirit of the laws, only seeking modification based on pioneering experience with Federal control.

The Washington conference, it was said, will seek to draft a general program for submission to the SEC in an effort to get its approval for legislative proposals at this session of Congress.

Among cities expected to be represented are Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Richmond, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle, Washington and Wheeling.

U. S. DROPS INDICTMENTS AGAINST 5 IN OIL CASES

All Are Defendants Never Tried on Conspiracy Charges at Madison, Wis.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., March 11.—The Federal Government, on motion of its attorneys, has dismissed indictments in the major oil company conspiracy cases against five defendants who never were brought to trial, it is disclosed today.

United States Judges Patrick T. Stone of Madison and Walter C. Lindley of Danville, Ill., signed papers dismissing charges against John A. Brown of New York, vice-president of the Socony Vacuum Co.; D. W. Harris of Shreveport, La., general manager of the Louisiana Oil Co.; Bernard J. Majewski of Chicago, vice-president of Deep Rock Oil Co.; Keith Franshier, petroleum editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, and R. G. A. Vander Woude of New York, president of the Shell Union Oil Corporation.

A jury convicted 16 oil companies and 30 individuals, Jan. 22, 1938, of conspiracy to fix gasoline prices after several other defendants had been released by Judge Stone during the trial. Judge Stone set aside the jury verdict except as to 12 companies and five individuals, ordering retrials for some defendants. Jurisdiction in the oil cases was transferred later to Judge Lindley.

CANVASS OF PROSPECTIVE JURORS TO BEGIN TOMORROW

Forty Temporary Deputies to Aid in Six-Week Check for Circuit Court.

The biennial canvass of prospective jurors for the Circuit Court will begin tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by Jury Commissioner Patrick J. McNamara. Forty temporary deputies have been appointed by the Circuit Judges and Circuit Clerk H. Sam Priest, constituting the Board of Jury Supervisors. They will receive $5 a day, and it is expected the work of enrolling jurors will continue about six weeks.

Presiding Judge Robert J. Kirkwood has requested employers to co-operate with the canvassers by permitting them to interview employes relative to their qualifications as jurors. Residential neighborhoods also will be canvassed.

Before adoption of the central jury system two years ago, about 37,000 citizens were called for jury service each year. Under the new arrangement, only about 13,000 are to be called yearly, McNamara said. The Judges in general term meeting have adopted a rule providing that names of men who serve on juries shall be kept out of the jury wheel for two years thereafter.

WASHINGTON AVE. BUILDING LEASED BY SHOE CONCERN

Wohl Company to Occupy Eight-Story Structure at Northwest Corner of Sixteenth Street.

By Berry Moore

The Wohl Shoe Co. has taken a 20-year lease on the eight-story building at the northwest corner of Washington avenue and Sixteenth street, owned by the Maffitt Realty & Investment Co., of which Thomas S. Maffitt is president. It has a frontage of 115 feet on Washington, by a depth of 134 feet on Sixteenth, with a second frontage of 115 feet on Lucas avenue.

Arthur S. Martin & Son acted for the shoe company in the negotiations. Cornet & Zeibig, Inc., represented the Maffitt interests. Rental provisions of the lease were not disclosed.

Fireproof in construction, the building comprises 136,000 square feet of floor space, including the basement. It is equipped with three freight and two passenger elevators and sprinkler system.

National Distributor.

Distributor of nationally known brands of shoes, the Wohl company will occupy the entire building as its sales rooms and general offices. Possession is to be taken June 1.

The concern, of which David Wohl is president, is now housed in an eight-story building of 67,500 square feet of floor space at 1224-26 Washington avenue, owned by the Thomas Dunn estate, of which the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co. is co-trustee. It had occupied one-half of this building for 10 years, when in 1931 it took over the entire structure.

The newly leased building is opposite the Ely-Walker block at the northwest corner of Sixteenth street and Washington avenue.

Renews 15-Year Lease.

The Brown Shoe Co. recently renewed its lease on the eight-story fireproof building at the southeast corner of Seventeenth street and Washington avenue, for 15 years. This building, which is owned by the Liggett estate, is known as the "White House." Arthur S. Martin & Son handled the negotiations in this instance.

The St. Louis Brass Manufacturing Co., of which Edwin F. Guth is president, recently purchased a lot, 32 feet 6 inches by a depth of 120 feet, at 3625 Washington avenue through the Chauncey P. Heath Real Estate Co. It adjoins on the east the plants of the St. Louis Brass and Edwin F. Guth companies, manufacturers of lighting fixtures, embracing two five-story buildings, both owned in fee by the Guth interests. Whether the Guth interests plan to enlarge their present structures, comprising approximately 100,000 square feet of factory space, has not been disclosed.

The Guth interests own the three-story building at the northeast corner of Washington and Jefferson avenues, formerly occupied by the Edwin Guth Company, which purchased it in 1924 from the old Union Dairy Co. for a reported price of $175,000. This building has a frontage of 193 feet on Washington and 140 feet on Jefferson, extending through the block to Lucas avenue.

HOME BUILDING MUCH AHEAD OF YEAR AGO

One-Family Dwellings Built in January at Total Cost of $35,433,500.

Residential construction in the United States has begun 1939 with an exceptionally heavy increase over the early weeks of 1938, statisticians of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said yesterday.

Their figures showed that the building index of 56.9 for January was 133 per cent above the 24.4 index of January a year ago. January was also 31.7 per cent better than December, 1938, when the index was 43.2. The year 1926 is taken as the normal for a basis of comparison.

Throwing further light on this picture, the board's statistical advisers said that building material prices remained almost stationary between December and January, and showed a 2.5 per cent decline between January, this year, and January of 1938. The building material index was 89.5 in January and 89.4 in December, but it was 91.8 a year ago.

Foreclosures of homes in metropolitan cities continue to decrease in number, the index being 4 per cent less in January than in December, and 14.7 per cent less than January, 1938.

More one-family dwellings were built in January than in December and a far larger number than in January, 1938. The 9195 one-family units erected in January involved an estimated cost of $35,433,500, while the 8924 units built in December cost $36,178,900. In January, 1938, there were 6255 one-family units built at a total cost of $22,701,900.

Total residential construction, including larger homes and apartments, likewise was considerably larger in January than in December. There were 19,161 total residential units built in January at a cost of $64,518,200, while in December, 15,591 units cost $58,365,700. There was a decline in total units as compared with January, 1938, because of a falling off in residential permits in New York City, there being 29,017 units of all kinds of residential construction in that month for the country as a whole.

UNIVERSITY CITY TRACT PURCHASED FOR APARTMENTS

Builder Buys 700 Front Feet on South Side of Delmar Boulevard Between Center and Warder for 4-Unit Structures.

Approximately 700 front feet of ground on the south side of Delmar boulevard, between Center drive and old Bonhomme road, in University City, has been purchased by Samuel Rich, professional builder. The ground was owned by clients of Studt-Wilson, Inc., which handled the transaction. Valuations established were not disclosed.

The purchaser has plans for the erection of 15 four-family apartment buildings at an average estimated cost of $30,000, or a total of $450,000. Construction is scheduled to start as soon as financial arrangements have been completed.

The tract has a depth of 140 feet. It is the only remaining large unimproved parcel in this section of Delmar boulevard, not restricted against apartments. It overlooks Brittany Wood, a Sudt-Wilson development, with homes ranging in cost from $10,000 to $20,000, lying a block north of Delmar.

The southwest corner of Center drive and Delmar boulevard and the southeast corner of Delmar and old Bonhomme road, were not included in the Rich deal.

Both sides of Delmar between Warder avenue and Center drive are occupied by duplex houses and residences, chiefly built by Oliver J. Kraehe and associates and financed by the Edward K. Love Realty Co. These structures occupy a total of 1600 front feet, acquired by the builders in October, 1935.

Victor S. Sandrock of Victor Sandrock & Co., brokers, represented by Edward L. Bakewell, realtor, recently purchased four of these buildings—7808-10, 7812-16, 7822-24 and 7926-30 Delmar boulevard—owned individually by Kraehe. The buildings were given a total valuation of $80,000 in the deal, which involved a trade.

FUR CONCERN ADDS TO SPACE IN CLARKSON BUILDING

As additional space, the entire third floor of the Clarkson building at 312-14 North Sixth street, has been leased by the Landers-Pearlman Fur Co., which now occupies the entire second floor of this building.

The third floor will be occupied as work rooms and service department. Both floors will be remodeled The expansion was made necessary by increased business. The concern was established in St. Louis 22 years ago.

The building is owned by James M. Carpenter Realty Co., composed of James M. Carpenter and Clarkson Carpenter. It is directly opposite the Famous-Barr department store.

GREAT ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TO OPEN MARKET ON GRAND BL.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. will occupy the building nearing completion at the northeast corner of South Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue as a self-service super-market.

Constructed of buff-colored brick, with structural glass front, the building stands on a lot fronting 135 feet on Grand and 250 feet on Magnolia. It extends through the block to Alhambra Court.

Equipment, designed to provide maximum accessibility to all merchandise and displays, eliminates high-top shelving. The meat department and dairy case are equipped with modern Frigidaire systems. Ample parking space has been provided for the convenience of customers.

SEE HOME FINANCING DEMAND CONTINUING

Mortgage Moratorium Laws Inacted by Many States Are Expiring.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Although Uncle Sam already has billions of dollars at stake in home mortgages, experts had advised Congress to expect additional demands shortly for refinancing. Congressional committees have been told that mortgage moratorium laws enacted during the depression by numerous states were expiring and creating refinancing demands by many lenders.

Thomas S. Holden, a member of the National Business Advisory Council, stressed this yesterday in asking an extension and expansion of mortgage insurance powers of the Federal Housing Administration.

"I don't think that refinancing of homes is anywhere nearly completed," Holden said. "As long as it is not that serves as a drag on the construction industry."

Holden said the Home Owners Loan Corporation "did a splendid salvage job" between 1933 and 1936 when it refinanced nearly $3,000,000,000 in home mortgages.

He said the Federal Housing Administration since then had helped refinance about $800,000,000 worth of home mortgages as part of its program to stimulate new building.

In addition the Home Loan Bank system, which serves as a reserve for building and loan associations and other local home financing agencies, has assets of more than $4,000,000,000 outstanding.

Most of the shareholders in those savings and loan associations also are insured up to $5000 by a separate Government corporation operated as a part of the Home Loan Bank system.

Despite these services, Holden asserted a continuation of FHA insurance of old mortgages was necessary to keep the residential mortgage field liquid.

Numerous witnesses have testified that financing of new homes was comparable to financing of new cars because the purchaser first must have a market for the old product to serve as a down payment.

Chairman John H. Fahey of the Home Loan Bank system has opposed extension of the FHA's power to refinance existing home purchases, except as part of a new construction transaction.

Fahey contended that ample funds existed to meet these needs without Government insurance of mortgages.

He noted that home building in 1938 was six times as large as in 1934, and observed:

"It is a question if the building of new homes is not proceeding about as fast as we may reasonably expect."

Fahey also urged cautin in expanding the home mortgages debt.

The Home Loan Bank Board reported today that home construction in the early weeks of this year showed "an exceptionally heavy increase" over 1938.

The board said the building index of 56.9 for January was 133 per cent above the index of 24.4 for January, 1938. January also was 31.7 per cent better than December. The year 1926 is used as the normal for a basis of comparison.

DELEGATES TO OPPOSE LIMIT ON SIZE OF COAL IN ST. LOUIS

East Siders to Ask Aldermen Not to Forbid Sale of Lumps More Than Six Inches Thick.

East Side coal operators, miners and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will send a delegation to a St. Louis aldermanic committee hearing tomorrow afternoon, to protest against a proposed change in the smoke ordinance. Spokesmen for the group, however, don't expect the protest to "do any good."

The proposal, which is before the Public Safety Committee, would forbid the sale in St. Louis of lump coal more than six inches in diameter. Mining men contend 35 per cent of the East Side coal exceeds that size, and to break it up would be a costly operation.

"All our committee ought to do is tell the St. Louis officials they are driving a legitimate business into bankruptcy by asinine laws that won't do them any good," said George A. Brechnitz, former Mayor of Belleville. "We should also serve notice that we will file suit against them in Federal Court, for interfering with lawful interstate commerce."

The proposed revision is urged by Smoke Commissioner Raymond R. Tucker, who says the slow "stewing" of large lumps of coal materially increases smoke production. Coal containing less than 20 per cent volatile matter would be excepted.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

ABOUT a month ago I advertised for $2000 additional capital to expand a brilliant new business; apparently my ad wasn't clear enough, because the people who answered it were either just curious, stalling or didn't have $2000.

This business is 6 months old; it is brand-new in nature, being entirely my brain child; it has no assets upon which to base a loan; I don't want a loan; I'm offering a quarter interest in outright sale for $2000 cash, part of which is to be reinvested in additional advertising and expansion; its success is conclusively established but it won't appeal to a stodgy, old-time business mind.

It now is grossing about $500 a month, with a 50% profit, which means that on its present income, a quarter interest would return about $600 a year; with the proper expansion, it can be doubled or trebled within six months.

The person I want to talk to must be young enough in years and mind to have the vision to grasp the potentials; must have enough courage to back his judgment; he must have $2000 cash, of his own money, and be able to make up his own mind quickly; I'd prefer someone with a journalistic background, either man or woman.

I don't want curiosity seekers, nor investment syndicate scouts; I want a sincere, honest, well educated partner who can match me in youth, intelligence, vision and integrity, who can recognize something spectacular when he sees it, with the necessary funds to get on the band wagon.

This wordy ad is costing me a fortune, but it will be worth it if I can find the partner I'm looking for. Box O-367, Post-Dispatch.

H. W. PREHN

THANKS
TO MY 10,000
ST. LOUIS FRIENDS

Who have purchased new and used cars and patronized our service department since the organization of the Central Chevrolet Company.

Because of a better opportunity, I have disposed of my interest in the Central Chevrolet Co.

While Central Chevrolet Company was founded by me, the organization has been built to serve St. Louis in the sale and servicing of Chevrolets, a fine automobile, built by a grand manufacturer.

I want my friends to continue to give them every consideration and I know you will continue to receive the fine service that has been given you in the past.

It is with regret I leave Central Chevrolet, but an opportunity such as has been presented to me cannot be ignored.

Very truly yours,
CENTRAL CHEVROLET COMPANY,
By, H. W. Prehn

E. ST. LOUIS EMPLOYES PAY TO ELECTION FUND

No "Assessment," City Clerk Says—Jobholders Under Impression There Is.

The Boosters' Club of East St. Louis, organized to help re-elect city officials in the Municipal election, April 4, collected campaign funds from city employes last week when they received their pay checks. Payments were made Friday to Herbert Gilligan, treasurer of the club, and clerk in the City Treasurer's office.

City Clerk John Tierney, organizer of the club, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday no "assessment" had been made on city employes and that what they gave was a "voluntary contribution."

The situation as described by Tierney, however, was not as it was understood by many of the city employes. Several told a reporter the general impression was that contributions of 5 per cent of their annual salaries were expected. The monthly payroll averages $30,000, and if each employe gave 5 per cent the club would have received $18,000. Tierney refused to tell a reporter how much was collected.

The city officials who are seeking re-election are on the slate backed by Dan McGlynn, attorney and Republican political leader. There are no party designations in the election under the commission form of government in East St. Louis.

McGlynn's candidates are: Commissioner of Finance John T. Connors for Mayor; Commissioner Albert P. Lauman, Joe W. Ganschinietz and John P. English and Superintendent of Streets Leo Dougherty, for office of Commissioner.

TOWN BUILDS PARK THEN LEARNS IT'S ON RAILROAD'S LAND

So Prairie du Chien, Wis., Which Spent $100,000, Seeks Long Lease.

By the Associated Press.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., March 11.—City officials, deeply chagrined to learn the city had spent $100,000 in municipal and Government funds improving somebody else's property, began negotiations today to lease the land.

For five years Prairie du Chien has been working to fill in a five-acre park along the Mississippi River.

A memorial tree-planting program, carried on by school children, was getting under way when Mayor William J. Rider learned the park property belonged to the Milwaukee Railroad.

Rider said today the city had started negotiating with the road for a long-term lease.

DEMPSEY CHARITIES' SHAMROCK DAY DRIVE

Sale of Green Carnations Begins Today in Front of Churches.

The annual Shamrock day sale of green carnations in behalf of the Father Dempsey Charities will begin this morning in front of the Catholic churches of the city. On Thursday and Friday, St. Patrick's day, the flowers will be sold downtown. The charities are in charge of the Rev. James Johnston, successor to Mgr. Timothy Dempsey.

Among the purposes for which contributions will be used is to meet a $5000 deficit at the Father Dempsey Working Girls' Hotel and Convalescent Home. Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann has issued a proclamation declaring Friday to be Shamrock day, and urging donations "with the assurance that the funds realized will be used for the support of a most worthy enterprise."

The Mayor will buy his carnation today from Elda Vettori, Metropolitan Opera soprano, in a ceremony outside St. Patrick's Church, Sixth and Biddle streets, following the 11:45 o'clock mass. Miss Vettori, a native of St. Louis, will sing at the mass.

St. Patrick's day will be observed at St. Patrick's Church, where the late "Father Tim" was pastor, with a solemn high mass at 10 o'clock Friday morning. The Rev. J. F. English, pastor of the Church of the Epiphany, will preach the sermon.

Archbishop John J. Glennon will bless the bust of Mgr. Dempsey which has been placed in the niche outside the church. The fife and drum corps of St. Patrick's School will play Irish airs before and after the mass.

PHILIP HASSENDEUBEL 90; SMOKES 10 CIGARS A DAY

Philip Hassendeubel, president of the wholesale grocery company of that name, will observe his ninetieth birthday at his home, 2706 Wyoming street, today. Born in Germany, Mr. Hassendeubel came to St. Louis when he was 4 years old. In 1880 he founded the Hassendeubel Commission Co., later incorporated into the grocery firm, at Second street and Chouteau avenue.

A number of relatives, friends and business associates attended a birthday party yesterday at his home. Mr. Hassendeubel said he attributed his longevity to the fact he has always worked, slept and smoked regularly. "I smoke 10 cigars a day," he said, "and don't use a cane or glasses."

Theodore A. Meitz Funeral.

Funeral services for Theodore A. Meitz, employe of a shoe company for 40 years, who died Friday of complications resulting from a fall, will be at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Bethany Evangelical Church, with burial at St. John's Cemetery. Mr. Meitz, 77 years old, lived at 4328 Linton avenue. Surviving are his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Martha Grimm and Mrs. Hildegarde Fix.

Killing or Buying Out of Season Charged in Southeast Missouri.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 11.—The arrest and fining of 15 persons in Southeast Missouri on charges of violating State and Federal laws and regulations concerning the killing or buying of wild ducks out of season, through co-operation of State and Federal conservation agents and wardens and local officers, was announced this afternoon by the State Conservation Commission.

Five of the defendants were charged with buying ducks killed out of season, at prices said to be about 50 cents a duck, and were fined $50 each. The other 10 were charged with killing ducks out of season and fined amounts which, with costs, ranged from $18 to $41.50, and in two instances the hunter's decoy ducks and guns were confiscated.

The commission reported four defendants, all of Portageville, were fined $50 each in the Court of Justice of the Peace Andy L. Delisle at Portageville, on a charge of buying wild ducks. The reports listed them as C. H. Scott, cotton gin operator; Homer Burton, tavern owner; Tom Smith, tavern owner, and C. C. Fuller, truck line operator.

Henry C. Lane, tavern operator at Lilbourn, was fined $50 in the Court of Justice of the Peace S. P. Hunter at New Madrid on a charge of buying wild ducks.

The following 10, all of Point Pleasant, were listed as having been fined by Justice of the Peace Delisle at Portageville or Justice of the Peace Hunter at New Madrid on charges of killing wild ducks out of season: Paul Slaughter, Cecil C. Cline, J. W. McAlister, Wright Blair, Son Laws, Chester McCrady, James Moody, Charles Tatum, Stackerlee McAlister and James E. Young.

ROOSEVELT URGED TO SUPPORT PLAN TO SELL COAL TO BRAZIL

Congressmen Seek Reconditioning of Maritime Commission Ships to Stabilize Rates.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Representatives of coal-producing states seeking new markets for bituminous coal in Brazil asked President Roosevelt today for approval of a plan to recondition maritime commission vessels to stabilize coal freight rates.

Representatives Kee and Smith (Dem.), West Virginia, and Flanagan (Dem.), Virginia, joined in signing a telegram to Mr. Roosevelt, in which they pointed out that the Government-owned Brazilian railroads consume 600,000 tons of low-volatile coal annually and said contracts to supply it could be obtained if assurance were given of stable shipping costs. They proposed that the maritime commission subsidize shipping to stabilize the price under an authorization of from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

They estimated that coal could be delivered in Rio de Janeiro for about $7 a ton, and the Brazilian railroad business alone would mean $762,000 additional income for miners, $681,500 for railroad labor and improved employment at the docks at Hampton roads.

COUNTY CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY SHORT OF FUNDS

Directors Discuss Situation With More Cases on Hand and $200-a-Month Deficit.

Financial stringency which may prevent the County Division of the St. Louis Children's Aid Society from extending its services to children not now under its care was discussed by the society's board of directors yesterday.

Dudley French, president, reported the division had an operating deficit of $200 a month. The organization's 1939 United Charities allotment, $30,080, is the same as it was last year, but many more applications for aid have been accepted.

5000 Take Off, Few Return to Island at Lansing, Kan.

By the Associated Press.

LANSING, Kan., March 11.—For the last few weeks Warden Kirk Prather has been feeding about 5000 wild geese daily on the Kansas State prison island in the Missouri River. Each afternoon the geese take a short flight, then return for dinner just before nightfall.

The big flock took off at 4 p. m. yesterday, but when it circled back a fog covered the island. Lights of the prison apparently attracted the birds and they were heard honking over the walls during the night. Only a few of the birds had returned today.

Cleveland Youth Also Released From Jail After Examination.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, March 11.—Ray Stana, who sat for six hours on a lofty bridge girder "to attract the notice of some employers," received today two job offers and his release from jail. One offer came from a dry cleaning concern. The National Youth Administration said it would give the 19-year-old Stana a part-time position at $25 a month.

Stana was released from jail after county psychiatrists examined him. Police withdrew a disorderly conduct charge which was placed against Stana after firemen removed him from the girder yesterday.

YANKEES SHOW POWERFUL ATTACK IN BEATING CARDINALS

3 ROOKIES WHO WON 56 GAMES TO PITCH FOR BROWNS TODAY

By L. A. McMaster

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 11.—Pitchers Bill Trotter, Emil Bildilli and Harry Kimberlin will show Manager Fred Haney tomorrow the stuff that enabled them to win 56 games among them in the minor leagues, when the Browns open their San Antonio exhibition game schedule against the National League Phillies.

Except for Melo Almada, who will lead off and play center field, the St. Louis Americans will line up as they did when they defeated the Phillies, 6 to 5, at New Braunfels, in the first contest of the spring for both teams, Friday.

Following Almada in the batting list will be Beau Bell, playing right field; then will come McQuinn, first base; Clift, third; Hoag, left; Berardino, second; Gryska, short; Glenn, catcher, and the three pitchers, working three innings each, in the order named.

Sam Harshany probably will get in behind the plate.

Real Slugging.

Outfielder Mel Mazzera took the spotlight today in the batting drill which made up a good workout lasting nearly four hours. Mel drove a pitch over the scoreboard in right-center at Tech Field, at a point about 375 feet from the plate. Harshany also gave one a ride over the 340-foot left field wall, as did Harlond Clift, and Clift hit several others which nearly cleared the barrier.

Ten pitchers worked in hitting practice and with a hot sun bearing down and the temperature again up in the eighties, the hurlers, especially the younger fellows, were putting stuff on their deliveries.

Veterans taking turns on the mound were Russ Van Atta and Fred Johnson. A batted ball hit Johnson but after a rub, he was back on the firing line. All the curvers reported their arms felt fine, even Johnson, who has been in camp only a couple of days.

Billy Sullivan, 10 pounds over his playing weight of 165, donned a mask and pad and worked up a good perspiration.

Berardino Shows Punch.

Boss Haney called his infielders together for a pow-wow while the outfielders were having batting practice. Of course, the old middle bag partners, Red Kress and Don Heffner, are still not at camp and nothing has been heard from them. But Haney is sweet on Berardino, the California collegian, anyhow, and is not worried about the middle bag. Berardino gave signs today of the punch which gave him a .309 hitting average in the Texas League last year.

Among the hardest workers in the camp is Johnny Marcum, righthander obtained in trade from the Boston Red Sox. Johnny spends all his off-the-infield moments running in the outfield, with a rubber jacket over his shirt to help bring down his weight. He reports his arm feels fine.

Outfielder Eddie Silber, who nursed two beer-bottle type bats all winter, has broken both of them in practice.

An infield drill and a fly-shagging session for the outfielders wound up the practice today.

At the close, Pitcher Buck Newsom cheered his mates on at the park.

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., March 11.—Manager Doc Protho of the Phillies refused to count his freshmen before they are hatched, and continued the incubation today by polishing off rough spots. He gave his "four kids from the Class D circuits"—Lomas, Burkart, Gross and Dickinson—credit for a "fine job" of hurling against the Browns in the opening exhibition, but said he wanted to study their wares further.

Newsom and Mills Are Unsigned After Long Conferences

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March. 11.

BUCK NEWSOM and Howard Mills, the Browns' two star holdouts, failed to reach agreements after long conferences with Vice-President Bill DeWitt over salary differences this afternoon.

DeWitt first talked to Southpaw Mills for an hour and a half and then was closeted for quite some time with Newsom, and although Buck and DeWitt left the hotel together, the former is still unsigned. The big righthander stayed here overnight.

Newsom, who won 20 games last season, originally demanded $22,500 for the coming season but now says he will sign for $20,000.

WOOD RIVER FIVE WINS SECTIONAL TOURNEY FINAL

For the first time in the history of the school, Wood River will send a basketball team to the Illinois State championship tournament at Champaign. It defeated Collinsville, 23-21, in the sectional final at Edwardsville last night before a capacity crowd of 2000.

Wood River will meet Moline Thursday morning in the first round of the State tourney.

This was the second straight year Collinsville has gained the sectional final and lost. It was beaten in the last 20 seconds of the Wood River game, as Maurice Stark sank the winning basket, making a one-handed shot from the side.

Stark was the big gun of Wood River's final drive, scoring all of the team's seven points in the last period as Collinsville got only four. Stark had a total of 10 points.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 11.—Joplin, sparked by smiling little Gaylon Enos, defeated St. Louis University High School, 39 to 31, tonight for the Missouri Class A High School basketball crown.

Houston, the 1938 champions, took over third place by defeating Trenton, 27 to 20. Trenton, one of the early favorites for the 1939 crown, was held scoreless during the first quarter while Houston collected seven points.

Enos only 5 foot 7, scampered all over the court, sinking 13 points. Seven of his tallies were made from the free throw line as the Junior Billikens fouled repeatedly in attempting to corral the hustling forward.

Paul Saey, the left-handed ace of the St. Louis squad, missed his first four attempts but after finding the range clicked for six baskets from near the free throw line.

The first quarter ended with Joplin ahead, 7 to 6. But St. Louis built up a 17 to 14 advantage at the half on two more shots by Saey while Joplin, scoring only twice from the field during the first half, added to its total on free throws.

It was after the intermission that Enos came into his own. He tore around the court and midway in the session cut St. Louis' lead to a single point with a looping shot from far out.

Bennett put Joplin into the lead with a basket. Charles Green, a guard, took a long pass from Enos for another goal and Bennett brought the third quarter to a close by sinking one from the side with the ball in the air as the period ended, 28 to 24, in Joplin's favor.

The teams battled point for point in the fnal eight minutes with Enos getting seven of Joplin's 11 tallies.

Joplin replaces Houston as the champion.

William Chrisman High of Independence downed Paseo of Kansas City 22 to 21 in the consolation final.

WRAY'S COLUMN

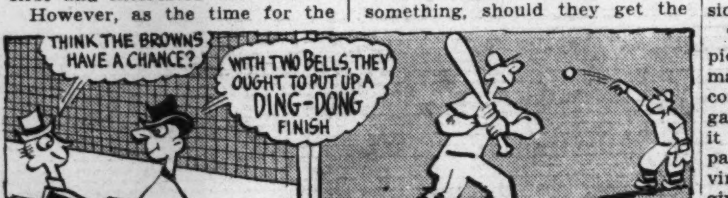
What, No Hope?

"HOPE springs eternal," some guy wrote; but in St. Louis Hope's springs seem to have broken down. After talking to numerous fans here you find that, as concerns our baseball teams, Hope not only doesn't spring, but can't even limp. Fallen arches is our diagnosis.

Try to build a fire under a Mound City fan. You'll need a blow torch and even then all you'd produce is a yawn. "Neither team is going anywhere" is the prevailing attitude, and the subject is dismissed, with scant encouragement.

"It looks like second division" for both clubs, to most of the grandstand critics of previous years. And in this sector of Missouri the boys have to be shown first and interested afterwards.

However, as the time for the buds to open comes around, perhaps a little more attractive prospect will develop. The Cardinals with a Mize, a Medwick and a pretty fair setting of talent for these stars, could wake up the league if Paul Dean should come through and if a few of the bad breaks of last year turn out happily this season.



THINK THE BROWNS HAVE A CHANCE?
WITH TWO BELLS, THEY OUGHT TO PUT UP A DING-DONG FINISH

Two Sure-Thing Forecasts.

IN FACT, THE NATIONAL being what it is—ask Tom Meany—almost anything can happen except one. You can't do anything about the Phils. They seem as a big a cinch for the cellar as the Yanks do for the world championship.

There isn't a powerhouse in the league; no team that's fully rounded out in every department. The Giants look like the IF table; the Cubs seem no stronger than last year, and even as flag winners they surely looked feeble against the Yanks; the Reds have hopes and some good pitching; the Pirates are always a threat and nothing more; the Cardinals have some real power and will do better than last year, almost to a certainty. The remainder of the league you can forget.

The Cardinals COULD do something, should they get the good breaks; and, at that, they don't need as many as the Giants do, in this writer's opinion. If Mize and Medwick get off to a good start, we may yet be cheering the Redbirds at Sportsman's Park.

Browns Just a Guess.

THE BROWNS probably will improve because they couldn't very well be worse than the 1938 edition. Beau Bell, an "every other year" star, is due to go places with the bat this year, after a bad season last campaign.

Harlond Clift and McQuinn are still two of the league's greatest infielders and they carry a big punch; the catching department looks improved, on paper; Buck Newsom is a pitching ace of

BORICAN BEATS CUNNINGHAM IN RECORD "1000"

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Glenn Cunningham, beaten only once in 11 previous races this season, was whipped in both his starts tonight, as long John Borican ran the fastest 1000 yards on record to beat him by two yards in this Special and the Kansan then ran last in the Columbian Mile at the Knights of Columbus Games at Madison Square Garden.

Showing little interest in extending a winning streak that had run through the last six mile races in this meet, Cunningham astonished the crowd of 15,000 by running a lifeless race. He was a full 40 yards back as Chuck Fenske of Wisconsin broke the tape in 4 minutes 11.1 seconds, seven yards in front of Gene Venzke, with Archie San Romani third.

Cunningham revealed after the mile that he had had a temperature of 101 before the start of the 1000, and that it was still at 99 when he toed the mark for the mile. Glenn said he had suffered an attack of influenza this week, and in addition had driven 2500 miles as part of his job in the extension division of Kansas University.

The sturdy Kansan, usually a picture of health and always a man who keeps himself in tip-top condition, looked drawn and haggard. In view of the circumstances, it was a remarkable effort on his part to start in either race and virtually a super-human feat to give Borican the battle he did in the shorter of their two clashes.

Borican got away at the gun so fast with such a margin that it appeared quite likely he might have beaten the gun. If he did, though, it seemed to most observers that McHugh should have called them back then and there.

It was Cunningham's second defeat of the winter, the second by Borican and the second at this distance.

But Borican's record breaking performance was clouded by the refusal of Starter McHugh to sign the affidavit. McHugh claimed Borican beat the gun. His signature is required before the new standard can go on the books.

Nor was the Negro ace's triumph entirely satisfactory to the crowd that turned out for this final meet of the Garden season, lured by the prospect of seeing both

REDBIRDS, CHARGED WITH ONLY ONE ERROR, MAKE MANY OTHER MISTAKES

Bright Spots in 6-4 Defeat Are Catching of Don Padgett, Play of Orengo at Short and Pitching of Shoun—Blades' Men Show Speed.

By J. Roy Stockton

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11.—The Cardinals, making their 1939 bow under the direction of Raymond Francis Blades, were high on mistakes and low in base hits at Water Front Park this afternoon and the New York Yankees rather easily took the lead in competition for the championship of St. Petersburg, winning the opening game, 6 to 4.

Atley Donald, Marius Russo and Albert Piechota, three recruit pitchers, held the Cardinals to eight hits, while the world champions gathered 14 off the delivery of Bob Bowman, recruit from Rochester, Clyde Shoun of the Dizzy Dean trade and Bill McGee of Mudcat fame.

It was to be expected that the Cardinals would not match the powerhouse team of Joe McCarthy in the matter of slugging, but the frequency with which the Redbirds blundered was a bit discouraging. There was only one error chalked against the Gas House Gang in the box score, but there were other mistakes not recorded in the official tabular record.

To name only a few of them, Enos Slaughter wrestled valiantly with a base hit by Buddy Rosar and turned it into a home run; Joe Orengo made a low throw with a double play in prospect; Don Gutteridge let a grounder hit straight to him filter through his hands, and dropped a pop foul; Sam Narron ran in a circle trying to catch up with a pop foul, and, to take a run right out of the team's pocket, Stuart Martin tried to advance from second to third and was thrown out as Lynn Myers was trying to carry a run over the plate.

Might Have Fared Better.

The jittery defense made the Cardinal pitching look worse than it really was. Bowman might have fared better as he yielded four hits and three runs and Shoun and McGee were handicapped by wobbly support.

However, Manager Blades said he didn't care so much about winning the spring exhibition games, that the purpose of these contests was to find out about the players and he probably had many things in his notebook after 19 of his athletes had participated in the Grapefruit League opener.

Bowman, hurling the first three innings, retired the first two batters in the opening inning. Then Gallagher walked and DiMaggio's high pop fly fell in short right near the foul line, a triple because you have to play deep for the California Italian. Dahlgren's single and Rosar's hit to right, on which Slaughter couldn't pick up the ball, accounted for the other runs off Bowman.

Dahlgren greeted Shoun with a double in the fourth inning, took third after Rosar's fly and scored on Jake Powell's tap toward the box by knocking over Padgett as Don tried to take Shoun's throw.

Bill McGee hurled the last three frames and yielded a run in the seventh on three singles and another in the eighth on a single, stolen base, a walk and a double by Gallagher.

Two walks, with a double by Terry Moore in between, filled the bases for the Cards in the third, and two runs crossed the plate on infield outs, grounders by Slaughter and Mize to Joe Gordon. A two-base wild throw by Knickerbocker put Sturdy on second in the fourth and Orengo drove Sturdy home with a sharp single to center.

Padgett Does Good Job.

Doubles by Mize and Stuart Martin produced the fourth Cardinal run in the eighth. It was in this frame that Stuart tried for third while Myers, running for Narron, was speeding toward home with a run, nullified when Stuart's out ended the inning before Lynn could touch the plate.

There were a few pleasing things about the game, witnessed by 5110 cash customers. Don Padgett did a neat job of catching for four innings. He had a passed ball, but looked like a veteran on a pop foul, which he caught on the run near the backstop, without the sign of a stagger. This was encouraging in view of the difficulty he has had in practice on the high flies.

Orengo looked like a smooth workman at short and Shoun's pitching was impressive. And no doubt about it, the Cardinals have speed. They can go places in a hurry, but Blades probably will stress during workouts in the next few days that it is highly important to know where you're going, too.

The second game of the series will be played this afternoon, with Tom Sunkel, Morton Cooper and Lee Sherrill pitching for the Cardinals and Steve Sundra. Joe Beggs and Jack Haley likely to work for the World Champions.

Gus Suhr Signs Contract; Paul Waner Still Holdout

By the Associated Press.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 11.—Captain and First Baseman Gus Suhr today signed a contract for his tenth season with the Pittsburgh Pirates, reducing the Buc 1939 holdout list to Outfielder Paul Waner. Suhr was reported to have accepted a salary in the neighborhood of $8000, less than $1000 under his last year's pay.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 11.—Fred Hutchinson, high priced rookie, will make his debut as a Detroit Tiger pitcher when he goes to the hill in an intra-squad game here tomorrow, Manager Del Baker announced tonight. The 19-year-old righthander won 27 games and lost but five last season for the Seattle Club of the Pacific Coast League. Opposing Hutchinson will be Vernon Kennedy, veteran Tiger flinger. Tommy Bridges and Archie McKain will work the last three innings for the rival clubs, Baker said.

PASADENA, Cal., March 11.—Rookie Chicago White Sox pitchers will get a chance to show their stuff tomorrow when the team makes its initial exhibition game appearance against a Pasadena semi-pro nine.

Manager Jimmy Dykes has assigned hurling chores to Jess Dobernic, Tom Fleming and Jim Scott Jr., son of the White Sox mound ace of two decades ago. Aside from the pitching, regulars will compose the White Sox lineup.

AVALON, Cal., March 11.—The fine showing of Hank Leiber and Jim Gleeson in early drills has simplified the outfield worries of Chicago Cubs' manager, Gabby Hartnett.

Leiber is looking great in the field and at bat. Gleeson has the speed and plate power that Hartnett has been looking for. If they continue their impressive work, it appears certain these two and Augie Galan will make up the starting outfield when the season opens.

El Chico is the early favorite among the 115 nominations for the Kentucky Derby, May 6. He is generally held at 6 to 1, but in some books he's as low as 4 to 1.

El Chico Held as Low as 4-1 In Some Derby "Future" Books

Even the St. Louis layers of odds, those who are making future books on the Kentucky Derby, cannot agree on the prices against the outstanding horses nominated for the May 6 classic. For instance, Charles Burke's price on El Chico, the favorite, is 6 to 1, whereas, James J. Carroll has the William Ziegler colt listed at only 4-1.

That, however, is not the only discrepancy. Burke has Challedon and Technician as his second choices at 10 to 1, whereas Carroll has Technician at 12 and Challedon at 15. Johnstown, Carroll's second choice at 10-1 is 12-1 in Burke's book. Each has Benefactor, E. R. Bradley's hope at 12-1. Porter's Mite and Xalapa Clown are held at 15-1 by Burke and 20-1 by Carroll.

Uhlemeyer and W. Cochran on Valley All-Star Basket Team

By James M. Gould

With coaches of basketball teams in the Missouri Valley Conference participating in the poll, at the request of the Post-Dispatch, first and second All-Valley teams have been chosen for the 1938-1939 season which ended in a title-tie between the Oklahoma Aggies and the Bulldogs of Drake University.

Five schools are represented on the first team, four have representatives on the second combination.

Two of the first-team members—Griffith of Drake, a forward, and Center Roh of Creighton—were unanimous choices of those voting. Both St. Louis conference members won first-team honors with Dolph Uhlemeyer of Washington making one guard position and Capt. Bill Cochran of St. Louis U. landing the other. Paired with Griffith at forward is Renick, the Indian player of the Oklahoma Aggies who received only one vote short of the possible maximum.

This first team, undoubtedly, would prove the strongest to be chosen. Griffith, a veteran, was of the greatest assistance in helping his team to a tie for the championship with the Aggies and Renick, a beautiful ball-handler and one of the fastest in the conference, would pair nicely with the Drake representative.

At center, there could be no finer choice than Roh of Creighton, high-scorer for his team and the mainstay, throughout the season, of Coach Eddie Hickey's Blue Jays. Roh, a three-letter basketball man, closed his college career this season.

There was more balloting for the guards than for the other three positions but both Uhlemeyer and Cochran came out with clear majorities. Uhlemeyer was the Washington U. spark-plug and though the Billikens had a disastrous season, it could have been and would have been even worse but for the generally fine consistent play of Bill Cochran. This first team would have just about everything—basketball sense, speed and ability to handle the ball.

All-Valley Basketball Team

Griffith (Drake)	F	Slade (Aggies)
Renick (Aggies)	F	Luther (Grinnell)
Roh (Creighton)	C	Kelley (Tulsa)
Uhlem'er (Wash)	G	Shaw (Creig'ton)
W. Coch'n (St.L.)	G.	Sizemore (Tulsa)

Honorable mention: Ehler (Tulsa); O'Conner (Drake); Luick (Grinnell); Patterson (Tulsa); Scheffler (Aggies).

Only a step behind in general ability would be the second combination which would show Slade of the Aggies and Luther of Grinnell at the forward psitions; Kelley of Tulsa at center, the veteran Shaw of Creighton and Sizemore of Tulsa at the guards.

Shaw, for two seasons, was a conference high scorer and though he had a comparatively poor campaign deserved second-team recognition. He was on the first team a year ago as was Roh.

He flew through the air with the greatest of ease,
And knocked out Steve Casey as neat as you please,

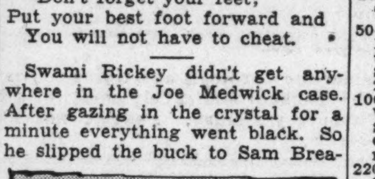
Swami Rickey didn't get anywhere in the Joe Medwick case. After gazing in the crystal for a minute everything went black. So he slipped the buck to Sam Breadon and winged his way coastward for a shot at the small fry.



Mickey Owen, who started his holdout at $12,500, but later offered to settle for $7500, plus a bonus of $2500 if he hit .300 or better, has capitulated, but the terms of surrender have not been made public. The Swami probably read his mind and then bet him five bucks or a new hat that he was thinking of seven thousand berries in round numbers.

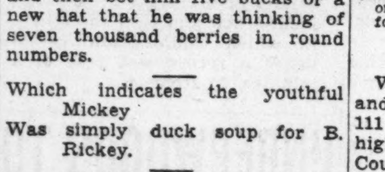
Buck Newsom is holding out for $22,500, but will settle for $21,250. Buck will always meet you half way.



BUT, $22,500 ??

In the meantime if Buck signs up before the foregoing comes under the scrutiny of the all-seeing public eye (which he probably will) just throw it out.

NOTRE DAME TRACK MEN WIN CENTRAL CONFERENCE MEET

By the Associated Press.

The Irish piled up 45 points, 13 more than Marquette, runnerup.

DON BUDGE AND PERRY TO PLAY HERE APRIL 17

Donald Budge, red-haired California tennis professional, will meet Fred Perry, former amateur champion of England and the United States, in a match at the Washington University Field House on April 17, according to an announcement made last night by Ike Macy, chairman of the local committee on arrangements. The match will be part of the tour which the two players are making around the country.

Although Budge trimmed Perry rather easily in their opening match at Madison Square Garden in New York on March 10, the English star is not a bit discouraged. It will probably take a week or more for Perry to get in condition to give Budge a real battle. Budge has just finished a tour with Ellsworth Vines, while Perry has only been practising around New York for the past few days.

Perry has been in St. Louis a number of times in recent years and has always been a drawing card. His first appearance was as an amateur. He and Bunny Austin, another English star, played an exhibition match at Lewis Park, University City, in 1933. Three years later Perry turned pro and has since visited here several times with Vines and other top-ranking professionals.

Budge in Straight Sets.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 11.—Peerless Don Budge tonight raced through Fred Perry, former British Davis Cup ace, in straight sets for the second night in succession, taking the second match of their cross-country professional tour 6-0, 6-2, 8-6.

A paid Boston Garden crowd of 3753—held down in size by a New England snowstorm—saw Budge pick up where he left off in New York last night, and easily take nine straight games.

the first water. The club really does not appear hopeless. With improved pitching from some of the new men, the team has the punch and the defense to put up a fight.

However, it too is another IF club—and guessing ALL the answers is too much for this clairvoyant.

We'll just say that a big improvement in the Browns could happen.

So could a miracle; but it's been a long time since the last one. We still hope that when they page the Miracle Man of the 1939 baseball season, Manager Fred Haney will answer the call.

Metropolitan Monopoly.

MIKE JACOBS more and more resembles an octopus. Mike's rise in the world began when he got his hands on some Tex Rickard fight tickets and pyramided them a hundred per cent by "brokerage," alias scalping.

Today he not only has his hands on ALL the championship fight tickets, but his tentacles have wrapped around all of the available champions and challengers that have color and drawing power. His coils also embrace all the available out-of-door promoting spots in the City of New York and vicinity.

A rival promoter yearning to stage a title fight would have to hire the boxers, the park and the ticket-selling setup from Mike. He owns the whole show.

Now of course nobody can blame Uncle Mike for making things easy for himself. If he didn't tie up the fighters, their managers would tie up him. So Mike shut off all competition and all argument.

The result is seen in this summer's metropolitan fight program which contemplates the following features:

Max Baer and Lou Nova at Long Island Bowl.

And the winner (Baer is the guess) against Louis in a September outdoor show at one of the ball parks.

Having tied up the three-outstanding outdoor arenas, Mike is obligated to give each one a big show during the summer. So, as far as New York fans are concerned, it appears that Uncle Mike is proving a benevolent sort of octopus, who gives the fans what they want. And gets what he wants—plenty of jack.

Fists Really Will Fly.

WHILE WE STILL FIND it difficult to visualize the 31-year old Lew Feldman dethroning the rugged perpetual motion fighter Henry Armstrong in their scheduled 15-round encounter here this week, the Larry Atkins program for the evening has plenty of highlights.

There's Archie Moore, the dusky dynamiter from the Slaughter A. C., who has been throwing his good-night wallop around with great abandon (and success). He will oppose Nate Lewis' sturdy fighter Marty Simmons. Marty is considered plenty tough and game. He should give Moore the best test of his career—at least Nate Lewis says so.

Then there's the 10-rounder between Leo Rodak, N. B. A. featherweight champion, and Everett Rightmire, a boxer who will make the oldtimers recall the Streator Cyclone. Rightmire is really fast and clever, and Rodak rates championship status.

As for the main event, Feldman is clever but can't hit very hard, his record indicates. You just can't figure him ducking successfully for 15 rounds the storm Hurricane Henry puts on. He lasted five rounds in a previous fight with Armstrong and if Henry is not in too big a hurry, Lew may do better this time. In Chicago they're picking this fight to last three rounds.

It Is All Wrong.

EL CHICO, the favorite locally over a field of 115 nominations for the Kentucky Derby was quoted today at as low as 4 to 1.

That's one of the best laughs of the many that future book odds have afforded us in the past. El Chico's a runt—he was last year at any rate—that never raced over six and one-half furlongs. His condition is not known and his ability to go a route is still untested. His fitness has yet to be established. Yet he's rated at a price which would be short at post-time.

Last year they made Stagehand 4 to 1, but there was reason for fearing him. He had won several winter stakes including the Santa Anita Derby and had beaten Seabiscuit in a driving finish for $100,000.

Yet even he didn't get to the post.

El Chico may be all that is claimed for him; but 10 to 1 would seem a proper price.

Hall to Meet Roche.

Dr. Len Hall, Nebraskan who has spent much of his wrestling career on foreign soil and who turned up in St. Louis several weeks ago, will meet Dorv Roche of Decatur, Ill., in the featured performance of the Coliseum wrestling show Friday night.

Two Kings and Heir Apparent

PACKED HOUSE AT ARMSTRONG WORKOUT HERE

Henry Armstrong, St. Louis Negro who defends his lightweight and welterweight boxing championships against Lew Feldman at the Auditorium Thursday night, opened his training for the bout at the Slaughter A. C. yesterday before a house packed with his admirers.

Hammering Henry didn't do any boxing but contented himself with limbering exercises but announced he would box this afternoon.

The double champion has been a pretty busy boy lately with fighting and exhibitions, so doesn't feel the need of any unusual preparation for the Feldman match. He said that he had no trouble with weight because moving around as much as he does he constantly loses weight and only weighs about 135 pounds now. That's the figure for the match.

Milton Jones, who captured a western Golden Gloves title in Chicago Friday, was a visitor at the gymnasium and was introduced to Armstrong.

Feldman worked five rounds with Jack Conway and Billy Born at the Business Men's gymnasium and he'll take a day off today, as he has been working so strenuously he's afraid he might go stale.

Both Armstrong and Feldman are unusually active battlers and are always in good condition.

Borican and Cunningham try for a double. For Borican, who started on the pole and streaked in to the lead at the gun, ran a front race all the way and carried Cunningham out into the middle of the track down the last two straightaways.

New record or not, Borican's time bettered Cunningham's indoor mark of 2:10.1, set in this meet on March 16, 1935, and also surpassed the official world outdoor mark of 2:09.7 set by Elroy Robinson of San Francisco on May 15, 1937. Cunningham's time also bettered both of those standards. Glenn was clocked in 2:09.2, but since there were only two official timers for his second-place effort, it cannot be accepted as a record in case Borican's application should be refused.

Borican, coming back for the second half of his attempted double, finished strong to take second place behind national 600-meter champion Charley Beetham of the sixty-ninth regiment A. A. in the twentieth running of the classic Casey 600. Beetham hit the tape in 1:11.3, only two-tenths of a second off the world record.

ST. LOUIS CLUB IS DENIED RIGHT TO USE MILLER

Other Clubs in Playoffs Protest Eligibility of Center Obtained From Wichita.

By W. J. McGoogan

St. Paul, which finished fourth in the American Hockey Association, opposes the Flyers at the Arena tonight in the first of a four-game semifinal playoff series to determine the championship of the circuit. In the other semifinal Tulsa opposes Minneapolis. The second game of the series will be played at the Arena Tuesday night after which the Flyers go to St. Paul for games next Thursday and Saturday, if necessary.

In the semifinals, victories, of course, determine the winner unless neither team is able to win a majority of the contests, then total goals count. All games are played to a decision.

The Flyers are in a crippled condition for the title contests with Fred Hergert out of the lineup and with Ralph Taylor, sturdy defense man, still suffering from a back injury. He may play but he won't be at the top of his efficiency. Otherwise the players are ready.

Miller Unavailable.

Mike Miller was obtained from Wichita Friday and it had been hoped that he would be allowed to play n the playoffs despite the fact that it would be necessary for the league to waive a rule to permit him to do so. President William F. Grant had given permission for the St. Louis team to obtain Miller but when St. Paul, Minneapolis and Tulsa protested his being allowed to play Grant had to rescind his permission.

So the Flyers' effort to strengthen in that direction came to naught.

Perhaps because of the weakened condition of the St. Louis team and the fact that St. Paul has been going strong lately there is a pessimistic note about the St. Paul series around the Flyer club. Not the players so much as the officials seem to view the coming set with alarm, although there is really nothing on the season's play between the two clubs which should cause undue worry on the part of the Flyers.

The St. Louis team won five and lost three against St. Paul, winning two and losing two in St. Paul while winning three and losing one at The Arena.

St. Paul Won at Arena.

St. Paul, of course, is the only visiting team which was able to win from the Flyers at home this winter.

In the four games at St. Paul each club scored seven goals while here in four contests the Flyers counted 18 goals to 12 for St. Paul.

Also the Flyers, through the season, appeared to be a stronger club offensively and defensively than the Saints, the Flyers scoring 183 goals against 149 for St. Paul, a difference of 34 tallies in favor of St. Louis while the St. Louis defense slipped only 95 times against 142 for the Saints, a difference of 47 goals.

Should the Flyers get through the semi-final series and, assuming that Minneapolis defeats Tulsa, the final series will open in Minneapolis probably March 22, with another game there March 25. The final three games, if necessary, are to be played here March 28, March 30 and April 2.

Dietmeiers Take Doubles Lead in Bowling Tourney

Edward and Lee Dietmeier rolled into first place in the doubles competition of the annual City handicap bowling tournament at Rogers Recreation. The brothers scored a grand total of 1406 late yesterday afternoon to displace Clarence Hoefle and Earl Winz who had 1384. The Dietmeier brothers had 1163 scratch and received a handicap of 243 pins.

Other doubles scores which landed high in the list were W. Bernte and F. Albers, with 1333, and Jake Rohrbach and Lee Martin, with 1328.

In the team event, the Stack Department team took over twelfth place with 3022, rolling 2644 scratch and taking a handicap of 378.

Soccer Stars in Muny Playoff

The Stratmann brothers, Joe on the left and Ed on the right, lead the forward line of the Zeltman club in today's Municipal League playoff game against the young Tait club. Both Stratmanns were members of the champion Shamrock club at the start of the 1937 season.

extra innings by J. Roy Stockton

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11.

Mr. Opportunity Knocks.

One of the best breaks the Cardinals of 1939 could have would be to have a tall, red-faced, sorrel-topped young man named Don Padgett develop into a major league catcher of parts. And it also would be a great break for Padgett if he could overcome the difficulties of the transformation from outfielder to receiver. He quickly would be able to demand and command a far fatter salary than he ever would earn as an outfielder.

What did Senor Miguel Angel Gonzalez, once a great receiver in his own right, think about Padgett's prospects.

"I see him like this," the Senor replied. "If Don likee catch eenuff, maybe she can do eassy. But if he no like, I tole you you waste plenty time and he never learne catch pop flies and low pitch. And that's one trouble I see. I think maybe she don't like catch eenuff."

He's Ready to Try.

Don was a holdout for a brief period this spring, but he happened to come to St. Petersburg on the same train with one Branch Rickey and of course a stouter man than Padgett would have been softened up by a shorter trip with the Great Orator. Padgett was still almost speechless when we met him a few moments after his arrival. How about his contract? He was going to sign in a few minutes. Was the haggling over Rickey's plan to make a catcher out of him? No, that was all right.

"I'm going to be a catcher," Padgett grinned. "Yes, I'm going to give it a good whirl."

Padgett has many advantages over any other receiver-candidates on the squad. He is highly intelligent, on and off the field. He has splendid team spirit, loves to play every day, and most important, he can rattle base hits against the most distant fences.

As Breadon Sees It.

Sam Breadon, owner of the club and a red hot fan, was watching batting practice. Padgett, who had been catching, threw off his mask when it was his turn to hit and took his place in the batter's box, with shin-guards and protector as extra impedimenta. He lined deep to right-center and then rattled one against the right field wall. He punched an outside pitch sharply to left field.

"What a break if we could have him in the lineup as a catcher every day," Breadon said with happy optimism.

And what a break it would be! Yes, Padgett could add tremendously to the power in the lower part of the Cardinal batting order. For he's a much better hitter than the .270 average of the unhappy 1938 season would indicate.

Padgett has only two major difficulties to overcome. He has shown that he can handle the sign-flashing part of the business and under Frank Frisch's tutelage, he displayed surprising knowledge of the strength and weaknesses of the National League batsmen. He can hit and he can run and he can throw.

The Two High Hurdles.

If Padgett could learn to catch pop fouls and to shift his hands properly to catch and block low pitches, he'd be on his way to quick prosperity in the baseball business. We don't know what his contract calls for in the way of salary this season, but it probably isn't as much as $6000. If he could master the pop fly problem and handle low pitches, he could talk in terms of $10,000 come next February and dotted-line time.

Undoubtedly in the next few days, Manager Blades will inaugurate special coaching for Padgett. He ought to spend an hour in the morning and another hour in the afternoon, judging and catching pop flies. And he ought to spend other hours catching pitchers instructed to throw alternately high and low, inside and outside. Such specialized courses of instruction could pay big dividends to the Cardinals and to the sorrel-topped Padgett.

Kansas City Men Sweep Handball Contests Here

Kansas City's handball squad made a clean sweep of the four exhibition matches played against Downtown Y. M. C. A. players here yesterday afternoon.

Jerry Encoe of the Kansas City "Y," holder of both the Greater Kansas City and Missouri Valley singles titles, scored a 17-21, 21-14 and 21-11 victory over Harold Srenco in one of the two singles matches played. In the other match, Jack Srenco, former Downtown "Y" and Ozark A. A. U. champion, lost out to Ed Rawlins of the Kansas City Athletic Club, 13-21, 21-10, 21-17. Rawlins trailed Jack, 8-1, in the second game and made 17 straight points to win.

In the doubles matches, Luke Russell and Bud Kemmerer, holders of the Heart-of-America doubles laurels, defeated John Raymond and Joe Tovil, 21-15, 21-16, while Clifford Goodman and Wally Winkler disposed of Simon Wolff and Herb Buschart, 19-21, 21-19, 21-12.

The St. Louis handball squad will play yesterday's invaders in a return series at Kansas City next Saturday afternoon.

SOCCER YOUTHS FACE VETERANS IN PLAYOFFS

By Dent McSkimming

The rise of the younger element in local soccer is very easily apparent today as four clubs of the Municipal Association present the second-round matches of the annual championship series.

One of the four, Plaza A. C., is champion of the Intermediate Division in which players are restricted to 20 years of age, and another, the R. H. Tait club, was champion of the same Intermediate group last season. Today these youngsters are paired against older teams, the Taits to meet the Zeltmans, champions of Sherman Park, and Plaza to oppose the Schumachers, champions of Carondelet Park. Play at Grounds Two, Fairground Park, starts at 1 p. m.

Defeat in today's game is damaging to a team's title aspirations but is not necessarily fatal for the series is conducted on a two-defeats-and-out basis. Losers in today's games meet next Sunday when one will be eliminated as were the Gems and Moloneys last Sunday. The Schumachers and Zeltmans are favored to take these second round games, but both young teams have speed and skill enough to cause an upset if they are taken too lightly.

So far as skillful soccer goes, the first game on today's card may turn out to be the best of the series. There are no "choppers" on either the Zeltman or Tait clubs and with Dick Wall and Sam Dueker in control as referees, the players are expected to get a lot done in the way of ball handling, good passing and accurate shooting. The efforts of clever Joe Stratmann to slip the ball around Right Halfback Eddie Gerard should be one of the highlights of an interesting game.

If the Plaza team's backfield doesn't get panicky trying to suppress Schuler, Shine, Pastor and Fogarty, the second game should be a thriller. The pressure of the Schumacher forward line may settle the issue early in the game.

U. S. F. A. Application.

Application of the Municipal Soccer Association for membership in the United States Football Association was forwarded to James A. Armstrong, secretary of the national body yesterday by Don Drees, secretary of the Muny body. If the application is accepted, the four teams now engaged in the Muny soccer playoffs will become members of the U. S. F. A. and will thus be eligible to play post-season games with other affiliated clubs. During the three seasons the Muny was not a member of the U. S. F. A., no games could be played with teams registered with the national governing body. Next season, all Muny clubs will be members.

CRAVAT WINS $25,000 RACE AT SANTA ANITA

WINNER SETS TRACK RECORD; TODAY SECOND

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, March 11. — Townsend B. Martin's Cravat came up in the stretch today and won the $25,000 added San Juan Capistrano Handicap, mile and one-half grand finale of the racing season at Santa Anita Park.

With Jockey Jack Westrope in the saddle, Martin's four-year-old took charge in the final drive down in front of the grandstand and won going away from Neil McCarthy's Today. Jacola, filly owned by Edward Friendly, ran third.

Cravat broke the track record for the distance, and was timed at 2:30 2-5, breaking the old mark set by Dark Accent at 2:32 1-5.

Whichcee Fails.

As a warm sun beat down on a track declared fast, the field got off with Honey Cloud and Maj. Austin C. Taylor's Whichcee, the latter one of the betting choices in view of his second to Kayak II in the $100,000 race last week, setting up the pace, with Olimpo, Jacola and Ossabaw just behind and Cravat back in the pack.

Honey Cloud, a reformed sprinter, and Whichcee kept the pace with Jacola in third position going into the backstretch, but down the track Cravat began moving up. Going into the turn for home Jacola took a lead by a neck over Honey Cloud, but faded back in the charge down the stretch as Cravat and Today surged forward, Today on the inside.

Cravat won by three lengths, and Today was a length in front of Jacola, while Whichcee, folding up at a mile and one-eighth, finished next to last.

Cravat's victory ws worth $25,200 net—a measure of consolation for his failure in the $100,000 race. Today won $3000, Jacola $2000 and Honey Cloud, owned by Mrs. A. J. Abel, won $1000.

By the Associated Press.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 11.—The Tomara Stable's Teddy Weed, which ran fourth to Stagehand in the McLennan Memorial Handicap at Hialeah, turned in a record-equaling performance over the seldom-used mile and 70 yards distance to capture the $2000 Key West Handicap at Tropical Park today.

Carrying the light impost of 104 pounds, Teddy Weed stepped the distance in 1:43 4-5 to equal the track record set a few days ago by Co-Sport. Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart's Belmont Stakes winner, Pasteurized, again failed to run to his reputation and finished a disappointing second while Joseph Pepp's No Sir was third.

Pasteurized, one of the big disappointments of the recent Widener Challenge Cup Race, never was a match for the speedy Teddy Weed. Top weighted at 122 pounds and ridden by Don Meade, the favorite of the crowd, the big chestnut colt couldn't gain an inch on Teddy Weed after moving into second place on the first bend. He finished a length and a half behind while beating No Sir by four lengths for the place.

The crowd of about 10,000 made Pasteurized the favorite while Teddy Weed paid off at $8.30 for each $2 straight ticket.

The largest handle in the history of Tropical Park was recorded. The sum of $412,740 was wagered on the eight events. The previous mark was $397,768, created on the corresponding day last year. The turnstile count on the crowd was 10,053.

STOCKHAMS, DE ANDREIS FIVES TO PLAY TODAY

Several changes have been made in the basketball program to be held this afternoon at the New Armory, Market street and Spring avenue. In the feature contest, at 3:45, the DeAndreis Girls' Club, leaders of the Muny League with 16 victories in 17 games, will play the Stockhams, victors in 13 of their 15 engagements.

Another girls' contest, between the junior teams which played for the Ozark A. A. U. title last Sunday, Rock High and Sherman Juniors, will open the program at 1:45 p. m. In their last meeting, the Shermans came from behind in the closing minutes to win. 17-16.

A men's game between two of the greatest rivals in the Mnuy League, United Sêrvice Cars and the Bill Binigs, will be played at 2:45. Originally, the Mound City (Ill.) squad was scheduled to appear on the program, but because of illness of players, the team had to cancel its engagement.

Community Soccer Games.

A very heavy field at Sherman Park yesterday caused the postponement of three games in the Community Center Soccer League. The new schedule: Tuesday and Thursday—Sherman Blues vs. St. Edwards; Saturday—St. Matthews vs. Cherokee and St. Engelberts vs. Plaza A. C.

139 ENTRIES IN OZARK A. A. U. SWIM EVENT

A total of 139 individual entries and 30 relay teams have entered the Ozark A. A. U. swimming championships to be held at Wilson Pool, Washington University, Tuesday and Wednesday. Preliminaries will start at 7:15 o'clock each evening with finals following the same nights at 8:30 p. m.

From performances so far this season, a number of records appear likely to be broken. Charles Flachmann, star sprinter of the St. Louis Juniors, will have strong competition from Bob Reed of North Side Y. M. C. A. and Henri Chouteau of the Y. M. H. A.

Back-stroke events are unpredictable with five evenly matched swimmers leading the field. These are Carl Classen and Ed Espenschied of North Side Y. M. C. A., Calvin Gray and Claire Staley, unattached, and Jack Flachmann of the St. Louis Juniors.

Harry Queensen and James Counsilman of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. newcomers in the breast stroke events, will give Muny Champion Bob Lingeman of North Side Y. M. C. A. a tough battle for the title.

The relays again are a toss-up. In the 200-yard sprint relay, Washington University, Downtown Y. M. C. A. St. Louis Juniors, and the North Side Y. M. C. A. probably will fight it out in a blanket finish. In the 300-yard medley relay the North Side Y. M. C. A. with its trio of Classen, Lingeman and Reed is favored to win the title.

Women's events will center around Elsie Staley, Jackie Dennison, Doris Skinner swimming unattached, Jane Thursby of the Y. W. C. A. and Ruth Steinmeyer, Lillian Sanders, Mildred Heck of Shaw Park and Shirley Magidson of the Y. W. H. A.

TWO RECORDS SET IN SWIMMING MEET

Two pool records at the Carondelet Y. M. C. A. were set yesterday afternoon as the host team gained a 46 to 22 decision over the Downtown Y. M. C. A. in dual meets between the 90 and 110 pound classes.

Joe Rodriquez of Carondelet won the 40-yard free-style event in 23.4 seconds. The old mark was 23.8 seconds. K. Driskell of the Downtown Y. swam the 40-yard breaststroke in 30.5 seconds, lowering the old mark by 1.2 seconds.

Getting Our Share.

MISSOURI is getting her share of the Federal conservation purse according to the figures of the Missouri Planning Board, who recently completed a State-wide survey of recreational needs. To date, a public investment of $16,723,000 has been devoted to Missouri's park system. Of this amount, only $1,465,000 has been borne by the State. The remainder represents Federal expenditures through the Civilian Conservation Corps, the Works Progress Administration and the National Park Service.

The board suggested eight additional recreational areas for Missouri. Three of these would be convenient for residents of the eastern half of the State.

In northeastern Missouri: A large acreage of marginal land in Schuyler, Adair, Scotland or Knox counties; in central Missouri: The wooded bluffs along the Missouri River in Boone, Callaway, Moniteau, Cole or Osage counties, also a large wooded section on the upper reaches of the Lake of the Ozarks; in southeastern Missouri: A large area of wooded Mississippi River bluff land in Perry or Cape Girardeau County and a moderate acreage in Pemiscot, Dunklin or New Madrid County.

"In view of the excellent coverage of the Ozark country which will be provided for by State parks and State and national forests, is believed that no additional new State parks are needed in that section," the report added.

Missouri's park system now comprises 12 State parks, four recreational areas, four State forests and three State wildlife areas as well as several smaller projects totaling 52,512 acres. Should the districts recommended be added, the area would be increased about 25,000 acres.

Legislation.

Senator Frank P. Briggs of Macon, majority foor leader, recently introduced the Briggs bill before the Missouri Legislature strengthening the powers and widening the scope of the Conservation Commission. After a conference between the Senator, I. T. Bode, director of the Commission, and E. Sydney Stephens, chairman of the Commission, it was decided that there will be incorporated in a proposed substitute for this bill certain proposed legislation which will be submitted to the Senate Game and Fish Committee Tuesday.

The new proposals ask the Legislature to enact laws giving to the Commission power to fix license fees for hunting and fishing, and declaring that violations of regulations imposed by the Commission shall be misdemeanors, punishable by fine and imprisonment.

The proposed bill will erase all doubt as to whether or not the Commission has power to regulate license fees without legislative authority, a question on which there is a decided split of opinion.

About Saving Fish.

Cy Ballam, a representattive of the National Wildlife Federation in Madison, Wis., makes a good suggestion to anglers concerning undersized fish.

"Legal size limits aren't much use," says Mr. Ballam, "unless the fish that are thrown back into the water survive their experience.

"We have known for a long time that when the mucous covering that waterproofs a fish is broken by handling, fungus growth often appears and eventually kills the fish. All good fishermen wet the hand and hold a hookedfish as tenderly as possible.

"But a fish that takes a baited hook often swallows it so that the removal results in fatal injury. Tests have proven that if the line is cut and the hook left in the fish, no harm results. There is no infection and the hook promptly rusts away. It is suggested that fishermen carry a wire clipper along and by clipping off the barb, the hook can easily be removed without tearing the gills of the fish."

It won't be long until fishing seasonr open throughout this district and many of us will be catching those littel fellows, especially since so many have been added to Missouri waters by the Conservation Commission, so it is good to bear the above suggestion of Mr. Ballam's in mind.

Opportunity Knocks.

During 1938 the Missouri Conservation Commission set a new record by distributing more than a million bass fingerlings. This week it was announced that this number could be doubled in 1939 if the many conservation groups in the State would co-operate by building and managing co-operative rearing ponds.

Conservation groups have already completed arrangements to care for the fry in two ponds in Dent County, two in Morgan County and a lake at Cape Girardeau. Bass reared to planting size in the Dent County ponds will be used to stock Meramec and Current Rivers, while fishing in the Lake of the Ozarks will be aided by the planting of those reared in Morgan County.

Since it is now possible for the Commission to produce more bass than can be reared to the advanced fingerling stage in its own rearing ponds, it is believed the co-operative fish rearing plan will aid materially in stocking local streams. With its vastly expanded hatchery system and facilities, the Commission could produce at little cost many millions of bass fry annually. Since the loss of bass fry when planted in open waters is large, the Commission does not plant fry, but rears bass to fingerling size before planting in lakes and streams.

Either small or large mouth black bass will be furnished. The only requirements are that the local organization maintains the rearing ponds, care for the fish, and plant them in adaptable public waters nearby.

If plans offered by conservation groups are approved and the co-operative agreement signed by April 1st, the fry will be planted at the Commission's expense this spring.

Los Angeles Ball

by Inez Robb

LOS ANGELES, March 11.

MILLIONS of caustic words have been written on the social and cultural gap that irrevocably separates this great metropolis of Southern California from New York. But, although my survey has been brief, I have failed so far to meet any local citizens without a working knowledge of Emily Post and the five-foot shelf.

INEZ ROBB

When I rolled home from a ball here at 6 a. m. I had spent several hours with the flower and chivalry of this upstanding community, and no one had drunk out of the finger bowls or swung from the chandeliers. What is more to the point, not a single customer had fallen under the table, a custom widely observed in the environs of Manhattan. There were 1000 guests at this ball and it seemed to me they acted very much like a comparable group of 1000 persons at a similar ball in New York. I had expected a screw-ball demonstration, and what I got was gentility right up to the eyebrows.

● THE NOMECLATURE out here may be a little bit different, but a rose by any other name still is a sweet proposition. The ball took place in the Biltmore Hotel "Bowl." Back East, we say ballroom, but if they want to call it "bowl" out here, who's to say which faction is nuts? And why lift the eyebrow? I had a better time in this Biltmore "bowl" than I've had in any New York ballroom in a long time. In the first place, I haven't attended a party so elaborately decorated since the Hutton clan stopped peeling off the $10,000 bills for debutante balls.

As a matter of fact, when I arrived at the Biltmore and glimpsed the beautiful floral decorations, the interior acreages laid out like formal gardens with the most beautiful of blossoms, and the long stairways twined with ropes of white gardenias, I subconsciously began to look for Barbara, the last Hutton debutante.

● THIS ANNUAL BALL is supposed to be very swell social stuff, indeed, and it certainly seemed so to me. It is one of these strictly limited invitation and subscription affairs. Even though it costs $20 apiece, or $40 a couple, the subscription list was closed two months ago. This seems terrifically lush to a girl from New York where a $10 ticket for a ball is regarded as highway robbery. If a New Yorker were to pay $20 to go to a party in a swank Manhattan hotel, he'd expect to stay two days on the American plan.

About 2 a. m. the dancing stopped and the master of ceremonies, Bob Hope, took over to introduce a variety of talent including such stars as Maureen O'Sullivan and Edgar B. and Charlie McC. All the guests listened carefully to these, but I must report that when lesser entertainers came on the guests talked just as loudly as the guests during similar entertainment at any swank Manhattan soiree. I guess these people out here have been around, too.

● THE PARTY was chock full of white ties and the girls were dressed fit to kill and very beautifully, let me say. I spent a fine night identifying all the right movie stars with the wrong names. Even if Cary Grant and Randy Scott didn't ask me to dance, I certainly got a load of their profiles.

Anyway, I have been to a large Hollywood, Beverly Hills, Wilshire boulevard and Los Angeles party. No one put his feet on the table and no one put his chassis under. Perhaps this community has been maligned.

Maybe the citizens ought to sue.

PERSONAL PRIVACY

By Emily Post

DEAR MRS. POST: I have just returned from a visit to an old schoolmate and was shocked to notice that she opened personal letters addressed to her husband. I asked her, "Does your husband like you to open his letters?" Her answer was that a husband and wife should have no secrets and that letters which couldn't be read by one as well as the other had better not be sent in the first place. She dismissed the subject but I made up my mind then to write for your opinion about this.

Answer: I think it is inexcusable for one person to read any letter addressed to another unless told to do so. Even if the letter were out of its envelope and open on a man's desk, his wife should not take advantage of this chance to read it. The reason is not that there is anything secret to be kept from her, but that it is an unwarranted infringement of personal privacy.

DEAR MRS. POST: I've been divorced more than 10 years and am now going to marry a man who was never married. Would it be in bad taste for us to have some kind of party to announce our engagement?

Answer: It would be all right to give a party and include your intimate friends, but not to give a big general party. In other words, it would be in bad taste to make the announcement a social event of the town.

ANNE LINDBERGH—Great in Own Right

She Has Accomplished Things Which Mark Her as One of Most Versatile Women in World—Friends Have Always Known Her as Quiet, Reticent Person Of Apparently Unlimited Ability.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, March 4.

NO ONE has ever summed up Anne Morrow Lindbergh in the aggregate. Even those closest to her were amazed when in turn she obtained her pilot's license, glider license, radio operator's certificate (in which examination she scored 94.6, only a point or two below her distinguished husband) and then went on to become his right hand as navigator and constant companion on trail-blazing flights. They knew she could write and would write, but somehow or other they were surprised when her first book, "North to the Orient," was a best seller for months and went into 300,000 copies, and still with that before them they read "Listen! The Wind," and marveled at the fact that since October publication nearly 200,000 copies have been sold.

True, her associates learned long ago that this quiet, reserved girl could rise to any occasion. Yet, each of her early poems in the Smith College Monthly was an event, each scholastic honor a revelation. As a Smith undergraduate she was on the staff of the Monthly, was a leader in the Manuscript Club, a valued participant in the meetings of Alpha, student organization devoted to the arts. Yet it appears that no one had expected her to win the Mary Augustus Jordan prize for the most original piece in verse or prose with "Lida Was Beautiful," nor the Elizabeth Montague prize with her essay on "The Women of Dr. Johnson's Time." She did, but to this day, she is to old friends still "Little Anne," who suddenly is acclaimed for a feat they knew she could accomplish all the time, but had never anticipated.

Anne Morrow's engagement to Charles Augustus Lindbergh, whose lonely flight from New York to Paris in the "Spirit of St. Louis" was being eulogized in every language known to civilization, had just been announced when it was intimated that the Lindberghs, once married, would be expected to spend less time in the air. The rumor was accepted as fact, even by intimate friends of the Lindbergh and Morrow families. How little they knew of Anne Morrow! How little they know of her now. She, herself, gives the answer in "Listen! The Wind," as she tells of peering upward through an African night:

"I was not looking for navigating stars, only those bright points of light that shake out of the corners before the sky is fully clothed. Pale, at first, and shy—they disappear when you look right at them—gradually they bloom out of the dark; they dwarf the dark. They, and not the dark, are the sky."

Small wonder, then, that there are few to gauge the infinite capacities of this woman who, since childhood, always has fastened her eyes on "those bright points of light that shake out of the corners before the sky is fully clothed." How was a girl in finishing school or college to confide THAT to her most sympathetic listener and hope for understanding?

THUS, when old friends or more recent acquaintances are asked to discuss the personality of the real Anne Morrow Lindbergh, there is more behind the brevity of the interview than the obligation of silence that has been imposed by Col. Lindbergh's expressed distaste for personal publicity. Mrs. Lindbergh, too, has subscribed to this decision of her husband's as she has to his other policies and desires.

Only one major instance to the contrary, one matter in which her intuitive judgment prevailed over the opinion of the celebrated flier appears to be backed by some authority. During the tragic days when distressed citizens trembled with anxiety for the welfare of the Lindbergh baby in the hands of the kidnaper, the young mother prepared for newspaper publication specific directions for the child's feeding. Col. Lindbergh and his advisers, for reasons of their own pertaining to the investigation, opposed the appeal, it is related. But the mother, impervious to logic, her mind guided only by turbulent emotions and the vain, seemingly futile hope that her baby was alive, insisted on publication of the formula regardless of any effect it might have on pursuit of the culprit.

In the course of conversation with those who knew her before marriage and since, the inquirer is struck by the remarkable concurrence in estimates of the youthful Anne Morrow. Each knew her as a reticent, quiet, introspective but not subdued person of apparently unlimited ability. By no directly spoken word, but unfailingly, each expresses amazement that Anne Morrow, "the little Anne we knew," has accomplished the things that have marked her as one of the most versatile women in the world. It was so when her poems appeared in the Smith College Monthly. Beautiful, whimsical, melodious poems, expressing in the only way at her command the stirrings within her romantic heart. Perhaps her early friends would have been less astounded at her accomplishments later if they had read analytically her poetry as they turned the pages of the Smith College Monthly. Was "Letter With a Foreign Stamp" written by a woman who would clip the wings of the man hailed as "The Lone Eagle?"

MRS. CHARLES AUGUSTUS LINDBERGH, THEN ANNE MORROW, SHORTLY AFTER HER GRADUATION FROM SMITH COLLEGE.

ONE OF THE MOST RECENT PHOTOGRAPHS OF COL. AND MRS. LINDBERGH, IN BERLIN LAST OCTOBER.

Letter with a foreign stamp.
It was not fair of you to flaunt your days,
Your scarlet, fluttering days in front of me.
Bright, taunting pennants, whipping me to scorn.
Hours of color you mention casually.
Why did you say, "It seems like April now?"
"Those chestnut trees," you said,
"when I have time among the bookstalls at the quai
"For old dust-covered leaves of fragrant rhyme."
Why did you say, "Last night I wore my shawl,
"Mandarin-red—I wish you could have seen.
"And as I danced, the silk fringe caught the light.
"Some stranger stopped and murmured, 'Rouge de Chine.' "
Oh, use bright words with caution!
Fire is keen.
"Those chestnut trees"—"Some stranger"—"Rouge de Chine."

They won her the respect of her fellow students, those poems, respect and admiration. But she was still "the little girl from one of the big houses on the hill" at Englewood, N. J., and her retiring nature led to underestimation, and not infrequently to misunderstanding.

If Anne Morrow was not the most popular girl at Smith, she certainly was not unpopular. Of male candidates for her affections there were many, of favorites none. A social function, however "important," to her was but a lightly spent moment. She neither avoided them nor courted them. Social properties were at her fingertips. It was no challenge to be gracious. Her father, the late Dwight W. Morrow, was a J. P. Morgan banker before he served as American Ambassador to Mexico, where he was distinguished by his courtliness. Her aristocratic mother was and is an intellectual in her own right—a widely read author of children's books. Thus breeding, wealth and cultural surroundings provided the backdrop for the drama of Anne Morrow.

She entered Smith College after finishing a preparatory course at Miss Chapin's, an exclusive, exacting school for girls. There, bearing witness to her personal popularity, she was senior class president, an honor student besides. Her sister, Elizabeth, a scintillating combination of beauty and brilliance, is a Smith alumna.

ONLY one who has followed brother or sister to a school where the elder has become an outstanding figure can comprehend the unspoken obligation on the younger. Anne remained unobtrusive, kind and cooperative. She had few intimates among scores of friends. Some there were who called her "bookish," but not a single one, even among those who envied her, will call her a "grind." They frankly find themselves at a loss to describe her attitude toward studies. Throughout her entire school career, with the possible exception of an instructor or two, there were none who sensed the depth of the still waters that were Anne Morrow.

It is most probable that her mother and sister, Elizabeth, were the only ones who had any idea of the capacity of the fledgling. Certainly without their support and understanding, the imaginative adolescent, to whom the stars and not the dark were the sky, would have spent a most miserable childhood and youth. Some say that her mother and Elizabeth were her only real confidantes. So near to each other were the two sisters, so zealous was each at guarding the other's secret, that when Col. Lindbergh's visits to the Morrow home in Mexico City became subject to public speculation, most of the Morrow acquaintances presumed without reason that it was the sparkling elder sister who had attracted the attention of the international hero, surpressing their surprise when they learned he was courting "the little Anne we know."

Considering her present stature, it is remarkable that so little has been written about the personality of Anne Morrow Lindbergh. Of course, one reason is that persons near enough to her to speak with authority maintain a discreet silence. Even her publishers, Harcourt, Brace & Co., are "under wraps," restricted by specific instructions from Mrs. Lindbergh in the information they give out about their author. Family counselor and friend Col. Henry Breckinridge declines not only to be interviewed on the subject, but will not refer questioners to others qualified to estimate her. To callers at the Morrow home in Englewood, a secretary makes what he, himself, calls the "usual" answer: "It is our rule never to supply information of any nature about Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh.

The observant reader of either of her books, however, is quick to sense the spiritual and mental qualities of Anne Morrow Lindbergh—qualities that led to a detachment, sometimes amounting to aloofness, even in childhood, and continuing on through the period in which she became one of the most publicised persons in the world. It becomes apparent that every minute of Anne's childhood was an adventure, and that few impressions, pleasant or unpleasant, have been forgotten. It is to this early period in her life that she frequently turns for striking simile and metaphor, escaping classification as poetry only because the lines do not scan.

For instance, describing in "Listen! The Wind," a hazardous takeoff from the waters of a windless African harbor, she wrote: "The dark—the dark—all the childish terror of the dark poured over me." Again, another incident: "His voice was patient and gentle, like your grandmother's when you got a knot in your sewing. Just as casual, too, and taken for granted." And again: "I had nightmares—all those bad dreams one had as a child when there were too many bedclothes." And then, as she went from her room to the pier to see if a precious breeze, strong enough to aid the heavily laden airplane pull away from the glassy surface of the bay, had arisen, she "walked in a firm, taut step down the stairs and through the halls—the kind of a step you used in a dream when you wished to hurry from the person behind, but it would be fatal to run."

Small wonder then, that this youthful mind, busy with the dictates of an excited imagination, neglected such trifles as afternoon teas and fastidious clothing. Less wonder that acquaintances of long standing still stand in awed surprise at the versatile performances of the shy "little Anne we knew."

IT must not be concluded from her exhibitions of modesty and reticence that Mrs. Lindbergh has no personal pride. Deep within her is the iron of her ancestors. Again for illustration it is necessary with regret to hark back to the hideous days that were spent in the search for her kidnaped baby.

For many hours Mrs. Lindbergh preserved an outward calm, to all appearances a gracious hostess for the army of law enforcement officers and invesigators quartered perforce at the New Jersey estate. Ultimately, strained beyond all human endurance, her nerves gave way and she was forced to take to bed, where physicians advised her to remain indefinitely. For three days, fighting hysteria, she was secluded. On the third day she saw a newspaper account reporting that she had collapsed. She arose at once and resumed her household duties. Anne Morrow Lindbergh unable to meet exigencies? Never! In a few hours she was up, furnishing ample refutation to the "rumor" that she had been overcome.

With an entirely different set of circumstances, a newspaper correspondent had unwittingly given the key to the character of this woman who sounds one single note of personal triumph in two volumes of thrilling, breathtaking accounts of her adventures: "Now this jump here, sir—I wouldn't take MY wife over that—" a seasoned pilot is advising Col. Lindbergh to take a more conventional course "North to the Orient."

" 'But you must remember,' my husband parried, with a smile at me, 'that SHE is CREW.' And I felt even more flattered." The capitals are Mrs. Lindbergh's.

The newspaper writer was reporting an incident of the Lindberghs' exploration in the jungles

THIS New York

NEW YORK, March 11.

THE business of evaluating a new hotspot in Manhattan is about as perilous as any gesture in which a reporter may indulge, because if he plugs it the premises are reasonably sure to be in the hands of the sheriff by the time his notice appears, and if he gives it the bird, that very evening, as he is being splashed home by his kind friends, the moujiks will be sweeping the sidewalks with their shakos and trying to get the doorman at least to let them into the lobby.

LUCIUS BEEBE

Certainly during the last three or four years there has been no threat to the supremacy of John Perona's El Morocco as the plushest of upper-drawer showcase saloons. Sherman Billingsley's Stork has done a greater gross, has enjoyed more laughing and in general has been a less pretentious honky-tonk; La Conga came and went after rounding up an impressive posse of names after both the Stork and Morocco were closed for the night, and various Fifty-second street zink-bar and insult palaces have thrived handsomely. But there has never been any serious competition for the silk-hat trade that has been dreamed into profitable being by Messrs. Billingsley and Perona.

Now, for the first time since the memory of this reporter runneth a new menace has appeared, in the form of Felix Ferry's Monte Carlo, which has just about everything to make it a pushover, including an easily accessible location in Fifty-fourth street, just off Madison, and the very limited floor space and seating facilities which make for the ultimate in Manhattan-after-dark chic.

—O—O—

If Ferry fudges it the only discernible cause will be the dead-pan, super-social manner in which the house is conducted and the circumstance that he allows personable and wealthy young men to approximate for him a floor show. A little rowdy-dow, hot stuff on the floor and a little more sending around of free wine (which, of course, can be included later in the bill without any one knowing or caring) would be in order. Sherman Billingsley long ago discovered that drinks on the house were the most profitable investment any restaurateur can imagine. They don't cost much, they flatter the recipient and they inevitably ease the way into further non-on-the-house orders. The smartest thing any aspiring restaurateur can do in New York is to send no checks to any headline customers for the first fortnight of business, even if they are splashing up to the waist in Veuve Cliquot and Beluga caviar. They'll be sure to come back, bringing their friends behind them, and he can include the preliminary hospitality in the later bills.

● ANDRE SIMON, the world's ranking gourmet, arrived in Manhattan last week, and a series of gustatory skirmishes, encounters and major engagements have followed his course ever since. M. Simon, who founded the Wine and Food Society of London and was instrumental in the organization—after repeal—of New York's own Wine and Food Society, probably knows more of the philosophy of eating and drinking than any one since Brillat Savarin, and, in consequence, is the most sought after of all guests in gastronomic circles. M. Simon's first day in Gotham included a lunch given in his honor by Fred Wildman in the private dining room at Bellows & Co., and, later, a more formal dinner at the home of Jules Glaenzer, probably the town's most solidly platinum-plated playboy. The only people at Mr. Wildman's lunch were the host and his guest, Mrs. Wildman, Geoffrey Parsons and Mary Mabon, but the really remarkable items from the Bellows cellars, including a Brane-Cantenac '06, a Margaux '99 and a London Docks Hennessey cognac of impressive longevity, were such as royalty seldom is served. If American hospitality were inclusive in its every detail it would proffer M. Simon not only such magnificence of dinners, lunches, tastings, routs and bung startings, but also a fortnight at Battle Creek, with a side excursion to the Biltmore Turkish Baths.

A little research by one of this department's spies discloses that matching suits for husbands and wives—or, for the matter of that, beaux and belles—are going to be a definite trend along the vernal boulevards. So far we have discovered that Hal Kemp and Mrs. Kemp have identical suits. Gladys Swarthout and Frank Chapman not only have matching suits but topcoats to go with them. Other twin outfits include Tony and Peggy Williams' country outfits, ensembles belonging to Mario Bragiotti and his wife, and the Paul Cooleys, of Hartford. This department and Margaret Pemberton once had identical outfits made up, but nothing much seems to have come of it. Nothing significant, that is. Shetlands and hard-finished worsteds are the leading materials for these boy-and-girl outfits with which their possessors plan to set the better drawing rooms atwit.

● THE LATEST ADDITION to the various out-of-town adaptations of El Morocco is the Zebra Room at Los Angeles' substantial and excellently managed Town House. . . . Just as the best sidecars in the West are served up Wilshire way at Perino's, so the most fetching fizzes are compounded at the Zebra bar. . . . An extensive and expensive campaign will be undertaken at the New York World's Fair by Faber, Coe & Gregg, the tobacco importers, to revive the once universal popularity of the cigar as a man's smoke. . . . Mrs. O. O. McIntyre, as gracious and loyal a newspaper man's wife as ever lived, writes greetings from Shepheard's Hotel, in Cairo.

—O—O—

Glamour columning has overtaken even staid New England, and now Baron George Wrangle is turning out a column on smart doings in Boston and Portland for the menus of the Boston & Maine Railroad's diners along the same lines as the one he has been doing for the New Haven. . . . George Stevens, the film director, has been given a Paul Flato gold watch chain, made in the form of standard film clips. . . . He's afraid he may throw away tenpennyweights in gold on the cutting-room floor any minute. . . . The greatest fright the insurance business moguls have had since the Charles Evans Hughes investigation is the discovery by holders of personal-property floaters that they can collect on lost golf balls.

—O—O—

LUCIEN PRINCE, dean of Fulton Market fish dealers and seafood expert of Raymond Orteig's famed "Thursday Club" at the Lafayette, is the only dealer in town who practices the business in the manner of the old-time champagne salesman. . . . He orders fish in every restaurant he visits, sets his friends up to salmon steaks and authentic bouillabaise and discourses as knowingly on caviar importations and the habits of the turbot as Fred Wildman can on the superiority of the '25 clarets and the proof of virgin cognac. . . . The local taxi company which cleans up its door handles so the customers don't get grease all over their hands and gloves and publicizes the fact should made a good thing of it. . . . Ben, the rodeo tailor, who stems from the open ranges of Philadelphia and makes nothing but spectacular cowboy outfits, has had a boom season on the town, outfiting Manhattanites against life on the plains and dude ranches. . . . He outfits Hoot Gibson, Tom Mix, Paul Whiteman, Jack Kriendler, Jack Hoxie and other cattlemen, professional and amateur.

THE WORLD AS WOMEN SEE IT

No Theme Is Too Extreme In Ornaments

Size and Shape of Coat-Lapel Gadgets Help Attract Attention.

REGARDLESS of the color scheme, the silhouette and the type of a new spring ensemble, a most important feature from a fashion standpoint is the tricky little gadget appearing on a coat lapel. No theme is too extreme when it comes to these entertaining ornaments while the size and the shade do their part toward attracting a maximum of attention.

The costume jewelry counters are laden with oddities, some of which pin to the lapel and others are clipped in place. There are amusing little figures waving arms and legs, animals of realistic and grotesque inspiration, flowering shrubs and cactus plants, birds and bugs galore and weird looking faces.

THE METAL CHARMS which have become popular for bracelet ornamentation have been enlarged and made into buttonhole gadgets. Some other striking accents made of enameled metal resembled medals and offer much speculation as to their significance.

Bottles with dainty flower pictures painted on them are among the interesting decorations as are medallions which have flower-painted glass centers and metal frames. The flower theme also is expressed in very handsome sprays combining enameled metal and colorful stones. Vivid petals that look like real flowers also are attached to lapels to form unusual accents.

IF A LAPEL decoration is sufficiently amusing, it deserves repetition and this means that two rather than one should be worn. Contrasting color schemes are the vogue and it even is permissible to wear a yellow cat on one lapel while a bulldog appears on the other. A cactus plant "growing" on one lapel may be matched by a lazy looking peasant figure lounging on the other.

Another fad that is significant for spring is the use of old-fashioned lockets to adorn buttonhole. The larger these are, the better they fit into the present scheme of accessories. If you can't find any way to attach them to the lapel, then leave them on the log-chain to which they are suspended and let them dangle from a breast pocket.

Current Color Theme

Pepper and salt effects are being adopted by some of the country's best dressed women. They play up the theme with gray and white or black and gray costumes, silver-fox fur scarfs and hair that looks as though it had been tinted to bring out black and white accents. Little white sailors which have black veils and ribbon bands also are significant in placing emphasis upon this trend as are polka-dotted fabrics.

Slip those heavy winter sachets among winter togs but make yourself fresh spring sachet bags—in floral scents. A noted old firm has revived Grandma's Victorian taste in floral favorites.

ARE YOU A FRECKLE FACE?

By ALICE WADE ROBINSON

NOTED BEAUTY AUTHORITY.

March winds and sun bring out skin blemishes, but here are some safe ways to avoid and banish them

THE STAGE'S FOREMOST FRECKLE-FACE—KATHARINE HEPBURN AS SHE LOOKS WITHOUT . . .

. . . AND HERE IS MISS HEPBURN "UNMASKED."

ELEANOR HANSON APPLIES . . A FRECKLE-MASQUE . . . . .

. . . THEN SMOOTHES CREAM ON FACE ON REMOVING MASQUE.

ONE thing's certain about March: If you're susceptible, you'll have many more freckles at month's end than at the beginning. Of the year's dozen months, March is the thriftiest freckle sower. Worse than that: March freckles not only stick but form a receptive allergic background for any stray freckle seeking a place in the sun.

That Bodey-book custom, uncomfortable though it was to children, had its points: It preserved skin texture and did away with Victorian skin bleaching concoctions. The custom referred to was merely the routine wearing when outdoors—from the first until the last of March—of a white fine-meshed veil. It shielded the face from the worst of March's fierce winds—that's true—but, what's more to the point, it preserved that unblemished pink-and-white skin loveliness Victorians demanded.

If you are one of those freckle despisers, read on. But read on calmy. Packed into this article is wisdom of two sorts: First, on freckle-avoidance; secondly, on freckle-chasing. Follow the suggestions outlined in order to save your disposition and your hyper-delicate and finely textured skin. While it's true that you may not be able this year to avoid every pigment stain, yet, the routine followed carefully, you should greatly cut down on your usual spring crop.

All spring, do one of two things: either wear, day-in, day-out, come rain, come shine, that old-time Godey-book-type of white, fine-meshed veil; or, put on a false-face before daring the outdoors. "A false-face?" Yes, just that. Not the sort exactly that Jack Pierce out in Hollywood builds up for this Frankenstein family, but a false face anyway. It's a skin specialist's idea, and a good one.

Daytime in March, you must hide face, throat, arms and hands from those twin beauty-scourges: Spring wind and sun. Gloves do well enough for the hands if hands themselves are massaged before and after washing with a hand preparation. Sleeves, for the most part, completely cover the arms in March. But arms are mentioned here because thrifty housewives forget that certain thoughtless household habits damage skin whiteness and texture, act as come-ons to freckles. So don't do these things: (a) Run out barearmed to the back porch to pin up the tea towels; (b) wash the windows barearmed in the rush of spring cleaning; (c) in bare arms, pin up or take down or lay out clothes for sunning. Cover your arms, glove your hands; tie a scarf about your throat; wear a falseface over your real one—and you'll be pretty freckle-free for Easter.

But now to the falseface. Make it a nice one, of course. But make it thick enough to guard your delicate skin against spring weather hazards. What is it? Merely a dependable protection film. If you choose to use grease paint, cleanse your face first with cleansing cream. Remove the excess. Then work into throat, and from there on up, a thin protective covering of the grease paint. "Set it" with skin tonic and cold water. Pat dry. Apply powder, rouge, lipstick and eye makeup.

Other such March falsefaces as these are also beauty-sowers and freckle-chasers; (a) The double-thick application of well-blended foundation cream or lotion plus double powdering; (b) a day masque (similar to the grease paint one) made of stage and screen foundation; (c) the staining of the skin with a suntan simulant. The latter gives you a gypsy tan that soap and water speedily removes, but it's a grand freckle-discourager for the reason that it excludes the freckling light rays of the sun.

So much for preventing freckles. Now freckle removal. Nothing is better than a weekly use of a creamy facial masque. If the skin grows dryish through such use, be sure to massage it well afterward with a rich tissue and night cream. Frequent use of a complexion brush or a face sponge with lots of gentle sudsy soap keeps skin cleansed and clear, assists dead stained skin to slough off. Cucumber facial and body creams are gentle, harmless bleaches—the natural cucumber contains a trace of arsenic. And all honor to the Gaelic maid's recipe for chasing freckles: Nightly bathing face and throat in buttermilk—alone or mixed with enough corn meal to form a paste.

Individual large freckles lose their dark color if you patiently, night after night, wet them with a cotton-tipped orangewood stick that has been dipped in strained lemon juice or peroxide.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION -:- -:- -:- By Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WE are two young fellows who know very little about dancing and we wonder if you could give us a list of dancing clubs that are not so very expensive, so that we could join and learn how to dance? Thank you very much.

NOT A JITTERBUG.

Free dancing lessons are given at Mullanphy, Sherman, Buder and Soulard Community centers. The Cathedral Girls' Club (which also has classes for boys), nonsectarian, conducted under the auspices of Christ Church Cathedral, 1210 Loucust, charges a very small fee. The Marydale Club of the Convent of the Helpers of the Holy Souls, 4012 Washington boulevard, also charges a small fee.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

MY EARNEST and simple desire is to be a lady; to be at all times, conservative in dress and manner; to appear in the eyes of those I meet as a person of character and interest.

But, Mrs. Carr, this idea was thwarted before it was born—and because of a simple, sneering, laughable physical deformity of which I am, at once, innocent and powerless to overcome! There is something grotesque about a girl bowlegged; no costume is correct, no walk graceful and no moment free from thought of it. To most persons it affords a sensation of amusement, but it is depriving me of all those things so dear to my heart; to be attractive, normal and perfect in the eyes of everyone I meet. Funny? It is hurting me dreadfully!

CRY-BABY.

One of the greatest handicaps those afflicted physically is, not the physical imperfection and the impediment (looming larger than is necessary, in their own hands) but the sensitive, cynical, self-consciousness it is allowed to create. They immediately conclude that, as they are the center of attraction and comment, their lot is the most hopeless in the world.

You can be sure that not half the people you imagine are thinking about this handicap and, I'm not sure that, that many care. The very aim you express is made more impossible by your self-conscious manner, probably, and you draw attention to the ADDED defect of imperfect lines, by your very exaggeration of the trouble.

As you know, the bow-legs can be straightened and the leg contour changed in early childhood; but I think surgeons now regard operation for the trouble in grown persons as doubtful surgery. So then, your main effort, if you wish to change your outlook and which is absolutely necessary would you achieve the qualities you describe, should be concentrated upon charm of manner, and mental achievement, as well as careful grooming and use of good taste.

The overwhelming conquest of physical handicaps, much greater than yours, has been demonstrated by some of the greatest minds and characters in history. Real achievement is up to you; not just temporary popularity. Lasting charm makes people forget physical defects.

If you care for it and will send self-addressed, stamped envelope we will mail the folder, "Popularity." And should you have a chance, read Margery Wilson's book, "Charm."

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WE ARE a very merry group of four, the girls 19, 15 and 11 years old, and one boy 17. The boy is witty and knows a lot of funny stunts. Would you please send us a book of jokes and also some games to play? We would like them very much. Thank you.

FOUR DUMBELLS.

I can mail you games and stunts and names of joke books, if you will send self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

PLEASE ADVISE ME what is to be done with a girl of 16 who feels she must have her own way about everything. My daughter always feels mistreated when I correct her; everyone else's opinion is better than mine. If I speak to her, she flies up something terrible.

DISGUSTED MOTHER.

Sometimes this is the result of over-indulgence and again it is the outcome of a certain kind of nagging indulged in by the mother from childhood up. About the only recourse parents have against this kind of development is companionship and understanding of the individual child, with positive rules and few words of rebuke; but firm adherence to obedience without repeated discussion. Gradually, as she grows older, some explanation should be given, but not over-indulgence.

At 16 perhaps it might be well to let her make some mistakes in minor matters and see what the outcome is. But do not remind her or cry over the pinch she must endure in consequence. Interest yourself in young people and try to show her (instead of tell her) how your rules work out.

Martha Carr:

I AM A BOY in my late 'teens and have been brought up by my parents always to thank a person if they have shown me a good time; either by taking me to a show or taking me out to dinner. My question is, do you think it is too much to ask of the so-called modern girl of today to thank a person when he has shown her the best time that he could afford, even if it is just going to a show, and having to ride the street-car? The girls better get wise to themselves, that is probably why they are only taken out by the same boy once. Maybe the old-fashioned girls are the best after all. They at least were taught how to say thank you.

Will you please print this as I am anxious to see your opinion on this subject.

MINUS THANKS.

It goes without saying that the girl should express her pleasure in the evening with you by the usual girlish expressions, such as, "I've had a grand time. You were awfully nice to ask me"; or, colloquially, "Thanks a lot," or "Thanks awfully much; had a fine time." And, of course, the boy should expres his thanks to her. Strict etiquette demands this of the boy, while the girl shows her appreciation by speaking of her enjoyment of the pleasure he has given her.

"ANY service—within reason" seems to be the slogan of the Personal Service Bureau, the organization that will do your shopping, reminding, waking up in the morning, or any other duties, routine or zany, that you might suggest. This may sound like openly asking for headaches, but Mary Sweet and Harriet Francis, two Ferguson young women who organized the service six months ago have survived admirably, and are now contemplating moving from the Sweet home at 417 Thomas avenue to downtown headquarters. Incidentally this is the only organization of its type that we have been able to unearth, although New York and larger cities have a number of flourishing organizations operated by enterprising people who have shock proof nerves and endless resourcefulness.

"So far we've located everything from a fortune teller to a half-ton truck," related Miss Sweet, a slim, attractive and business-like young woman, when we visited that member of Personal Service. Being a former tracer has helped in these unusual tasks, Miss Sweet finds, and being a doctor's assistant at one time accustomed her to taking things in her stride. It was after an accident had taken her out of circulation and she recovered to find that bright young things had snapped up all available jobs, that she organized the service.

THE AVERAGE CALLS are from persons looking for jobs or shopping assistance, the latter, though it may surprise you, more from women than men. There is one widower, however, with five children and grandchildren, who has Miss Sweet remind him of birthdays and anniversaries and then select appropriate remembrances. Then there are those 64 people who are awakened each morning between 4:45 and 10 a. m. All instructions given by alarm clock distrusters are verified by the bureau, however, this precaution dating back to the time when a practical joker had a man awakened at 5. When Miss Sweet called with a cheery "It's 5 o'clock," the irate victim who knew nothing about it, sizzled the wires to the effect that who the blankety blank blank cared. It was a very tense moment for Personal Service.

But Mary Sweet and Harriet Francis are determined to remain unharried by such disasters, and see endless possibilities for future success. For shining the light of imagination on the dull world of business, we bob our bonnet to them.

WE'VE JUST HEARD of an unprecedented example of tact and timidity on the part of a young husband. The young man's first name, it seems, is Warren, but when he was introduced to the girl who became his wife his name was slurred over, and the wife-to-be understood it as Ward. Instead of correcting her, he let the matter slide. She continued to call him Ward, and when they were eventually married, he signed his name on the marriage license as Ward. Just recently at a family gathering, he broke down and told them his name had been Warren all along.

"I just couldn't think of any way to tell you before," he confessed lamely.

Chief contrast between the Basie and Benny rallies was the increased informality. Although around 1000 thronged in, the Count called out no militia to hold back the surging savages, an act that cost Benny some good will; signed autographs with one hand while thumping the piano with the other, and exuded affability, all of which made the fans very happy. The gandy dancers, who do not dance but merely stand, were in the vast majority. Paradoxical as it seems, whenever a really good dance band invades our midst, dancing becomes practically a lost art.

FEATURES OF GENERAL INTEREST

THAT PUZZLING SERVANT PROBLEM

Mrs. Jean Brown of U. S. Department of Labor Discusses Household Employment Legislation.

By Virginia Irwin

THE "servant problem" has long had the experts muttering in their beards. They admit that there are more knots in it than you'd find in a Boy Scout rope-tying exhibit. The "servant problem" concerns some 2,000,000 women engaged as domestics in the United States. It also concerns the employers of these 2,000,000 women. Add the two together and you've got some idea of how many pieces there are to the puzzle of why, with unemployment what it is, household jobs go begging and the demand for efficient household help outweighs the supply. Without standards of efficiency to rate the employe, without wage, hour and other laws to govern the employer, and with human nature being what it is, each employer-employe relationship is today a separate problem in itself.

The lady of the house moans: "My maid is a mess. She's incompetent. Unreasonable. She wants too much time off and . . ."

The maid in turn moans: "My hours are too long. The pay's poor and . . ."

There, in general, you have the "servant problem." The lady of the house blames the maid; the maid blames her mistress. The truth without the parsley is they're both to blame. So the maid is fired. Or she quits. And therein lies the reason why the rate of turnover in domestic employment is, if you'll pardon the bromide, really something.

Students of the situation are the first to agree with the lady of the house that efficient domestic help is almost as rare as a smokeless day in St. Louis. Under existing conditions, housework is the catch-all for those who cannot find other employment.

The National Conference on Labor Legislation in November suggested extending labor laws to domestic service as one means of attracting a more efficient supply and in St. Louis last week Mrs. Jean Collier Brown of the United States Department of Labor discussed the subject of household employment legislation.

"The general position of household employes under our State and Federal labor laws today is anamalous," Mrs. Brown explained to me. "The 2,000,000 women in the household help class represent the largest single group, one fifth, of the 10,000,000 female working population of America, and yet they are excluded from the major benefits of the Social Security program. The Federal Fair Labor Standards Act, popularly known as the Wage and Hour Act, passes them by. Only one of the 43 states with hour laws covering some groups of women workers sets any legal limits to the hours household workers may be employed and only one of 25 states with minimum wage laws has set a wage order for their protection. In no state is an employer compelled to insure her domestic employes under a Workmen's Compensation Act."

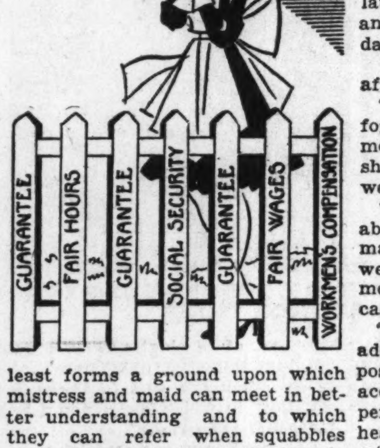
IN discussing these various pieces of proposed legislation with housewives, few of them have failed to complain to me that hours for household work cannot be regulated, and since hours, not wages, are the domestic workers' greatest grievance, this point is perhaps the most important one in the whole puzzle. Given efficient help, the housewives are ready to concede that household help should share in the Social Security program, be paid a fair wage and be covered by workmen's compensation, but they balk on the idea that hours for household help can be regulated as in other industries. And yet until the hours for household help are made more attractive, both in length and regularity, the level of efficiency of household help is not likely to be raised because long and irregular hours offset whatever inducements housework might offer intelligent young women to train for service.

Proposed by the National Committee on Household Employment, the following employer-employe agreement with its well-defined hours clauses has been voluntarily put to test in some cities of the United States. The agreement at least forms a ground upon which mistress and maid can meet in better understanding and to which they can refer when squabbles come up about whether Susie gets extra time off for the night she stayed up until 3 a. m. cooking bacon and eggs for the man of the house and his poker playmates.



Here's the agreement:

"Working hours shall be those hours of actual duty, during which the worker is not free to follow her own pursuits.

"Time on call is that time during which she is not free to leave the premises, but may rest or otherwise do as she pleases. (Two and sometimes three hours on call are considered the equivalent of one hour of working time).

"Total actual working hours shall not exceed a maximum of 60 working hours a week as agreed upon.

"Time off should consist of two half days a week, beginning not later than 2 p. m. on a week day and 3 p. m. on Sunday, or one whole day a week should be scheduled.

"Vacations—one week with pay after the first year's service.

"Overtime should be compensated for by extra time off within the month or by extra pay. Overtime should not exceed 12 hours in any week.

"Payment should be made preferably weekly or bi-monthly, and if made monthly, four and one-third weeks should be calculated to the month. Wages should be paid in cash on the day due.

"Living conditions should include adequate food, private bedroom, possibly shared by another employe, access to the bathroom, space for personal possessions and adequate heat and ventilation.

"Notice: The employer shall give one week's notice or a week's pay for termination of the employe's services after a trial period of two weeks has passed. The employe should give one week's notice after the trial period."

Certainly until the necessary household employment legislation can be put into effect, such agreements as the foregoing should help pave the way to a better understanding between the lady of the house and her hired help. But the initiative, under present conditions, must be taken by the employer. Domestics are not an organized group, although Mrs. Brown of the United States Department of Labor says: "There is a movement on foot to organize domestics. Unionization will be necessary before the full effects of any hour law can be obtained, because organized workers are in a position to report labor law violations when individual workers are afraid to do it for fear of losing their jobs."

BETTER UNDERSTANDING

As for the problem of training young women for household service, it is true that there is little done toward teaching household work as a genuine vocation. Job training for household work, in spite of the demand for trained household workers, is left out of our educational system. But with household work given enough dignity to attract young women of good background, with intelligence, initiative and resourcefulness, such vocational education soon would rank with the present demand for instruction in factory and office work. And through such courses in instruction in household service, standards of efficiency could be worked out, just as standards of efficiency have been evolved for stenographers, file clerks and factory workers.

At present there is, of course, no answer to the question of how much work may be expected from a household employe per hour or per day. But this question has been answered in every other industry and it must, and eventually will be, in the field of household employment. So far housework is the least standardized, except agriculture, of American vocations, and this is one of the reasons that domestic service has been excluded from the benefits of State and Federal labor laws.

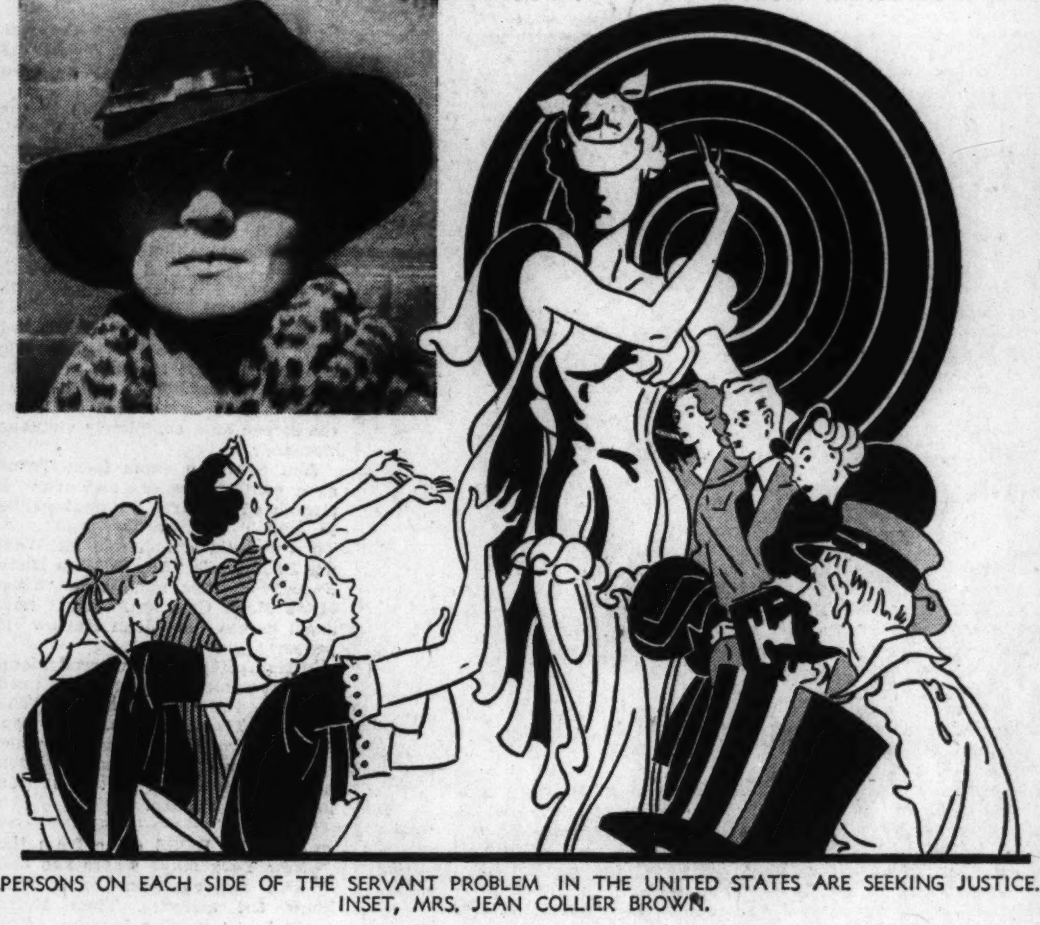
MRS. BROWN, in explaining the exclusion of domestic workers from the benefits of social security, the Wage and Hour Act, and workmen's compensation, says: "We recognize the difficulty of enforcing laws applying to almost as many employers as workers. The job of policing individual households, if left to state and Federal officials, would be almost prohibitive as to time and expense. Secondly, in the past it has been difficult to get the support of women's organizations for legislation affecting domestic workers. Thirdly, household employes are so unstandardized that determination as to exact coverage under this classification is bound to be difficult. A fourth reason is that at present domestic workers are not organized; they have no direct channel of their own making through which to press for measures in their own interest."

But Mrs. Brown sees the situation changing rapidly. The needs of domestic workers are being recognized. Official opinion is changing and the attitude is becoming one of: "Well, we know the problem is a difficult one but not insurmountable. Probably we shall have to develop new enforcement techniques and it is going to be very expensive, but with time and patience something definite can be accomplished. These workers must have a measure of protection."

President Roosevelt in his recent message to Congress recommended extension of Social Security benefits to household workers. The National Conference on Labor Legislation recommended immediate application of wage collection and workmen's compensation provisions to domestic service. Various bills covering domestic workers have been introduced in various states, including three in New York on the subjects of minimum wage, hour regulation and workmen's compensation, one in Massachusetts and one in Washington on minimum wage and one in California on maximum hours.

Of course, "the servant problem" is still one of the most puzzling that society faces today, but there is enough interest at last aroused to point the vane of public awakening toward action. And the housewife is in the strategic position of being able to lead the parade toward some solution of the problem by working for the industrialization and professionalizing of household work and thereby making it attractive to intelligent, responsible young women who will be "the efficient domestic help" of the future, the efficient help that cannot be found to fill the jobs that are going begging today.



PERSONS ON EACH SIDE OF THE SERVANT PROBLEM IN THE UNITED STATES ARE SEEKING JUSTICE. INSET, MRS. JEAN COLLIER BROWN.

THE Post-Dispatch offers an award of $25 for the letter, not to exceed 1000 words, which has the best answers to the following questions:

What is your idea of how to make domestic service attractive to young women?

What is your explanation of the fact that trained, efficient household help is so difficult to find?

Would you, under existing conditions, choose to enter domestic service rather than take a job in an office or factory?

If hours can be regulated in other industries, why cannot they be regulated in housework?

If a schedule can be worked out in nursing, which is akin to household work, why cannot a schedule be employed in your home?

Do you know of any vocation that has as little dignity attached to it as housework?

What sacrifices would you be willing to make that would assure you as competent help in your home as your husband has in his office?

In the event of a tie, duplicate awards will be made. The opinion of the judges will be final. Post-Dispatch employes and their families are not eligible. Letters should be addressed to the editor of the Everyday Magazine, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The competition will close Thursday at midnight. The winning essay will be published Tuesday, March 21.

Camera Club's Show; Pictures Rely on Tricks

Result Is Disappointing, in Many Cases—"Stale Angle Shots."

By Otto Fuerbringer

THE principal problem of the conscientious photographer is, paradoxically, to keep his pictures from being mere photographs. He has to lift them above a dull realism. There are several ways of doing this. One is to resort to tricks in shooting or developing and printing. Another is to choose significant subject matter. In either case it is still the man behind the camera that counts. Recent advances in camera and film construction have made mere technical excellence nothing out of the ordinary.

Most of the photographs displayed in the St. Louis Camera Club's show at the Public Library rely on tricks, and the result is disappointing. The subject matter, with a few exceptions, is hardly worth a passing glance. There are too many stale angle shots. Of what importance is it to photograph a few steel girders or the top of a transmission line tower against a cloudy sky? Good cloud effects can be had by the dozen. And a few feet of steel riveted together don't convey, not to me at least, any idea of the grandeur of construction work. Neither do a few segments of wire attached to the top of a tower give you a feeling of the importance attached to the transmission of electric power.

THE WHOLE IDEA behind most of the 114 photographs exhibited seems to me to be wrong. Sometimes it is possible by showing only a small detail of a subject to suggest its whole. A genius among painters can, with a few strokes of a brush, convey all the hidden wonder of the female form. But he has to be a genius. If you're not one and want to paint you'd better stick to drawing it all out according to the accepted anatomical pattern.

The same holds true for photographs. None of the dozen or so photographers represented in the show at the Library are geniuses and I don't think anyone expects them to be. But they are, most of them, competent photographers. If all of their energies had only been expended on subjects of interest and significance they could have made their show worth while.

The younger St. Louis painters love their city and try to paint it straight, as they see it. Why don't the photographers do the same? Why shoot a picture of the statue of St. Louis? Or of a girl in a Chinese costume? Or of a Pekinese in a beer mug?

WHY NOT PHOTOGRAPH your fellow citizens at work and at play? Why not show how they live, from the slums to Portland place? Show the houses they built, the factories they work in, the street cars they ride, the shops where they buy their food, the streets they tramp day and night. Show them dancing, picnicking, playing baseball, or voting. Show, in other words, the whole spectacle of life in a big city.

There are evidences of a few tentative starts along this line in the Camera Club Show. Elmer L. Onstott, who contributed more than one-fifth of the photographs, has a fine shot of the corner of Grand and Washington boulevards on a rainy, windy day. Traffic is moving, skirts are blowing, the pavement is shiny; all the disagreeableness of a bad day—the kind of day that makes you feel high in heart because wherever you're going it's bound to be more cheerful—caught against the conglomerate architecture of an American street corner.

Onstott has two other good street scenes. One has a light satiric touch, showing a few shoppers walking in the snow on a recent downtown bargain day. The other shows some girls gaping at evening gowns in a store window. He also has a crisp shot of a Wabash train getting up steam. But after that there is little else in the show.

OF THE trick artists the best by far is Savage (he signs himself just that way). His best contribution shows just a pair of ballet slippers and the billowing edge of a marquisette ballet skirt. Here is an instance of a small detail being better than the whole. Nothing more is necessary, in this nicely shaded photograph, to excite in the imagination all the never-never glamour of the ballet. Savage also has a good shot of hands on a piano keyboard, which give you the feeling that the man is actually playing. But there is no reason at all for his pictures of women dressed up in foreign costumes.

About the only other picture that can be recommended is one by Louis Charles Deibel, who was lucky enough to be on hand when fire broke out in an ash pit or shed in his alley. He caught some good sunlight, and it would be a good shot even without the fire.

As for the rest of the exhibitors, it must be said that they avoided, except for one or two transgressions, the fuzzy society photographer style. But they missed the life which daily confronts their eyes and lenses.

JACKETS ARE STILL INDISPENSABLE

CHANGES of fashion leave no impression on the popularity of jackets. Silhouettes may vary, skirts may jump to new heights and hats may produce more smiles but the brief little coat to be worn over frock or blouse continues to be an indispensable asset in every wardrobe. With it as an ally a woman can transform a costume from a severe one to a most elegant ensemble or be appropriately dressed in the same outfit from morning until morning again.

The vogue of jackets for springtime ranges from the boldly plaid woolen type for active sports wear to the frilly little model made of lace ruffled organdie that goes over evening dresses. Suede in gay colors to match handbag and gloves is used to create some versatile types usable for sports as well as for semi-formal occasions. Quilted silks and light weight woolens in delicate shades also are interesting. Especially effective are the wool boleros that are as soft in texture as babies' sacques and equally as dainty. These are worn over various types of evening frocks as well as with dark street dresses.

The brightly dyed cotton jackets that are made of most inexpensive materials but look striking because of the ingenuity of designing as well as the boldness of shade are increasing in popularity. Many are made of a rough-finished homespun type of fabric that brings out the brilliance of the dye. Embroidery and braiding in contrasting shades serve to give them additional interest and to make them the most arresting phase of a costume.

The costume suit consisting of a one-piece frock with contrasting jacket is a practical outfit for spring because of the additional use that can be given the brief coat. Crisp white cotton materials are suggested for these jackets, usually designed in the bolero style. Plaid and striped taffeta, flower-toned grosgrain and white moire are other materials used with success.

Fine Grooming

If a fluffy shirtwaist of dainty white lingerie is an important part of your spring wardobe, then you'll need a new collection of pearls. These jewels may not be real but they must give the impression of elegance and fine grooming. Button earrings, clips, bracelets and choker necklaces are examples of the items which fit into the demure themes of the current season. Black velvet neckbands and wrist bands likewise are harmonious with this trend of fashions.

On Planning One Spring Costume

IF you plan only one costume for spring, what would be the color scheme? Lily Dache, American designer of millinery and accessories, answers this question in the following manner:

"I would select a dress-and-coat ensemble—olive green with a pink and green print dress. My hat would be a wide-brimmed green stitched faille with a natural hairnet decorated with green or pink bows. My bag would match my shoes, and they would be dark brown calfskin. My gloves would be dark brown antelope. I would buy as much jewelry as I could afford—a set of molded glass flower clips with earrings to match, a Hindu necklace and bracelet set, and another set of gold chain jewelry. If I could possibly arrange it, I would have another hat, too, of pink felt with a wide "brigand" brim turned up at the front or side. This would be decorated with a jeweled medallion set into the felt with the felt shirred around it."

EMPHASIS ON FLOWER TONES

EVERY spring season starts off with a flourish of flowery accents, but this spring the theme is stressed to greater extent than has been noted for several years. Not only are flower-trimmed hats essential to the chic of many costumes, but flowers adorn the lapels of many coats and suit jackets as well as dresses and there is much emphasis upon the flower tones in accessories and fabrics.

Not so many years ago a tailored street costume always was accompanied by a severely plain hat, using only a ribbon bow or a modest quill as its decoration. Today a woman wears a flower-trimmed hat even with her tweeds and when it comes to finding a chapeau that does justice to her afternoon costume, she demands a complete flower turban.

Noted among the flower-trimmed suit hats in the St. Louis shops are many sailors of straw and fabric. A cluster of violets, forget-me-nots, or carnations forms a conspicuous ornament at the front of the crown or on a bandeau. Pink or yellow flowers also are being used to decorate suit hats and often are accentuated by matching veiling. For costumes that have a more elaborate aspect the flowered pillbox, the bonnet with its crown filled with red geraniums or the Watteau sailor which has old-fashioned nosegays tucked at intervals around the brim indicates the trend of the moment.

Colorful boutonnieres adorn the shoulders of many of the suits, their shade depending upon the preference of the wearer and following some general accent note developed in the entire costume. Pink, for example, may be repeated in the shade of veil, bag and gloves. A boutonniere of chartreuse silk flowers may be matched by a necklace in this same hue or even by a blouse.

Creators of handbags, gloves and other accessories have made an effort to adopt true flower tones for their wares, so that matching is not difficult. The flower themes in costume jewelry and in fabrics likewise show this same trend toward co-operation of fashion factors so that alliances that look as if they belonged together are not difficult to find.

Flower Jewelry

Flower jewelry that matches the tone of one's nail polish is a fad which comes with the spring time. There is a bracelet which has a little cluster of fuchsia flowers attached to a velvet band to be worn with nail polish of the same vivid hue.

Features of General Interest

Cook's Tour

by George Rector

FOOD properly seasoned is an art in itself. Salt and pepper are the basic seasonings and should be used during the cooking of the food, not after the food is cooked. A good cook in the home should study the tastes of the members of the family, so that no additional salt and pepper should be necessary when the food is placed on the table.

Many times I have watched a diner sprinkle salt and pepper on his food before he even tasted it. Well, of course, that is purely a habit, and it reminds me of a small restaurant in Paris, Maison Montagne. The proprietor is Mons. Prosper Montagne. He is also the chef. I am not sure whether he is among the living today, but a generation ago he was a great authority on culinary matters. He worked enthusiastically in his kitchen, which was separated from the dining room by a curtain.

When a party entered his restaurant and ordered one of his specialties, he would take his post behind the curtain as the waiter was serving the food. He would watch closely the mobile features of his guests and if they registered approval, Mons. Montagne would chuckle happily, but if the facial expressions indicated disappointment, Mons. Montagne would leap through the curtains and remove the food.

He would then prepare another one of his specialties, and even another one, until his guests were perfectly satisfied. His great boast was that no patron ever left his restaurant disappointed or dissatisfied. He must have been the author of that well known slogan, "The customer is always right."

● TO OUR RECIPES. Here is one for sweetbreads Newburg:

Sweetbreads are purchased by the pair. Separate them and soak in cold water for one hour. Then cover them with boiling salted water to which has been added one-quarter cup of vinegar; simmer for 20 minutes. Drain and plunge into cold water to harden. Remove any pieces of wind-pipe and membrane and cut into edible sized pieces. To two cups of sweetbreads prepare the following sauce: Melt two tablespoons of butter in saucepan, blend in one tablespoon of flour and gradually add half pint of cream, stirring constantly until smooth and boiling point is reached. Season to taste with salt and a few grains of cayenne, add sweetbreads and hold over low heat until thoroughly heated. Just before serving, add three tablespoons of sherry wine. Serve in patty shells or on freshly made toast.

—o-o—

Now for a recipe for wiener schnitzel.

One veal cutlet, cut thick; salt and pepper; one egg; one cup fine dry bread crumbs, hot fat or butter.

Cut veal into pieces for individual service; discard bone. Season meat with salt and pepper and roll each piece in fine bread crumbs, then in beaten egg and again in bread crumbs. Cook veal in hot skillet until nicely browned on both sides. Use only enough fat to keep meat from sticking to pan. Serve with a well seasoned tomato sauce or a cream paprika sauce made as follows: When veal is cooked and browned on both sides, have ready to pour in the pan half pint of thick cream and one tablespoon of sweet paprika. Spoon the cream over the veal, heat thoroughly and serve.

● Have you tried soft shell clams, Mexicano?

Twelve soft shell clams, one tablespoon butter, one-quarter teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne, two shallots, finely chopped, or one teaspoon minced onion; one-half green pepper, finely chopped; one large fresh tomato, peeled and chopped, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Wash clams, open shells, remove clams and save liquor. Melt butter in saucepan, add clams and cook several minutes. Add seasonings, shallots or onions, green pepper and tomato. Add reserved clam liquor and Worcestershire sauce and bring to boiling point. Serve with toast points.

BROILED SALMON STEAK is prepared as follows:

Have the salmon steak cut three-quarters inch thick. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper and dip in oil. Broil under moderate flame, allowing about 12 minutes for each side. Add a piece of butter to pan and baste during the broiling. When cooked, place on hot platter and carefully remove the skin. Sprinkle each steak with one-quarter teaspoon of finely chopped parsley and one-quarter teaspoon of finely chopped chives. Add the juice of one lemon to the pan containing the melted butter and oil. Hold over heat for a minute or two until it is hot, then pour it over salmon steak. Allow about two tablespoons for each steak.

Sweater Styles

The little girl of kindergarten age can look as grown-up as her debutante sister now that the sweater styles for teens and five-year-olds are identical. New in the St. Louis shops are some cleverly styled little cardigan models of cotton knit that have ribbon bound edges. These are available in pastel shades and are short-sleeved.

HEROINES WITH A DASH OF SIN

Many Players Have Reached Stardom by Portraying Bad-Woman Parts

BETTE DAVIS . . . SHE WAS JUST ANOTHER ACTRESS UNTIL SHE BEGAN DABBLING IN SIN ON THE SCREEN.

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, March 11.

THERE was a little girl
Who had a little curl
Right in the middle of her forehead;
When she was good,
She was very, very good,
But when she was bad,
She was—TERRIFIC!

That mutilated nursery rhyme is the key to many a Hollywood success story. The place is full of girls whose careers were stymied while they played good girls on the screen. They were the little girl in lavender and old lace he left behind, faithful and true to the last, while the hussy who hustled from across the tracks, wrecked his bankroll.

Playing goodies year after year saw many actresses slipping into obscurity while their sisters, who drew the nice baddys, got bigger and better checks, were interviewed by all the fan magazines, and were chased relentlessly for autographs wherever they appeared.

Is it any wonder then, that the chance to play a bad woman, well, at least one who has gone through three or four husbands and been around a bit, who knows all the answers, appeals to our Hollywood heroines?

Look at Belle Watling in "Gone With the Wind." Certainly Belle was no better than she should have been, yet there are actresses needling their agents morning, noon and night to get a chance at that role.

No matter how much the Hays office rants and raves, Old Man Public still seems to like his heroines with a dash of sin. Mary Pickford and Shirley Temple are about the only ones who maintained box office favor and spotless morals, and even Mary slipped a bit from the cinema straight and narrow for "Coquette." Remember Lilian Gish in "The Scarlet Letter?"

Garbo started out as a baddy, has never regenerated and is still the screen's most discussed personality. Other girls, confined to virtuous roles, have suffered stinging pangs of envy over Garbo's example.

Norma Shearer, for example, never amounted to much in talkies, although she had a tremendous silent picture following no matter what she did, until she made "A Free Soul" some years back, in which she was a wayward headstrong vixen who took her men where she found them. From then on, her career was full of casual loves, divorces and romantic escapades, right up to her latest picture, "Idiot's Delight," in which she plays a phony Russian countess with a past.

Joan Crawford became golden box office when she began playing girls who dabbled, not in art, but in sin, always in a most attractive and profitable way. When she reformed in "The Shining Hour" her "shine" dimmed.

The classic example of a gal who took the easiest way in rejuvenating her career was Claire Trevor. For years, Claire struggled along in namby-pamby parts. She was a star but nobody cared. Claire was aching for a part she could get her teeth into when Sam Goldwyn started looking for a girl to play one of the fallen sisterhood in "Dead End." The part wasn't much more than a bit, and to Claire it meant that she had to relinquish stardom to play it. She went hotfoot after the role, got it, and gave it everything. Now Claire can have all the bad girl parts she wants. Her latest is the dance hall girl, to be polite about it, in "Stagecoach," and she's not only marvelous, but a bigger star.

Bette Davis was just a blonde at Universal, playing sweet ingenues under picture hats—or whatever ingenues wear. When young Carl Laemmle decided she had nothing that any man would get excited about, he up and fired her. She went to Warner's where her career continued in the same old groove, until the eagle eye of George Arliss discovered she was different and he asked for her as his leading woman in "The Man Who Played God."

Then along came "Cabin in the Cotton," starring Richard Barthelmess, with a role for a predatory female, which fell to Bette. She created a characterization instantly recognizable to everybody, the superficially sweet young thing who is a ruthless hellion when nobody's looking. It boosted Bette's stock overnight. She went from bad to worse in "Of Human Bondage." Pickets walked the Hollywood streets when she didn't get the Academy Award for that performance. It's probably a cinch that Bette will never be seen again on the screen as a completely virtuous woman.

Ann Sheridan came from Texas as a contest winner and ran a stretch of pictures as an ingenue in which she hardly registered. Then she did a moll role for Warner Brothers in "Angels With Dirty Faces," another meanie in "They Made Me a Criminal," and now she'll be another Jean Harlow if properly groomed.

Miriam Hopkins sputtered along in light comedy, doing so-so, until she played a street woman in "The Story of Temple Drake." Oh, boy, did Hollywood do nip-ups for her then? Her light had been hidden under a bushel of virtue, if you know what I mean.

SHIRLEY ROSS came from the New York stage where she had been playing smart gals who knew the answers. Then Metro made her a singing ingenue. The public's indifference to Shirley was tremendous. So was MGM's, and her option lapsed. Paramount saw the light, and the "Big Broadcast of 1938" gave her the part of a divorcee who had lived, suffered and laughed. Her singing of "Thanks for the Memory" didn't hurt. And she stood out. In "Paris Honeymoon" she was a girl with more sense than scruples and the customers became Shirley Ross-conscious. She got more sophisticated stuff in "Cafe Society," with Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray, and now she's getting top feminine billing in "Some Like It Hot," and is definitely headed for stardom.

Evelyn Keyes, the DeMille protegee of "Buccaneer," got her career out of the rut and into high gear when she switched from good to bad in "Sudden Money." Now she's dyed black for Sue Ellen in "Gone With the Wind."

Betty Grable has had the advantage of a high-power studio build-up, but the only time she really stood out was in "Give Me a Sailor" in which her conduct was more left than right.

Loretta Young has remained good and she's sick and tired of it. So has changed to another studio.

Sally Eilers never caused a ripple till she made "Bad Girl," one of the screen's greatest money-makers.

Steffi Duna never wanted to play good girls but she started her Hollywood career that way in "La Cucaracha" and "The Dancing Pirate." Now she's doing a dancehall toughie in "The Magnificent Fraud," twisting and turning, hoping it will lead to success.

Even the kids have to have a little bit of Old Nick. Bonita Granville was a hateful brat in "These Three" the Hollywood name for "The Children's Hour." It was she who suggested the slapping she got at the end of the picture. And she stood out so that she's now in the "Nancy Drew" series as a star.

As for the oldsters, what a comeback Marie Dressler launched for herself when she played a drunken old hag in "Anna Christie."

Yes, in Hollywood, you've just got to be bad to be good.

FROM THE LEFT, NORMA SHEARER, GRETA GARBO, AND JOAN CRAWFORD . . . THEY HAVE LONG KNOWN THAT IF YOU'RE BAD YOU'RE GOOD, IN HOLLYWOOD.

LIVING IN THE PAST -:- -:- -:- By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE L-158: Jackson B., aged 58, is a brilliant lawyer who has held several high salaried Government positions. "Because of his past record and his wide circle of friends, I am getting him to join my staff of insurance salesmen," the manager of a certain agency informed me.

"He wants a drawing account of $200 a month. If I give it to him, I'll have to take the gamble myself, for my company will not O K the deal. Dr. Crane, what would you advise me to do?"

—o-o—

DIAGNOSIS: As a consulting psychologist, it has been my job for years to advise in such matters. My recommendations are based on facts instead of theories. In this case, therefore, my advice was not to hire this lawyer, at least if it meant advancing him a $200-a-month drawing account. Why did I so recommend?

Because very few insurance salesmen amount to anything when they are as old as Jackson. There are some exceptions, I freely admit, but physicians and psychologists play the batting averages.

When men have held loftier positions in the past, they tend to live in the past, for their present inferior job deflates their pride. We dislike painful things, so we tend to flee backward to the time when we were "big shots."

Men of 58 may have energy and health to succeed in salesmanship, but it hurts their pride to mingle with younger men on an equal footing. They try to gain prestige, therefore, by telling about their past honors and jobs and high salaries.

The insurance manager grinned sheepishly after I had told him my views, and admitted that he had already hired Jackson on a three-month trial basis.

A few weeks later I dropped into the office. Jackson was sitting at his desk with most of the other salesmen draped around him while he regaled them with stories of the time he held a high Government office.

Twice in the next three months I happened to be in this office, and always I found Jackson telling the other men about his past life. He was an entertaining story teller, and they enjoyed it. But at the end of the three months, Jackson had closed only one deal, and that was for just $5000. His manager paid him $600 on a drawing account for that one policy!

I don't cite this case to discourage men and women past 45 or 50, but to warn them against their greatest danger. Don't live in the past!

We are old when our thoughts keep turning back, even if we are only 18 by the calendar. And we are young, if we keep thinking forward, even if we have celebrated our golden wedding anniversary.

It is psychologically interesting to watch Henry Ford. He seldom talks about his youth or the struggles he underwent in getting his great motor company well launched.

Ford thinks forward. He talks about the future possibilities for young men and women, as well as for our nation. He is a young man, even though he and Mrs. Ford celebrated their golden wedding last summer.

Men and women at 45 or 50 normally have the health sufficient for success in new ventures. And they have invaluable experience. But they must resist this very human tendency to flatter their vanity by thinking back to the good old days.

Hair Trends

The up and down trend of women's hair styles rivals any stock market fluctuations. No sooner does a fair follower of fashion get her locks trained to sweep in one direction when the hairdressers decree that they shall turn in another. The latest reports from Paris indicate that no head is well coiffed without the addition of a bun at the nape of the neck. If the hair isn't sufficiently long to provide one, then false hair is to be added. A braided chignon is favored. To complete this striking hairdress, a pompadour and ear-revealing side sweep are recommended.

Encouragement For Youngster Who Is Bashful

Children's Expert Tells How One Boy Overcame His Shyness.

By Angelo Patri

"LOOK, ma the teacher in Sunday School gave me these ten tickets and told me to sell them.

"That's a good idea. All the other boys get them too?"

"We all got them. I don't know what to do with them. I can't sell tickets."

"Oh, yes, you can. It's easy. The other boys will get ahead of you if you don't start right out."

"I don't know where to go."

"Ask anybody in the neighborhood. They know the church and they know the fair is coming. Most people will buy tickets."

"I can't ask them to buy tickets. They will say No and throw me out."

"Nonsense. Whoever heard of anybody throwing a nice boy out because he offered them a ticket for the church fair?"

"You sell them, ma. They'll buy them from you."

"That wouldn't help you any. You'd be more bashful next time. You try yourself. Pick out a good block of two. Where do you think the best chances would be?"

"O, I don't know. I don't want to sell things anyway."

"I'd be ashamed of you if you didn't sell the very last of those 10 tickets. Tell you what. Jim will go along with you. But he is not to do the selling. You're to do that. You take the two blocks square right around; this block first. Call at every house. Just smile and hold out your tickets. That is all. People can read. Go get Jim. He's in the back. Don't wait to think about it. Start right away and finish quickly."

Brother Jim stopped work and went in to see Mother about the selling scheme and she said a few words in his ear, words that made him smile and not at her. The two started out and rang the bell next door, sold two tickets, went to the next house, got a refusal, polite and kindly, but sure. Sold three at the next house, had to go a whole block before they sold the next one. But the ten were sold before they had done one side of the district mother had suggested.

"I sold them all, Ma. Here's the money. I could sell ten more, I bet."

"Now that's what I call doing something. Go ahead. Imagine how pleased your teacher and class will be, and what the minister will say when she tells him how well you did. I'm just as pleased as Punch, I am."

Later Jim whispered, "He sold the last two by himself. I made out to stop to talk to one of the fellows and he forgot about me and rang the bell himself. And it was old man Hooley. I'll start him again tomorrow and maybe he'll go under his own steam."

Nothing gives a bashful boy such a feeling of accomplishment as some such bit of work. He overcomes his shyness; he feels good about his ability to do what the other boys do; he feels fine about doing his share for a good cause. He has to have the support and encouragement he needs to begin; but once started, he does very well.

Music AND MUSIC Makers

by Thomas B. Sherman

VERDI'S "Otello" was first produced when its composer was 74. Many informed persons regard it as his greatest work, greater even than the subsequent "Falstaff," whose champagne-like effervescence gives it a unique place in the literature of the lyric drama.

But, strangely enough, this magnificent opera has never had the affection of the public in the same measure as "Traviata," "Trovatore," "Rigoletto" and other works of an earlier period. So far as the general audience is concerned, this may be due to a lack of familiarity. And those who have heard the work may respect it more and love it less than the others because it departs, to some extent, from the practice of dividing an opera into set numbers, thereby making its pure tunefulness more obvious and more easy of access.

That "Otello" requires more from an audience than "Trovatore" is undoubtedly true. Its greater power and psychological subtlety make that unavoidable. But it also gives more. Persons who will take enough trouble to acquaint themselves with the plot, the action and the characters will find it not merely a pleasing collection of arias and ensemble numbers, but a drama of great emotional sweep, logical development and skillfully contrived suspense. And with preparation or without it they should have no reason to complain of its lack of melody.

It is in fact one of the great glories of this opera and a supreme manifestation of the composer's genius, that the development of the plot and the expression of Verdi's unfailing melodic inventiveness are mutually supporting. No matter how fanciful the lyrical turn, how ingratiating the harmonies and how vivid the orchestra color, the story always goes forward. Arias, choruses and orchestra interludes are impregnated with lyrical expressiveness, while at the same time they serve dramatic purposes.

● EVEN THE love music in th first act, which is so poignant tha it would justify itself no matte how long it held up the action plays an important dramatic part for it describes the manner of Otello's wooing and establishes th ethereal quality of the love tha he and Desdemona have for each other. The subsequent events become all the more tragic against such a background. Although Boito's libretto is not the Shakespearean text by any means its strength and logic i undoubtedly due to his effort to preserve, as far as possible, not only the main line of action but the characterization as well. The character of Otello is still the Shakespearean character, proud, passionate and just. If it be said in criticism that he believed the slanders against his wife on very slight evidence it can be pointed out that jealousy often obliterates reason. Moreover Otello had been warned by Desdemona's father that since she had deceived him—in marrying by stealth—she would also deceive her husband.

IAGO, THEREFORE, can considered as symbolizing an tive force of evil in the univer against which virtue and simplic of character must constantly be guard. And the operatic play solves itself into a contest betwe Iago and Otello, a contest whi Otello is fated to lose, being as is the hero with a weakness. T opera therefore has some of intensity and the monumental sc of Greek drama for the music, ev with its external grace and s pleness, reflects the lines with amazing fidelity.

"Otello" is now in preparati by the St. Louis Grand Opera Co pany under the direction of Las Halasz and, as has been announc will be one of the three given d ing the April season here. It i fortunate choice for it is Verdi the top level of his miracul creative powers.

And it is the complete answer those traditional opera haters contend that drama and music never fuse and must necessarily from each other. For here is tainly a great dramatic story m more intense by music.

Features of General Interest

by Thomas B. Sherman

VERDI'S "Otello" was first produced when its composer was 74. Many informed persons regard it as his greatest work, greater even than the subsequent "Falstaff," whose champagne-like effervescence gives it a unique place in the literature of the lyric drama.

But, strangely enough, this magnificent opera has never had the affection of the public in the same measure as "Traviata," "Trovatore," "Rigoletto" and other works of an earlier period. So far as the general audience is concerned, this may be due to a lack of familiarity. And those who have heard the work may respect it more and love it less than the others because it departs, to some extent, from the practice of dividing an opera into set numbers, thereby making its pure tunefulness more obvious and more easy of access.

That "Otello" requires more from an audience than "Trovatore" is undoubtedly true. Its greater power and psychological subtlety make that unavoidable. But it also gives more. Persons who will take enough trouble to acquaint themselves with the plot, the action and the characters will find it not merely a pleasing collection of arias and ensemble numbers, but a drama of great emotional sweep, logical development and skillfully contrived suspense. And with preparation or without it they should have no reason to complain of its lack of melody.

It is in fact one of the great glories of this opera and a supreme manifestation of the composer's genius, that the development of the plot and the expression of Verdi's unfailing melodic inventiveness are mutually supporting. No matter how fanciful the lyrical turn, how ingratiating the harmonies and how vivid the orchestra color, the story always goes forward. Arias, choruses and orchestra interludes are impregnated with lyrical expressiveness, while at the same time they serve dramatic purposes.

● EVEN THE love music in the first act, which is so poignant that it would justify itself no matter how long it held up the action, plays an important dramatic part, for it describes the manner of Otello's wooing and establishes the ethereal quality of the love that he and Desdemona have for each other. ARE YOU OVERWEIGHT? HERE'S NEW DIET SCHEDULE

By PATRICIA LINDSAY

DOROTHY LAMOUR HAS A BEAUTIFULLY PROPORTIONED FIGURE, AS WELL AS RARE FACIAL BEAUTY. HER WELL-BALANCED HEALTH SCHEDULE OF SUFFICIENT EXERCISE AND PROPER MENUS HELP TO PRESERVE THE LOVELINESS WHICH HAS MADE HER A STAR.

BECAUSE there is real danger in being overweight it is good for a woman to keep as near normal in weight as is possible. Your health is of primary importance always. You must protect it while you reduce, and you must also eat of sufficient food to create enough energy while you are reducing.

Quite naturally, no one is capable of planning a specific diet which would be equally applicable to every individual.

Reasons for overweight are many, and it is impossible to suggest menus for slimming which would include the proper amounts of vitamins for all health conditions. Therefore I earnestly urge you to consult a physician before you follow any diet, even the one I am offering you.

If your doctor finds you are in normal health but overweight, then it is evident that your overweight is due to the fact that you eat more than you should and of rich and weight producing foods. If this is true you can safely follow the menus I have planned for you. They are well balanced and permit sufficient fuel for you to carry on your day's duties.

As it is better to reduce one's menus gradually than to drastically cut the amount of food you have been eating, this new diet is planned for a sane reduction in weight.

The first week's menus will reduce your hunger, the second week's menu will permit you to reduce approximately two pounds, the third and fourth week's menus allow you to reduce more than two pounds. Weigh yourself each Saturday morning. The number of pounds you will lose in one month will depend solely upon you.

You may eat either the minimum number of calories, or the maximum number of calories. If you wish to reduce slowly, eat the maximum number of calories and repeat the menus the second month. You will lose at least two pounds per week by so doing, and possibly more. That too depends upon how much food you have been consuming before starting to reduce.

Along with the diet are health rules. These you must follow. They are simple but important. And do not expect to lose any weight unless you follow the menus closely without cheating between meals!

Let me hear about your success! Here's to better proportioned bodies and better health!

Before going on this reduction diet get approval from a physician. While reducing follow Miss Lindsay's Diet Health Rules, which may be had upon request. Inclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. Address me in care of the Post-Dispatch.

Little-Girl Styles Similar to Adults

IF "LITTLE-GIRL" fashions are to dominate adult fashions for a season, the little girl of five or six sees no reason why her costume should not be identical with her mother's. Designers are making this possible now with smartly styled suits that come in small sizes and are very similar to those to be found in the women's suit departments. Outstanding in the collections is one model consisting of sheer lingerie blouse, navy pleated skirt and a little navy bolero. Another interesting outfit has a swing skirt with suspenders over the shoulders, a sheer white blouse and a hip-length jacket that is semi-fitted. The skirt has its fullness supplied by means of gores similar to the skirts that are featured in the dressmaker suits in grown-up sizes.

Many new versions of the "plan-your-own" suit ensemble are displayed in the juvenile departments of the St. Louis stores. All of these bear a close resemblance to the older fashions in vogue this season. There is the fan-pleated skirt of pastel-tinted flannel, available in several different shades, and combined with plaid coats or jackets. A popular combination consists of a pale blue skirt worn with a coat that combines white, blue and rose. Smallest followers of fashion must choose fitted reefers that cover their skirts, but junior high-school girls can select hip-length jackets.

Novelty Hosiery

When women's shoes are devoid of toes and heels, the hosiery designers get a chance to develop their talents. With the trend turning even more than in past seasons to a general acceptance of open-toed and open-heeled sandals and pumps, novelty hosiery appears in the shops. Decorative lace and mesh themes predominate while contrasting colors at toes and heels also put the hosiery into the fashion limelight.

Also of interest in hosiery styles, is a new interest in colorful types. Several new pastel tints have been added to the list of popular tones. One of these is a wine shade to be worn with black or navy footwear. Another is named "blue spruce" and introduces a mauve tone which is especially effective with the new shades of navy green and pale blue costume hues.

Gay Jacket

A gay little jacket that is made of linen or a colorful cotton is a smart asset to a dark-colored frock. All of those vivid flower tones which are used for accessories this spring are developed with success in Eton and bolero jackets to wear over sheer dresses. They look especially well with navy blue. Plaid linen and gingham also are seen extensively and contrary to the usual interpretation of such materials as being very informal, they are slated for afternoon success.

The BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

Answers Every Question a Child Can Ask

What is curiosity teaching your boy or girl? Is there any subject on which your child has not asked you a dozen questions? Curiosity is the beginning of knowledge, so let the children ask as many questions as they like, and be sure they are answered correctly. But can you explain clearly, simply, interestingly why the stars twinkle, and why raindrops are round, and where day begins and where flowers get their smell, and their colors? The Book of Knowledge can—The Book of Knowledge does—give the answers to the children's questions, sets the stage for more, and answers them.

Opens Every Door a Child Should Enter

The 17 great departments in The Book of Knowledge open every door a child should enter. Wonder answers their questions: The Earth tells of earth, air, sea and starry heavens; Familiar Things takes them on visits to the great workshops of industry; Plant Life and Animal Life open doors to Nature's world; Our Own Life tells of our bodies and how to keep well; Stories, Poetry, Noted Books and Golden Deeds provide countless hours of fascinating and worthwhile entertainment; Fine Arts, Literature, and Men and Women furnish a broad cultural background. Here, then, in The Book of Knowledge, is your child's friendly, stimulating guide and helper, the ideal link between school and home.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

The Whole Family Loves It

NOT only the children love The Book of Knowledge. The whole family uses and enjoys it. Angelo Patri, world-renowned educator, says that The Book of Knowledge should be "in the homes of little and big and young and old searchers after truth." John H. Finley, educator and editor, says: "Suppose a boy of ten were to spend fifteen minutes a day reading these pages—he would at thirteen know more about the earth and the life on it than the wisest men knew a few generations ago:

Step by Step

Do you know how The Book of Knowledge captures the child's mind and makes learning a delight? The easy, winning style of text and the arrangement of articles in reading order are two of its successful features. Step by step the children go, from the simplest facts to the more complex. Yet so gradual is the slope that the young reader is not aware of the steady upward climb of learning.

15,000 Striking Pictures That Teach

The wonderful profusion of pictures in The Book of Knowledge offer what teachers call "visual education in its finest form." There are more than 15,000 illustrations—3,400 of them in brilliant color and gravure. They show the secrets of the spacious universe, make science clear, illustrate dramatic scenes from history. They cut machinery open and show what goes on inside. They answer questions. They offer two chances to one for remembering what is learned. STAGE PLAYS AND MUSIC

The Screen in Review

By Colvin McPherson

THOSE who are far enough along in years will look at "Made for Each Other," at Loew's, with many a chuckle and perhaps a goodly amount of sentiment as well, but to young married folks it will be intensely close-to-home drama. For the feature, which stars James Stewart and Carole Lombard, describes the difficulties of a newly united pair in New York.

After a reckless courtship and marriage, they set out on a wedding trip to Europe. Office business—Stewart is a lawyer—drags them off the boat. They begin life together in an apartment with the husband's mother. The mother nearly drives the wife crazy. A dinner for the head of Stewart's law firm is sabotaged by an awful servant. The customary baby arrives and the apartment immediately is too crowded for him.

One thing and another happens until the climax, in which the baby gets pneumonia of a very special kind and serum has to be rushed from Salt Lake City by airplane through a blizzard. These last events are agony for the young parents but out of their suffering comes that piece of primary wisdom—all you need for your many small troubles is one big one, and you're cured.

The original narrative for "Made for Each Other" comes from Rose Franken, who made fame and fortune with that keen family analysis, "Another Language," and the screenplay is by Jo Swerling, previously credited with "A Man's Castle," "No Greater Glory" and many other works. The skilled John Cromwell directed.

Stewart, except for his peculiar manner of suggesting a sly fellow while looking like an awkward one, is well suited to his role. Miss Lombard, as a patient, self-restraining young wife, reveals an ability quite different from her stormy behavior in the past. Charles Coburn, as the head of Stewart's law firm, and Lucile Watson, as the Stewarts' mother, exhibit such assurance in their characterizations that they are a joy to watch.

The mortality rates in Loew's second feature, "Burn 'Em Up O'Connor" are something fierce. Four fine drivers of racing automobiles are hurtled into eternity, as the saying goes, before Nat Pendleton and Dennis O'Keefe figure out who is doing the dirty work. It is not bragging on my part, I hope, since others more adept very possibly will excel me, but I came in considerably ahead of Pendleton and O'Keefe. I figured out the setup and spotted the culprit 27 minutes after the opening of the film.

Pendleton and O'Keefe are a pair of tractor jockeys when the wheels start rolling, but the racing bug has bitten O'Keefe. He goes to work for Cecilia Parker's father, Harry Carey, and is stabbed with three of those doomed young men. For a while the film is one of those smart-aleck affairs with a brash young man making up to a pretty girl, then it gets to be a mystery tale, then melodrama, has scorching races and plenty of suspense. Not to mention lovely murder and so much of it.

With Wednesday openings at three other first-run theaters, most of the remaining picture features are on their way out rather than newly arrived. At the Ambassador, W. C. Fields, Charlie McCarthy and McCarthy's own stooge, Mortimer Snerd, are giving the customers all kinds of fun, including a riotous table tennis game, in "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man." "Society Smugglers" and the Government men tangle in an exciting melodrama and an issue of "The March of Time," omitted today, deals with Mexico. But all this is due to be supplanted on Wednesday by the "Love Affair" of Charles Boyer and Irene Dunne and a second romantic drama called "Beauty for the Asking."

At the Fox, James Cagney rides through the rocky wilds of the Sooner State as "The Oklahoma Kid" and Rosella Towne, as Jane Arden, shows up jewel thieves of New York and Bermuda. Also there is a short subject on the training of bird dogs. But after Tuesday, the billing will be "Wife, Husband and Friend" and "Risky Business."

"Yes, My Darling Daughter" and "Gunga Din" are still in season at the Missouri and St. Louis, with program aid in each case.

The Italian film, "Vivere!" which went into exhibition Friday night at the St. Louis University auditorium and is continuing there through today, has some musical interest, in that its star is Tito Schipa, the opera and concert tenor, and that he sings several popular songs and operatic arias. Lacking superimposed English translation, however, it is barely intelligible to those of the audience who do not understand Italian.

'Daughters of Atreus' Next for the Mummers

Robert Turney's play, "Daughters of Aterus," which was one of the most highly praised entries in the 1936-37 season in New York and one of the soonest departed, will be introduced to St. Louis by the Mummers, as their next production at the Wednesday Club on March 23 and 25. In leading roles are Bobbie Schwarz, Victor Zuzenak, Jane Garrett, Anne and Blandford Jennings.

The play is a modern adaptation of the entire Klytaimnestra-Elektra cycle from the Greeks, the story of a woman who murdered her husband and was murdered by her son. The theme was used in the dramas of Euripides and Aeschylus and was adapted, in a Freudian manner, by Eugene O'Neill in his "Mourning Becomes Electra."

The Week's Shows

AMBASSADOR — "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man," starring W. C. Fields with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy; "Society Smugglers," with Irene Hervey and Preston Foster; "The March of Time."

FOX—James Cagney in "The Oklahoma Kid," with Humphrey Bogart and Rosemary Lane; "The Adventures of Jane Arden," with Rosella Towne and William Gargan.

LOEW'S—"Made for Each Other," starring Carole Lombard and James Stewart; "Burn 'Em Up O'Connor," with Dennis O'Keefe and Cecilia Parker.

MISSOURI — "Yes, My Darling Daughter," featuring Priscilla Lane and Jeffrey Lynn, with Fay Bainter and Roland Young; "Secret Service of the Air," with Ronald Reagan and Ila Rhodes.

ST. LOUIS—"Gunga Din," starring Cary Grant, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., and Victor McLaglen; "Next Time I Marry," featuring Lucille Ball and James Ellison.

SCREENING ROOM (3143 Olive street)—"Dark Rapture," film record of the Denis-Roosevelt expedition into the Belgian Congo, opens four-day engagement this afternoon. "Titans of the Deep," featuring Dr. William Beebe and Otis Barton, on same program.

"Tobacco Road" Back In Two Weeks; Other Chances for American

"TOBACCO ROAD," which already has played for seven weeks in St. Louis in past seasons, will return two weeks from tonight, March 26, at the American. John Barton again plays Jeeter Lester, "white trash" character around whom the action revolves.

The original production of the Jack Kirkland play, adapted from Erskine Caldwell's novel, has been running on Broadway since Dec. 4, 1933, and with the patronage of World's Fair attendance is expected to break the all-time record of 2532 consecutive performances held by "Abie's Irish Rose."

A promise of activity at the American in April and possibly May is contained in the announcement that "My Dear Children," new play starring John Barrymore and his wife, Elaine Barrie; "Knickerbocker Holiday," musical with Walter Huston, and "I Married An Angel," another hit musical, are headed this way.

Mischa Elman Programs 'Symphonie Espagnole'

Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole" and Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata are major works on the recital program which Mischa Elman, violinist, will play the evening of Saturday, March 25, at the Auditorium Opera House, under auspices of the Elman Non-Sectarian Refugees' Committee of St. Louis.

Elman is appearing in 25 such recitals throughout the United States, receiving only his expenses, and the proceeds of the tour will be divided equally between the American Committee for Christian (Protestant) German refugees, the Committee for Catholic Refugees from Germany and the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee.

Prize Contest

A one-act play contest, open to anyone and with a $15 prize for the winner, has been announced by the Webster Groves Theater Guild. The contest will close Sept. 1. Mrs. George Leonard Schultz, 114 South Elm avenue, is chairman of the committee in charge.

TAMING A WILD ELEPHANT, AS THEY DO IT IN 'DARK RAPTURE," AFRICAN FILM AT THE SCREENING ROOM.

African Film As Screening Room Feature

"DARK RAPTURE," film of African life, both human and animal, will be shown at the S'Renco Screening Room, 3143 Olive street, this afternoon, tonight and each night through Wednesday.

The film is a record compiled by the Denis-Roosevelt expedition into the Belgian Congo and includes, as some of its major subjects, the capturing and taming of elephants, the life of pygmies and of a tribe seven feet tall, the building of a swinging bridge by the pygmies, tribal rites of various sorts and views of wild animals.

Armand Denis, producer of the film, is a Belgian explorer already noted for his work on "Goona Goona." His wife, Leila Roosevelt Denis, daughter of the explorer, Andre Roosevelt, was born in Webster Groves, but grew up in the East. Both were in St. Louis last fall for an appearance before the Women's Advertising Club. They have four children and their residence, when they are at home, is Putnam, Conn. Their Congo expedition took 15 months and along with "Dark Rapture" they made a motion picture for the Belgian Government, which sponsored their trip.

Programmed with "Dark Rapture," which has an English narration and authentic sound track to accompany it, is another shorter feature in English, "Titans of the Deep," featuring Dr. William Beebe and Otis Barton and dealing with undersea life.

Novel Presentation For Laboratory Play

AN experimental "drawing-room theater" production of "Stage Door," the Ferber-Kaufman comedy drama, will be given by the laboratory group of the Little Theater of St. Louis for four public performances from March 20 through March 23. The large cast, under the direction of Mildred Basden, includes, in leading roles, Margaret Hart, Harry Schultz, Gerald Sandweg, Betty McGrew, Ann Reinhold, Wanda Albertini, Eula Morgan and Percy Ramsay.

The play will not be given on the stage of the Little Theater, but in the center of the adjoining art gallery. The audience will be seated in rows all around the room, surrounding the players, thus providing perspectives not usually attained. The drawing room theater is a new form, introduced in 1931 by Glenn Hughes at the University of Washington, in Seattle. Similar experimental productions have been given in recent years in Europe. In 1924, Gilmor Brown tried out the idea with the "Playbox" at the Pasadena Playhouse. In 1936 and 1937, several drawing-room theater productions were presented at the University of Iowa School of Drama, in which Miss Basden participated.

Holmes' Travel Talk On "Beautiful Sweden"

"Beautiful Sweden," second half of a travelogue tour of Scandinavia, will be Burton Holmes' subject at the Auditorium Opera House tomorrow night. Holmes last Monday night described the scenic delights of Norway, approaching to the border of Sweden, which he calls "the most civilized country in the world." The final lecture of his series of five comes a week from tomorrow night and is entitled "The New Ireland."

MESSIAH, AS MOTHER SAW HIM, IN BROADWAY DRAMA

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 11.

PERHAPS it is because of the troubles abounding in our world today, but there is definitely a trend in the Broadway theater to look upon saints and heroes of the past as human beings who can give the best counsel in problems arising today.

In "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," Lincoln is revealed as a harassed, plagued man who does his best to solve both the problems of his country and those of his own domestic life. In "Knickerbocker Holiday," the ghost of old Peter Stuyvesant arises to speak words of Dutch wisdom on how to lead pioneers out of the wilderness.

Lincoln and Stuyvesant, their memories dimmed by the years, emerge in these dramas as living men who solved their problems in the same way that a Mr. Jones or Mr. Smith might solve them today.

So, in "Family Portrait," Jesus Christ is presented in a reverently moving and human play as a man who had his own private problems to solve as well as to preach his doctrine about the brotherhood of man. Jesus never appears on the stage in this drama by Lenore Coffee and William Joyce Cowen, but his presence is felt there every minute through the words of his mother, Mary, who appreciates that he is establishing the gospel of Christendom, but she is still most concerned about the personal safety of her son than she is about his material success.

Mary, as Judith Anderson plays her, is the all-wise mother of all time. She cannot quite understand why her son, Jesus, should desert his brothers in their carpentry shop, but when the brothers condemn him for going away to preach, she rises in his defense. Moreso, she sees that his brothers do not need her and she fears that Jesus does. So she follows him to Jerusalem only to arrive there after the Last Supper and to hear the jeers of the mob outside that is on its way to crucify him.

(Biblical historians say the reference to Christ's brothers apparently is based on the King James version of the Bible, which is used by Protestant faiths. This version speaks of both brothers and sisters of Jesus. The Catholic belief is that Jesus was Mary's only son, and that mention of "brothers and sisters" is an incorrect translation of Greek words which could also mean "cousins" or "members of the family.")

Mary's love and concern burn brightly even after Jesus' crucifixion, and still without malice or revenge in her heart she speaks only of her hope that mankind will always remember him and the simple lessons of loving one's neighbor that he taught. But, she knows that he was speaking the truth when he said "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house." She has seen how his brothers resented him going away from their carpentry shop and how they resented his returning to be hailed as a success and a holy man. Too, she heard when she was searching for Jesus in Jerusalem, the words of a passerby who identified himself in stinging words as "Judas Iscariot," two words spoken in such tones that they seemed to seal the fate of the world.

This is a picture of Jesus through his mother's eyes, and through her eyes he becomes not only a divine prophet but also a son who needs his mother's care and guidance. It is a role that needs tenderness, understanding and sympathy and all these Miss Anderson gives the part in one of the most moving performances of the season. Her touching voice gives both dignity and intense appeal to the lines where she is trying to protect her son, Jesus, from the dangers she fears may befall him. And she can say superbly and wittily such a motherly admonition as, when James is criticising some of Jesus' works as being juvenile, she says, "Get out, James. You were born middle-aged."

Not since she played the Queen Mother to John Gielgud's "Hamlet" on Broadway two seasons ago has Miss Anderson appeared here as she went after that to be Lady Macbeth in London and then to her California home.

Now she is happily back in a moving performance and with Margaret Webster, who directed the play, as the Magdalene. Miss Webster also directed the productions of Maurice Evans in the full-length "Hamlet" and other Shakespearean productions that he has done here.

In the other roles Miss Anderson has been superb, but this picture of a mother's love for her son is exciting because it presents the mother as the heroine of the greatest son of our civilization. And Miss Anderson plays it with the simplicity that could only come from royalty.

—o-o—

BROADWAY theatrical managers are suddenly going to extremes. Some weeks ago, "The American Way" arrived with a cast of 250 players. In contrast, the first nighters looked upon a new play this week which had a cast of only two.

"Close Quarters," presents Elena Miramova and Leo Chalzel as the only players, although the author depends a great deal on radio, offstage voices and other such contrivances to give the illusion of many more people.

It is a mystery melodrama with a trick ending so exciting that the play would be sensational if all of it were as good as its ending.

The story is of a husband and wife in an unnamed European capital (Suspect: Berlin). The husband, a liberal member of a workers' union, is home celebrating the fact his strength with the workers may give him political power.

In the midst of their celebration they hear a news announcement on the radio that a leader of an opposing political party has been mysteriously murdered and police have found strong circumstantial evidence that may lead to the murderer.

The husband becomes nervous, for not only is he an enemy of the murdered man, but he has just come through the park where the murder occurred and somewhere along his path he lost a glove.

Shortly after comes the surprise finish which can't be revealed without the risk of being justifiably and openly murdered by any member of the Melodrama Writers' Guild.

Four Concerts Within Week To Close Symphony Season

Final 'Pop' Program on Tuesday Evening, Subscription Pair on Friday and Saturday, Pension Benefit, With Soloist, Next Sunday.

A ROUND of activity for the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra during the next eight days will conclude its St. Louis concert schedule for the season and a week from tomorrow the organization will start on its third and final concert tour of the season, through the South.

The final "pop" concert comes on Tuesday evening, the last pair of subscription concerts on Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, the pension fund concert, with Richard Tauber as soloist, next Sunday afternoon. All programs will be given at the Auditorium Opera House, with Vladimir Golschmann conducting.

Beethoven's entire Seventh Symphony will be played at the "pop" concert, which will be the first evening program of its kind since this low-priced feature was revived last year. A chorus of 200 high school students will assist in the presentation of Brahms' "Song of Destiny" and the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah." Golschmann also has programmed the Prelude to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger."

The customary all-orchestral program will be presented at the final pair of subscription concerts, with the "Eroica" symphony of Beethoven as the major work. The concerts also will offer the Overture to Gluck's "Iphigenie en Aulide," Eugene Goossens' "Concertino for String Orchestra," and the striking "Symphonic Fragments" from Ravel's ballet suite, "Daphnis and Chloe."

Beethoven's monumental Third or "Eroica" Symphony blazed the way for all symphonic music that was composed after it. Each of its four movements are departures from the old forms of symphonic works by his predecessors, Haydn and Mozart. The first movement, a fiery and splendid allegro, introduced a different sonata form and is epochal also in that coda for the first time became an important part of a symphony. The second movement marked the introduction in a symphony of a funeral march, a sublime and solemn musical creation by Beethoven. The impetuous third part was the beginning of the scherzo in the symphonic form, replacing Haydn's and Mozart's traditional minuet, while the finale presented for the first time in a symphony a theme with variations.

Lieder, operatic arias and popular songs from light operas will be featured by Richard Tauber on his second local appearance with the orchestra. The Viennese tenor was first heard in St. Louis in a broadcast concert, which also featured Grace Moore, famous soprano, and the orchestra, in November, 1937. In addition to singing, Tauber will direct the orchestra in a "Symphonic Interlude" from his operetta, "The Singing Dream."

Golschmann's program for the occasion will offer such sparkling compositions as the Overture to Mozart's "The Magic Flute," Prokofieff's "Symphony Classique," and the waltzes from Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier."

Tauber recently returned from a tour of farflung cities in Australia and South Africa. He gave 39 recitals in the former country, beat a musical path to 17 jungle outposts in South Africa, and received a roaring ovation after each recital. He began his current American tour before a capacity audience in Town Hall, New York.

The tenor has been successful in opera, concerts and in motion pictures and is a popular recording artist.

The symphony's two-week tour of the South will start at Oxford, Miss. Concerts will follow at Memphis, Birmingham, Montevallo, Montgomery, New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Houston, Waco, Fort Worth, Denton and Fayetteville.

SPEAKING at the dedication of the new short wave station, W6XBE, at San Francisco last week, Lenox R. Lohr, president of the NBC, emphasized especially the wealth of programs being broadcast from this country for Latin-America, and then continued: "But the monologue is not conversation, nor can full understanding come when one man listens and the other man talks. It is not enough that we of the United States should broadcast to you; and in recent years we of this country have been happy to be able to hear many programs originating in the Latin American countries. It is only through such sharing of programs, representing the many and varied activities that go to make up the complex organization known as a nation, that you of Latin America and we of the United States can reach the fullest understanding." Lohr's speech was broadcast by W6XBE on a beam for reception south of the Rio Grande.

Wednesday, a birthday party program for the Girl Scouts, set for 3:15 p. m. on the CBS net, will include talks by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, honorary vice-president, and Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke, of Washington, D. C., president, singing by Jessica Dragonette and Morton Downey, and a skit by Nila Mack, of the Let's Pretend programs, and Alice Frost, of the Big Sister serial cast. Olympe Bradna and Ray Milland, the movie actors, are billed for the Star Theater. A Twentieth Century American Legion broadcast, at 10:15 p. m. on the WJZ net, will feature Bob Hope as master of ceremonies, Mary Pickford, Gene Autry, Joe E. Brown, Fibber McGee, Gale Page, Rosemary Lane, the Paul Taylor Chorus, Frank Hodek's orchestra and talks by Stephen Chadwick, national commander, and other Legion officers. Olsen and Johnson stars of "Hellzapoppin'," will close the broadcast.

A new cubical transmitting aerial has been developed for the 10,000-watt television station which General Electric is erecting on top of a 1500-foot hill 12 miles from Albany, N. Y., in the expectation that it will be ready for operation early in the summer. The aerial consists of eight hollow copper bars, each four inches in diameter and about seven feet (half a wave length) long, arranged so as to form a perfect cube. It is designed to radiate a horizontal polarized wave carrying both voice and picture in the 4½-meter band with good signal strength for a distance of 40 miles or so.

W1XAL, the 20,000-watt short wave station at Boston, Mass., which carries programs from New England University lecture rooms, also is broadcasting selected programs of the Mutual network and WGN, Chicago.

Skirt and Blouse Spring Ensemble

THE girl who wants to launch the spring season in a costume that is typical of 1939 will select a skirt and blouse ensemble. The skirt may be of crepe or alpaca, but the latter fabric will be most in keeping with the quaintness of this mode. Pleats likewise will be most characteristic. As for the blouse it should be very sheer and eloborately trimmed with embroidered organdie.

The most popular model to appear is made of white organdie and is adorned with bands of the embroidered material in the manner of the early days of the century. Long sleeves that blouse slightly at the hand are traditional. Add to this costume a saucy little sailor hat that is equipped with a contrasting veil and wear Mary Jane pumps on your feet, if you want to have a costume that is completely harmonious. The entire ensemble will be black and white or navy and white except for the accesory accents.

Sunshine Cake

Five large eggs, one and one-fourth cups granulated sugar, one cup flour, one-third teaspoon cream of tartar, one pinch of salt, one teaspoon vanilla extract. Beat whites of eggs until well mixed but not stiff, add salt, cream of tartar, then continue beating until very stiff. Add sifted sugar and beat again. Add beaten yolks and flavoring and stir in flour. Bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes. Ice with a frosting of choice.

For Sparkling

DR. LYON'S TOOTH POWDER

DO AS YOUR DENTIST DOES —USE POWDER

NOTHING else cleans and polishes teeth more quickly and leaves them more naturally white—than POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know, almost always uses powder.

All Cleansing Properties

As it is only the powder part of most dentifrices that cleans, a dentifrice that is all powder just naturally cleans effectively. Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—all cleansing properties.

For over seventy years many dentists everywhere have prescribed Dr. Lyon's because normal teeth simply cannot remain dull and dingy looking when it is used.

No Acid, No Grit or Pumice

Dr. Lyon's cleans and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling with natural brightness. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is a special dental powder developed for HOME USE by a distinguished practicing dentist. Free from all acids, grit or pumice, it cannot possibly injure or scratch the tooth enamel as years of constant use have shown. Even as a neutralizer in acid mouth conditions, Dr. Lyon's is an effective antacid.

Costs Less to Use

Brush your teeth with Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder regularly — consult your dentist periodically—eat a diet rich in minerals and vitamins, and you will be doing all that you can possibly do to protect your teeth.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is more economical to use. In the same size and price class Dr. Lyon's outlasts tooth pastes two to one. Even a small package will last you for months.

of Central America, searching for and finding remnants of an almost forgotten Maya civilization.

"Mrs. Lindbergh, who always seems to keep busy, served luncheon at this point," the reporter set forth, "cheese, crackers, cookies and chocolate out of a tiny box like a magician bringing rabbits out of a hat. The Colonel ate everything, but our hostess contented herself with a few crackers, fruit and a cup of black coffee." When she returned from that adventure and reporters sought to interview her, she said as she has always said: "I'm sorry, I have nothing to say." To those for whom the stars "and not the dark are the sky," glib oral expression does not come easily.

Courage? Make this forced landing with the poet and dreamer, the steely nerved adventurer, who sat behind the pilot as he turned back through the impenetrable fog and groped for a little dot on the Pacific known as Buroton Bay:

"My husband motioned me to reel in the antenna. Emergency landing, that meant. I buckled my belt tighter. . . . Down, down, we were gliding down now, the engine throttled, wisps of fog temporarily blinding us as we descended. I was losing the sky. I did not want to let go until I could grasp something below. Down the sides of the mountain one could see a strip of water gleaming, harebell-blue. We were diving toward it. Down, down—the sky was gone. The sea! Hold on to the sea—that little patch of blue. Oh, the sea was gone, too. We were blind and still going down—oh, God!—we'll hit the mountain! A wave of fear like terrific pain swept over me, shriveling to blackened ashes the meaningless words 'courage'—'pride'—'control.'"

—o-o—

CONTINUING the fascinating narrative the author tells of her instinctive relief as Col. Lindbergh, apparently dissatisfied with the surface below, soared again above the fog:

"Thank God, there is the sky. Hold on to it with both hands. Let's never go down again.

"He's trying it again, like a knife going down the side of a pie tin, between fog and mountain. Will he say afterward, 'It was nothing at all?' (if there is an afterward.) But his face was set. I could see it out of the side of the cockpit—his lips tight-closed. The force of the wind blowing against them made them look thin and fearful like a man gritting his teeth in his last fight. Were we there, then, at the last fight? I had never seen him look like that. The wind flattened his face, made the flesh flabby, the brows prominent—like a skeleton.

"Down again—and the terror. Up again—and the return of courage and shame."

Then in language so beautiful it defies description, the author recalls the philosophical reasoning by which she regained full control of her emotions, then reached a state of bliss when it appeared that her pilot had abandoned his intention to seek landing on Buroton Bay, which name now, to her, rang "crimson like the name of an old battlefield."

"Oh, Lord—here was another mountain peak! Was he going to try it again? Hadn't he learned ANYTHING? Did he think I really enjoyed this game of tobogganing down volcanoes? I thought in a kind of bravado anger. Really it was too much—I would never fly again. . . . 'Never fly again,' echoed in my ears maliciously. No—never fly again—I had said it myself and shivered to think how true it might be.

"Down, down into the darkness. We had never been down this far before. . . . There over a sharp cliff of 50 feet, under a layer of mist, lay the water. . . . Could we reach it or would we have to fight our way up again? We dropped over the cliff. We were over the water. Spank, spank, spank—the ship is breaking under us! No—the seat has bounced down, that's all. It must be rough water. We're slowing up now. We're all right—we're down."

Anne Lindbergh never fly again? The "crew" grounded by fright? Why, it was only next morning that the Colonel and the crew were managing to control their laughter only by heroic efforts, when the officer of a Japanese ship, sent unsolicited to the site of the forced landing, gravely accepted and courteously consumed a damp cookie extended by Col. Lindbergh in reply to the officer's question: "You have cohee?" It later became clear that the officer was formally inviting the Lindberghs to coffee aboard ship.

Anne Morrow Lindbergh never fly again? Why, it was a relatively few months before she was again at her husband's side making the historic flights in the course of a survey of North Atlantic air routes. For her text in "Listen! the Wind," she selected the last leg of the adventure across the Atlantic from Africa to Brazil. Co-pilot and navigator as well, chief among her multiple duties was operation of the radio, that invisible thread of communication which provided the only way of keeping in touch with lesser creatures on land and water. Only her gift of poetic prose enables her to recount with such simplicity the dramatic events of the journey.

Except in cases of extreme emergency, when stations failed to answer messages signed with the formal call letters assigned to the plane, did Mrs. Lindbergh use the magic signature "Lindbergh Plane." It was shortly after she had been forced to send such a message, that they began to receive weather and position reports from a German ship. For hours, they had been flying alone, their single other human contact the radio, and even that for a short time had failed them. Then the German ship sent bearings "and we turned slightly off course and headed in their direction.

"QRT (Stop sending)," the ship's operator broke off abruptly, SEE YOU ON OUR PORT SIDE."

"I looked out over the edge of the cockpit. There it was—a broad ship, steaming ahead of us, its plane, the catapult track, and the crooked arm of its derrick perched incongruously on top, looking like minature toys from this height. We were diving down to meet them.

"Suddenly I was aware of the men on deck, many bare arms waving, and steam puffing from a stack, visible sign of the blasts of salute we could not hear through the roar of our engine.

"I held up my arm and waved frantically, conscious of that supreme thrill of communication. It is the most exciting thing in life anyway, whether you find it in a book or in conversation or in the understanding of two minds. But this, the momentary synthesis of two kinds of communication, was almost unbearable in its intensity.

"All night and all day I had been struggling to speak over a radio. I had been able to contact people only through my fingers, and my ears, like someone who is blind. But now, suddenly, I could see. A veil had dropped away. I could see, face to face. One of those men waving on deck was the radio operator I had been talking to. I raised my arm again—wonderful.

"Now we were past. We were climbing up again, back to blind communication.

"'MANY THANKS ALL HELP,' I signaled back.

"The operator on the Westfalen answered, giving us a bearing to Fernando de Noronha and to Natal. Then, 'CHRISTMAS WISHES AND HAPPY NEW YEAR,' he signed off, 'FROM ALL ON DDWE.' (Those bare arms waving from the deck.) 'Christmas wishes'—on that tropical sea!"

—o-o—

IT is most likely that everything Anne Morrow Lindbergh will do will continue to surprise her acquaintances. Poet, they know she is, but the luster of each verse and prose paragraph still astounds the ones who know her best; pilot, radio technician and world traveler, even the few who sensed the longing expressed in "Letter With a Foreign Stamp" are amazed at her versatility; exemplary mother and stoic victim of history's most harrowing tragedy; old acquaintances concede they never dreamed "little Anne" was of such tempered steel. To fill the silence, after groping futility for works to describe the real Anne Morrow Lindbergh, some point to her own poem, entitled, appropriately enough, "Remembrance."

Your hands have curled about this bowl. Your lips
Have left a kiss upon this teacup's rim.
Frail and inanimate things that can outlast
Your beauty.
Have they no memory of you singing still
About them, echos of your melody,
If I might catch my breath and bow my head
To hear?
Do their bright surfaces remember not
So faint and tremulous flutter of the wings,
Of light and shade and color that were you?
No print of touch, no perfume lingering
That beauty's self, refashioning your loveliness for me?
Mute bowl!
Mute cup!
I might as vainly ask
The scent of some late jonquil to recall
Lost April.

This, and little more, do they know about Anne Morrow Lindbergh: She is slender, trim, almost boyish in flying togs, but delicate and feminine in ordinary attire. She is 32 years old. Newspaper photographs to the contrary, there is not one among those who know her who will not say emphatically that she is pretty. Her eyes are blue with a purple tint; they have been described as "pansy-colored." Her hair is brown and thick. Her manner is of extreme modesty, but the shyness of childhood and collegiate days has disappeared.

She is forever composed and at ease, but remains self-contained before visitors. No one, save possibly her mother and sister, Elizabeth, and Col. Lindbergh, husband and comrade, can divine what goes on behind the "pansy-colored" eyes and beneath the thick, brown hair, unless they read what she has written.

Possibly the president of Smith College, bestowing in 1935 an honorary degree on the distinguished alumna, delivered the best and briefest eulogy:

"Anne Morrow Lindbergh, B. A., Smith, 1928. Hubbard gold medalist of the National Geographic Society, poet, pilot, navigator, radio operator, co-explorer with her husband of the unflown air routes of five continents and two oceans, who has proved to an admiring world the compatability of imagination and practical dexterity; of sensitiveness and fortitude; of modesty and daring; the pride of her college, the glory of her country."

Superlatives, yes But superlatives are justified in discussing Anne Morrow Lindbergh.

Ham and Brick Cheese

One pound sliced cooked ham, four teaspoons dry mustard, one-half teaspoon paprika, a dash of cayenne, two tablespoons cream, one cup grated sharp cheese. Mix seasonings with the cream and spread on slices of ham, then sprinkle each slice with the cheese. Pile the slices on top of each other in a brick form. Tie in place with string and place in a baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven for about 25 minutes, until the cheese and ham fat are melted. Chill, remove string and slice down through the brick. Lovely on the Sunday night platter.

New Outdoor Furniture at Miami Beach

Wrought Iron and Rattan Seem to Be Most Popular.

By Josephine Walter

ONCE again we board the "bounding broomstick" a la Robert Benchley, and take you on a trip to that delectable spot, Miami Beach, for the purpose of giving you a preview of the last word in summer furniture, up-to-the-minute decorations, and such other items as table accessories, lamps and decorative objects. And, as we feel that many of you may already be starting to plan your summer purchases of garden and porch furniture, this week's column will be devoted to a description of the latest things displayed down south, for these are the pieces that we feel sure you will be seeing here in St. Louis this summer.

Garden and porch furniture seems to have been narrowed down pretty well to rattan and wrought iron as far as the structural part is concerned. There are devotees of both and there are good and bad features of both so you must more or less decide for yourself which appeals most to you and which fits best into your needs and requirements. I will try to give you a pictrue of both types and some of the newest features of both.

BEFORE DESCRIBING the many new styles of rattan furniture to be seen in Florida I want to explain two terms that have undoubtedly caused confusion to many people. Bamboo and rattan are often confused because they look almost exactly alike. Their chief difference is that bamboo is hollow while rattan is solid, and as a consequence, the former is usually used to trim things while the latter is used in the construction of furniture. Thus, when we discuss furniture of this type we will speak almost exclusively of rattan for most of the furniture is constructed of this material.

The newest and latest item in regard to rattan is that it now comes in the same type of "pickled" finish that has been so popular in other light woods in the past year or two. It is given this finish by rubbing white into the pores of the material and then waxing, and a most attractive finish it is, too. Also extremely new is the use of this material for bedroom as well as porch furniture. I saw an entire bedroom outfit made of rattan, including the head and foot boards of the beds, with appliques of bands of the rattan on ash for the chests and other pieces of furniture. Every type of furniture to make outdoor life more enjoyable is now being made of this material and most attractive are the little rattan bars with shelves of glass across to hold bar equipment, and tall stools of the same material. Frequently, too, the rattan is painted, often in a combination of colors such as yellow and white, or blue and rose.

THE WROUGHT IRON furniture is lovelier and more elaborate than ever before. Whereas last season most pieces were simple bands of wrought iron, this year you will see all sorts of elaborate and lacy detail work, especially in such patterns as acorns, oak leaves, trailing ivy effects and even flowers. One of the most effective tables I saw had a glass top through which you could see the fancifully wrought base representing flowers. Although white is still popular for wrought iron furniture, the very newest finish is most unusual and effective. It is called terra cotta. This tone is put on in an uneven manner, giving the effect of antique furniture that has rusted and weathered with the years. It is most attractive and is, I believe, destined for great success. Similar in purpose is the verde antique finish which is a deep, weathered green that has been popular for many years. Then, too, many of the frames are painted in plain colors instead of the ever popular white. As to styles, there are the usual assortment of tables with glass tops, chairs, chaise effects and tete a tete models, often with a little table between. A few seasons ago a hammock with a collapsible frame was introduced on the market; now there is a new type with a frame and wide stretch of canvas instead of a hammock which is ideal for taking an afternoon siesta under the trees.

As to materials, which are used either on the rattan or the wrought iron furniture, great preference is now being shown for sail cloth rather than the rubberized materials which were so popular in past seasons. The principal reason for this is that it is smoother and more comfortable, does not get as hot as the other materials, and does not crack and weather so badly. In plain colors, the pastel tones have superseded the more vivid, vibrant shades of last year. Most popular of all is a color called wood rose, a shade which is between pink and old rose, and very lovely. Stripes have never been more popular but you see many more of the narrow, upholstery type of stripes than you do the wide awning effects.

Sewing Hints

A clothespin will act as a darning ball for the worn glove.

When snaps are removed from clothing fasten them together on a piece of heavy brown paper. Then you will have both sides when they are needed.

If afraid to stitch the heavy cretonne on the sewing machine, rub the seams with yellow soap and then the needle will slide through the goods without breaking.

If you will always match the size of the needle with the weight of the thread you are using you will find that difficulty about needle threading will be done away with.

Manhattan Crab Salad

Two cups flaked crabmeat, two chopped hard-boiled eggs, one cup diced celery, three tablespoons chopped pickles, one teaspoon salt, three-fourths teaspoon pepper, mayonnaise to blend. Mix all together and place in the refrigerator to marinate. Serve on beds of crisp lettuce, garnished with strips of red and green peppers.

Jeanne Richard To Be Wed to William King Jr.

Announcement Made at Cocktail Party Given by Parents of Bride-Elect—Fall Wedding Planned.

THE engagement of Miss Jeanne Audrey Richard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Frederick Richard, 709 South Skinker boulevard, and William King Jr., was announced late yesterday afternoon at a cocktail party for 60 guests at the home of Miss Richard's parents. The wedding will take place next fall.

The prospective bride and her family came to St. Louis about three years ago from the East, and lived until recently on Price road. Miss Richard is a graduate of Northampton (Mass.) School for Girls and Smith College. She is a sister of Miss Alice Richard, a student at Connecticut College for Women; Robert Lee Richard of Providence, R. I., a recent graduate of Brown University, and Walter E. Richard of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Mr. King is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William King, 5260 Washington boulevard, and a brother of Mrs. John J. Green, the former Miss Betty King, and of Mrs. Jack Hern Heitman, who was Miss Sally King. He is a graduate of Country Day School and attended Yale University. His clubs are the University and Yale Clubs of St. Louis.

Spring flowers were used to decorate the Richard apartment for the party. The announcement was written on cards attached to small corsage bouquets distributed among the guests.

Marcia Grocock Becomes Bride of J. Terrell Vaughan

THE marriage of Miss Lois Marcia Grocock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Grocock, and J. Terrell Vaughan, one of the largest of the Lenten weddings, took place at 8:30 o'clock last night at St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Mr. Vaughan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clay Vaughan, 7054 Washington boulevard.

The bride's six attendants wore spring-like costumes shading from pale pink to dusty rose, the colors contrasting with all green decorations of woodwardia ferns which filled the chancel. More than 80 candles illuminated the setting. Because of the illness of Dr. John Brandon Peters, pastor of St. John's, the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. George E. Sweazey, newly appointed to the pulpit of Tyler Place Presbyterian Church, and an alumnus of Mr. Vaughan's alma mater, Westminster College.

The wedding party—ushers, the bride's attendants and the bride on the arm of her father—proceeded down an aisle lighted by tapers in wrought iron candelabra secured to alternate pews by twisted fern.

Pale ivory satin fashioned the bridal gown. It was designed with a draped bateau neckline and a simple bodice with fullness introduced above an inverted point at the high waist line. Tiny satin buttons trimmed the back to the waist, below which fell a three-and-a-half yard oval train. Duchesse lace, a family heirloom given to the bride by a relative, was utilized in trimming the leg o'mutton 'sleeves, which were buttoned to the elbow; formed a Juliet cap to which her ivory tulle veil was fastened, and adorned part of her trousseau. The bride wore for jewelry a seed pearl necklace given by a member of her family, and carried lilies of the valley and white orchids.

The pink gowns of the bridesmaids, deepening to the darkest shade worn by Mrs. Howard Hess, matron of honor, were fashioned of two layers of net over matching taffeta. Short puffed sleeves were set in fitted bodices with heart-shaped necks. The skirts, the second layer trimmed with taffeta bows, were fitted at the hips and flared wide into demi-trains. Each attendant wore a cluster of matching taffeta laurel leaves in her hair, and carried a sheaf of vari-colored spring flowers. At the center of their bodices they wore jeweled clips, the gifts of the bride.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. George Riddle Bradbury, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Lawrence Schleicher, Miss Ruth Wilbur Wright, the bride's cousin; Miss Mary Ann Stevens and Miss Elizabeth Siegmund. Stewart Gordon of Chicago was best man, and ushers were Howard Hess, Alfred L. Carpenter, Kenneth Stover, Hickman Y. Fisher and George Riddle Bradbury.

After the ceremony a reception for 200 guests was given at Bellerive Country Club. The receiving line formed at the mantel in the lounge to the left of the entrance, in a setting of white flowers—snapdragon and roses — greenery and candles. Mrs. Grocock wore fuchsia triple sheer, trimmed with

'Going Out' Party For New York Debutantes

Girls in Somber Black Are 'Put on the Shelf'—Daughters of Former St. Louisans Participate.

NEW YORK, March 11.

NEW YORK debutantes have many a trick up their sleeves these days to dispel the "after-the-ball-is-over" feeling that sets in when the season has come to an end and their ranks are thinned by sister debutantes rushing off in every direction. Daphne Nelson, daughter of the Robert Marvin Nelsons, and Mimi Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney R. Francis, popped into the news again Sunday night when they gave their time and talent to the debutantes' "Going Out" party at the National Arts Club.

The "Going Out" party, organized by the club's committee in charge of Sunday night entertainment, was the final curtain for 1938-39 debutantes who came to the party dressed in somber blacks in contrast to their debut dresses of pastels and white tulle. As the debutantes entered the club, they were escorted to a large shelf and with much ceremony each girl in turn was officially "put on the shelf." After this, the debutantes took over the party and, headed by blonde Mimi and the equally blonde Daphne, put on a show of music and dance that would be hard to equal. Mimi sang a takeoff on the current hit "Jeepers Creepers," calling it a "Debutante's Lament." Daphne gave a brand-new twist to things, with her ballad about "Glamour Boys." One of the high spots of the evening came when David Asherman, master of ceremonies, introduced a girl who looks almost more like Brenda Frazier than this No. 1 debutante does herself. The double was Charlotte Manson, a young actress, who it seems is continually being mistaken for the Glamor Girl. Miss Manson brought forth cheers and huzzahs on Sunday night with her song, "My Name Is Brenda Diana Duff."

When the Santa Paula sailed away for South America yesterday noon, Miss Martha Nicolaus, daughter of Louis J. Nicolaus, was down at the dock to say good-by to her fiance, Theodore Middleton Simmons of New Orleans, who was off on a business trip. Miss Nicolaus, who is staying at the Junior League rooms at the Waldorf, will be here for another week before returning to St. Louis. She will meet Mr. Simmons when he comes back to this country about the first of May and they will make plans for a June wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling E. Edmunds have returned to St. Louis after a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Burton Carver of Marshall Ridge, New Canaan, Conn. Mrs. Carver was the former Miss Eugenie Edmunds. Mr. and Mrs. Edmunds were at the Ambassador on Park avenue for a few days before going out to New Canaan.

Mrs. Gerard Allen, 4632 Maryland avenue, St. Louis, who has been at the Junior League rooms in the Waldorf for the past two weeks, will leave for St. Louis within a few days. Her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lambert Hobson of East Islip, L. I., are in London at the moment, but plan to return to this country shortly. Mrs. Hobson, the former Geraldine, better known in St. Louis perhaps as "Tiny" Allen, sailed with her husband Jan. 3 for a combination business and pleasure trip which has taken them to Berlin, Paris and London. Mrs. Hobson is the sister of Mrs. Pierre Loisel Papin and of Mrs. J. P. Erwin Niedringhaus.

Sailing on the liner Pilsudski on Tuesday were Mr. and Mrs. E. Allan Wyman, off on a cruise to the Caribbean, and when the steamer moved down the North River at 6 o'clock, there were a number of former St. Louisans on the dock to wish them bon voyage. Mrs. Rensselaer Lee, the former Miss Stella Garrett of St. Louis, came up from Princeton, N. J., where she now lives, and gave a luncheon for Mrs. Wyman and a group of friends. Mrs. Wyman's mother, Mrs. T. M. Hunt of Auburn, N. Y., and her sister, Mrs. Francis Frazier of Chestnut Hill, Pa., joined the Wymans at the New Weston Hotel. Mrs. Hunt has been spending the winter with Mrs. Frazier in Chestnut Hill.

After a sojourn in Nassau, at the Loft House, where Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hoxton Smith also spent a part of their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. James Carscaden Willison landed in New York last week and visited his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Choice Keister, 240 East Forty-ninth street. Before her marriage Feb. 18, Mrs. Willison was Miss. Elise White,

St. Louisans Arrive At Florida Resorts For Late Season

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 11.

THE late season, which is becoming smarter each year at Miami Beach, is beginning to see the arrival of a number of the Old Guard who have waited until the hurly burly of the mad high season is dying down.

Among the arrivals are two popular St. Louis debutantes of this past season, Miss Martha Bixby and Miss Becky Wells, who are visiting Miss Wells' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Wells, at the Nautilus Hotel. Miss Wells and Miss Bixby spent the earlier part of the season in Palm Beach, with Miss Bixby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bixby, who have returned to St. Louis.

Busy with luncheons at the fashionable Bath Club, of which the majority of the St. Louis contingent at Miami Beach are members, dining and dancing at the new Brook Club, and attending the amusing Gala Night at the Surf Club, where many of the guests appeared in costume, the two St. Louis girls have difficulty finding time for their daily tennis games on the Natilus courts. One day this week, they motored to Boca Raton with Mr. and Mrs. Wells for luncheon at the Boca Raton Club.

Lunching at the Boca Raton Club on the same day were Mr. and Mrs. L. Ray Carter, who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Langenberg at the club. Mr. and Mrs. Carter, who also avoided the early season, are at the Nautilus for several weeks. They decided not to open their home on Sunset Island for the short stay which they planned for Miami Beach this winter. Before coming to the Nautilus, Mr. and Mrs. Carter spent several days at Palm Beach and also in the fashionable Hobe Sound colony.

On Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Carter were entertained at luncheon at the Bath Club, and on Wednesday, they were noted in an informal al fresco luncheon group in the gardens of the Nautilus, which included Mr. and Mrs. James H. Brookmire of New York —formerly of St. Louis—and Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells and their debutante guests cruised last week aboard the Lester Parsons' yacht, the Pleiades. The guests had luncheon aboard and a trip about the inland waterway. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Williams Jr. of St. Louis have been guests aboard the yacht recently, for an extensive cruise and fishing trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells entertained at a luncheon party at the races last week, the party being given on the clubhouse terrace, in honor of Mrs. William N. Byrne, sister of Mrs. Wells, and her son, Clark Adreon, who motored down from Palm Beach for the occasion. Other members of the party included Miss Bixby and Miss Wells.

Another St. Louisan who has been entertained during the week is Mrs. James Smith Bush, who was a guest at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Bromley of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, in the Mediterranean room at the Pancoast Hotel.

Mrs. Florence Parker Busch and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Orthwein of St. Louis, were guests one evening this week at a dinner party given at Patio Moresque, at which John Bullen was host.

Mrs. C. Maxwell Dering, in a becoming gown of sea blue lace and chiffon, with a full skirt, puffed sleeves and basque bodice, assisted Mrs. Oscar Thompson at a tea dance given at the Surf Club. Mrs. Dering, who is noted for her attractive costumes at Miami Beach, was hostess recently at a luncheon at the Surf Club, at which she wore a chalk white dress with a fuchsia suede hat and bag and other accessories.

Mrs. Roland M. Hoerr of St. Louis, who has been the house guest of Mrs. Walter Staley of Mexico, Mo., was entertained at the Surf Club during her stay in Miami Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard C. MacDonald of St. Louis, have returned after several days in Havana and are at the Whitman Hotel, where they were guests earlier with Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Griesedieck, who are spending the season there.

Mrs. Raymond Griesedieck of St. Louis is among guests registered at the Nautilus Hotel.

Several St. Louisans, including Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peters, made reservations for the Taj Mahal gala party at the Surf Club on Saturday night, when the club was transformed into a Hindu setting, with murals depicting a Maharaja and his suite at a great Indian festival. A representation of the famous Taj Mahal was erected at the foot of the swimming pool of the club and the table decorations featured miniature Hindu gods.

Palm Beach, Fla.

THE Colony Club was the setting for one of the largest parties of the season last Saturday night. Among the guests were members of New York cafe society, internationally known persons and radio stars. Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, who is occupying her penthouse on the Whitehall Hotel, was present with a party of friends. Other well-known persons included Fannie Ward, Miss Sonya Phipps and Woolworth Donahue.

At a large table of St. Louisans were Mrs. George Wiegand and her debutante granddaughter, Miss Lida Lee Christy, Mrs. William M. Byrne and her son, W. Clark Adreon, Mrs. Robert Emmet Funsten III, Miss Mary Lansing and Mrs. Thomas M. Meston and her daughter, Mrs. Robert Lee Morton Jr.

Mrs. Max Kotany, who has been at the Vineta Hotel for several weeks, will leave this week for Hobe Sound to visit until the end of the month.

Mrs. Robert Lee Morton, who is at her house in Stuart, Fla., entertained at luncheon at the Alibi in Palm Beach Wednesday for her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert Lee Morton Jr., and Mrs. Morton's mother, Mrs. Meston. Mrs. Robert Lee Morton will be the guest of honor at a bridge luncheon Wednesday at the Lighthouse Club in Stuart, for which Mrs. Swann of Red Banks, N. J., will be hostess. Mrs. Swann is spending the season at her winter home Castle Hill in Stuart.

Mrs. Robert D. Lewis and her sister, Mrs. William P. Gettys, and Mrs. Lewis' debutante granddaughter, Miss Frances Howell Lewis, who have been at the Breakers for the past month left Tuesday for St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. William M. Byrne and the latter's son, W. Clark Adreon, who have been guests at the Twin Palms here for the past month, will depart by motor Monday for St. Louis. Mrs. Robert Emmet Funsten III, who has also been at the Twin Palms for the past two weeks, left Friday for St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Overall and their daughter, Miss Maude, who are at the Brazilian Court in Palm Beach for the season, were luncheon guests at the Boca Raton Club, Boca Raton, Monday. Mr. and Mrs. William Gerhart arrived recently from St. Louis to spend two weeks at the Boca Raton Club.

Ponte Vedra, Fla.

ST. LOUISANS staying at the Inn in Ponte Vedra include Mr. Robert Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. J. Travis Fleischel. Mr. and Mrs. William Donald Hemenway Jr., who have been guests at the inn, went to Palm Beach last Monday, where they will stay a week at the Whitehall Hotel before motoring to St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Garcia Isaacs, formerly of St. Louis, are now making their home in Ponte Vedra.

inserts of chantilly lace dyed to match. The bodice was draped to one side and caught with a clip of brilliants, and at her shoulder she wore purple-throated white orchids. Mrs. Vaughan's gown was Swiss blue sheer, draped model, with which she, too, wore orchids.

After greeting those in the receiving line, guests proceeded to the semi-circular dining room, where supper was served buffet style from a large maltese cross-shaped table, flower trimmed, to smaller tables set up about the room. The bridal party sat at a special table decorated with gardenias and lilies of the valley, arranged for them near the windows.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Carl S. Meyer, his uncle, Howard Paine, and his cousin, Miss Margaret Louise Meyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan will motor to Sea Island, Ga., for their wedding trip, stopping en route south to visit in Nashville and Atlanta, and on their way home in Louisville to visit Mrs. Meyer and to attend a dinner dance to be given in their honor at the Louisville Country Club by Charles L. McLure, who was to have been an usher.

The bride is a graduate of The Principia, and spent a year at Principia College, Elsah, Ill. She is a graduate of Washington University, where she became a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Vaughan is a graduate of the Law School of Washington University. His fraternities are Phi Delta Theta and Phi Delta Phi.

Mr. and Mrs. Grocock have invited friends to call informally at their home, 725 South Skinker boulevard, today and tomorrow, to view the wedding presents.

Card Party for Miriam Home.

An annual card party for the benefit of the Miriam Convalescent Home, a United Charities agency in Webster Groves, will be given tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at Hotel Coronado by Miriam Lodge No. 17, United Order of True Sisters. Mrs. Louis Kawin will be chairman for the evening, assisted by Mrs. Irwin Bry, Mrs. Louis T. Apple, Mrs. Max J. Lorber and Mrs. Nathan Berger.

Overseas Women's Clubs to Meet in London on May 16

LONDON, March 11.

MAY 16 is the date set for the opening of the Conference of the Federation of Women's Clubs Overseas. The conference will continue until May 20 and will be held at the American Women's Club here.

Members of the Overseas Federation includes the American Women's Clubs of London, Berlin, Vienna, Zurich, Hamburg, Antwerp, Oslo, Copenhagen, Stockholm and The Hague. Between 30 and 40 delegates from various continental cities are expected. Nine years ago a meeting was held here to which the various clubs sent representatives to discuss federation. The union was accomplished and the first conference of the federation was held in Berlin in 1932.

The present president of the American Women's Club of London is Mrs. Herbert French. Mrs. James B. Mennell, who was Miss Elizabeth Allen of St. Louis, is first vice-president and one of the directors, as well as chairman of the Education and Scholarship Committee of the federation. Mrs. Mennell finished her term as president of the London Club last June.

On May 16 there will be a tea given for the delegates by the wife of the Lord Mayor of London at the Mansion House. Mrs. Joseph B. Kennedy, wife of the American Ambassador, will entertain the visitors May 17. The delegates will also visit Cambridge University, where they will be received at tea by the provost of King's, and later attend evensong at King's College Chapel. This expedition was made possible by Mrs. Mennell's son, Peter Mennell, a Cambridge student.

Some of the conference discussions will deal with problems of American women abroad, such as citizenship for the alien wives of American citizens and the repatriation of Americans. Delegates will also take up educational difficulties of American children in Europe.

The London branch, one of the most active members of the Overseas Federation, does philanthropic work for local charities as well as helping needy countrywomen. The club provides the Washington Ward of the Royal Free Hospital with 700 garments a year, and donates about $500 a year for the children's ward.

Augmenting the quarterly of the Overseas Federation, the American Women's Club of London publishes its own monthly magazine. Two balls are given each year, one at Christmas and one in the summer.

On Washington's birthday, at a joint meeting of the D. A. R. and the Women's Club, members heard Hope-Jones, lecturer at Christ's College, Cambridge, discuss George Washington as man and statesman. Among those present were the American Consul-General Douglas Jenkins and his wife.

Among the Americans in Rome this season are three St. Louisans —Mrs. Richard Scruggs Kennard and Mrs. Robert A. B. Walsh and her daughter, Miss Polly Walsh. In March they will go to Paris and later will arrive here, so that Miss Walsh may enter the Convent of the Holy Child in Cavendish Square. Miss Alicia Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Julius Polk, will also enter the convent at the beginning of the Easter term. Miss Polk's aunt, Mrs. Claude Chichester, will sail April 1, on the Queen Mary for a two or three month visit in the United States. While in America she will visit her mother, Mrs. Joseph L. Chambers in St. Louis.

Mrs. Edward Scott Robert of "Oakland," Clarksville, Mo., and St. Louis, has passed the winter at the American Women's Club here, and expects to sail for home next month. Mrs. Robert's daughter, the Marchesa de Mattei, lives in London. She was formerly Miss Georgette Madill.

College Guidance Group To Give Tea and Exhibit

THE College Guidance Committee of the College Club of St. Louis, 5428 Delmar boulevard, has invited about 130 girls, representing 16 senior high schools of St. Louis, to its annual tea and exhibit to be held Wednesday afternoon at the club from 3 to 5 o'clock.

FAIRS AND NATIONAL PARKS INTEREST EUROPEAN TOURISTS

Figures recently compiled by the statistical bureau of the Hamburg-American Line-North German Lloyd covering the carryings in trans-Atlantic, cruise and West Coast fields for 1938, show a slight decrease in comparison with the year 1937. This compilation indicates a loss of only 15 per cent in trans-Atlantic carryings for the lines—a matter of slight satisfaction, considering the total decline in trans-Atlantic travel.

An analysis of the carryings of the various services and of the Hapag-Lloyd routes shows that 60,247 passengers sailed eastbound on trans-Atlantic ships and 64,930 on westbound, i. e., in and out of the port of New York. The carryings to and from the West Coast's ports and Canada, with the addition of the cruise figures, make up the total of 136,247 passengers.

It is believed that 1939 will see a marked improvement in travel, both on land and on the water and in the volume of tourists coming from Europe to the United States. Returning confidence in the business world naturally acts as a barometer for the travel industry. A slight confirmation of this is already visible in the interest expressed in pleasure cruises.

Inquiries for westbound travel information are being stimulated by a great interest in the two large fairs to be held in the United States this year. News of the extensive facilities made available for tourists in the United States, including the development of the national parks, roads and other inducements to travel, by the Federal and state governments, and the intensive campaign conducted by American travel interests, have attracted and influenced many Eropeans in their desire to see the United States.

To meet the anticipated increase in trans-Atlantic travel, facilities on Hamburg-American line ships have been improved and tourist class accommodations have been extended. On other steamers tourist class has been eliminated and the third class has been improved thereby. In connection with the World's Fair, special roundtrip excursion rates in tourist and third class have been arranged for during certain periods of this year for visitors from Europe.

MIDNIGHT SUN VISIBLE ON NORTH CAPE-RUSSIA CRUISE

One of the ports of call will be Hammerfest, the most northerly town in the world; Trondheim, the site of the crowning of Norway's Kings, is another. In addition the ship will touch ports in Norway, Sweden, Esthonia, Finland, Russia, Germany, Denmark, France and England.

BURLINGTON TO PLACE NEW "ZEPHYR" IN SERVICE IN APRIL

The ninth zephyr of the Burlington Railroad, the "General Pershing" will be placed in operation between St. Louis and Kansas City in April. It will be a running mate of the "Mark Twain" in the double daily service between these two points.

A number of new developments in design are being embodied in the new streamlined train. The braking system forsakes the conventional brake shoe and applies the braking effort to special heat-radiating discs mounted between the wheels. Engineers estimate that the train can be brought to a stop from 100 miles an hour in about half the distance required to halt a conventional train, and without discomfort to passengers.

Each car in the 333 foot long, stainless steel, train will have an independent diesel-electric plant for heating, lighting and air-conditioning which will be housed in a sound proof compartment beneath the floor. Cars will be joined by "tight-lock" couplers and all trucks will be fitted with roll stabilizers. Rubber will be used on trucks and elsewhere in the construction of the cars to prevent noise and vibration.

From Lisbon the ship will cruise around France, England, Ireland and Scotland, crossing the North Sea to Denmark and sailing up the east coast of Sweden to Nyashamn. From there the ship will proceed to Norway to cruise through the fjords, stopping at five Norwegian ports. Cuxhaven, Germany and Southampton are the two final ports before Havre, France.

HOMESPUN WOOLEN INDUSTRY

The largest homespun woolen industry in the world is located in Asheville, N. C.

Originated in 1901 by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt to furnish employment for a few mountain people in her neighborhood, it has grown steadily ever since, employing at present around 60 people. After the industry became well-established, Mrs. Vanderbilt sold it and the shops were moved to the Grove Park Inn estate on the outskirts of Asheville.

Most of the raw wool used comes from Australia, Wales, Scotland and the Shetland Islands. It is first dyed, then dried by natural air, no artificial heat being used. The colors are mixed, fibers broken up, wool re-oiled and then run through carding machines onto spinning frames. Power-driven machines are used for these processes and for setting up the warp on the loom, but the actual weaving is done entirely by hand on hand looms.

Two types of weaving are done, plain and diagonal. Weavers are paid by the yard, the average individual being able to weave from 12 to 15 yards a day.

City of Los Valientes
Courage and bravery begot San Antonio, two-century-old city over which the flags of six nations have waved. Since 1718 a military center, San Antonio is today home of the nation's greatest armed forces. Here is Fort Sam Houston, largest army post in the United States; Randolph Field, "West Point of the Air"; Leon Springs Military Reservation with 20,000 acres; Camps Bullis, Stanley and Normoyle; such famous flying fields as Duncan, Brooks and Kelly; the U. S. Arsenal. But the whir of wings over San Antonio, the tread of marching feet, the sound of reveille, are but incidents in this picturesque Pan-American city filled with sights found nowhere else; with glamour, romance and adventure. See San Antonio any time—a good time is during Fiesta, an event rivaling in spectacular pageantry any like occurrence of the world. Thrill at the four-hour Battle of Flowers parade; the coronation of the queen, La Noche de Fiesta, and other events that will fill every day of the week. Write for details.

Gray Hair at my age?
CERTAINLY NOT—I CAN'T AFFORD IT!
CANUTE WATER SOLVES MY PROBLEM

If you have gray hair, simply wet it with Canute Water and allow to dry. In 1 to 3 applications (depending on shade) it will be completely re-colored, similar to its former natural shade. All in one day, if you wish. After that a single treatment only once a month will keep it that way.

You may curl, wave or set your hair . . . or get a permanent. The color is also proof against sun, air, salt-water and shampooing.

Canute Water is pure, colorless and crystal-clear. It leaves your hair clean and natural to the touch. You will be unable to distinguish the re-colored hair from the natural. You will be delighted to see how completely Canute Water solves your problem.

SAFE! No Skin Test Needed
Canute Water is safe and pure. It has been used for over 25 years without injury to a single person. In addition to this remarkable record of safety Canute Water was also tested and proven perfectly harmless by a Noted Scientist in one of America's greatest Universities.
NO OTHER PRODUCT CAN MAKE THESE CLAIMS
Is it any wonder that we sell more Canute Water than all other hair coloring preparations combined?

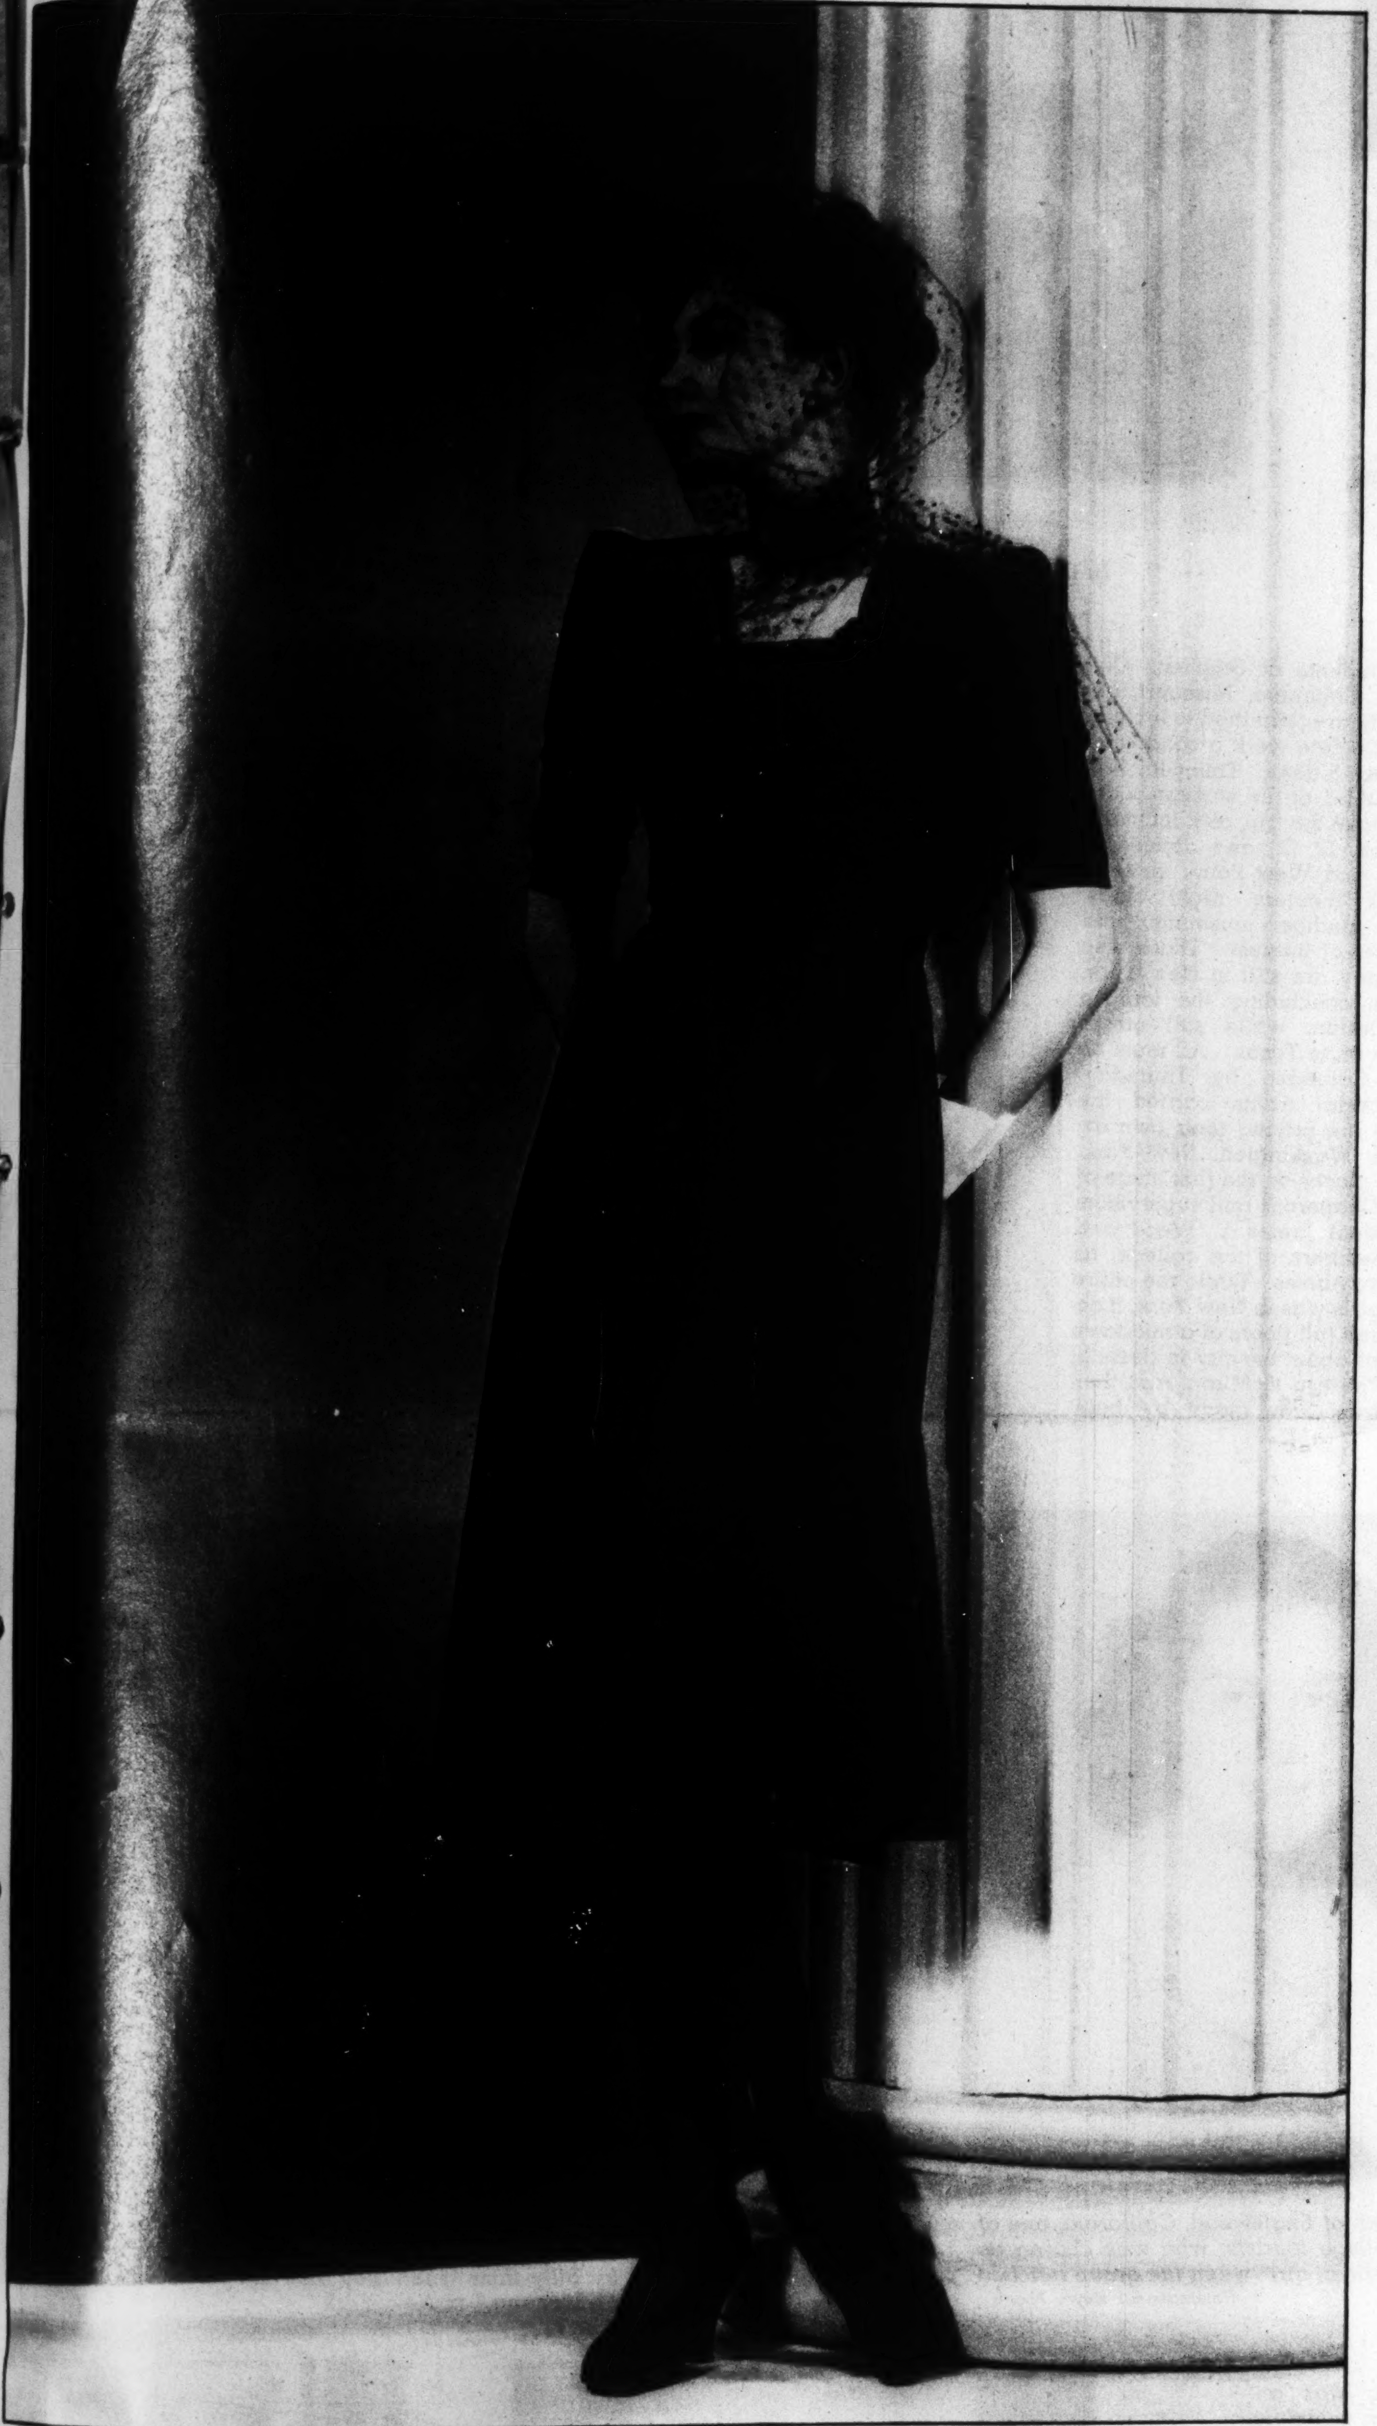
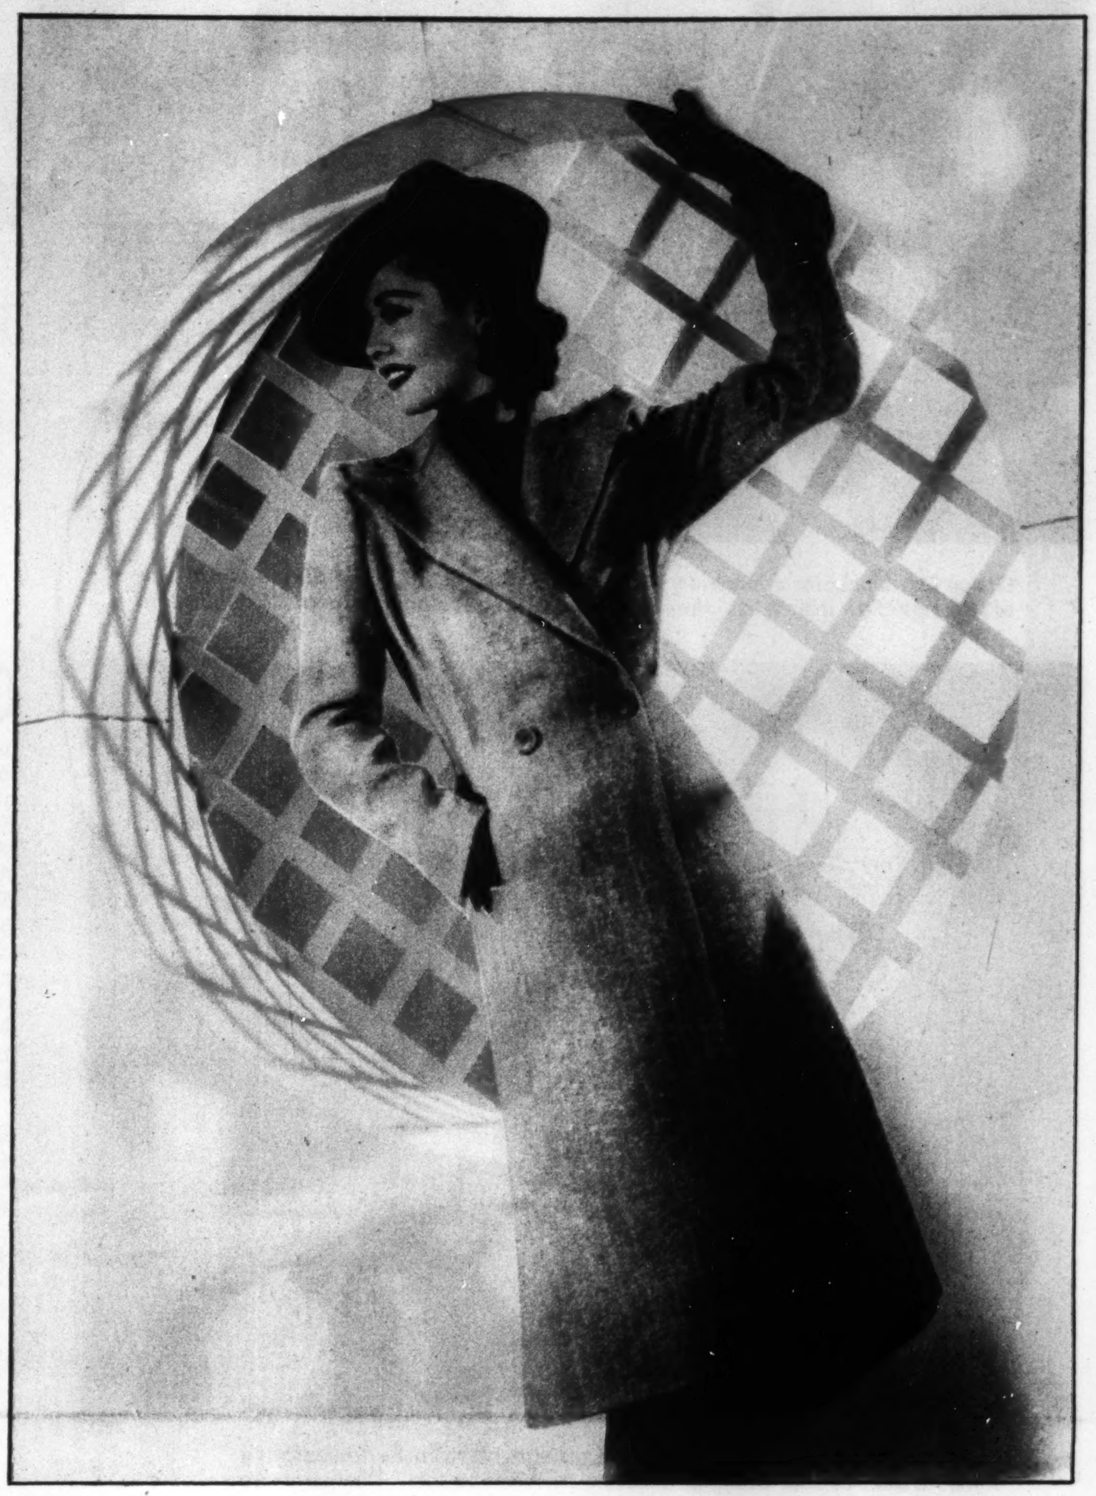
ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
March 12, 1939



A softly draped afternoon dress with molded bodice and soft front fullness. Feminine lines of this model in spring violet are complemented with a tiny hat swathed in violet colored veiling.



This new reefer strikes a feminine mood with slightly bloused lines above a snug waistline. It is in golden bronze tweed, with accessories in buckthorne, the new beige.

The Color Camera Focuses on Spring Fashions

WITH spring edging winter out of the scene and Easter but a few weeks ahead, fashions of the impending season have become a dominant interest of feminine St. Louis, especially among the younger set. Designers for the international market are anticipating the desire to begin the acquisition of a wardrobe suitable to the advanced modes, by displaying many of the outstanding creations. The three outfits shown in color on this page are selected from those creations, and are ensembles in which any fashionable young woman may appear on a bright spring day, knowing she will not be out of place. Color is used effectively in these as in other spring styles. Waistlines this season are well defined, and emphasize wide shoulders, which have the fullness molded into the top rather than effected by padding. Movement is given by the new types of skirts. Femininity, however, is always maintained. Additional spring fashions of St. Louis are shown on page six.

A three-piece ensemble which shows the trend to stripes. The skirt and blouse are in the new cyclamen color, while the tweed jacket in broken strips combines buckthorne, violet and cyclamen. The waistline is nipped, and the gored skirt has a youthful flare.

Two students from Alabama get an autograph from Representative Pete Jarman of that State at a dance in Washington. The girls are Louise Christian, left, and Tilda Alice Shelton of Tuscaloosa.

GIRL students at Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri, annually are permitted to include in their collegiate work a conducted tour of 10 to 15 days. This year 520, about one-third of the student body, elected to take the trip, as it included Washington, D. C., and dances at Annapolis and West Point; visits to New York theaters, night clubs, broadcast studios, museums, and other places of interest. Those who chose to stay are still in New York, others are concluding the tour in Miami, Florida, while still others have gone on to Texas. All must be back at Columbia by Thursday.

Two special trains carried the girls, who are paying their own expenses, to Washington, New York, and other places on the first stage of the tour. Chaperons and supervisors are President James E. Wood and faculty members of the college, as well as two nurses. While the entire group of girls was in New York, it occupied three full floors of a mid-town hotel, went about the city in fleets of busses. The trip to Miami and then on to Texas was made by boat.

Everything was arranged by schedule to keep the large group intact, and a census was taken each evening. These girls are getting directions for their particular day's program. Left to right: Ann Covert, Caspar, Wyoming; Doris Holter, Helena, Montana; and Margaret Moseley, Yonkers, New York.

The southbound contingent leaves New York on the S. S. Algonquin for Miami, Florida, where some will spend the rest of the tour, while others go on to Texas.

LIFE OF A LAMB

ONE of the components of anyone's picture of spring is that of lambs frolicking blithely about in scenes of pastoral quietude. That's true for lambs on Missouri farms—they're spring lambs, mostly born in February, and are not sold for slaughter until June or July. But it's a sad time for Western lambs. For most of them, born last May because of different climatic conditions, are sold for slaughter about now.

These photographs were taken on the Dyer Brothers' stock farm near O'Fallon, Missouri, and at the pens of E. H. Mattingly, commission man, at the Mississippi Valley Stockyards in St. Louis.

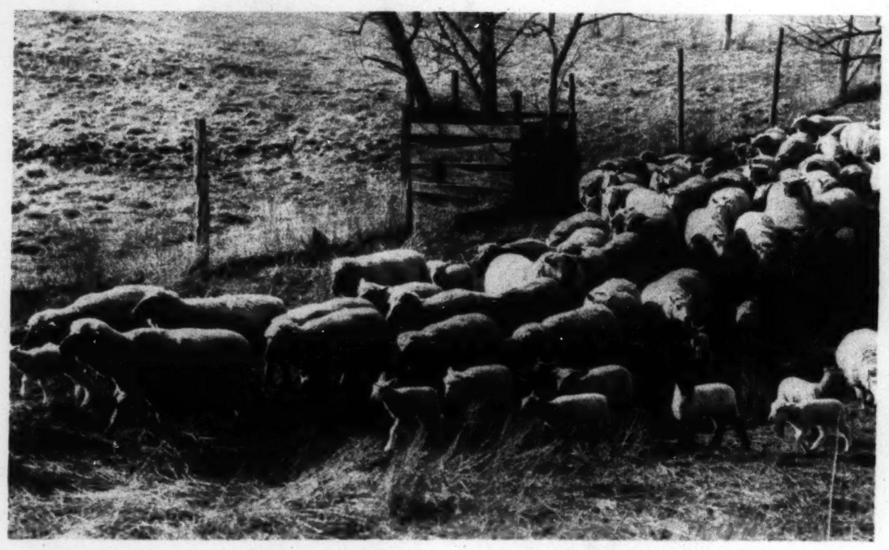
A Colorado lamb, before, during and after shearing at the stockyards. The wool weighs about 15 pounds when taken off, but five of it is sand, from storms in the Kansas wheat fields where the lambs graze. The lamb will be corn fed for three weeks, then sold to a packing house for slaughter.



Cheviot ewes and their lambs, most of them about three weeks old, at the Missouri farm. All the lambs were sired by a Columbia ram.

Cute lambs, cute girl.

Ewes, lambing once a year, usually have twins every other time.

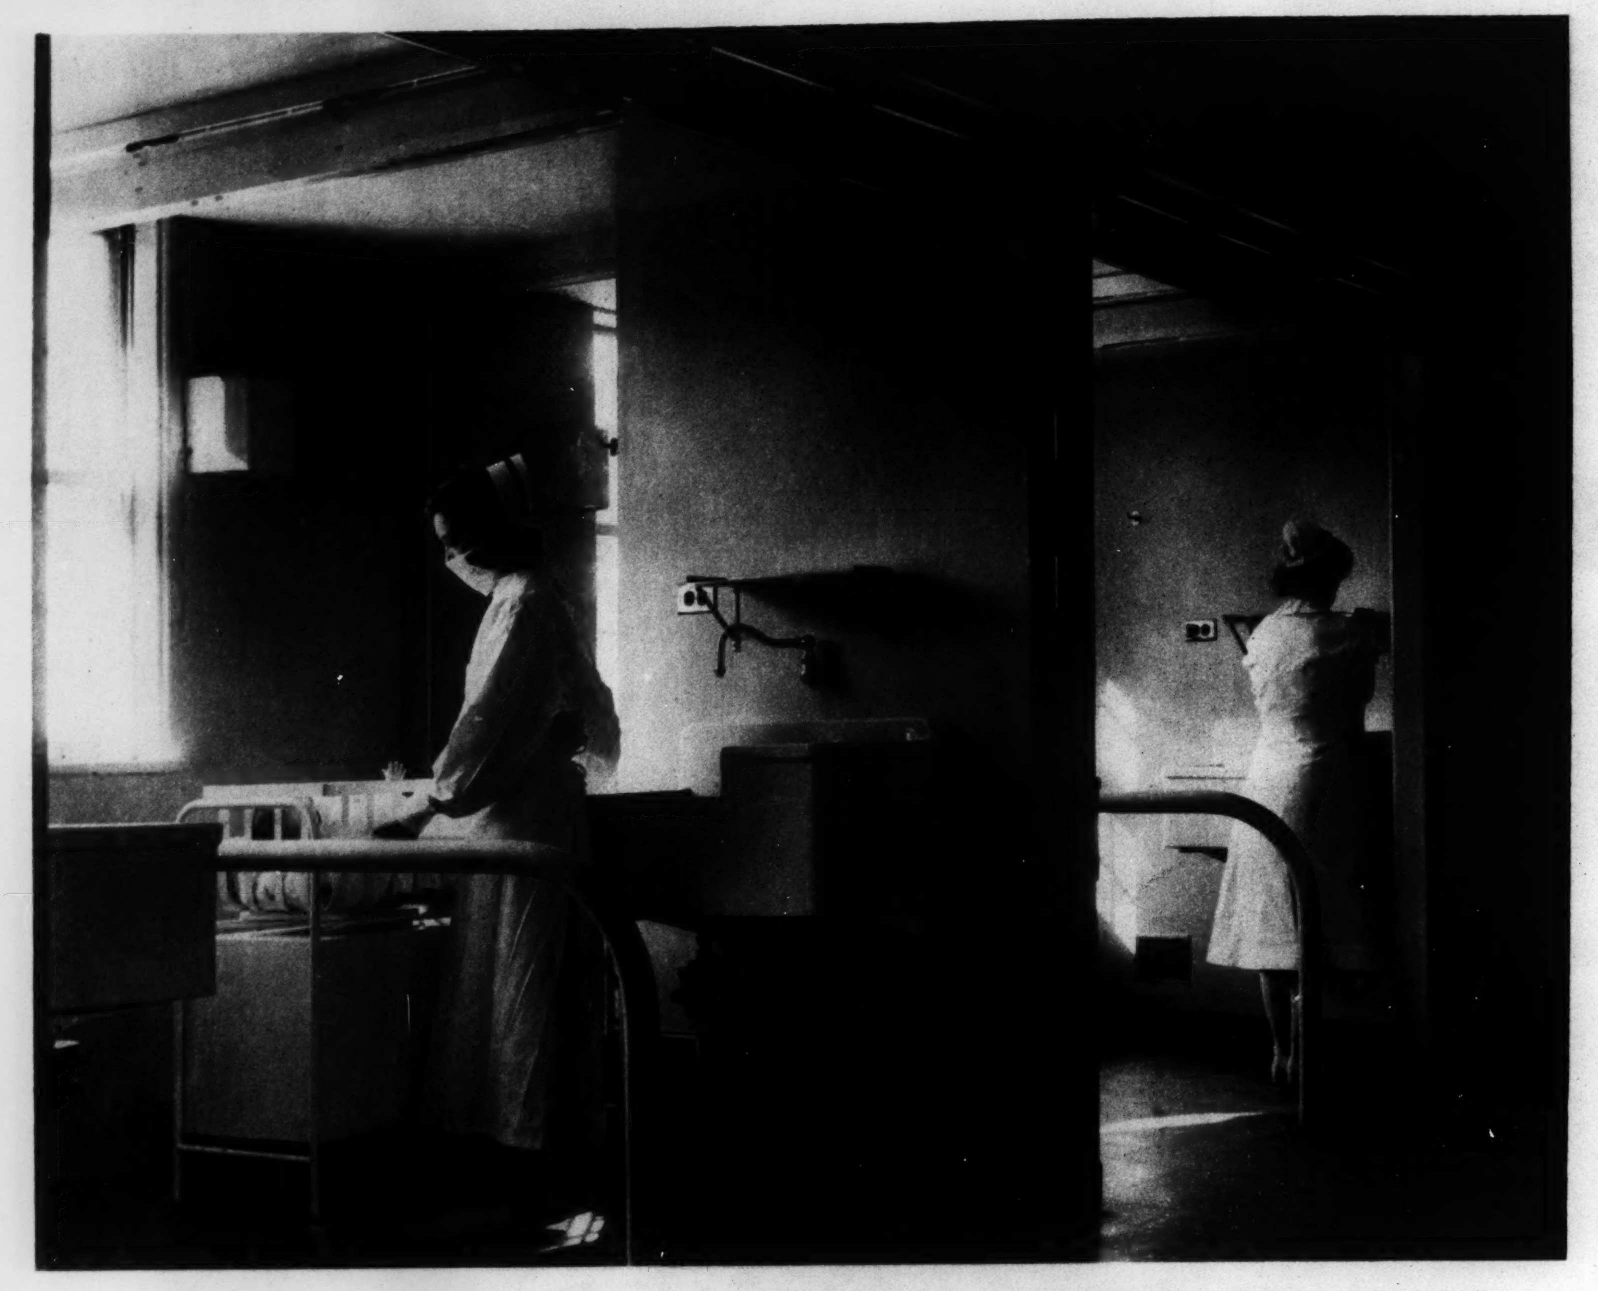
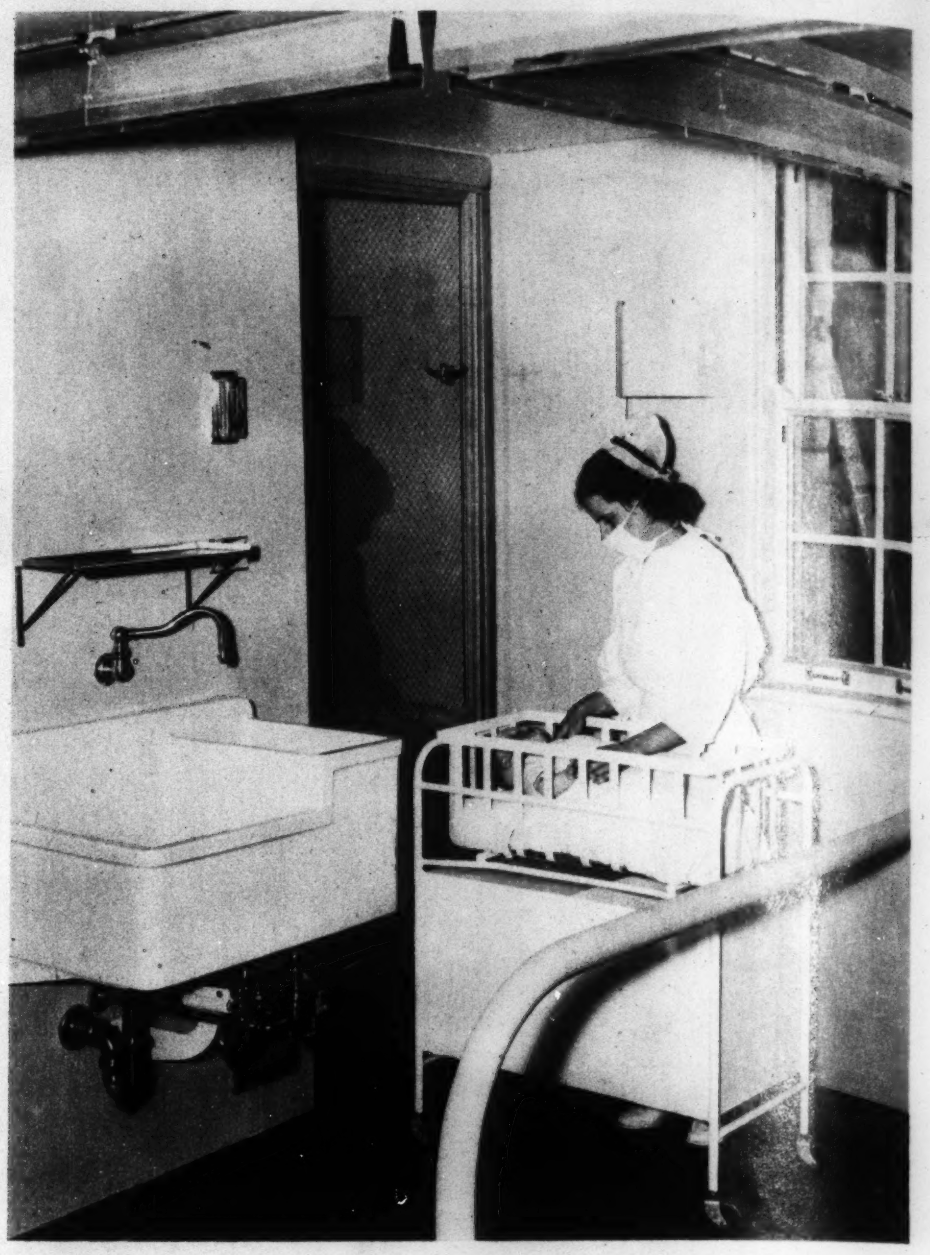
Protecting Babies From Germs With Ultra-Violet Ray Curtains



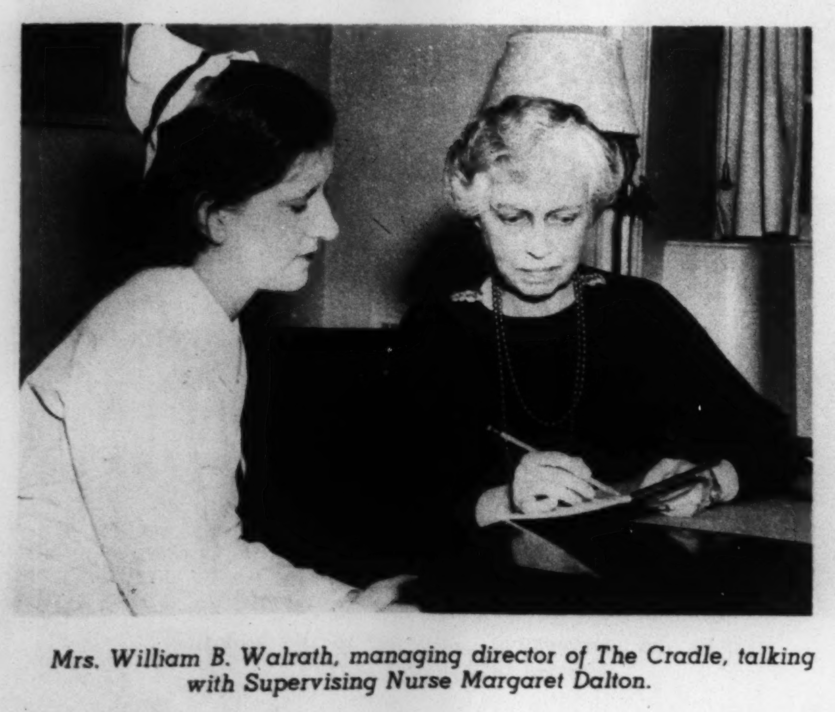
Cubicles in the new home of The Cradle, Evanston, Illinois. Above the entrances are tubes which create "curtains" of ultra-violet rays to prevent bacteria in the air from reaching the babies within the cubicles.



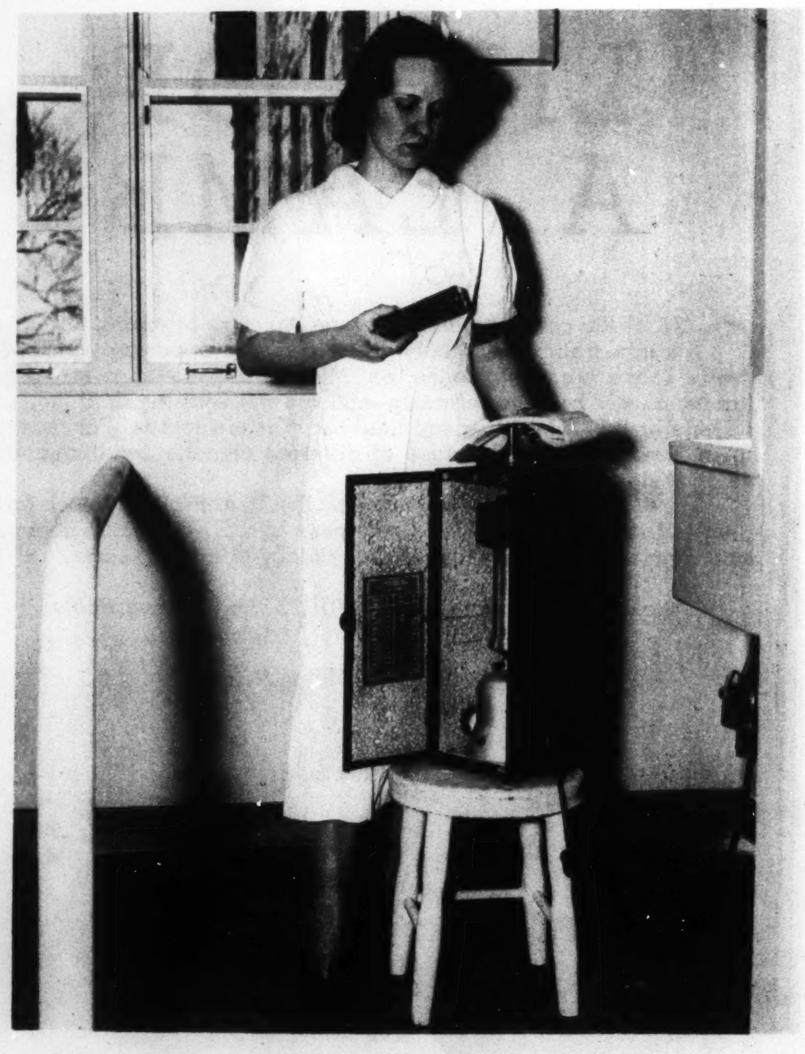
Each cubicle has room for two cribs, with a germ-barrier of ultra-violet rays between them. Nurses wear masks over nose and mouth, as shown here, and must wash hands and soak hands and arms in an antiseptic solution on entering a cubicle.

Dorothy Blumfeld, assistant to Professor W. F. Wells, designer of the ray system at The Cradle, beginning a test of its effectiveness by sending a diluted culture of germs into the air on one side of a cubicle.

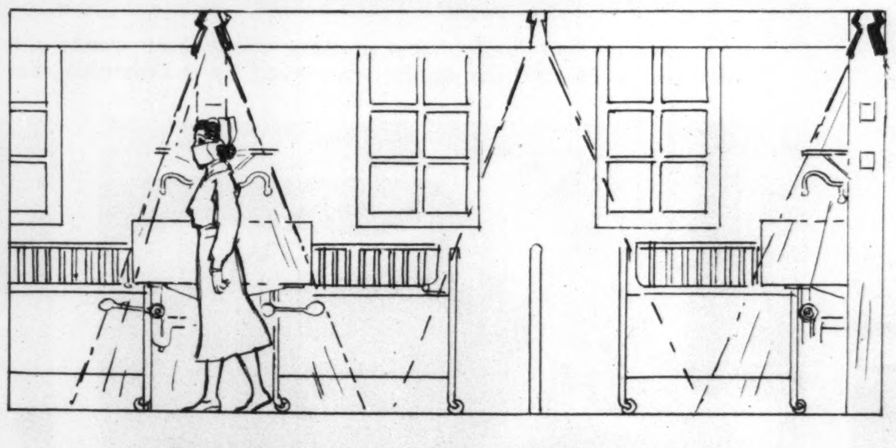
The stone building is the new home of The Cradle, which is being formally occupied today. At right is the famous nursery's old home.



Mrs. William B. Walrath, managing director of The Cradle, talking with Supervising Nurse Margaret Dalton.



On the other side of the room is this air centrifuge, which measures the bacterial concentration in the air after the test organisms have encountered a curtain of ultra-violet rays, and again when the rays are not used.



Rays are harmless to nurses passing through them.

THE Cradle at Evanston, Illinois, is famous not only for its efforts to see that babies in its charge are adopted into suitable homes, but also for the expert care it gives the infants during their stay at the nursery. Illustrative of this care is a system to be used in The Cradle's new $150,000 home—which is being formally occupied today—to protect its babies from air-borne germs. Over entrances of cubicles in which some of the infants will be kept are tubes from which ultra-violet rays will stream down, forming invisible shields against bacteria. The two cribs in a cubicle also will have between them a curtain of these rays which kill germs. Tests indicate that less than one per cent of the germs in the air get through the barrier of ultra-violet rays. The tubes were designed by Professor W. F. Wells of the air-borne infection laboratories of the University of Philadelphia, who supervised their installation in The Cradle and is directing experiments there to test their efficiency, particularly in the prevention of respiratory diseases.

Results of the test: The bottle at left contains cultures from the air which passed through the ultra-violet rays, the other bottle, cultures from untreated air. Less than one per cent of the germs got through the rays alive.

Bride of The Week

MISS LOIS MARCIA GROCOCK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Grocock, 725 South Skinker boulevard, was married last evening to J. Terrell Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clay Vaughan, 7054 Washington avenue, University City, at the St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

The bride is a graduate of the Principia and Washington University, and a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Moses Perry Johnson of St. Louis and the late Mr. Johnson. Mr. Vaughan is a graduate of Westminster College and the Washington University Law School, and a member of Phi Delta Theta and Phi Delta Phi fraternities.

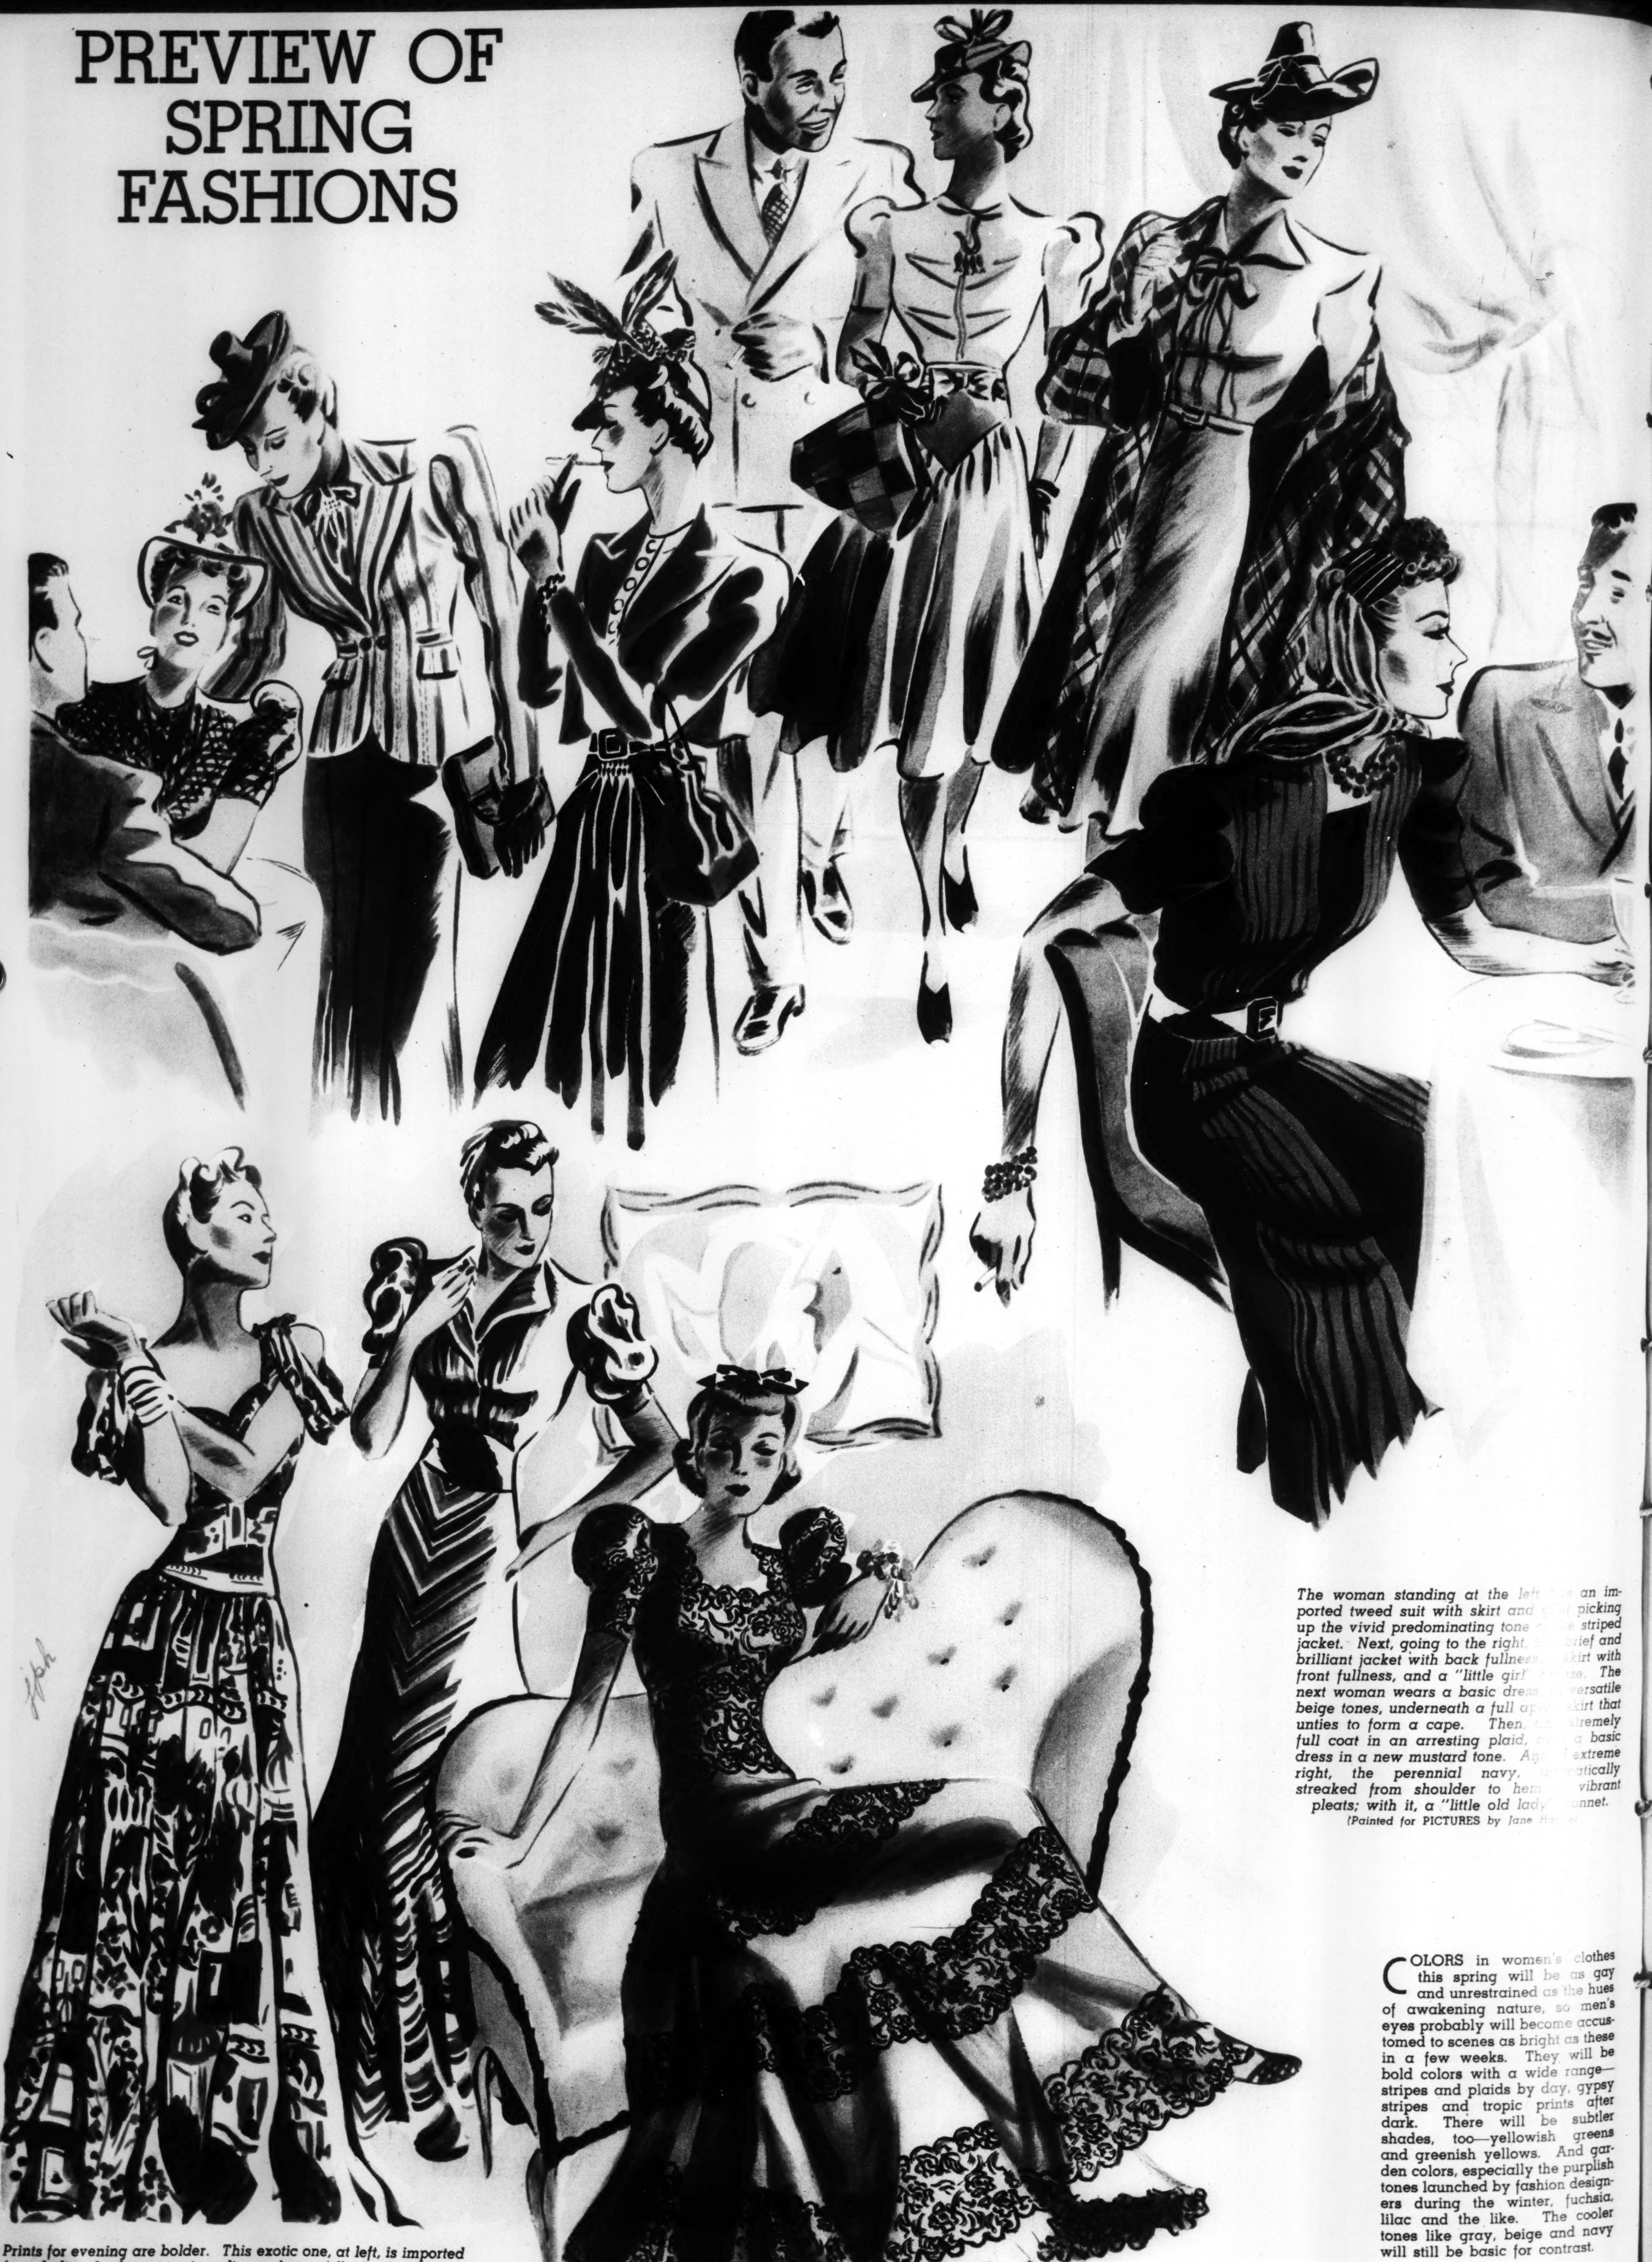
PREVIEW OF SPRING FASHIONS



The woman standing at the left has an imported tweed suit with skirt and [illegible] picking up the vivid predominating tone of the striped jacket. Next, going to the right, a brief and brilliant jacket with back fullness, a skirt with front fullness, and a "little girl" blouse. The next woman wears a basic dress in versatile beige tones, underneath a full apron skirt that unties to form a cape. Then, an extremely full coat in an arresting plaid, over a basic dress in a new mustard tone. And at extreme right, the perennial navy, dramatically streaked from shoulder to hem [illegible] vibrant pleats; with it, a "little old lady" bonnet.

(Painted for PICTURES by Jane [illegible]

COLORS in women's clothes this spring will be as gay and unrestrained as the hues of awakening nature, so men's eyes probably will become accustomed to scenes as bright as these in a few weeks. They will be bold colors with a wide range—stripes and plaids by day, gypsy stripes and tropic prints after dark. There will be subtler shades, too—yellowish greens and greenish yellows. And garden colors, especially the purplish tones launched by fashion designers during the winter, fuchsia, lilac and the like. The cooler tones like gray, beige and navy will still be basic for contrast.

Easter poke bonnet, 1900. Rough straw, chiffon facing, pink roses. This bonnet recurs frequently in style periods; in fact, it was revived last year.

CARPING by Dorothy Thompson and Westbrook Pegler about current styles in women's hats recently brought an indignant retort from P. W. Judah, 4206 Botanical avenue, who has been in the hat business for 47 years. The hats are no funnier or crazier than they ever were; in fact, some of them almost duplicate styles of 40, 50 or 60 years ago, he said. He cited his wife's collection of hats, dating from 1868, to prove his point. Some of the hats, as worn by Miss Martha Grayson, are shown here. They were originally worn either by Mrs. Judah or women in her family.

Judah says some of the extreme new styles are the result of a determined effort by the industry to get away from stereotyped hats and develop more individuality, but that a woman needn't wear them if they're not becoming.

'Gone With the Wind' Gets Under Way Again

HERE, at long last, are actual scenes from that by now almost legendary motion picture, "Gone With the Wind." Shortly after Margaret Mitchell's 1037-page Civil War tale was published in June, 1936, it was purchased by Selznick International for a film version. As the sales mounted phenomenally—1,300,000 the first 13 months—and Dramatist Sidney Howard toiled over the film script, the producer conducted an astute publicity campaign by having the public suggest the casting. Clark Gable was the choice of the great majority of persons writing letters for the role of the renegade Charleston aristocrat, Rhett Butler, but the quest for a Scarlett O'Hara dragged on so long it became an international joke. Finally, after many false announcements, the selection of Vivien Leigh, English actress, for the Scarlett role was announced last January 14, and filming of the script started at once (such scenes as the burning of Atlanta had already been done in miniature). But Director George Cukor disagreed with Producer Selznick and withdrew February 15, and production was halted until the new director, Victor Fleming, could take over. And now the publicity department says the film, which will be in color, will not be ready for release for probably another year.

A recent nation-wide poll brought the estimate that 14,000,000 people have read all or part of the novel, that 56,000,000 want to see the picture, and of these, only 16 per cent are dissatisfied with the choice of Miss Leigh as Scarlett.

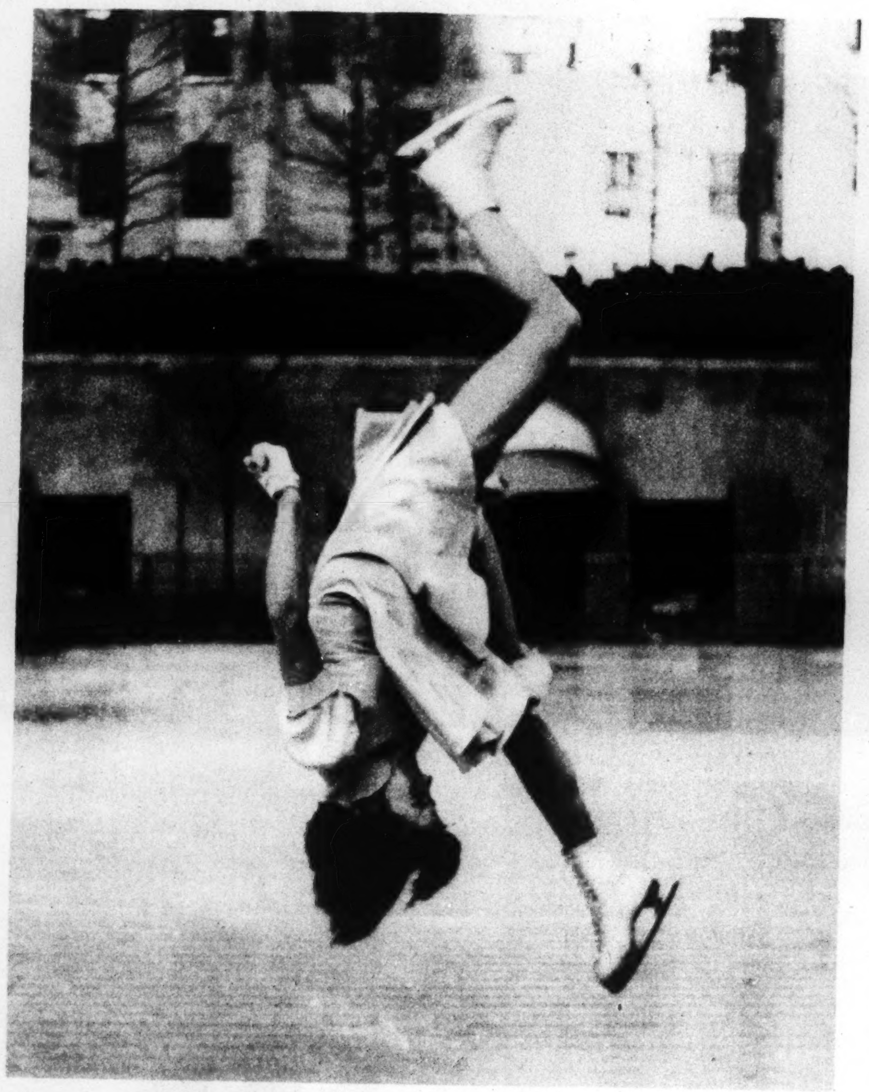
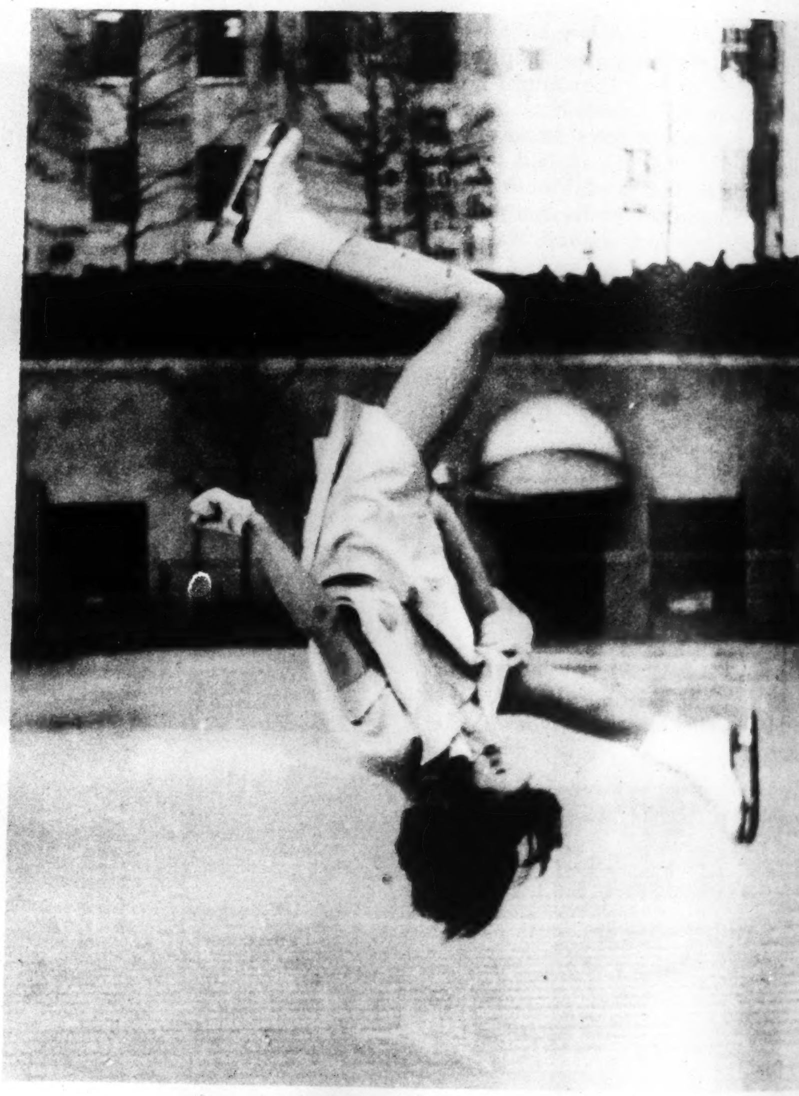
5. Only the tip of the right skate touches the ice, as the rest of her body becomes horizontal.



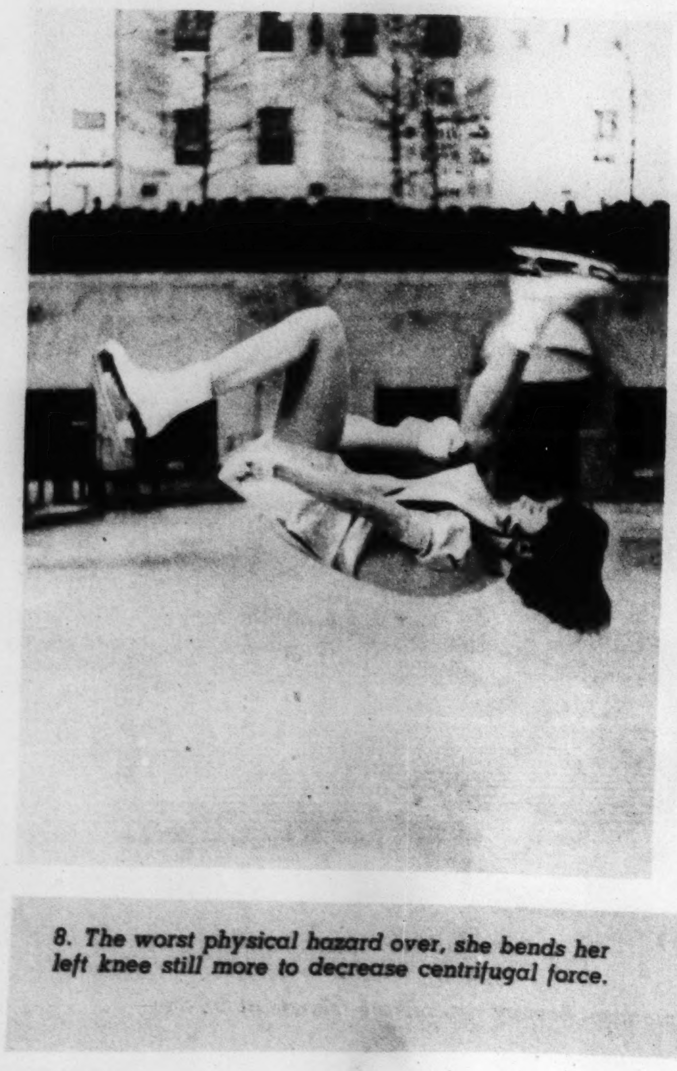
6. Entirely in the air now, she grasps her right leg to keep her body as compact as possible.



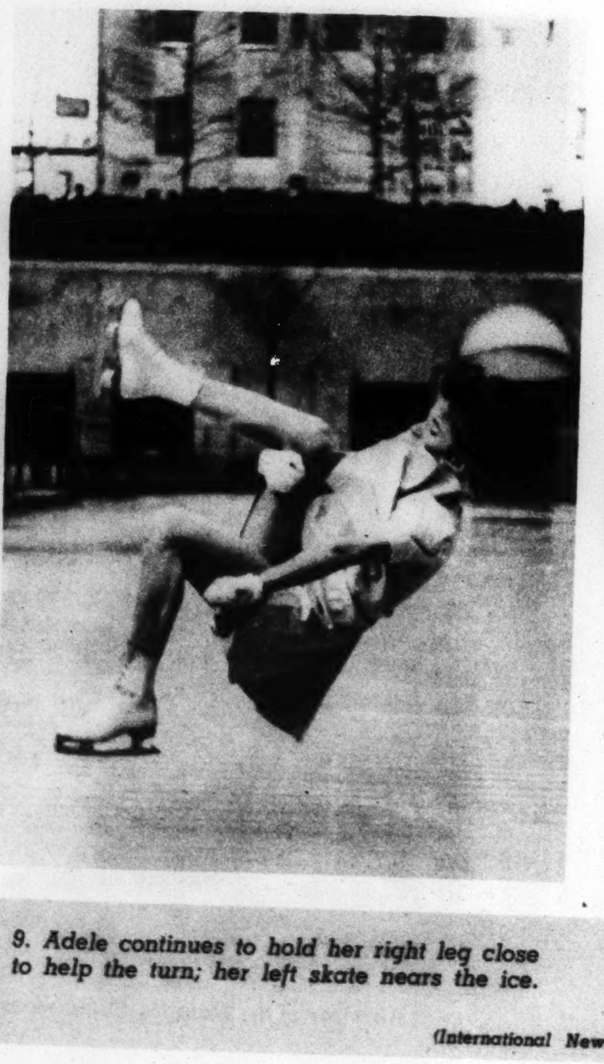
7. Her left leg flexes to change again the center of balance. The danger is in losing momentum, falling.

ADELE INGE, 12-year-old St. Louis County girl, caused a sensation when she performed the forward somersault without using her hands, on the ice of Rockefeller Center Rink in New York. Besides the somersault, which so far as is known can be duplicated by no other skater, she does the flying Paulsen and the Arabian cart wheel, the latter performed by few other skaters.

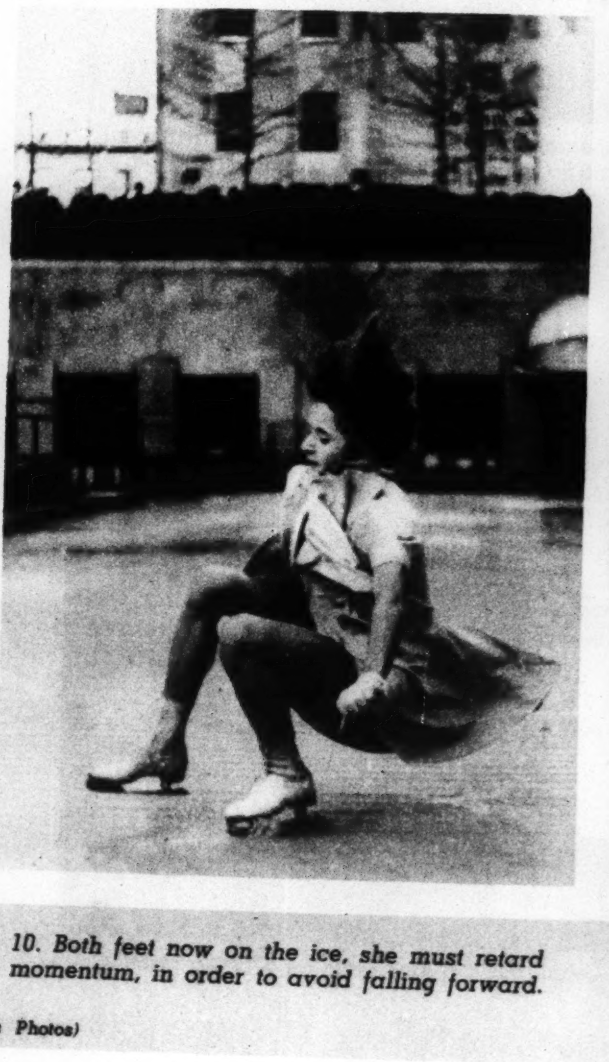
She learned to skate only three years ago, but before that studied dancing, and was an able trick horseback rider and trapeze acrobat. A private skating rink has been built for her in the basement of the Inge home on Bonhomme road, where she does most of her practicing. At present she is in New York, to arrange future professional appearances, including the making of a movie short next month.



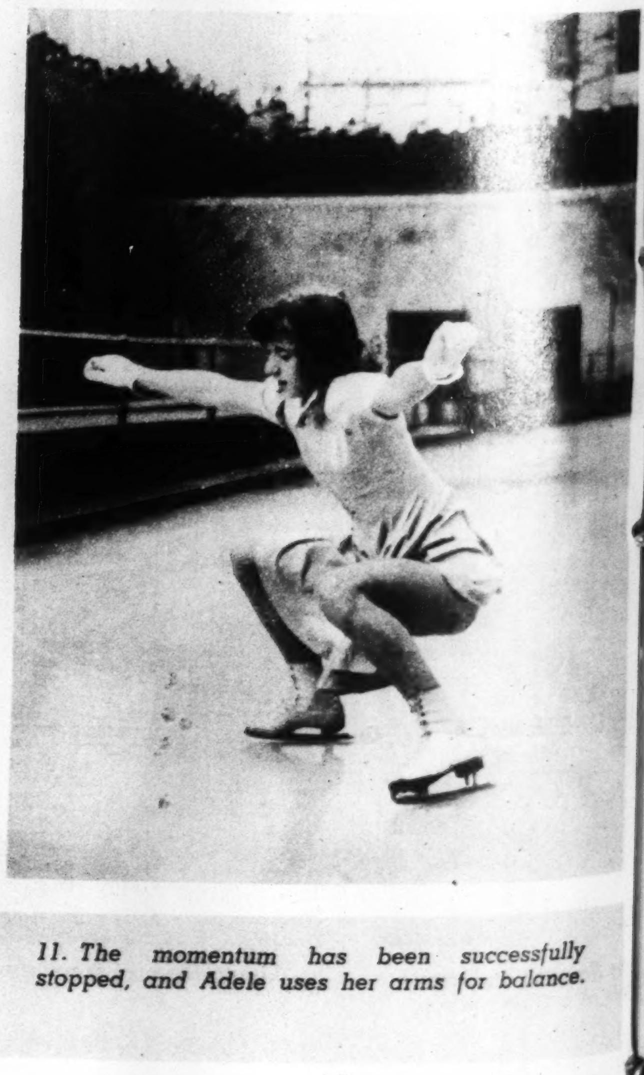
8. The worst physical hazard over, she bends her left knee still more to decrease centrifugal force.



9. Adele continues to hold her right leg close to help the turn; her left skate nears the ice.



10. Both feet now on the ice, she must retard momentum, in order to avoid falling forward.



11. The momentum has been successfully stopped, and Adele uses her arms for balance.

Radio Signals From the Stratosphere

WITH an eye to the imminent opening of North Atlantic air lanes, the Coast Guard and the United States Weather Bureau next month will begin a systematic air mass analysis designed to provide better weather forecasting for pilots and navigators who will fly the routes. The cutters Chelan and Champlain, on ice patrol duty, will release radio meteorgraph balloons simultaneously with those from established stations in the United States. By means of automatic radio signals from these free balloons, recordings will be made of pressure, temperature and humidity at various atmospheric levels and even in the stratosphere. These photographs show the preparation and release of one of the first balloons from the Chelan at Boston recently. Although the temperature at the time was 45 degrees above zero, the free balloon "reported" it was 63 degrees below zero at 35,000 feet.

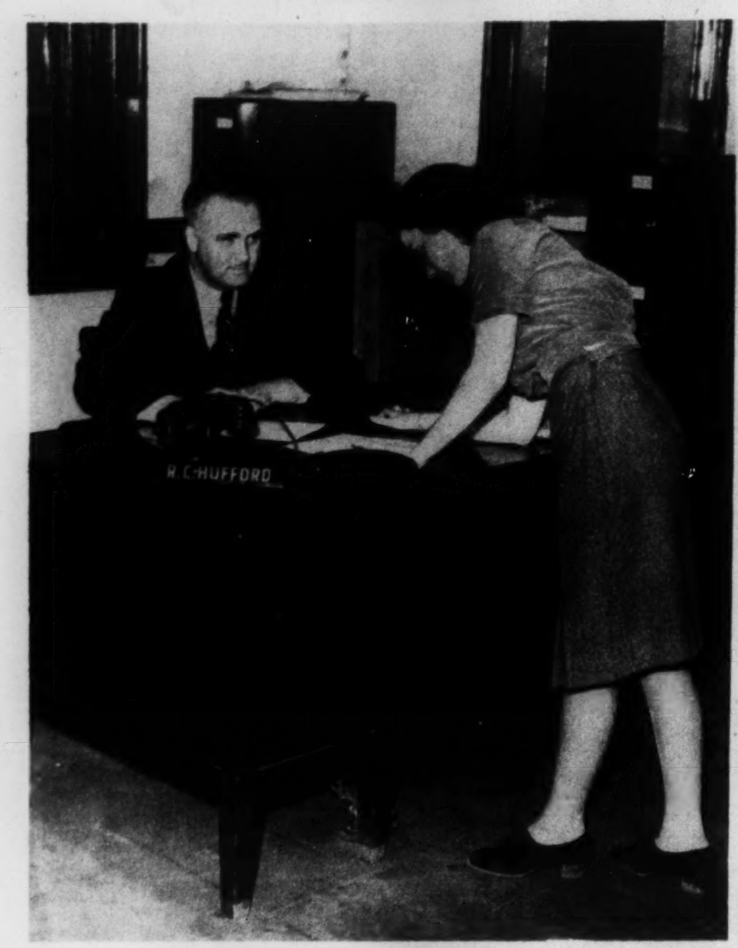
Dressing Up to Get Jobs—and Hold Them



Mildred Baumgartner demonstrates how not to look—or act—when applying for a job. Careless gap between skirt and waist, soiled shoes, disorderly hair and interest in another's mail are details. R. C. Hufford, N Y A supervisor of guidance and placement, represents a prospective employer.

General class in grooming, preparatory to applying for jobs, conducted by the National Youth Administration at its East St. Louis quarters.

A dress is being finished with the help of Mrs. Lee Schamoni, N Y A dressmaking instructor.

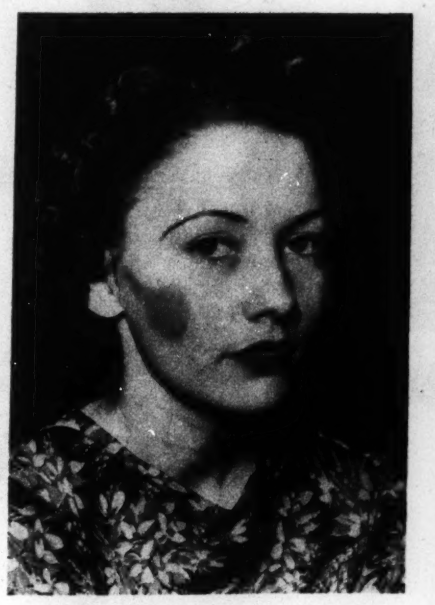
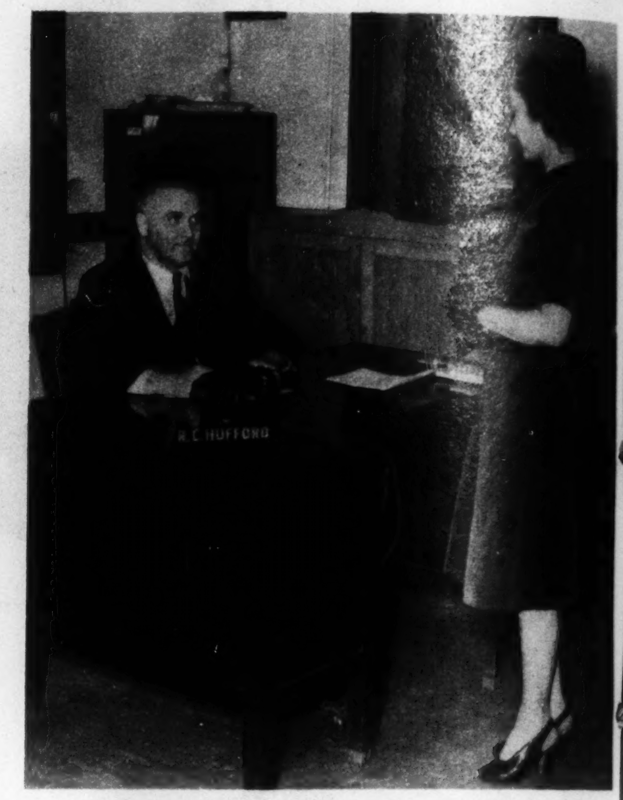
Nails receive attention. Not too long and not too highly colored is the recommendation. Some employers might object to the bright red ones on the ring hand.

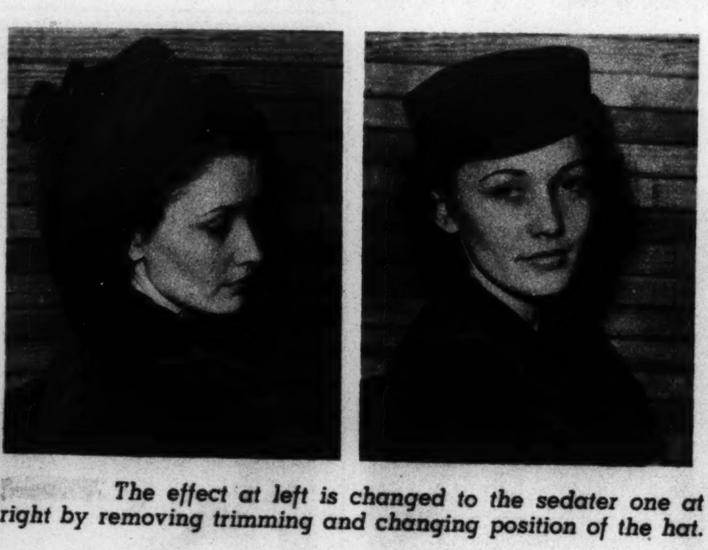


Facial makeup calls for delicacy, not the vivid blotch of rouge on the cheek and the artificial-looking lips shown here. In this connection, care of the skin also is taught.



Applying for a job neatly but not severely gowned, coifed and shod.

Dissatisfied with her hat—maybe it's last year's—Miss Baumgartner molds it nearer to her heart's desire and current mode in millinery class. She might have made an entirely new hat.



The effect at left is changed to the sedater one at right by removing trimming and changing position of the hat.

AN IMPORTANT part of the program through which the National Youth Administration is trying to prevent the nation's economic troubles from demoralizing young men and women consists of helping boost as many as possible off the N Y A rolls into private employment. To this end the Government agency supplements its financial aid to students, vocational training and work training with special guidance toward jobs. For girls, one phase of such guidance is concerned with personal appearance. It is based on the realization that a young woman's chances of getting—and holding—a job often are increased by proper grooming and attire. N Y A girls may attend classes in personal appearance as a leisure-time activity—that is, without being paid for it—and, in conjunction with similar class work in dressmaking and millinery, learn how to turn themselves out to make a favorable impression on employers. Photographs on this page illustrating such instruction were made in East St. Louis quarters of the N Y A, which maintains a district office here. Miss Mildred Baumgartner, an N Y A library employe, served as the model.

HEALTH

SARÁKA
FOR CONSTIPATION

TODAY make a fresh start towards better intestinal health—away from constipation worries. Try Saráka—the "exercising laxative" that helps turn lazy intestinal muscles into stronger workers for better health.

Saráka* comes in the form of tiny brown granules, easily swallowed with a drink of water. Inside the intestines, these granules absorb water and turn into soft, smooth BULK. This extra bulk gives the intestinal muscles something they can catch hold of—encourages them to exercise.

But Saráka does not rely on bulk alone. Saráka gives Bulk Plus Motility. This laxative contains a specially treated cortex frangula which mildly stimulates the intestinal muscles to do their work more thoroughly.

Results of this balanced action are not violent—or embarrassingly urgent. Most users recall healthy youth when constipation was seldom thought of. Ask your doctor about Saráka and the safety of Bulk Plus Motility. The coupon will bring you a free trial-size tin.

THE REAL 'TOBACCO ROAD'

IN ITS current tour, the company which will present "Tobacco Road" in St. Louis the week of March 26, recently played Augusta, Georgia, near which is the road which suggested the title of the Jack Kirkland drama, and took the opportunity to walk along the real tobacco road and visit cabins of sharecroppers, a class from which characters in the play are drawn. Having played more than five years in New York, "Tobacco Road" is now only about 30 weeks short of equaling the record run of "Abie's Irish Rose."

No. 1 Movie Glamour Girl Marries

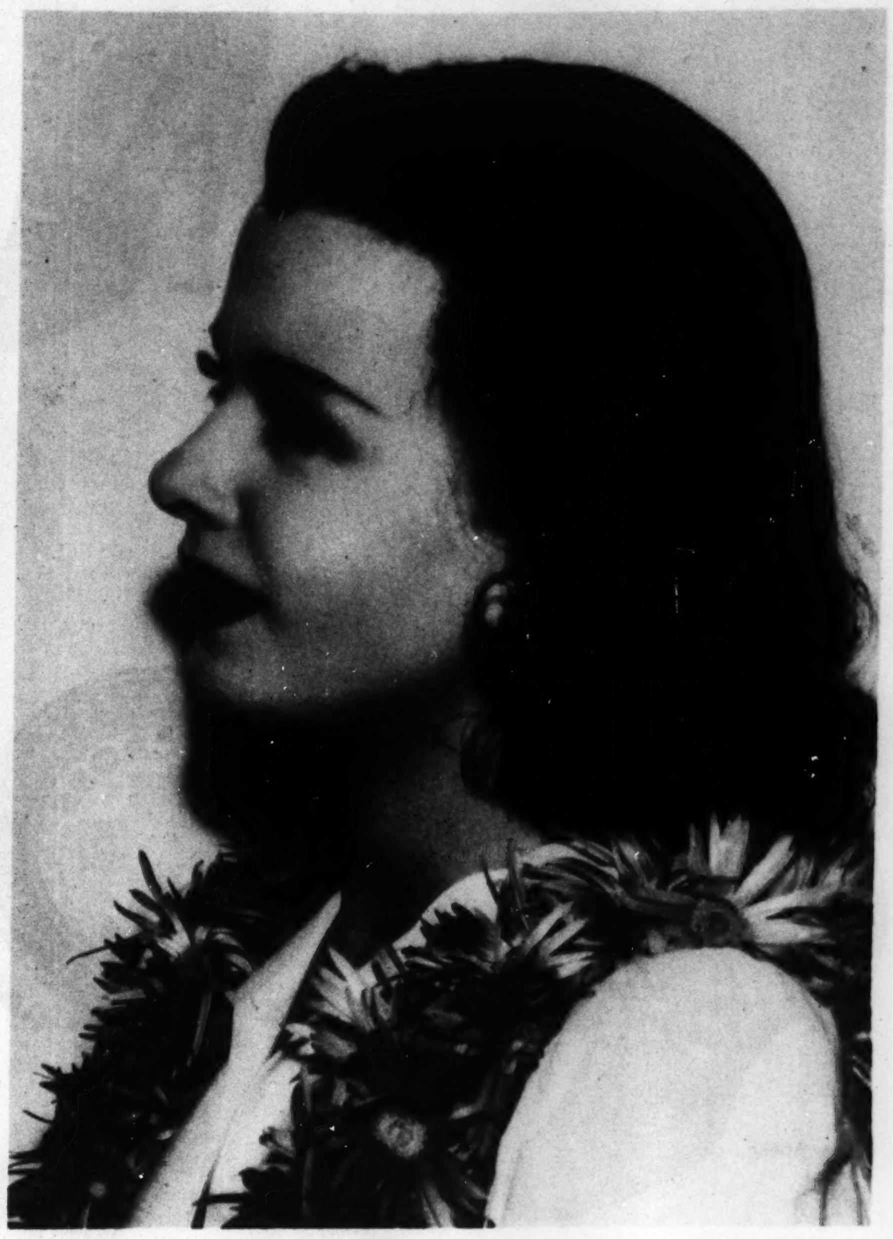
Hedy Lamarr, most glamourous of Hollywood actresses.



Markey's former wife, Joan Bennett, in her latest film, "Trade Winds." Note how much the black wig and new makeup make her look like Miss Lamarr.

ALTHOUGH Hollywood swarms with beautiful women, really attractive unattached men are much less numerous. For some time now, Gene Markey, associate producer for Twentieth Century-Fox and former screen writer and novelist, has been rated one of the three or four most charming unmarried men in the movie capital, and was much in demand as an escort. So his marriage March 4 to Hedy Lamarr, the glamourous Viennese star, caused almost as many feminine sighs for him as masculine sighs for his bride.

Curiously, Markey's first wife, Joan Bennett, who divorced him in 1937, created a mild furor by her resemblance to Miss Lamarr in her latest picture. Donning a dark wig over her blond hair (she was supposed to be in disguise while fleeing from a murder charge), Miss Bennett copied the hair-do, makeup, dress, gestures and mannerisms of Miss Lamarr so well that the imitation was unmistakable, although Joan did not quite capture that sultry, smoldering charm and mysterious aura which has made Miss Lamarr an overnight sensation in her first American picture, "Algiers."

Miss Lamarr is 23, Markey 20 years older. She also was married before, to Fritz Mandl, wealthy Austrian munitions maker, whom she divorced shortly after coming to America. Mandl had unsuccessfully attempted to buy up all the prints of the daring film, "Ecstasy," in which she had starred when only 17.

strains your NERVES

CHAMPIONSHIP TENNIS CALLS FOR A CLEAR HEAD—NERVES LIKE STEEL. I LIKE BROMO-SELTZER BECAUSE IT NOT ONLY RELIEVES MY HEADACHE PROMPTLY—IT ALSO STEADIES MY NERVES

DON BUDGE

Leading tennis player in the world, Donald Budge set a new high in tennis in 1938, winning the four major titles in one year. Recently he toured the United States professionally.

WITH a headache, your nervous system is disturbed. That's why headache is best treated with a remedy made to do at least 2 important things . . . relieve PAIN fast and steady your NERVES.

Bromo-Seltzer does both. Tests by a group of doctors have proved this.

Like Donald Budge, millions of active, successful people take Bromo-Seltzer for headache.* You, too, will like the quick relief it brings to an aching, throbbing head; the way it relaxes tension—leaves you steadier, more alert. Keep it at home. Buy it at any drugstore—soda fountain.

For frequently recurring or persistent headache, see your doctor. For fast relief from ordinary headaches, take Bromo-Seltzer.*

WIMBLEDON, ENGLAND, 1937 —Budge leads the American team to its first Davis Cup victory in 11 years.

FOREST HILLS, 1938—Budge wins national singles, now holds 4 titles—French, English, Australian, American.

LATER.... AS VENDRY AND CHIPP, GANG-LEADERS, GO TO ROUND TOP...
WE WENT TO THE BANK, SERGEANT. IF THE GANG WATCHED US THEY GOT THE IDEA WE DREW OUT THE MONEY.

IT'S OKAY, CHIPP! OH, FOREMAN, BE SURE TO KEEP DORN UNDER LOCK AND KEY TILL WE COME BACK.
WE SURE WILL, BOSS! GO TO IT!
NEXT AFTERNOON AT THE GANG'S JEWELRY PLANT WHERE TOM DORN IS CAPTIVE.
